Then through the mild outcry against the first bombing of Rome government officials here said—and repeated it later—that the right to bomb Rome could not be relinquished if the situation required it. If the situation requires it, the Allies are patiently ready to battle for Rome.

The Germans if for no other reason than burning hatred of what they call the Italian "betrayal" are apparently prepared to make such a battle necessary.

A simple statement by the Nazis that they are not using Rome as a military base never would be accepted even if they are bold enough to make it. It would be virtually impossible for them to supply their armies battling south of Rome without using the capital.

The Germans probably will fight for Rome with as little regard for its historical and religious values as they have shown toward these things in the past.

Chinese Crush Jap Regiment

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, Jan. 31.— (AP).—An entire Japanese regiment has been hacked to pieces and eliminated by Chinese troops fighting on the Ledo road, and another is being drawn in for a similar fate, Brig.-Gen. Hayden Boatner, Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Chief of Staff, said to-day.

His statement threw new light on the scope of the operation by which the Chinese are clearing the way for the Ledo road, being built from extreme northwest India across Burma into China along the trail of the old Burma road.

Allied troops already have penetrated nearly 100 miles into Burma, the deepest strike in a three-pronged attack now under way.

The Chinese first met elements of the Japanese regiment at Yupbang village on the upper tributary of the Chindwin which runs along the western side of Burma. The Japanese ambushed the Chinese there and inflicted casualties, but the Chinese dug in and held.

The Japanese immediately sent in a force behind and surrounded them. For 30 days Allied pilots flew rations, ammunition and other supplied to the trapped battalion.

R.A.F. divebombers pounded Japanese airfields at the Western Burma post of Akyab and surrounding areas yesterday, as Allied troops continued their slow advance on the Arakan front, an Allied communique reported today.

At the same time United States medium bombers struck at the important Meza bridge in the Katha area of Central Burma for the second straight day, damaging three spans.

The bulletin said Vitali, half a mile north of Htindaw on the Arakan front, was occupied without opposition by Allied forces and also reported Japanese infiltration attempts east and northeast of Buthedaung were frustrated Saturday night.

Burketon Lad Of Six Is Fatally Wounded

TORONTO, Jan. 31. — (CP).—Denny Prosser, six, of Burketon Station in Durham county, died in hospital here yesterday of a bullet wound in the head suffered yesterday when a rifle discharge as he played with it. Also in hospital is Buddie Clayton 10, of Toronto, wounded in the hand when a revolver loaded with blanks discharged.

The Burketon boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Prosser, was playing with another child in his farm home yesterday afternoon. The gun was on a kitchen shelf and was taken down by one of the children, Prosser said.

Police said the Clayton boy took the revolver, an old type, from a trunk.

Nazi Capital Left Aflame In Heavy Raid

Third Terrific Blow In Four Nights Is Delivered At Berlin

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Hundreds of big R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers smashed at Berlin again last night with a holocaust of fire and explosive in history's greatest sustained aerial offensive, which left the Nazi capital and three other great industrial cities aflame and heaped with rubble.

It was the third terrific blow in four nights upon Berlin, and Mosquito bombers darted in after the heavy bombers to add to the spreading ruin.

An ominous silence fell over the whole of Germany in the wake of four days of night-and-day bombings, including powerful American raids Sunday on Brunswick and Hanover and a record United States bomber blow at Frankfurt Saturday.

Communications Cut

Communications between Sweden and Berlin, broken Sunday, were not restored until midday today, and the first dispatch reaching Stockholm said last night's attack caused "great damage."

The air ministry said "a very strong force" of bombers struck Berlin, still flaming from assaults on Thursday and Friday nights.

Thus Germany today began her 12th year under Nazi rule with the homeland strewn with debris and death.

Smaller forces of night raiders stabbed at other objectives in central and western Germany. The entire night's work which also included mine-laying operations, cost 33 planes—including four from the R.C.A.F.—the smallest loss in the last four Berlin attacks. This indicated that the sustained assaults were proving a heavy drain on enemy fighter forces.

Meanwhile, Frankfurt, pounded by a record American daylight assault Saturday, was listed in Stockholm reports as mortally wounded.

Interspersed with the major blow against Germany were daylight attacks on the French invasion coast, and it was reliably estimated that the over-all air offensive had dumped some 7,000 tons of bombs on the Reich and occupied territory in less than four days.

German losses aloft were as heavy as on the ground. The four big days cost the Nazi air force at least 215 first line fighters against an Allied toll, up to last night, of 164 aircraft, mostly heavy bombers.

Berlin took its last previous pounding Friday night when four-engined Lancasters and two-engined Mosquitoes visited the groggy and scarred city while other formations were pounding Magdeburg.

Canadians Are Fighting In Orsogna Area

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Jan. 23—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—Canadian troops whose arrival in Italy was announced last November have had their first brush with the enemy.

The soldiers who staged a one-day attack on the enemy lines in front of the Arielli River January 17 were from these new formations, it now is revealed. They were members of the Perth Regiment and the Cape Breton Highlanders.

These troops went into the line several days before the attack, enabling some units of the 1st Division which had been fighting almost without a let-up since first week of December to withdraw for a brief rest.

While not as battlewise as the veterans of the Italian and Sicilian campaigns, the new troops fought, as one of their officers explained, "just as you would expect Canadians to fight."

They hit the enemy hard. Their casualties were not excessive considering the strength of the opposition.

It was disclosed Friday that the Canadians are fighting in the Orsogna area where so far they have got the better of the Germans who are new troops and not as wary as the paratroopers fighting in the Sea Blockade Runners Reach Europe

Japanese Agents Are Reaching Europe By Sea And Plane

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALGIERS, Jan. 31—(AP)—Japanese agents are reaching Europe on Axis air and sea blockade runners but the enemy's secret shipping also is transporting cargo more valuable than jewels between Germany and Japan. Reports of the successful enemy traffic have reached here from various sources.

Recently a Vichy dispatch reported the arrival by submarine of Japanese diplomats to replace colleagues at various European posts.

A more detailed account of the enemy movements was brought by a young Frenchman who managed to reach North Africa. He said the Japanese are bringing pearls which they use as "currency" and for bribery.

The Frenchman said he had observed arrivals and departures of German and Japanese merchant ships at Bordeaux.

The air routes use two bases in the west, Odessa on the Black Sea and Rhodes in the Aegean. From these points planes fly by way of Afghanistan to bases in Burma or Manchuria. Big four-motored transports are used, mainly flying at night and preferably in bad weather.

Ships and submarines leave Bordeaux, circle the Cape of Good Hope and skirt the fringe of the Indian Ocean to Singapore and other ports in the Orient.

The Frenchman estimated that in 1942 the Axis succeeded in shipping 300,000 tons of vital war materials in each direction. The Nazis received by this means, he said, 150,000 tons of oil, 70,000 tons of rubber and 15,000 tons of tin—possibly enough to satisfy Germany's basic needs.

In addition, Germany obtained tugsten, manila hemp, silk and drugs such as quinine, iodine and opium.

The Nazis exchanged machinery ship plates, ball bearings, potash and abrasives for industrial grinding, and supplied virtually all Japan's needs for mercury, a vital ingredient in explosives.

The Germans also shipped at least 3,000 marine diesel engines.

The Allies, of course, are aware of this traffic and have been working to cut it off, as witness the recent sinking of a blockade runner off France.

Repenting Gov't Steals Plank Of Opposition

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—(CP).—Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader, said to-day in the Commons that the Liberal government's social security program outlined in the Throne speech last week represents a "death-bed repentence" and the use of proposals set forth by the Progressive Conservative party.

The first Opposition party spokesman to participate in the Throne speech debate, Mr. Graydon asked fuller information from the government on charges in the Canadian army set-up at home and overseas; a declaration of Canada's determination to hold an important place in post-war civil aviation; effective action to satisfy Labor's needs; and reform of Parliamentary procedure to speed business.

Of the government program generally, Mr. Graydon said:

"Our (the Progressive Conservative) criticism of this government in these matters is that for eight years it has not brought down enough progressive, social or agricultural or labor legislation, and only now, in an election year, comes forward with these dying declarations."

The government had never been too frank about the conduct of the war, Mr. Graydon said.

Answers Demanded

The people demanded "satisfactory answers" as to why the 7th and 8th Divisions were constituted in the first place; what was being done with the "big" home-defence army; whether it was going overseas; and whether its personnel would be directed back into civilian activities if it were left in Canada.

Mr. Graydon said the chiefs of staff of the navy, army, and air force all had been transferred overseas and replaced in Ottawa.

"Does this mean that the government believes that all danger to

Allies Announce New Gains On Main Line Beachhead South Of Rome

Powerful Tank And Infantry Forces Launch Offensive In Northerly Direction From Strategic Wedge Near City Of Rome

By WES GALLAGHER—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 31—(AP).—British and American forces threw themselves forward with redoubled fury today from both the beachhead arc south of Rome and their main trans-Italy line at Cassino. While Allied headquarters announced new gains in both areas, the German high command's communique, as heard here, admitted that powerful tank and infantry forces had launched an offensive in a northerly and northeasterly direction from the strategic wedge near Rome, and that battles on the main front had attained great violence.

The communique said the Allies were attacking the main German defences in the Cassino area and admitted that some penetrations had been made, but claimed these gains lacked significance.

Allied headquarters said American infantry and tank teams, in a surprise thrust across the Rapido River bottom which had been deliberately flooded by the Germans, had broken through a part of the German defences north of Cassino.

63 Planes Knocked Down.

While Allied fighters and bombers scored a record bag in Italy in knocking down 63 German planes in a series of flattening assaults yesterday on four enemy air bases in northeastern Italy, British Tommies and American Rangers with tanks and tank-destroyer teams fought a series of sharp actions along the perimeter of the Anzio bridgehead and enlarged their grip on the strategic wedge 19 or 20 miles below Rome.

A dispatch from the bridgehead area said six Allied infantry divisions—70,000 to 90,000 men—had been put ashore by Friday and were being reinforced with armor and heavy artillery.

The Germans evidently had gained time to prepare a line of defences through the Alban hills along the railroad from Rome to Cisterna, 26 miles southwest of the Eternal City, and the British and Americans were methodically blasting them out of haystacks, siloes, farm buildings and villages hastily converted into camouflaged pillboxes and forts.

Simonds Given Command Canadian Corps

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.— (CP).—Appointment of a Canadian Army Corps commander and retirement of another were highlights of an announcement here to-day by Defence Minister Ralston.

He announced these changes:

1. Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, 40, has been promoted to acting rank of Lieutenant-General and to command of a Canadian Corps;

2. Lt.-Gen. E. W. Sansom, 53, has relinquished command of a corps through illness,

3. Brig. Charles Foulkes, [illegible], has been appointed to command a Canadian division overseas with the acting rank of Major-General.

4. Lt.-Col. James Curry Jefferson, 38, Edmonton, Alta., has been appointed to the acting rank of Brigadier and will assume command of an infantry brigade.

May Go To Italy.

The announcement did not name the formations which Gens. Simonds and Foulkes and Brig. Jefferson will command.

There has been some speculation that Gen. Simons would succeed Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, now commander of the Canadian Corps in Italy, if Gen. Crerar were appointed to succeed Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton as commander of the 1st Canadian Army. However this would still leave Gen. Sansom's post to fill.

A native of England and resident of Kingston, Gen. Simons has recently been in command of an armored division, rounding out his experience after command of the 1st Division in Sicily and Italy. The 1st now is in command of Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes of Winnipeg.

Maj.-Gen. Foulkes, whose home is in London, and whose family reside in Victoria, B.C., is also an Englishman. He commanded an infantry brigade in the 1st Division for eight months and was appointed a Brigadier, General 1st Canadian Army, in April, 1943.

National Unity Must Be Kept

WEST HARTLEPOOL, England, Jan. 31—(CP Cable)—Clement R. Attlee, Labor party leader and Lord President of the Council in Prime Minister Churchill's coalition government, apparently gave the answer last night to the increasing demand from a section of his party's supporters for an end to the coalition.

Declaring that "with a full knowledge of the circumstances" there could be no relaxation of the war effort, he said in obvious acknowledgment of that pressure: "We have still got to keep national unity and carry out that wise policy adopted by the Labor party."

"I know it often is difficult," he added. "I know it is a strain. I know we are all looking to the time when we will have full political life but we know too that in these difficult times we have to stand together on essentials to preserve our democracy and ensure a full political life in the future."

Expect F.D.R. To Seek Fourth Term

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (CP)—All politically-minded Americans are waiting, in various stages of anxiety, for the answer to the nation's sixty-four dollar question—will President Roosevelt be a candidate for a fourth term?

It is quite possible no American is more eagerly searching for the answer than the president himself.

But it may not be forthcoming until the Democratic national convention is held in Chicago next July.

However there is a growing army of correspondents and political strategists here who are forecasting, without qualification that Roosevelt will be the Democratic candidate when Americans go to the polls next November.

Reds Threaten German Home Front

In Four Years Of Intensive Effort The Germans Have Central Core Of Poland

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LISBON, Jan. 31 — (AP).—The current Russian drive into Poland has confronted the Germans with the spectre of an economic disaster that may have far-reaching consequences.

In four years of intensive effort, the Germans have developed the central core of Poland into one of the main sources of sustenance not only for their armed forces but for the home front.

Situated conveniently near Germany proper as well as her eastern army bases, this area has supplied both with a minimum expenditure of transportation and at the same time has served as an economic link between Germany and her Balkan satellites.

Technical articles in German newspapers published in Krakow and other eastern points reflect this intensive development and the progress achieved. They describe the increase of livestock herds, the improvement of quality in breeding in livestock and poultry, and the re-stocking of lakes and streams with fish.

Many research institutes have been established, numerous new dams have been built, vast drainage projects have been completed and the entire agriculture of the area reorganized to produce what Germany needs most, these accounts reveal.

For instance, vegetable oil production has been greatly extended, and steps have been made in increasing the output of silk, flax and tobacco. Pasturage areas have been reorganized with a view to conserving transportation of livestock fodder, and the dairy industry has been revamped to produce more cheese in a month than it used to turn out in a year.

Supervision of the agricultural setup has been carried out under the eye of German specialists and district administrators. A system of penalties has been established in an effort to squeeze the utmost out of every Polish farm. Rewards also are offered for good production in the form of permits to buy goods otherwise unobtainable by the peasant.

The effectiveness of this pressure is seen in reports that four times as much meat and three times as many potatoes were shipped to Germany in 1942 as in 1941.

422 Japanese Ships Of Merchant Marine Lost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP).—The United States Navy reported today the sinking of 14 Japanese ships, some of which may have been endeavoring to reinforce enemy positions in the Marshall Islands in the Pacific, now being battered by American air and surface forces.

All of the Japanese ships went down after attacks by American submarines, but just where the submersibles struck was not disclosed.

Two large transports, which could have been carrying troops for enemy positions in the Marshalls, were included among the 14 ships. The total also included eight freighters presumably laden with supplies for enemy bases.

The new report of damage to the battered Japanese merchant fleet brings to 572 the number of enemy ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged by submarine action since the war spread to the Pacific.

Of that number, 422 have been sunk, 36 probably were sunk and 114 damaged.

Soviet Army Approaching Estonian Line

Leningrad Army Is Within 17 Miles Of Estonian Border

LONDON, Jan. 31 —(CP)—The Leningrad army of Gen. Leonid A. Govorov was only 17 miles from the Estonian border today while 60 miles to the south troops under Gen. K. A. Meretskov seized Veliskoe Selo, 17 miles southeast of Luga, a junction on the last German escape line to Pskov.

Govorov's forces, racing toward the 30-mile wide Narva gap between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Peipus, swept up 50 more localities, capturing the rail junction of Viemarn, only 17 miles from the Estonian border. Veimarn is 7½ miles from Kingisepp, last rail station short of the frontier on the line to Narva. Moscow said German colonists were fleeing from the Baltic area along with retreating Nazi troops.

Advance Nine Miles

Meretskov's force, which had cut the railway to Vitebsk running through Batetskaya, advanced nine miles westward to take Veliskoe Selo.

That thrust and others to the northeast put Meretskov's men within striking distance of Batetskaya. From there a spur line links the Leningrad-Vitebsk railway with the Leningrad-Pskov line at Luga, 18 miles westward.

Meantime other Russian units which cleared the final stretch of the Moscow-Leningrad trunk line Saturday, pushed westward to seize the rail stations of Kastyenskaya and Yeglino, seven miles apart, on the Leningrad-Novgorod line.

Few Roads

The Russians were hurling the Germans back across a land with few roads. If the Germans reach the Leningrad-Pskov railway they probably will find it cut by Meretskov's forces south of Luga junction.

At the southern end of this 230-mile front, the 2nd Baltic Army of Gen. Markian M. Popov pushed on west of Novosokolniki and seized several strong-points which Moscow did not identify.

These three armies seized a total of more than 100 towns in their advance.

Powerful American Units Meet Japanese Off Marshalls

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP).—The Tokyo radio said today "Japanese army and navy units have intercepted powerful enemy units which have been attacking the Marshall group since the morning of January 30 and fierce fighting is now going on."

The broadcast, an English language transmission beamed to North America, was recorded by the United States foreign broadcast intelligence service.

Tokyo's reference to "Japanese army and navy units" suggested the possibility that American landing forces may have gone ashore on one or more of the islands or that surface warships may have clashed. On the other hand, it may have meant only that the air arms of both services were in action.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' communique issued at Pearl Harbor Sunday night made no mention of landings, but did say that surface forces—presumably battleships, cruisers and destroyers—had moved to within 10 to 20 miles of the Atolls and fired thousands of rounds of shells. The Nimitz communique was issued long after the time given by Tokyo for the attack. The "morning of Jan. 30," Tokyo time, would be Jan. 29, Pearl Harbor time, since the Marshalls lie west of the international date line.

Pound Shore Forces.

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 31—(AP). —A great naval task force hurled hundreds of tons of explosives for the second consecutive day yesterday on the Japanese defenders of the invasion-threatened Marshall Islands.

A comunique on progress of the attack said last night that surface forces — presumably battleships, cruisers and destroyers—had moved within 10 to 20 miles of the heavily-defended Atolls to pound shore installations with thousands of rounds of shells.

Carrier task forces loosed hundreds of tons of bombs in their second day's hammering at Kwajalein, Maloelap, Wotje and Roi Atolls.

Other carriers harassed Eniwetok, northwest Atoll of the group.

Aside from the brief communique, no details of the actions were reported.

A communique issued from Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, said today the Japanese in their defence of Rabaul and other Southwest Pacific holdings lost at least 546—and probably 717 — planes during January, their blackest month of aerial warfare. Allied losses for this same period were 97.

A review of January communiques showed four auxiliary warships were destroyed as well as 24 merchantmen, 157 barges and 15 small craft, and nine other cargo ships and eight barges were listed as probably demolished. Damaged were four cruisers, nine destroyers, four auxiliary warships, 39 merchantmen, 79 barges and 11 small craft.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, February 1

THE LUNAR and mutual aspects dominant on this day forecast a moderately progressive culmination if quick and determined action be brought to bear upon a surprise or unforeseen opening. But the move must be a quick and practical one, based upon sound business tactics as well as initiative and force. All constructive resources should be marshaled toward a successful end, and without excessive outlay of funds or energies or over enthusiasm of an impulsive or turbulent nature. Use the head rather than emotions, but don't be caught napping.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be ready for a year of moderate openings for placing of affairs on a constructive and enduring foundation. Initiative and quick action should be supported by sound fundamentals and not defeated by rash, extravagant or impulsive methods. Study details, organize for lasting and telling final issues, but on the way avoid pitfalls or intrigues. It would be wise to be ready for aggressive action when surprises occur, and not be swept off the feet by over zeal and unpreparedness. Head work and not heart is recommended.

A child born on this day should have much practical skill with initiative and energy to attack good prospects with zeal and enthusiasm as well as fine organizing ability. Its danger might be in impetuosity.

Canada has been largely removed?" he asked.

"If so, why the necessity for the maintenance of this big home-defence army? Even at this late date it is essential that the whole story of the home-defence army constitution and its present and future role should be explained fully and frankly by the government to this House."

Canadians were "confused" about what was going on overseas, and wondered why the 1st Canadian Army there was constituted in the first place and then "abandoned."

"Many rumors are in circulation regarding the resignation of Gen. McNaughton (Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former Canadian Army commander overseas)," Mr. Graydon said.

"Public interest demands that the Prime Minister should at once give a full and frank explanation of the facts in this regard, letting the chips fall where they may."

Other statements made by Mr. Graydon in his speech were:

Civil aviation—"There is grave and general concern throughout Canada that delay and inertia on the part of the government may lead to our position becoming, in the critical period ahead, nothing more than a point of geographical convenience (for international civil aviation) when final arrangements have been concluded."

Agriculture—"The variation of arrangements with Britain regarding bacon has resulted in disappointment and dissatisfaction on the part of the agricultural population of Canada. Since the last session of the House, the wholesale slaughtering of brood sows and the general disintegration of the whole bacon industry have belatedly forced the government to give hog bonuses. The irreparable damage already done is a clear indication that these bonuses were long overdue."

Labor—"The farmer now is having company; labor is joining him in that great group of forgotten men in the Dominion....Schemes for providing social security are not effective substitutes in themselves for higher earning power and continuous employment."

War Assets Corporation—"Before the selling process (of surplus or obsolete war materials) gets under way I believe that a judicial inquiry should be made into the details of materials purchased, cost prices and use made of them insofar as Crown assets of Canada are concerned."

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation—"The CBC has lost the confidence of the people of Canada.. ....The Government deserves the just condemnation of an outraged public for its lackadaisical, happy-go-lucky policy which has allowed this corporation aimlessly to drift into comparative uselessness, instead of directing its course into a field, of greater and increasing public service."

Veterans' Rehabilitation — "Our veterans, men and women, will not be content with blueprints, plans, and promises, they will demand effective action."

Employment—"To achieve this objective (of full employment), handouts by the Federal Government will be neither a sufficient nor a satisfactory solution....Despite the optimism of the Minister of Labor (Hon Humphrey Mitchell), the operation and administration of National Selective Service has been a bitter and disillusioning experience for the Canadian people."

Reconstruction—"I suggest that there should be established a new department of Government that will integrate all aspects of our economy in its transition from war to peace (dealing with) problems such as industrial reconversion, readjustment of war workers, demobilization of soldiers and post-war employment."

Supremacy of Parliament — "I charge the Government that they have exceeded the limits of vital war necessity and urgency in their rush towards bureaucratic Government.....Our democratic form of Government is actually in peril. At this stage of the war's development, there cannot any longer be any real necessity for our citizens tolerating the continuance in toto of such a system which might easily be perpetuated into our peacetime economy."

(First official reference to Canadians fighting near Orsogna came Saturday but with the disclosure at Ottawa Friday that Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian Corps is in the line, an expansion of the line previously held by the Canadian 1st Division was to be expected.)

Overlooks a Valley.

Orsogna sits upon a hill overlooking a valley two miles wide. The Canadians are on one side and the Germans on the other and it is possible to see enemy sentries with the naked eye. Front-line troops northeast of the town are less than 100 yards apart in some places, said Maj. Dennis Jotcham of Montreal.

The area resembles the Laurentians—without the lakes. It is foothill country and the Apennines look down on a series of green valleys.

The temperature is several degrees colder at the coast, although only a few patches of snow remain. The ground is muddy and the roads almost impassable in some places.

It was here that the front was stirred last Tuesday by a brief flare-up. Central Canadians, following successful patrols by two companies that night northeast of Orsogna, held some of their gains and dug in less than 100 yards from the enemy. Activity settled down to patrols and artillery and mortar exchanges.

Indian troops likewise advanced and then withdrew.

Because of the threat to exposed flanks, the Canadians did not try to hold all the ground they gained in the initial advance but their present positions are about 2,000 yards forward from the line from which they started.

Fighting Is Not Heavy.

Fighting is not heavy but the Germans suffered considerable casualties while the Canadian losses were light.

Canadian tanks supported the infantry and men from a squadron commanded by Maj. G. L. Symmes of Toronto, shot up enemy troops and machine-gun posts between Orsogna and Guardiagrele, about five miles southwest of Orsogna. Lieut. George Catton of Regina commanded the action.

In the coastal sector, the enemy is well dug-in and makes little attempt to conceal his positions. In one patrol skirmish, western Canadian torops slipped by five enemy strong-posts without drawing fire and attacked them with machine-guns from the flanks and rear and by grenades from the front. All returned but, as Pte. Louis Canada, of Pine Falls, Man., said, "It seemed the Germans were everywhere and there are more of them every time we go out."

This correspondent made a similar but less downright forecast last Jan. 1. Many things have happened since to strengthen the likelihood that, barring now unforeseeable events, the president will seek to extend his 12-year tenancy of the White House to 16 years.

Most important of the late developments was the resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the national Democratic committee here "soliciting" him as a fourth term candidate.

This was followed next day by the declaration of 2,500 Committee for Industrial Organization officers meeting in New York, that they would support a fourth term effort, and endorsing his national service law proposal.

Earlier there had come from Illinois, California, New Hampshire and other scattered areas, reports of a general Democratic demand that F.D.R. become the 1944 candidate.

Gould Lincoln, veteran political columnist in the Washington Star and one whose opinions are most respected, says the Democrats are so convinced that Roosevelt will be their candidate that they are concerned only with a vice-presidential candidate.

But Lincoln comments that, in 1944 as in 1940, Roosevelt probably will himself pick the vice-presidential candidate and Sam Rayburn (D Texas), House Speaker, is said to be a likely choice.

The chief argument of those who forecast Roosevelt's candidacy is that he is the Democrats only hope of victory in 1944, and this has been the theme of such forecasts from the start.

But some others put it on a higher plane. One of these is former Governor Olson of Califoria who said Roosevelt should be permitted to complete his efforts to win the war and lend his prestige, experience and ability to winning the peace.

Won D.S.O. in Sicily.

Brig. Jefferson is another Englishman and he won the Distinguished Service Order as a battalion leader in the Sicilian campaign.

The announcement said that Gen. Sansom, a native of Stanley, N.B., has been forced to return to hospital which he left only in December and his condition "made it impossible for him to continue, so he is relinquishing command of his Canadian Corps and is returning to Canada for further treatment."

Gen. Sansom was an expert on armored formations and the fact his retirement was announced at the same time of Gen. Simonds' appointment led to some speculation that Gen. Simonds might be Gen. Sansom's successor, especially as the former has recently been in command of an armored division.

Gen. Simonds—one of the youngest Lieutenant-Generals in the British Empire—is holder of the C.B.E. and D.S.O. He was promoted to the rank of Major-General, commanding Canadian Division, on the death of Maj.-Gen. H. L. N. Salmon of Winnipeg and Toronto, in the flying accident in England in April, 1943.

Gen. Simonds went overseas with the 1st Division as a Major and was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel in command of a field regiment of artillery in 1940. From there his promction was rapid.

Following close on his successes as a divisional commander in the field, he was given command of an armored division last November.

Gen. Foulkes went overseas with the 1st Division. He returned to Canada late in 1940 to assume the appointment of general staff officer (1st grade) with a Canadian division and in July, 1941, accompanied his division to England. He was later appointed to command an infantry battalion. He commanded an infantry brigade in the 1st Division for eight months and then was appointed Brigadier, General Staff, First Canadian Army.

had been started from the bridgehead. Dispatches from the bridgehead yesterday said the Allies had poured six infantry divisions into the wedge, along with armor and guns.)

Despite floods caused by Germans diverting the Rapido river to a new course, American infantry and tanks north of Cassino on the main 5th Army front, captured two key hills, Nos. 223 and 167, and fought their way into the villages of Cairo and Monte Villa where they now are mopping up.

Cairo is a little more than two miles north of Cassino, and Monte Villa is just over a mile.

"The American attack broke through German defences in the area north of Cassino, known as the Facciano Mountains, catching the Germans by surprise," an Allied Headquarters commentator said.

"A 75-millimetre gun with its crew of 15 was taken intact along with a prisoner bag of 42."

Cassino Outflanked.

Cassino still was being held strongly by the Germans but it was now outflanked from the north.

Tanks, pushed across the Rapido flood on a log bridge constructed by engineers working under shellfire, were of great assistance in smashing German pillboxes. Infantrymen, crouching in the path of the tank treads to avoid German minefields, worked closely with the tanks in the Russian style.

A mile and a half north of Cairo French troops consolidated their gains in the Mount Belvedere sector and probed Mount Croce, which they found strongly fortified.

Along the coastal sector of the main 5th Army front the British captured Mount Rotundo, 2½ miles northwest of Castelforte and the 2,000-foot peak of Mount Jugan, three miles northeast of Castelforte.

British warships patrolling along the coast in support, bombarded the Terracina area and German transport moving from the main 5th Army toward the bridgehead.

News from the bridgehead indicated the Germans had dug in for five miles along the Cisterna-Rome railroad from a point two miles north of Cisterna.

At a point three miles southwest of Cisterna Allied troops repulsed one strong German counter-attack. Americans were last reported in this sector, representing the centre of the bridgehead, while the British were ranged to the north facing Rome across the Via Anziate.

Admiral Sir John Cunningham, commander-in-chief of Allied naval forces in the Mediterranena, went ashore to inspect Anzio's harbor facilities.

Airfields Attacked

The northeastern Italian airfields attacked were those at Villorba, Mangiao, Lavarino and Udine. Strong forces of heavy bombers dropped explosives among many parked aircraft and on hangars and workshops.

American escort planes on this mission shot down 36 enemy planes. One escort was lost.

This aerial thrust into northeastern Italy was an Allied answer to the large groups of German bombers which have been attacking shipping around the Anzio bridgehead. The Udine area was said to be a concentration point for enemy air strength.

Medium bombers yesterday attacked road junctions in the area south of Rome. Light bombers attacked enemy shipping off the Yugoslav coast.

Even though fighting hard on both land fronts and in the air, the Germans apparently were preparing for eventual withdrawal from Rome. Italians who fled from the capital said the major German forces had left after sowing great numbers of explosives and mines, leaving only demolition troops to set them off.

Food Industries Sponsor Draw

Five persons in Peterborough or its district are going to win $215 with their groceries, milk, meat or bread when the local Food Industry's drive for $26,000 sale of War Savings Stamps ends.

With every stamp (25c) you purchase through any branch of the industry you are entitled to a numbered ticket for a draw which will be held February 29 at a dance in the drill hall at the Training Centre.

The more tickets you ask for and get, the better your chances of winning one of the five prizes: $100, $50, $25, and two for $20 each.

Paying Proposition

You are helping yourself all the way in this investment. You lend the Government 25 cents when you buy one War Savings Stamp; and eventually you will get it back with interest. It is a little investment in victory, but every 25 cents is going to help build up the $26,000, Peterborough quota for February. In fact the men and women in the food industry are already expanding their vision beyond the $26,000 because they are already along the way to their objective, and they know that Peterborough always accomplishes every assignment.

And the campaign does not officially open until Tuesday, February 1. The public is asked to save their draw tickets. Get them when you make a stamp purchase, and then save them for February 29.

Pleads Guilty To Receiving

Clarence Kennedy, young Paris Junction dairy farmer, entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning to having received a quantity of goods stolen from four summer cottages in Crowe River in Belmont township last September.

"He was one of a party of three men and three women who rented a cottage at Crowe River," said Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock in giving evidence today. "While they were there these cottages were broken into. I recovered the articles Kennedy is charged with receiving in his home at Paris Junction. Charges of breaking and entering have been entered against the other men."

Kennedy told the court that the goods had been stolen by other members of the party and some of them put into his car.

A record was handed the magistrate who evinced surprise over the fact that on the only other time the accused had been in trouble he had received a penitentiary sentence.

Kennedy explained that he had been sentenced by Magistrate McCrimmon at Woodstock for the theft of a pig and a calf and that the magistrate had sent him to Kingston rather than to the reformatory because he thought he would learn a trade there.

"He said he would recommend a parole in a year," said Kennedy. "But he took a stroke and died and I served a little over 19 months. I have kept out of trouble since getting out of Kingston."

Magistrate Langley remanded the accused for a week for sentence.

On a charge of breaking and entering Kennedy was acquitted when the crown offered no evideca.

St. Andrew's Has Good Report Of Year's Work

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31 (ENS) —Satisfactory reports from all departments were presented at the annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church which was largely attended here last week. Rev. J. O. Ralston, who was chairman, reported that the general treasury showed a substantial balance after all obligations had been met.

The general financial statement was presented by the treasurer, Eldon Carlaw, who disclosed that during the period from March 15 to December 31 a total of $3,163.57 had been raised while expenditures over the same period amounted to $3,070. To general missions the congregation had contributed $354, including $100 to the Foundation fund. Mr. Walter Badgley, clerk of the session, stated there was a total membership of 364 at the end of the past year. There had been 56 removals, 10 names added to the roll, 6 baptisms and 10 deaths. Sixty-one members of the congregation had joined the armed forces and their names had been placed on the honor. Memorial services had been held for two who had already paid the supreme sacrifice. Mr. Badgley stated that Mrs. T. C. McNeice had been engaged as organist following the resignation of Albert Hazell.

W.M.S. Report

The report of the W.M.S. was given by Mrs. P. B. Nelson who said the membership was 26 and that they had raised $191.05 during the year. Of this $15 went to the supply fund for China, $167 to the Presbyterial Fund. Most of the money was raised from free will offerings and the balance from an afternoon tea. Calls made during the year totalled 87. Miss Annie Park reviewed the work of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle which held ten regular meetings, had 36 members and an average attendance of 20. The envelope system and voluntary givings made the amount raised last year total $120.

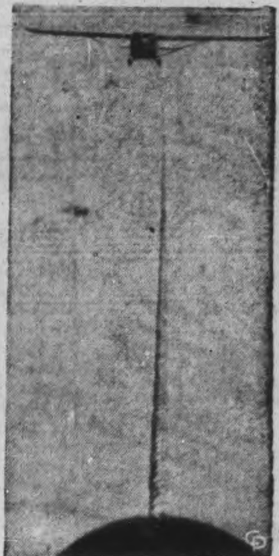
The Ladies' Aid, for which Mrs. H. T. Scott gave a report had a total of 23 members and an average attendance of 11 at meetings. A total of 250 calls were made and they raised all told $920 of which $500 was turned over to the Board of Managers, $25 to the Red Cross and I.O.D.E., and about $50 for redecorating at the manse.

Junior Organizations

Miss Verna Rabethge reviewed the work of the Mission Band which held 16 meetings with an average attendance of 8. Total collections amounted to $5.02. The C.G.I.T. headed by Mrs. J. O. Ralston, had 12 members according to Miss Beryle Spencer's report. They raised $17.99 from fees and several teas held and had a balance of $4.22 on hand after contributing $10 to the W.M.S. Presbyterial and purchasing necessary supplies. Miss Muriel Milne gave the Sunday School report which disclosed there were 8 teachers and 60 pupils. Mrs. Albert Hazell stated there were 24 names on the Cradle Roll at the year's end with 4 added during the year and 9 given certificates of promotion to the Sunday School.

The congregation offered their support to an intensified drive, which which will take the form of a canvass designed to clear the church of debt.

The following were re-elected to the Board of Managers: W. Badgley, A. B. Stephens, C. G. Stephens, John Campbell, Fred Rutherford, Jack Clark, Eldon Carlaw; replacements were: Ralph J. Locke and Thomas Hay.



NEW CARGO GLIDER—New giant glider of the U.S. air force fleet is the "CG-13" which will carry troops and equipment to combat zones. Built at a fraction of the cost of a transport, the new glider carries a heavier load than the C-47 cargo plane.

Employees Hear Story Of Power Plant

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31 (ENS) --Many of the problems that had to be dealt with by the men who were to give this town its municipally-owned Hydro-Electric plant were recalled by Town Clerk John F. McGregor, who was guest speaker at the annual Utilities banquet, held recently.

The affair, which took place at Woodlawn Inn, was tendered by the Commission to the employees, including the office staff for both departments and featured the presentation by Manager P. C. Denyes of a silver entree dish to Mayor Frank Long and a silver cracked ice bowl to Commissioner Charles Davidson. The presentation was made on behalf of the employees who each year have reciprocated to the Commission's gesture.

Manager Denyes was chairman, and his remarks of welcome were echoed by Chairman James Benor and Mayor Long, both of whom voiced regret that Commissioner Davidson, for whom the affair had been twice postponed, was unable to attend. Mrs. J. O. Benor presided at the piano for community singing, and Mayor Long recited a number of humorous stories.

Describes Early Plant.

In his remarks, which were a follow-up to his address a year ago on the historical background of the Department, Mr. McGregor centred interest on the second electric plant. He recalled the first plant on the site of the present fire station, was a direct current plant, while the second plant was the new alternating current system which marked the beginning of a new era in the transmission of electrical energy over long distances and made possible the subsequent building of the plant at Crow Bay.

Mr. McGregor's account began in 1891 when the first electric light system and waterworks plant, housed in the same building, were "inseparable," and the demands on the two utilities grew so fast there was not sufficient water to feed them. "It had been expected one waterwheel would be sufficient to drive the fir pump and the other wheel the dynamos." The speaker did not go into detail on the pumping house machinery, he only added this sidelight, "Fancy trying to drive fast-running machines like dynamos with a slow operating piston pump, and have them both work together, it simply was impossible."

Lacked Power.

Lack of power was the chief problem and in 1893 steps were taken to improve the plant with the William Hamilton Co. of Peterborough getting a contract to improve the general lay-out which included raising and enlarging the bulkhead, shifting one water wheel, putting in draft tubes and taking out one countershaft. The countershaft that was taken out carried two large band pulleys, the largest of which was the drive pulley for the dynamo at the Crow Bay plant and the smaller one can still be seen at the bowling green.

Remove Fire Hazard.

In October, 1895, R. J. Eley, who operated a furniture factory, came to the board with a proposal to supply him with water to operate a 10 h.p. motor and according to the agreement signed he got the power at a flat rate of $50 per year. Up to that time the company had derived its power from a steam engine which belched sparks into the centre of the town creating a considerable fire hazard and this fact was taken into consideration in providing the alternate system at such a reasonable rate. Saw log bark and anchor ice were but two of the problems which caused frequent shut-downs at the power plant and precipitated a move to build a stop-log dam above Ranney Falls to increase the power. Lumber companies claimed first right to the water, and when they were running logs over the slide this took a lot and when rivermen started to drive the logs they resorted to flooding. This mean that about four o'clock in the afternoon the river would start to go down and by six o'clock it looked as though it was going dry. In the early morning the flood water came down but was of no use to the mill-owners, and next day the same thing was repeated.

"These were some of the difficulties that had to be contended by commissioners, who were becoming desperate," said Mr. McGregor.

Lumber Company Owners.

The site of the present plant at Crow Bay was formerly owned by the Gilmour Lumber Company, which operated a saw-mill a short distance farther up the stream. With the timber in the Trent watershed becoming exhausted it was decided not to rebuild this mill after it burned down. The speaker described the power site, as it appeared then, recalling that a low log dam extended from the Denmark farm on the west shore to the head of the island. Then from the southern end of the island a long crib pier extended to the slide, and east of the slide was the short raceway that took water to the saw-mill.

"Here was a power site ready made. The head was low—not more than 10 feet, yet there was plenty of water, and being drawn from the dead water of the bay meant little or no trouble from ice.'"

Workers Ordered Back

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 31 (CP) — The Nazi press, plainly reflecting the effectiveness of the latest air attacks on Berlin, yesterday demanded that workers return to the factories on time as an "honorable duty."

More Jap Atrocities

SUNDERLAND, England, Jan. 31 —(CP).—Calling for a final, supreme victory effort, Maj. Clement R. Attlee said in a speech yesterday "You have heard of only a few of these terrible atrocities committed by the Japanese."

HAMPER NAZI WITHDRAWAL—Allied bombers, attacking the rail hub of Ceccano, and other centres such as Tivoli in the north, are actively participating in the drive to cut the supply routes of Nazis withdrawing from Cassino, as indicated on map, while the Allied invasion forces face increasing resistance in their drive to outflank the enemy. Arrows at left indicate the invasion progress. Latest reports indicate that German armored units have counter-attacked the Allied beachhead below Rome but were beaten off. Shaded arrows point to only roads left open to the Germans escaping the Cassino sector.

Apprenticeship Training Planned For Ex-Members Of Armed Forces

TORONTO, Jan. 31—Pioneer organization of its kind in Canada, and one of the first on the continent, the apprenticeship branch of the Ontario Department of Labor is in the midst of weathering the second storm of its 15-year-old career.

he depression in 1929 caught the apprenticeship branch in the economic undertow, all but sucking it under to early destruction. In those black years there were plenty of boys to train, but no jobs. Today there are plenty of jobs, but few boys. But Director F. J. Hawes, who who left carpentering 20 years ago to enter this wider field, is preparing for the days of peace. He believes that the next few decades will bring a new age of specialization and that no matter how rapid or amazing the strides of invention and science, the human element will always be of vast importance.

The scope of the branch will be greatly enlarged as a result of Federal Labor Minister Mitchell's announcement this week-end that $250,000 has been made available to enable the Provinces to extend present schemes of apprenticeship training for ex-members of the armed forces and civilians.

An agreement with Ottawa has already been reached to ensure that veterans who have already begun training for the building trade may continue, and that other veterans may start as building trade apprentices, Mr. Hawes said.

ACTIVITIES WIDENED

The chief job of the apprenticeship branch has been to train youths for the building trades and for motor vehicle repair work. In recent years it has widened its activities to take in barbaring and hairdressing. The system is simple. Young boys, apprenticed to various employers, are taken from the building trades in January and February of each year for two years and taught the theory and science of their work. Instilled in them by their instructors, handpicked men, is a pride in their job, a love of good craftmanship. January and February are the slack months in the construction industry and by taking them into training centres at this time no ill effects are caused.

Act Is Amended

For a time the cost of operating the branch was borne by the employers, but this was considered inequitable after a brief trial, and in 1930 the act was amended. It provides that the construction industry could be assessed one-eight of one per cent of their total payroll and this method raised about $50,000 annually. But by 1933 the building trades volume of construction was a mere 10 per cent of the volume of 1929 and it was not considered worthwhile to make the effort of collecting the assessment.

Those were the lean years. There was little building, and consequently, no jobs. In 1936 there was a revival in business and the apprenticeship branch, always a sensitive barometer of economic trends, began moving forward once again. It was in 1936 that the motor vehicles repair trade and the barbaring and hairdressing business were included in the scope of activity.

Young Boy Lost In Deep Woods Worries Only About Missing Dog

BANCROFT, Jan. 31.—(ENS).—Lost in the woods for four or five hours on Sunday, young Ronald Fuller, 5 years old, was chiefly concerned that his dog "Mickey" had not stayed with him when neighbours discovered the boy wandering around in the dark in the heavy woods skirting Bierworth Bay, near Trout Lake.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fuller of Faraday township, Ronald had gone out with a group of other children Sunday afternoon to play. He was missed by his mother about 3 o'clock, but she did not become alarmed for his safety until the other children returned for supper and her son was not among them.

Neighbours organized a search barty and Harry Ashley, carrying a lantern, located the missing boy when the light was seen by Ronald. He was still walking about in the woods, and his only comment was: "Mickey wouldn't stay witn me."

Wm. A. Wynn Is Laid To Rest

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31 (ENS) —A former deputy-reeve and ex-school trustee of Seymour township William Alexander Wynn, 75, was buried from his late residence in Seymour West on Saturday afternoon, when friends from over a wide area joined in paying a final tribute to a man who had served the community well and will long be remembered.

Mr. Wynn was born in Seymour, a son of the late Christopher Wynn and Mary Lynn. He spent his entire life in the township and married Anna Bertha Varty of Belmont on August 25, 1892. As a dairy farmer and breeder of Holstein cattle Mr. Wynn was keenly interested in cheese production and he was patron and president of two factories in the district which no longer operate.

He was president of the Seymour West factory for many years and following its destruction he became a patron of the New Model Factory which he likewise served in an executive capacity. In addition to his farming Mr. Wynn took part in Municipal affairs and he was for some time a trustee for S.S. No. 4, Seymour. He rose to Deputy Reeve in 1922 ater spending a number of years on the council, and at the time of his death, which occurred unexpectedly last week. There survive besides his widow, two sons, Edison and Ross of Campbellford, and four daughters, Mrs. Claude Thompson (Violet), of Toronto; Mrs. Stanley Russell (Lillian), Campbellford; Mrs. Edward Stanbury (Rose), Campbellford; Mrs. Fred Hunt (Clara), Toronto.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. G. N. Maxwell of St. John's United church, of which he was a member, and interment was made in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The pall bearers were John Locke, James MacDowall, Gordon Greenly, Ross McComb, Adthur Rutherford and William Fisher. The flower bearers were Donald Rutherford, Edward Rutherford, George Innes and James Thompson.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Studies Founder

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31 (ENS) —Tribute to the founder of the I.O.D.E., Margaret Polson Murray, was paid by members of the Bemersyde Chapter at their meeting recently, when Mrs. Jack Clark gave an interesting paper on her early organizational work as the Empire study feature of the evening. She gave members a number of points regarding the formation the Daughters of the Empire which was conceived by the founder early in the year 1900. The first meeting held was in Fredericton, N.B., on February 1 of that year.

The Regent, Miss Eleanor Ferris, outlined the knitting program for the year and asked each member to contribute 3 sweaters, 3 pairs of socks and 3 pairs of gloves, which are to be ready by the first meeting in September.

A new plan for the collection of salvage and designed to simplify the work was outlined by the Regent and will be put into effect in the near future. It was decided to raise annual membership dues from 70 cents to $2, and this will include 50 cents from each toward the Flower Fund also six copies of the I.O.D.E. publications "Echoes" which will be distributed among each of the six groups. On motion, the secretary was authorized to extend an invitation to the Junior Chapter to assist in entertaining a group of Trenton airmen who are to be guests of the branch here during the week-end of February 5.

LONDON, Jan. 31 (CP) — The R.A.F.'s most potent fighter combination, a wing of Typhoons, destroyed 12 German planes and damaged several others without loss to themselves over Northern France yesterday in the Typhoons' greatest single victory over Germany's crack Focke-Wulf 190 fighter. Four Canadian pilots are in the wing.

Jap's Diary Tells About Life On Attu In The Aleutians

EDMONTON, Jan. 31 (Special)—Nebu Tatsukichi has joined his Japanese forefathers, but he has left a record of what it was like in the Japanese camp on Attu, in the Aleutians, last year when the Americans licked them there. The record was in his diary, found in his tunic when United States soldiers went through his clothing. He had killed himself.

The diary now is in possession of Sgt. R. W. Sanders, R.C.A.F. It was written in Japanese and Sgt. Sanders found an interpreter to translate it.

Nebu's last entry:

"Assembled in front of headquarters. The last assault is to be carried out. All patients in hospital are to be made to commit suicide. Only 33 years of living and I am to die here. I have no regrets. Banzai to the Emperor!

"I am grateful that I have kept the peace of my soul. Took care of all patients with grenades. Goodby my beloved wife, who loved me to the end. Until we meet again, grant you godspeed. Michan, who just became four years old, will grow unharmed. I feel sorry for you, Takiki, born February of this year and gone without seeing your father.

"The number participating in the attack is a little over 1,000. To take artillery position. It seems the enemy is expecting an all-out attack."

Nebu was a member of "Northern 5316 Detachment" on Attu. The diary tells how the Americans assaulted the island May 12, 1943.

Had Wrong Information

Next day, he wrote, his unit engaged the enemy. On May 14, two Japanese submarines from Kiska helped in the defense. Nebu probably was given wrong information because he said "the enemy has a great number of Negroes and Indians." Exhausted from the battle, Nebu admitted, "he just lay down from fatigue in the barracks. The facial expression of the men back from the west arm is tense."

He told of an air raid, "so took refuge in the field hospital cave." The guns of a Lockheed airplane, he said, "spit fire and flew past our cave."

From the cave he took part in a nine-hour stretcher-carrying trip to Chicagof harbor "under cover of darkness and over the muddy roads and hills of No Man's Land . . . sat down every 20 or 30 steps . . . slept, dreamed, and would waken again over and over." The patient on the stretcher died.

"Everybody did combat preparations and waited. Had two grenades ready for myself . . . A patient came in who engaged a friendly unit by mistake and received a wound in the wrist. Counter-sign is Isshi-Hoke."

On May 20 he was strafed while amputating a patient's arm. "Asis" (apparently the commanding officer) was severely nervous, predicted he would die the next day, gave away his articles. Every one who heard this became desperate and things became disorderly."

Attacks Intensified

On May 24 he told of the cold weather. Rock and mud flew all around the hospital unit roof as a result of American naval shelling." An incendiary bomb hit the hospital tent May 26 "and Hirosa, wounded, was granted the Imperial Edict. No hope for reinforcements."

"Diarrhoea continues. Pain is severe. Took everything, pills, opium and morphine, then slept pretty well. Strafing by planes, roof broke through . . .

"Our artillery has been completely destroyed. There is a sound of trench mortars, also of anti-aircraft guns. The company at the bottom of Attu Fumi has been completely destroyed . . . .

"Continuous cases of suicide. Half of the sector unit headquarters blown away. Heard they gave 400 shots of morphine to the severely wounded and killed them. Ate half a fried thistle, the first fresh-food in six months. It was a delicacy."

It was Nebu's last delicacy. He died May 30.

Food For Debate

The Speech From The Throne provides ample food for debate; we only hope that Parliament will not surfeit at the feast. Family allowances, three new governmental departments, an international peace organization, gratuities for servicemen, national health insurance, a floor for farm produce, an industrial development bank, a guarantee of export credits, revision of the Bank Act, votes for soldiers, relief for liberated countries, expanded research activity, new housing legislation — this is indeed God's plenty! Whether it is more than parliament of mere mortals can handle in a single session remains to be seen.

The Examiner has expressed the opinion many times that we live in a socialist century, and that the move of all governments toward socialism is inexorable. The bill of fare provided for Parliament by a Government which is anything but avowedly socialist corroborates our opinion. It is not possible for a modern government to stem the tide of socialism; it can, however, harness that tide and determine the kind of work which it will do. That apparently is the determination of the Government at Ottawa.

Prophets — particularly those whose views are opposed to the present Government—see unmistakeable signs of a coming general election in the Throne Speech. Perhaps they are right; we have not the prophetic gift. Certainly the present program contains much to attract voters who have no unwavering party allegiance. Increase of old age pensions has long been advocated in the press; on every hand, and from both Britain and the U.S., we hear of the necessity of increased 'social security', and Parliament will discuss this somewhat vague expression under definite heads; family allowances, health insurance and housing are matters of first importance in considering security. In a less direct and obvious way, the assistance of the Government in converting war plants and developing small industries will also work as forms of social security. We wonder, however, if the prophets think that Parliament can finish the session's work in time for an election? Or does the Opposition hope to provoke one?

The establishment of Departments of Veterans' Affairs, Reconstruction and Social Welfare will provide machinery for big jobs which must be planned for now. The Department of Reconstruction, we predict, will be the hardest to establish; if it means a department under which present controls and economic bureaux can be established under new names, we foresee that it will meet with strong opposition, and not all of it from the left side of the Speaker's chair.

Parliament begins its immense task now. The first job will be to debate the Speech From The Throne, and it is to be hoped that the members, realizing the great quantity of work which they must attack, will cut short their addresses. With the program which they have before them, there is no time for repetition and meaningless oratory.

The Muddy Days Are Here

The Ottawa Journal has received an interesting letter to which it refers in these words:

> "A letter from a correspondent today tells at some length of his experience in the back seat of a taxi when his driver was ordered to the side by a policeman and severely reprimanded for having splashed mud all over the constable's car and in his window. The taxi had passed the police car and the officer's uniform was well bespattered".

Apparently the Journal's correspondent took this as a great joke and thought the policeman a poor sport because he did not enjoy the fun. The taxi-driver, he says, was travelling within the speed limit, and the roads were so dirty that it was impossible not to splash.

Commenting on this, the Ottawa paper writes thus:

> "Our correspondent reports that 'the taximan's sense of humour overcame his wrath and indignation so we had a good belly-laugh and drove on'. We can only hope that if tomorrow our correspondent is standing on a curbside and soaked from head to foot by a motorist he will indulge in nothing other than a belly-laugh and a reasonable observation that the roads are bad and the driver was driving within the speed limit".

We have a notion that splashing a man with mud from the wheels of a vehicle is a form of assault, and may be treated as such. Very few people take action in these matters, because they do not want to make a fuss about a small matter, and often their wrath is too great to allow them to take the number of the offending car. Certainly few things are so galling as being splashed with slush by a passing vehicle. And, whatever motorists may think, it can be avoided and it is their duty to take care. Splashing a man with mud from a car is after all no more excusable than pushing him into the gutter, or emptying a pail on him from a window.

Another Year Of Red Cross Work

Another year of Red Cross work has been brought to a satisfactory conclusion and a new year begun under much the same leadership as before. This year the objective set for the local branch of the Red Cross by the Toronto headquarters, in the national drive for funds, is $40,000, an increase of $10,000 over the objective last year. This is hardly surprising, for the work of the Red Cross has increased in every way during the past year, and the expense of providing its many services under wartime conditions was bound to rise also. The local committee made no decision as to whether the extra $10,000 should be provided from the reserve fund or solicited in a separate campaign. At present the Red Cross receives $30,000 from the Community Fund, and whether that Fund can reasonably be expected to provide the extra money asked by the Toronto headquarters is a matter for debate.

No one doubts, however, that the money will be forthcoming, for the work which the Red Cross does in the present war gives it a claim which cannot be denied. To name only two jobs which it has undertaken, the parcels for prisoners of war and the collection and export of blood plasma must not be allowed to lapse, and if extra money is needed to keep up such vital work we shall find it somehow.

The work of the Red Cross relies, to a great extent, on voluntary help, and the people who keep the wheels turning are the thousands of women everywhere in this Dominion and in other countries like ours who give some of their spare time to Red Cross work. The voluntary system is not always as successful and as efficient as it might be, but the Red Cross seems to have managed it extremely well; its cause is great enough to appeal strongly to women whose spare time is limited, and their response has been remarkably fine.

Why License Milk Producers?

These days we must be on our guard against too much organization; there is nothing to be gained, and much to be lost, by loading ourselves with unnecessary restrictions.

We read that the Ontario agricultural committee of enquiry intends to recommend an amendment to the Ontario Milk Control Act; the amendment would provide for licensing milk producers and collecting license fees. So far as we can discover, the right to issue licenses would rest with the local distributors and processors of each district, and presumably a man who did not have a license would be barred from selling milk.

Do we need such a regulation? Haven't we got enough regulations about selling produce as it is? This regulation, if it were put into effect, would not guarantee the quality of the milk sold by the license holders; there are regulations already which set the standard of milk sold to the public. What it would do would be to put another check on the farmer or producer, and make it impossible for him to sell milk without a Government license—a license for which he paid a fee.

Unless we have misunderstood the matter, these fees would go to the producers' association which issued the licenses. Producers' associations are excellent things, and they do a lot of good work in helping the farmers to market their produce at the best prices. But is it necessary to establish this licensing system in order to provide income for the associations? Is there not some other way in which money could be raised which would not add yet another restriction to the list which farmers must heed?

This paper thinks that trade of all kinds is healthiest when it is conducted with the smallest possible number of restrictions, licenses and controls; business, whether it is farming, manufacturing or retailing, gets along best when it is least hampered. Our aim should be to get rid of restrictions, and not to add to them. We think that the farmers of Ontario should look into this milk licensing proposal very carefully before they load themselves with it. It is easy to put restrictions on the producer; it is very hard to get rid of them once they are established.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

REPORTS that come from Alberta are not very reassuring about our 1944 wheat crop from that province. The winter in Southern Alberta has been unusually fine, and it follows a dry autumn. The levels in irrigation reservoirs are down and there is no snow in the mountains so far this winter, and men, who have carefully followed farming conditions in the west, say that the land in Southern Alberta is drier today than at any time since 1919.

The feed lots in that part of the west are well-filled with cattle and lambs. There are some 75,000 lambs and 35,000 cattle on feed at Raymond, Taber, Lethbridge and Picture Butte and they are doing well in the fine weather. Cattle on the ranges are in fine condition and, so far, no hay has been needed. The farmers, however, in the Lethbridge railway division, are estimated to have between 35 and 40 million bushels of grain on their farms—mostly wheat—so that is being rather far from famine.

In some cases farmers are having wells dry up and water has to be hauled, especially for pigs. Some of these men who were feeding wheat have now turned to barley, as wheat has gone up to $1.25 per bushel. A country with the distances and variation in climate, such as Canada has, needs to meet emergencies quite often in the farming of its land. Laying down a definite policy and following it, will lead you down many a lane.

POTATO growers in Ontario had better put up a better article for sale than they are doing now, or they will lose the market of city dwellers to producers of these tubers in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick. As I write this, potatoes are scarce in many Toronto stores and I looked about to see what was offered. Ontario potatoes were displayed in some stores in bins or bushel baskets and were a very mixed lot. In one bin you could see potatoes so large that they would likely prove coarse food and mixed with them were others of all sizes down to marbles, or at least glass alleys. In these days of delayed deliveries, people buy a six-quart basket of potatoes and carry them home, but who wants a small basket of potatoes of all sizes, some too large and some too small. If you buy Prince Edward Island or New Brunswick potatoes Graded No. 1, you can be sure of a clean lot of sound potatoes of fairly uniform size; so it is little wonder that very many purchasers ask for Island potatoes and buy them in preference to those grown in Ontario.

I see a lot of Ontario potatoes with a good deal of clay caked on them. They are not made attractive by this, and the clay can be so easily removed by a small brushing machine that it should be done. They should be brushed, not washed. You frequently see that when a product gets to be a good price, the people marketing the same get careless. If supplies are short, these sellers fancy they can treat the purchasing public in a somewhat cavalier manner. This is a mistake, and once a product makes a bad impression on the public it takes some time to overcome it. If Ontario potato growers find that the Maritime 'Murphys' have captured the city markets in this province, they can only blame themselves for the result. People have to put up with some things now, but it will not likely be for long; their memories of unnecessary inconveniences, however, will be quite long.

I HAD the pleasure of calling on Sir William Mulock on his one-hundredth birthday, and had a few words with him. I have known Sir William quite well for forty-three years, and knew of his work of a public nature for a decade before that. He is very alert and remarkable for both his mental and physical condition at such an age. Many of the public matters in which he has taken a part have been mentioned lately, but I have not noticed that his work for agriculture has been spoken of. It was in 1893 that William Mulock, M.P., made a speech in the Canadian House of Commons against the embargo on Canadian cattle, imposed by the British in 1891. This was the first resounding challenge made by any member of parliament against this unfair exclusion of live cattle from Great Britain. The terms of the embargo were that all our cattle should be slaughtered on the wharf where they landed and, after an ocean trip of about fifteen days at that time, the beasts were not very fit to kill out the best of beef. The alleged reason for the embargo was that pleuro-pneumonia had been discovered in Canadian cattle; but the utmost investigation by British veterinaries produced no evidence whatever, then or since, of such a disease.

William Mulock had been elected member for North York in 1882. He was keenly interested in agriculture and, upon this matter of high importance to very many Canadians, he made a speech that echoed across the Atlantic and brought the matter to general attention. I well remember reading it in the Toronto Globe, which gave over a full page, with a scare heading, to a verbatim report of Mr. Mulock's utterance and that began a battle which it took many years to win. Some of us had hoped then that William Mulock would be the next Dominion minister of agriculture, but he became postmaster-general instead.

Later, Mr. Mulock operated a farm in North York which he still has, and which goes as an inheritance to his grandson, Honourable W. P. Mulock, M.P. For some years Sir William bred Shorthorns on this farm, and at times gave a bull calf as a prize to North York Exhibitions, and for a number of years fed beef cattle. Some six or seven years ago, I sat with him on the verandah of his farm home and he recalled the results of every year in which he fed cattle and, though margins were narrow, was able to show a profit each year. Many years ago, Sir William began planting groves of black walnuts, and for some years has perhaps the most valuable stand of walnut timber in Ontario.

THIS recalls one other member of the House of Commons from Ontario, who bred good cattle and rendered quite a good public service by so doing. This was the late Henry Cargill, M.P., for South Bruce. Mr. Cargill made some of the most important importations of Shorthorn cattle from Scotland, in his day. He sold many high-priced animals and had an outstanding breeding herd. He had quite a crop of high-class bull calves each year and, to his neighbours, he used to fix a price of $100—first come, first served. As not all people are really shrewd judges of a ten or twelve month old calf, you did not always require to have first choice to get the best bull. In the years 1912 and 1913, I purchased a good few Shorthorns about Mildmay, and through South Bruce, and everywhere I found the improving influence of Cargill cattle in the herds I visited. This is rare public service, of which we have too little.

THE ACT IS CRACKING UP —By Rube Goldberg

Teachers and Prison Inmates

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

IN the course of his excellent dealing with the future of education in this country, Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, touched upon one feature of the Canadian educational system which is decidedly no credit to the Dominion. He declared that education was not very efficiently given, especially with young, inexperienced, and poorly paid teachers in the rural areas.

This is only too true, and the crux of the matter is found in the words "poorly paid." Some rural districts will never have anything else but young and inexperienced teachers, unless they offer more attractive salaries than those which now prevail. A recent article in The Financial Post tells us that there are 17,492 school teachers in this country who receive less than $537 a year. The same paper tells us that the average cost of keeping a man or woman in prison for one year is $536.55. The figures point to a serious flaw in our educational system. Primary education is vitally important. It should be in the hands of competent teachers. Yet the beggarly wage noted above will never attract and hold remarkable talent; except in times of depression, salaries at this level will mean a correspondingly low level of teaching ability.

We do not think Canada can ever hope to attain the ideals in education envisioned by Dr. Wallace as long as this condition prevails in the profession of teaching. A profession which offers little more than prison life will discourage from entering it those people most able to realize and impart the true values of education. To say that a "free" man or woman earning less than $537 annually is not in prison is to quibble; that person is confined in an economic prison, and the confinement may be all the more bitter by contrast with the freedom enjoyed by people in better salaried positions. It is hardly conducive to the proper frame of mind for teaching school.

If we are to achieve and maintain a proper standard of education something must be done to provide reasonable compensation for thoroughly competent teachers. It might be accomplished by a minimum wage law, or by consolidation of school sections. These are matters for educational authorities to deal with; we hope they find an early solution possible. Until they do, there isn't much hope of realizing the aims of education which will permit every man and woman to make a living, play their part in the community, and live their inner lives with enjoyment and satisfaction. We occasionally hear the boast that Canada offers education for everybody. It is tainted with hypocrisy when part of the education is provided by sweatshop wages.

Finance Is Not So Simple

(VANCOUVER SUN)

IT IS common in discussion of plans for post-war reconstruction for our C.C.F. friends to dismiss as if it were already solved, the whole problem of post-war government finance.

If Canada (or any other nation) can find almost unlimited millions for destructive purposes in war, runs their argument, it can as easily find unlimited millions for constructive purposes in peace.

It is true that Canada, like all belligerent countries, is spending money on the prosecution of war far beyond what had been considered possible for expenditure in peace. Canada had not been made able to do so because all the old ideas of financing have been proved wrong or because some new formula has been discovered by which money for government can be conjured out of the air. It is well to be very plain and sure about this. Canada has been able to get the money in two ways—and they are orthodox ways.

First, by taxation of the people up to what is considered the limit of the capacity of their incomes to pay; second, by vast public loans, incurring a heavy debt for the future upon the pledge for the repayment of which the economic stability of the nation is based.

Some public leaders take the view that no government will be able in peacetime to impose taxaiton and raise public loans on the scale made possible by the pressure of the life-and-death necessities of war.

They may be wrong in this contention. We shall not deny the possibility that the great ideals of a new order may inspire for their achievement as great sacrifices as does the present urgent cause of life and liberty. But here is the thing to remember—you know what sacrifices you are making today and the contention is unanswerable that it is only through such continued sacrifices on the part of the whole community that the monies raised for war could be raised for purposes of peace. You can not abolish heavy taxation and still raise money for public investments in peace on the scale for which you are sacrificing to win the war today.

It is a favorite Socalist theory that national credit can be drawn upon to an unlimited extent for government purposes. But in Australia a wartime Labour government, led by a Socialist, has proved for itself the complete fallacy of this theory. Despite every possible form of control with wartime powers over the whole field of internal economy, the purchasing value of money in Australia has decreased proportionately with every increased use of national credit.

There is no solution of the problem from that standpoint.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

Nothing New

Much is being made of the fact that a freighter built of concrete recently began operating from a Florida port. Long ago the upper St. Lawrence and Lake Ontario also had their concrete vessel in the "Concretia," which rendered good service as a lighthouse tender.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Esperanto Needed

The realm of sports has its own language, and sometimes, in an international sense, the terms are incomprehensible to those strange to them. British are endeavoring to overcome these difficulties through mutual interpretation. For example, the Americans are learning the meaning of "jolly well bowled, old chap," or "he came a cropper on that one." So far so good. But what is going to happen when some of the boys from Brooklyn start to shout at an army baseball game: "We's been robbed. Moider the bums?" Or when the umpire's decision on the pitcher's throw is challenged with: "G'wan. He flang it right over the plate?" Some form of Esperanto still looks to be the best way out. — Hamilton Spectator.

Hoarder!

The other day in Washington we saw an army sergeant walking down Pennsylvania avenue accompanied by not one but three very pretty girls. We might have ignored them entirely had they not been followed by two corporals chanting, Hoarder, hoarder, hoarder!"—W.D. in Collier's.

Wartime Endurance

It is only in emergencies that human beings call forth the stamine which makes them able to attain super-human peaks. War is an emergency, and we endure for the sake of winning the war what we could not endure forever.—Oshawa Times-Gazette.

Franco's Gamble

One neutral country—Spain—has consistently, until facts have proved too hard for her, gambled on a German victory. But what real chance Franco ever had of repaying his debt to Hitler and Mussolini vanished once the Allies had established themselves firmly in North Africa.—Halifax Chronicle.

A Bible Message

But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are saved;) and hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus....

Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God; and are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone: in whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord. (Eph. 2: 4-6, 19-21.)

Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.... To the intent that now unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places might be known by the church the manifold wisdom of God. According to the eternal purpose which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord. (Eph. 3: 8, 10, 11.)

Letter To The Editor

REPLIES TO MR. MAYBEE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Perhaps as I am not the gentleman referred to in the letter written by Frederick W. M. Maybee I would have no right to write a reply to his letter, Local Voters not stupid.

I believe when a man or woman votes they should be able to give an intelligent reason why they think the way they are voting is the best way. Every one cannot think the same and one person has as good a right to vote as he likes as any other. There are some who lets the other fellow do all the thinking while some could toss up a coin and decide that way.

I believe the writer is a Conservative, at least he is not very Liberal in his solution as he calls it, when he would compel people to vote.

He has his own ideas so I suppose I can have mine, but they may not be right.

Just as fast as the people learn what the C.C.F. really is there will be no reason to force people to use their franchise and the records of by-elections all across our Dominion show that the people are making a study of the C.C.F. I am sure there was not a Hepburn to defeat in those by-elections that were won by the C.C.F. Also I would like to say that we of the C.C.F. believe we are getting somewhere and getting there fast. He says neither of the Old Parties are perfect. This is a very bad state of affairs for the Conservative party to be in after being a party asking people to vote for it since Sir John A. McDonald. Have they been honest enough to ever come out at election time or any other time and tell their short comings? One statement I quite agree with is that no government can bring about any lasting economic change for the better to a much greater degree than we have, unless a change is wrought in the heart of man himself. This is the change the C.C.F. is bringing and it is no bogey.

It would seem that those who are profiting by holding on to the old party system are suffering from chills travelling up their spines and shaking with fear while the C.C.F. gets stronger. The old saying a knock is a boost. We of the C.C.F. are getting our knocks but a great many knockers after getting enlightened, are boosters. I will advise those who are knocking the C.C.F. watch proceedings in Toronto.

Unconsidered Trifles

When the farmer saw a stranger fishing in his special stream he was very angry but his wrath faded into laughter when he noticed that the angler was using carrot as bait.

Later in the day he went that way again; but he was surprised to see the basket full of fish.

"Bless my soul!" he exclaimed. "You never caught all those with the carrot bait, did you?"

"Of course not," was the calm reply. "I caught you with that."

The visitor to the crowded church service was compelled to leave early, and tried to steal away during the sermon. As he tiptoed down the aisle his new shoes crackled like a forest in a gale. He reached the door in a state of collapse.

"By Jove," he remarked to the verger, "wouldn't do that again for a pound."

Then his face took on a mottled tint as he realized he had left his hat in the pew.

Linens Require More Care To Extend Life

Good linen is at a premium today, and therefore the greatest care should be exercised when washing and storing it. If the supply permits, the linen should be rotated, and if possible, a one to two-week period or rest should be allowed between each set.

Friction of the body causes sheets to wear out first between the centre of the bed and the pillow. To lessen the wear, a mattress pad, which also saves the mattress, is an excellent protection. Another way to increase the life of a sheet is to reverse its position frequently from top to bottom.

Whenever the laundering of linens is mentioned, the question of bleaching is invariably brought up. Bleaching agents should be used sparingly and cautiously on precious linens. Care should also be taken that the linen is rinsed thoroughly before being put to dry, so that all soap is removed. If it is winter, and the housewife can stand the cold on her haods, the linen could be hung outside, because freezing is one of the best ways to bleach clothes white.

Too hot an iron should never be used on linens, as scorching spoils its finish. In addition, when it is being ironed, the folds should be left unpressed. If, however, the housewife prefers to iron the folds, she should change their positions frequently, to distribute the wear evenly. The pressure of the iron, as well as the weight of linens when they are put away, tend to break the fine yarns where they are creased at the edge of the fold, and thus lines of wear are formed.

Large Number Forces Change In Hostess Class

The unexpectedly large registration of girls wishing to take the special hostess course being held at the Y.W.C.A. starting Monday evening, January 31, has necessitated a last-minute change in plans. The lectures, which were to have been held at 8.30 p.m., will also be held at 7.30, to divide the numbers, so that all registrants can be accommodated.

The first lecture will begin at 7.30 sharp, so that it can be completed in time for the 8.30 group. The lectures, to be held in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A., will be introduced Monday evening by Mrs. Clare Collins, secretary of the Citizens' Committee, under whose auspices the course is being presented.

The first lecture will be under the heading of "Personality and Etiquette," and will also be presented Wednesday, February 9, the beginning of the second series under the same headings. It is not yet known whether the second series, running from February 9, through February 11, will be held once or twice nightly, but those wishing to take the second series will be notified about the time.

"You as a Hostess," with Mrs. W. Fanning as lecturer, will be the topic of the second lecture, and Capt. S. B. Profitt, padre of the local Training Centre, will be the third speaker, and have as his subject, "Recreation for Soldiers."

Y.W.C.A. To Mark 53rd Anniversary

The Peterborough Y.W.C.A. marks its 53rd anniversary this year, and the annual meeting will be held Thursday evening, February 3, at 8 o'clock. During these years, the activities and services of the Y.W.C.A. have been many and varied, because the Y.W. program is always flexible to meet needs of girls, and help build a better world.

In war years, the Y.W.C.A. has served the city in many ways. Its residence and rooms registry continues to provide comfortable living for hundreds of girls new to the city. Its gymnasium, swimming pool, camp, club, educational and social activities continue to offer wholesome recreation, and through organized effort groups have reached out to study world needs and help others.

Reports presented at the annual meeting will reveal some of the many activities and services of the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. H. C. Sootheran, president of the Y.W.C.A., will preside, and Dr. J. D. Smart will bring a message. Musical numbers and a social hour will be enjoyed, and newcomers will have an opportunity to see the building and some of the activities.

Nurses Attend Church Service

A service for nurses from the city hospitals was held in St. Andrew's church Sunday night, and was conducted by the pastor, Dr. E. W. Young. There was community singing from 7.15 to 7.30, when the regular service commenced. The choir sang an anthem, and Miss Iris Whalon a solo with R. B. Harle at the organ.

At 8.30 a social hour was spent in the large school room at which were present the nurses and their friends, the choir, the Y.P.U., the members of Session, Board of Managers, the Woman's Association.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. C. M. Scott, Mrs. F. W. Harris and Mrs. E. W. Young. Mrs. F. E. Johnston and Mrs. C. B. Waite presided at the tea tables. The following ladies assisted in the arrangements, Mrs. I. T. Lillico, Mrs. E. Hawley, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mrs. A. Moir, Mrs. J. Heffernan, Mrs. J. Wharry, Mrs. E. R. Shirley. The president of the Women's Auxiliary of Nicholls Hospital, Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell, was present as an invited guest. Dr. A. Moir and Dr. C. B. Waite welcomed the nurses.

A musical program, which was arranged by Mr. R. B. Harle, was greatly enjoyed. Several solos were sung by Adam Hawley and Mrs. H. L. Williamson, a duet on the piano by Mr. R. B. Harle and Walter Morrow. Miss Edith Young, superintendent of nurses, Nicholls Hospital, thanked the minister and office bearers of St. Andrew's church and the ladies who provided the refreshments. The men of the congregation provided transportation for the nurses, with Mr. D. T. Crawford and Mr. G. A. Gillespie in charge.

Banquet Is Held At Mark Street By Scout Troop

Approximately 100 fathers and sons gathered in the Sunday School of Mark Street United church to hear Mr. Edgar Jones, Field Secretary of Scouts, who was guest speaker at the first father and son banquet of the 13th Scout Troop and Cub Pack of Mark Street United church. In his talk, Mr. Jones outlined the value of scouting to young boys, and the effect of co-operation of parents, who gave the boys odd jobs to do around the house.

Introduced by Mr. E. Wolfe, Commissioner of Scouts, the speaker also told of the increase in the census of Scouts and Cubs all across Canada. He illustrated his points with stories, and concluded by complimenting the church on its active Scout, Cub and Parents' Auxiliary, and live group committee.

Mr. Charles English, Scoutmaster of the Mark Street Troop of Boy Scouts, was chairman for the evening, which opened with a singsong in charge of Q. McKinney, assisted by J. Telford, followed by the banquet, which was given by the Parents' Auxiliary, under the leadership of Mrs. Allen Stevens, and to which Cubmaster Fred Simmons moved a hearty vote of thanks.

Cutmore; a toast to the church, given by Mr. Carlyle Ferguson, superintendent of Mark Street Sunday School, and responded to by Rev. E. W. Rowland, minister of Mark Street United church; and a toast to the memory of the late Lord Baden-Powell, given by George Phillips, a Scout, and responded to by Scouter Nixon, of Mark Street Boy Scouts.

Mr. W. J. Sharpe, introduced by Mr. Morgan Cullen, gave several humorous poems, two of which were "Little Albert," and "An Elephant Never Forgets," and Mr. A. Hope told a humorous story. The chairman then introduced the Mark Street Group Committee for Scouts and Cubs. It consists of Mr. Kent Throop, Mr. Morgan Cullen and Mr. A. E. DeNure.

CREATEST FINANCIERS WOMEN.

Heads of Morgan, Rockfeller Banking Firms 20 Years from Now Will Wear Petticoats.

One of the curious misconceptions about women is that they are congenitally incapable of understanding anything about the handling of money, yet nothing could be further from the truth. In reality, the great financiers are not the secretaries of the treasury, or the presidents of banks, or the manipulators of giant combines. They are the wives of poor men who take their husbands' starvation salaries and make them support a family and start it to going places.

Reducing the national debt with million of taxes rolling in is no trick in comparison with cutting down the butchers' bill when it has already been pared to the bone. Funding a foreign debt is nothing to budgeting an income that has to be chopped into mincemeat to make it go around.

Wives Expand Dimes.

Yet thousands upon thousands of plain, ordinary little housewives daily perform this miracle of penny-sweating and dime-expansion. The world never hears of them. Their own families never dream that they have in their midst one whose perfromances would put any Wall Street Napoleon of Finance in the amateur class. They only know that on a shoestring income Mother makes a comfortable home; that they have good food to eat and decent clothes to wear, and that, somehow, she can always reach up into the old teapot on the top shelf in the kitchen and find a quarter for Johnny to go to the movies, or a few dollars to get Mary a new dress for the party.

We do not pay such women even the tribute of noticing their exploits. We only say that Mrs. Smith is a good manager, but many a man who has engineered a corner in stocks, or organized a railroad trust knows that it has required less business ability than it did for his mother to bring up a big family on his father's salary. And many a man who makes his millions knows that he has inherited his financial ability from a mother who spent her genius in manipulating his father's pay envelope so it fed and clothed and educated a family of girls and boys.

It is the custom of men to accuse women of extravagance, but the truth of the matter is that, taking them by and large, women are far more economical than men and come much nearer to getting their money's worth out of every dollar they spend than men do. No man can run a house as economically as a woman can, as every widower

SWIFT'S WEEKLY FOOD HINTS

"Waste Not—Want Not"

Every scrap of food saved is a step toward the home-front victory

Grandmother used to say "wilful waste makes woeful want." Today we say "Buy wisely; cook correctly; eat it up." Right now when we need so much food for our armed forces, our Allies and the Red Cross, it's up to us not to waste a spoonful of anything. One of our "kitchen police" duties is to use up scraps of food in attractive dishes.

Those teaspoons of left-over vegetables, vegetable water, meat, and dried ends of bread can be made into a tasty meat loaf. Serve it hot for supper—then slice the leavings for the sandwich box carried by your family war worker.

In the panel you'll find a honey of a left-over meat dish, called "Western Ranch Meat Loaf" because those hardy western men of our land swear by it.

Martha Logan

WESTERN RANCH MEAT LOAF
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
¼ cup diced celery
4 tbsps. dripping
3 cups ground cooked meat
3 cups soft bread crumbs
¼ cup finely-chopped green pepper
1 tbsp. salt
1 egg, beaten
½ cup vegetable water
½ cup tomato juice or meat stock
2 tbsps. cooking fat
Cook onion and celery in dripping, over low heat, until lightly browned. Mix into meat. Combine bread crumbs, green pepper, salt, beaten egg and vegetable water; add half this stuffing mixture to the meat, mixing well. Pat half the meat mixture into a greased loaf pan and cover with remaining stuffing then the last of the meat mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 1¼ hours. Baste twice during cooking, with the tomato juice or meat stock and fat which have been heated together, to keep loaf moist.

Marine Glad To Meet World Champ

With the announcement that World's Heavyweight Champion "Wild Bill" Longson would appear here next Tuesday, mat fans here are agogat the prospect of seeing the "topper" of the grapple game in action at last.

Champion Longson, recognized by the National Wrestling Association for some three years now as world titleholder, may or may not be the greatest of all wrestlers but so far no one has been able to successfully dispute his claim.

The champion has proven his title status all over North and South America at least and regardless of the claims of Whipper Billy Watson and Bobby Managoff, "Wild Bill" still reigns as mat king.

Longson meets hard-hitting Toar Morgan and from the standpoint of the Fighting Marine this is his big chance. Morgan is literally jumping with joy over the prospect of a chance at the titleholder. From his standpoint this is the break of breaks in his young and spectacular career. As far as Longson's great reputation is concerned Toar takes that obstacle in one stride with the remark, "All champions are eventually beaten so why couldn't it happen in this match."

We haven't heard Longson's attitude but undoubtedly the champion regards Morgan as a pushover or he would hardly have agreed to the match here. In any event Morgan will be in there trying with the old Marine fight and if the Brock Arena doesn't bulge with wrestling students we are no prognosticator.

Top notch preliminary bouts are lined up to support this feature attraction. Earl McCready will battle Al Bunny Dunlop in the semi-final and Jerry Meeker and Jack Larue clash in the opener.

Turf followers of New Orleans expressed the belief yesterday William Helis financed the purchase by Henry Knight, Kentucky breeder and trainer, of the Valdina Farm's stock of 160 horses for a reported $250,000. Helis announced he had bought three horses from Knight including Valdina Zenith which is a candidate for the Kentucky Derby.

Just seven years ago today Max Schmeling's chances of meeting Jimmy Braddock for the world's heavyweight boxing championship exploded when Braddock signed to meet Joe Louis. Braddock had contracted to meet Schmeling—victor over Louis—but an offer of $500,000 with an option of 50 per cent of the gate for the Louis bout changed his mind. Louis won the title.

Hershey Bears Gain 2 Points

By The Canadian Press.

Hershey Bears gained two points on the American Hockey League's leaders—Cleveland Barons — over the week-end by winning their two scheduled games, while the leaders played only one encounter when they defeated Buffalo Bisons 4-2 Saturday night. Buffalo drew 2-2 with Indianapolis last night.

Leading the Eastern section of the circuit, Bears walloped Providence Reds 10-1 Saturday night and 3-2 last night. Indianapolis defeated Pittsburg Hornets 3-2 Saturday in the loop's other scheduled encounter.

Bears now have a total of 49 points—four behind the Barons—stacked up from 22 victories and five draws in 35 starts.

It was the eighth straight victory for Barons, when they defeated Bisons. Earl Bartholome shot two of the goals and Tommy Burlington, the league's leading scorer, got one assist to increase his total to 52 points.

Five Goals in First.

On Saturday Bears rapped five goals in the Providence net in the first period, while Reds collected their lone tally. Fred Hergert, Bud Jarvis, Billy Moe, and Gaston Gauthier, each scored a pair of tallies. Pat Patterson and Peggy O'Neill scored the other two.

Last night Hershey took the lead in the second period of the home-and-home series against Reds. Gauthier and Hergert tallied after Jack Toupin had put Reds in front during the first minute of the frame.

Tony Demers scored the second Red goal after Gauthier tallied the third for Hershey during the final minute of play.

In the Indianapolis-Pittsburg encounter Saturday night, Bill Thompson won the game for Caps when he flicked in two senational goals within 15 seconds, breaking a 1-1 deadlock, in the final period. Tony Hemmerling scored the first counter for Hornets and Johnny Sorrell retaliated.

Last night the Caps held Bisons to a 2-2 draw. Nakina Smith and Thurier for Bisons in the opening frame, while Eldred Kobussen scored for Caps. In the final frame Winky Smith tied the count.

Chicago Black Hawks were the biggest winners in the N.H.L. over the week-end. They pulled off two victories to climb up into fourth spot and send the wrecked Boston Bruins down to fifth; incidentally in doing so they stopped the winning streak of the Detroit Red Wings and prevented Jack Adams' team from taking over undisputed possession of the second slot. The Black Hawks invaded Toronto Saturday night and gave the Leafs their third home licking in a row, defeating Hap Day's men 4 to 3 and then returned home Sunday to hand the Red Wings the first loss they have sustained since Coo Dion took over the goal-keeping duties. The largest N.H.L. crowd of the season, 18,261 fans watched the Hawks come from behind to win out with two third period goals. Canadiens won their 23rd victory of the season before New York's second largest crowd of the winter by defeating the Rangers 5 to 3 while Red Wings had no trouble winning their Saturday night game with the Bruins 6 to 1.

In spite of the mild weather the Public School Hockey League had been able to carry out its program according to schedule until Saturday morning. By that time however the thaw had left the C.G.E. cushion unfit to be used and so the weekly triple-header had to be postponed. The card included what looked like the feature game of the schedule, a battle between the two leading teams, the King George and King Edward outfits. Saturday's games will go until the end of the schedule and the three games billed for the coming Saturday will be played on that date as follows: King George vs. Central, 9 a.m. Queen Alexandra vs. King Edward, 10 a.m. and Queen Mary vs. Prince of Wales, 11 a.m. The postponement may set the playoffs back a week. The first and second teams at the end of the regular schedule will meet for the league championship.

They Get Around

Those 'rasslers certainly get around. The other night in Boston when Champion Joe Louis refereed and thousands were turned away one of the battlers in the main bout was none other than Gentleman Jack Claybourne the Black Comet who figured in half a dozen exciting battles here during the current season. And when Whipper Billy Watson invaded Champion Wild Bill Longson's territory Friday night and wrestled in St. Louis his opponent was Doc Tony Felice who has been seen in action at Brock Street Arena two or three times since last summer. The Whip took that one in less than five minutes and evidently made a real impression for a St. Louis story says: "Whipper Billy Watson, handsome 215-pound Toronto wrestler, produced a new hold—the "Canadian Avalanche"—here last night to defeat Tony Felice, 230, of Brooklyn, in a wrestling match that was scheduled for 30 minutes, but lasted less than five. Watson caught Felice in a leg lock, whirled him around and flattened him by falling bodily upon Felice's chest at 4.51 of the scheduled one-fall, 30-minute-time-limit bout. After being awarded the match, the Toronto grappler provided merriment for the fans by tossing Felice to his shoulders and carting him off like a sack of wheat to the dressing room."

The response which greeted the invitations for the 17th annual Ontario Bonspiel—which opens in Toronto on Monday Feb. 14 and continues throughout that week — has been astounding. Originally the maximum number of entries was set at 100, the same as in recent years, but when that number was passed during the first week in January, the limit was raised to 128. This number was soon passed and at present there is a waiting list of 27 rinks. Altogether the entries of 161 rinks were received but six of these have been forced to withdraw for various reasons and their places have been filled. A number of other would-be competitors have been informed that there is no possibility of them being included in the draws for the two primary events, the Royal York and Birks-Ellis-Ryrie trophies, which will be made next week. Of the 128 rinks that have been accepted one quarter are from the four Toronto clubs. Granites and Torontos each have nine, High Park has eight and Royal Canadians six. There are 11 rinks entered from five U.S. clubs. Detroit leads the way to the invaders with five entries while Wauwatosa, Wis., has three. Nine Northern Ontario clubs have a total of 17 entries, including five from Kirkland Lake and three each from Chapleau, McIntyre and Sault Ste. Marie. There are 68 entries from 41 O.C.A. clubs outside Toronto.

Bill Tells Tall One

Bill Steer, formerly of The Examiner's advertising department and now with the Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer has talked himself smack into the centre of Ken Colling's sport column. Here it is: "Last week we published a story regarding Walter Belair and Bob Hart playing a round of golf up at the Bay of Quinte Country Club, but apparently playing golf in January is an old story. The latest golf yarn we hear comes, from Billie Steer, games captain at the Bay of Quinte Club. Bill says Ben Ogilvie, local golfer, has played golf every Sunday since last April. (Here's another for Jack McKeown down in Florida.) Then Steer comes along with the father of all golf stories, and he tells it for the gospel. "The other Sunday, when the streets were covered with ice, Joe Legault donned his skates off Zwick's Island and played golf on the Bay of Quinte ice from there to the Bay of Quinte Golf Club dock, a distance of about two miles. Joe took exactly 3 strokes to cover the entire distance and wore his skates over the route," relates Mr. Steer."

"Several conclusions reached recently," says an R.C.A.F. spokesman, "have been the result of too rigid interpretation of Air Force policy by newspapers." The spokesman was referring to recent announcements concerning sport and we suggest a simple solution. The Air Force should make their releases clear enough so that EVEN a sports writer could interpret them with any degree of accuracy, says Jack Koffman in the Ottawa Citizen. It would help if they clarified them to the extent that their own Public Relations Office—the contact between newspapers and the R.C.A.F.—could understand what was in the air. Most of the time, in the swarm of releases on athletic policies, the Public Relations men—both Army and Air Force—have been willing to co-operate but unable to help. They are quick to admit, the folks who are supposed to straighten it all out, that they themselves are mystified. Right now, the sports situation for the services—outside of hockey—is up in the air. Hockey is mentioned specifically because this sport, so far as organized competition with or against civilian clubs, is out for service personnel. But there isn't any one person who can say in so many words that basketball has been given a go-ahead signal or a rap over the knuckles. Latest word from Air Force P.R.O. office is to the effect that, where it is possible, R.C.A.F. participation will be encouraged.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—Showing just how far some baseball executives will go for players this year, Atlanta's Earl Mann, who recently signed 10 players in Cuba, encounted one prospect whose father wasn't sure his boy would be well fed "up north" . . . So Mann, who dislikes highly seasoned food, set out to show him that Georgians could stow away all their share of Cuban grub. . . . Earl manfully ate all he could, then stowed away a few "extra helpings" in his pocket. . . . And up at Bear Mountain last week when Michael Martin, four-year-old son of the inn manager, turned up in a baseball suit marked "Dodgers," the scribes claimed they saw Branch Rickey reaching for a blank contract.

Chicago's High Scoring Trio Leads Team To Two Big Wins

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Without probing into the motives which prompted Lester Patrick to place Clint (Snuffy) Smith on the open market last fall, there can be no doubt today that the New York manager's asking price was slightly conservative. For Smith, a $3,500 investment, has given Chicago Black Hawks a $1,000,000 forward line.

Apparently all washed up after several brilliant seasons with Rangers, Smith has clicked at Chicago. Fitted at centre between Doug. Bentley and Bill Mosienko, the trio has bagged 61 goals in 32 games, more than half the club total of 121 and tops for any combination in the circuit.

During the week-end the threesome scored four of seven Chicago goals as the Hawks defeated Detroit Red Wings 3-2 at home after taking a 4-3 decision from Maple Leafs on Toronto ice Saturday. The double victory boosted their victory string to four straight and gave them a one-point lead over Boston's fifth-place Bruins.

First Loss in Nine Games

Defeat interrupted Detroit's undefeated streak at nine games and cost the champions a chance to snap their second-place deadlock with Leafs, an impasse achieved Saturday when the Wings quelled Bruins 6-1. Veteran Syd Howe scored his 200th goal in Major League competition with the first of two scores against the injury-smitten Bruins, who borrowed Jimmy Franks from Detroit to replace ailing Bert Gardiner in goal. Mud Bruneteau (2), Carl Liscombe and Flash Hollett contributed the other Detroit tallies. Buzz Boll save Boston from a shut-out 81 sceconds from the end.

Montreal Canadiens made the race appear more of a runaway than ever Sunday, stretching their league lead to 8½ games by scoring their 23rd victory in 32 games, 5-3 at the expense of Rangers. It was Rangers 25th defeat. A first-period melee resulted in majors for the four principal combatants—Ott Heller and Bob (Killer) Dill of Rangers and Maurice Richard and Mike McMahon of Canadiens.

Watson Scored Two

Phil Watson scored two goals against his former team-mates but suffered a cut forehead and a badly bruised left eye when struck by a butt end.

Chicago used different tactics. Except for a brief stretch in the second period, they were always ahead against Toronto, while they were forced to come from behind against Detroit Sunday. Adam Brown and Bruneteau gave Detroit a 2-0 lead before Mush March scored his second week-end goal mid-way through the second period. Bentley and Johnny Gottselig scored less than five minutes apart early in the third to thrill 18,261 paid admissions, possibly an all-time league record. It was Conny Dion's first defeat since he assumed Detroit netminding responsibilities seven games ago.

Falcons Defeated Port Colborne Recs

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 31—Port Colborne Recs were four-way losers here Saturday night against St. Catharines Falcons, in their O.H.A. Junior "A" return game.

Ports lost the game, 7-2, a chance to tie the Saints for second place in Group 2. They also lost the services of their ace winger, Bill Simpell, who left the game at 5:57 of the first period. They also lost a heated argument with Referee Ken Holmshaw over a decision. That cost Defenseman Pipe Piper a minor and misconduct, and a later one on an alleged off-side goal.

Modere (Mud) Bruneteau, Detroit, who collected two tallies when Red Wings whipped Bruins 6-1, Saturday night.

Phil Watson, Canadiens, who chalked up two counters, one of them unassisted, when Montreal defeated Rangers 5-3 last night.

Ab Demarco, Rangers, who scored two of the New York tallies.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.— (CP). — When Toronto Maple Leafs returned home after that 2-2 tie with Canadiens in Montreal, Coach Hap Day gave the newspapers a terrific blast against Referee Bill Chadwick. Hap didn't like any part of Chadwick's "weak-kneed" officiating. The "gag rule" has, in truth, become properly ungagged....An all-Chinese line is playing juvenile hockey in Lucknow, Ont. They are the brothers A., B. and G. Chin.... Pittsburg plans a big new rink and may return to the N.H.L. after the war.

Across Canada.

Bowling is booming in Moose Jaw, Sask., where more than 1,400 are competing in organized leagues.... The Fort William Hurricane-Rangers Junior Hockey Club sent a $25 cheque to city council as a contribution to a fund for recreational memorial building after the war... Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Navy will play an exhibition hockey game in Windsor Feb. 18 to raise funds for navy athletic equipment in Windsor....An outstanding football star with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs and later a Belleville, Ont., physician, Capt. E. G. (Kewpie) Kennedy is serving with the Medical Corps in the Mediterranean area.

Incidentally.

Hockey players are so scarce in the U.S. now that the other night John Thomas, owner of the Brooklyn rink, had to put on a uniform with Jamaica Hawks so a game might go on....Perk Galbraith, old-time Boston hockey star, now is running a roller rink in Minneapolis.... Montreal Canadiens' defence star, Glen Harmon, hasn't practised with the team all season because he is too busy on his war job....Ottawa Commandos are not doing too well since the army hockey ban cost services of Joe Cooper, Wilf Field, Alex Shibicky, Jake Brunning, Ab Barnes, Walt Murray and Bobby Copp.

Bracken Rink Wins Bonspiel

QUEBEC, Jan. 31 (CP) — Visiting rinks, outnumbered 28 to 23 by their local hosts in the 31st International Curling Bonspiel, carried off the lion's share of prizes in the four-day competition which ended Saturday night.

Big winner of the spiel was a Winnipeg rink originally skipped by John Bracken, the Progressive Conservative Leader, which won both the Holt Renfrew Trophy and the Centenary Trophy, the latter in a playoff open only to rinks from outside Quebec Province.

When Mr. Bracken left Quebec Friday night, Gordon Hudson took charge of the Westerners and skipped them to an 11-2 victory in the Holt Renfrew finals over H. W. McGerrigle's Quebec Victoria rink and to a 13-4 win in the international playoff finals over a Bathurst, N.B., crew led by D. P. Connolly.

FO. W. H. Oakes of Ninette, Man., joined Hudson, John Dutton and A. E. Fidler on the Winnipeg rink after Mr. Bracken's departure.

The British Consols Trophy, emblematic of the Provincial Granites championship, went to McGerrigle's rink, which took a 15-3 decision from W. E. Thompson and his men from Montreal St. George, while R. B. Whyte's Quebec Curling Club four downed J. P. Fortin's Jacques Cartier rink 13-7 in an all-local finals match for the Citadel Trophy.

In an intermediate playoff, open to rinks eliminated in the first round of the international and Quebec Province playdowns, C. H. Handley's Quebec rink won 12-6 over the Saint John Thistle rink of J. F. Aske.

Quebec Victoria rinks lost out in finals matches for three other prizes, Skip J. H. Kent of Bathurst winning 10-9 over R. C. Cream for the Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy, W. S. Tomlinson of Port Arthur, Ont., 14-13 over Dr. J. M. Elliott for the Chateur Trophy and Emmett Smith of Bourlamaque, Que., 13-9 over C. B. Bignell for the Price Brothers' Shield.

Brantford Lions Edge Out Galt 7-6

GALT, Jan. 31—Three goals in succession by Jack Jeffrey gave Brantford Lions a 7-6 O.H.A. Junior "A" overtime victory over Kists here Saturday night before a pleased audience of over 1,700. Jeffrey tied it up in the third period, then in the overtime, flashed the red light twice within 15 seconds. On all his goals he was assisted by Ray Powell.

It was a thrilling game, fast, clean, and with some smart passing plays by both sides. Ron Crone in the Brantford nets was a big factor in beating the locals. Davis also got three goals for the Lions.

Dukes Are Beaten 6-5 In Hamilton

HAMILTON, Jan. 31 — Coming from behind a three-goal deficit, Hamilton's junior puck team defeated Marlboros here Saturday night, 6-5, and strengthened their hold on third place in Group 1 race of the O.H.A. junior series.

The winners led at the end of the first session, 2-1, but the 700-odd in attendance saw Marlboros run in four straight goals in the second, and take what looked like a safe lead, only to have Hamilton bounce back with as many in a row to take the verdict.

The play of both clubs was far below good junior calibre, but it was spirited enough to amuse the best turnout here since the opening of the season. Al Shewchuk's desire to trip opposing players did not help the Marlboro cause any as he suffered four penalties for this offense, and Hamilton ran in two goals while he was in the hoosegow. For the losers the work of James and Malto stood out, with Thompson turning in a fair game on defense. Brown, Tomiuk, Comfort and Stewart looked best for Hamilton, with Little in the nets being a very important factor in the victory.

WEEK-END FIRES.

Considerable damage was caused at the home of Howard Stinson, 16 Grandview avenue, early Sunday morning when hot ashes deposited in the shed adjacent to the house started a fire that burned down the shed and caused some damage to the house before firemen arrived on the scene to extinguish the flames. Asleep at the time the fire caught hold, Mr. Stinson was awakened at 7 o'clock by his dog's barking. Three chimney fires also occurred between Saturday evening and this morning, the first at 7.10 p.m. Saturday at 263 Engleburn Place, home of W. J. Williams. On Sunday at 5.20 p.m. an alarm was caused at the Simcoe street warehouse of Canada Packers, followed this morning at 930 a.m. by a chimney fire at 485 Sherbrooke street, home of Mrs. T. Kennedy.

Langley, K.C. in police court today. Inspector Reid said that the accused had been bothering a girl by trying to get her to ride in his automobile.

W.C.T.U. GIFT

It's surprising the number of people who give us things and say 'don't mention my name'" Louis Yeotes remarked today to the Examiner. "'But we can acknowledge a heavy box of used clothing and hand-knit mittens which the Greek Relief Fund has received from the Womens Christian Temperance Union. Some of the members of that association collected the clothing, made any repairs that were necessary, pressed and packed the articles, and the Greek people of Peterborough greatly appreciate the kind thoughts of the women and men of Peterborough who have donated a large supply of good clothing and also those others who gave money."

Impound Car For 3 Months

Arrested on John street Saturday night after his automobile had collided with three parked cars, John Dolinak, 12 High street, pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning to a charge of drunken driving.

After Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., had stated that he would be satisfied with the minimum penalty, Magistrate Langley sentenced Dolinak to seven days in jail and issued an order to the police that the accused's car should be impounded for three months.

T. J. Carley, K.C., who appeared for Dolinak said that the accused had been working steadily at the Brewery Warehouse and that his employers gave him a good reputation. This was his first offence and the damage done was not extensive.

The accused was taken into custody Saturday night by Officers C. J. McGillen and Harold Mesley on John street after a soldier who had witnessed a series of collisions in which the accused's car was involved had taken the car keys away from the driver.

Dolinak's automobile first came into contact with a parked machine in front of 529 King street, owned by J. J. Dorris. The it travelled further along King street and collided with another parked car, owned by Capt. L. Zacks. Finally after turning on to John street Dolinak's car hit still another parked automobile on that street, owned by Major James Wood.

Capacity Crowd Hears R.C.A.M.C. Band

The R.C.A.M.C. Band under the energetic direction of Albert Croasdale, WO. 1 from Camp Borden, brought a capacity audience to its feet Sunday night at the Collegiate as they presented a program ranging from the "Light Cavalry Overture" to a popular arrangement of "Night and Day," and the British War Victims' Fund collected on their appreciation.

One of the most delightful numbers on the well balanced program was "In A Monastery Garden," one which is not generally associated with band music, since it requires a delicate touch and shading. The quiet measures of the first section gradually swelled to a quickened tempo, and the members of the band added the soft chanting of the priests.

Novelty numbers rank high in the repertoire of this group. A spirited Cossack dance under the title of "March Adolphe" was one one of the concert hits. The yells contributed once more by some of the Band accompanied by the swiftly moving Slavic strains was a fine portrayal of the blood quickening Cossack music, which seldom leaves a listener unmoved. A Pageantry Review, Parts 2 and 3, was a medley of military tunes which included some old favorites, "Grenadier Guards," "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," "The Campbells Are Coming" and "The Bonnets of Bonny Dundee."

Trend of the Times

One of the newer ventures by the band was the introduction of a popular piece "Night and Day" arranged by Bdsmn. Louis Litowitz. While it was described as revolutionary by the Bandmaster, it made a decided hit with the audience. It served to demonstrate their ability as a smooth playing dance band, in addition to their other talents. Their comic presentation consisted of "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf" in which every section of the band was featured.

Contrasts were given in the numbers "Finlandia", "Humoresque" and "Light Cavalry Overture." The first movement of "Finlandia," portrayed the grandeur of that little country, with its snow capped mountains, and the second section, familiar to all music lovers, breathed a prayer, with instruments muted for the soft tones. Again with "Humoresque", what might have been a clumsy number was skillfully handled by the 25 musicians, who proved themselves adaptable.

Miss June Shields of Mount Pleasant, guest soloist sang "The Lord Is My Sheperd" by Liddle and "When Birds Go North Again", by Willeby. The second number was particularly well suited to Miss Shields' high sweet voice.

The band owes a great deal of its success to the capable direction of WO. Croasdale. His explicit directing leaves no confusion in the minds of his men as to exactly what he is going after in expression and the results show the time and training he has expended on them.

Does Good Job

Acting as chairman, H. L. Garner, paid tribute to the work done by Mr. Mann in organizing the Peterborough British War Victims' Fund, which has sent $73,000 to help bombed out civilians in war torn Britain. He stated that in the future, this Fund would serve as a monument to Mr. Mann, who labors faithfully each day without remuneration to get the money through. Mr. Garner also explained, that when a dollar was donated, the total amount went overseas. After his appeal, those present made the largest contribution ever taken for the fund at a concert, $126.47.

The Camp Borden Band, which will be spending its time between Camp Borden and the Peterborough Centre, was formed in 1940, and their work is a full time job. It is made up of musicians from small town bands, and some with wider experience. One of their earlier jobs was mounting guard at Parliament Hill in Ottawa.

WOUNDED IN ITALY—Pte. James Mahoney, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mahoney, 525 Patterson Street, has been reported wounded in Italy while fighting with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Before enlisting he was employed with the Raybestos Company.

FAMILY SERVING—Sgt. Herbert Vyse of the Veterans' Guard at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa, is shown here with his two children, who have followed his example and gone into uniform. Pte. Teresa Vyse, with the C.W.A.C., is stationed at Barriefield Camp near Kingston, and her brother, AB. Donald Vyse, was aboard H.M.C.S. Snowberry when it helped sink a U-boat in the Bay of Biscay. Mrs. H. Vyse lives at 386 Burnham Street.

Sgt. D. L. Pocock Said Missing

A young Peterborough flier, Sgt. Douglas Layne Pocock, a veteran of many raids over Germany, has been reported missing, according to word received by Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Pocock, 740 Water street.

Sgt. Pocock had been attending Regiopolis College in Kingston when he enlisted in October, 1942, and after graduating, he went overseas in August, 1943. This boy was not well known here because he received most of his education in Vancouver, coming East only when his father was transferred to the head office, Peterborough, of the Raybestos Company.

One of the best descriptions of a raid over enemy territory was written by this airman and appeared in The Examiner, January 15, though not under his name. In it he described his own emotions, which are those of thousands of others, during and after the raid, before landing at English dromes.

Post Imagination

In one o. his recent press stories on the experiences of the Allied airmen, Ernest Pyle remarked that the layman at home has not the slightest idea of the intensity of enemy anti-aircraft activity nearly all the way across Germany. The air, he wrote, is full of bursting steel and lights through which the Allied bombers have to fly as evasively as they can to their targets.

In his letter Sergeant Pocock mentioned the thrill of "having all hell break loose on you" and "thousands of searchlights poking their ruddy fingers at you....to run the Ruhr gauntlet....to bless and kiss the lovely, beautiful, magnificent channel....to breathe again....to timidly ask if everyone's sane.... then you relax and look at the stars and watch the puffy clouds smiling at you when a while back they were vomiting death and fire....to land and give thumbs up....to crawl up and humbly kiss your plane (who never lets you down)....to go into breakfast and have a smoke and act as calm as ever, when you are seething inside....Oh, me, I do get carried away, but is it not a happy way to live, for your crew, to die if necessary, not for them, but with them, in the cause we are fighting for."

Those are the graphic, colorful words of the kind of Canadian boys who are on the flying line in the cross-channel raids, and they convey more tensely than did the Pyle story the thoughts and reflex actions of these young men as they zoom through enemy fire to perform their mission right onto the target in the face of the air full of danger and death.

Park St. Church Reviews Successful Year

The annual congregational and business meeting of the Park Street Baptist Church was held on Friday evening with a good attendance of members on hand, and the Pastor, Rev. E. J. Whan in the chair.

Reports from the Financial Secreary, N. Hamilton, and the treasurer, Ray Dixon, were very encouraging, and showed that the church, even with extra expense of renovating and re-decorating the church parsonage, was able to carry forward a small balance to commence the present year.

The report of the Church Clerk, read by W. Armitage, showed that there also had been an increase in membership during the year.

The report of the Ladies' Aid was also very encouraging, the success of the "Cent-a-Day" Offering being very gratifying, and they were able to assist very materially with the decorating and new equipment for the parsonage. In addition to this they also voted $150.00 towards the New Organ Fund, and carried forward a substantial balance to this year.

The Sunday School reports were given by Mrs. J. K. Benson, treasurer, and Clarence Corbett, superintendent, and showed progress in this department of recent date, and in a splendid condition financially, and an invitation was extended by the Superintendent to all those who are not attending Sunday School to come along and join with them in making the School grow.

M. Dunkley, chairman of the Deacons' Board, and also of the War Services' Committee of the church, reported for these bodies. He expressed appreciation to those who had so nobly co-operated with him in the work of the Board, and also in the work of the War Services Committee, which had made it possible for parcels being forwarded to all of the boys and girls overseas and in Canada, who had gone from the Church and Sunday School. Regret was expressed that casualties had to be reported among the 38 who have enlisted from the church. One is reported killed in action, one missing, one wounded and one seriously injured in a motor cycle accident in England.

The Pastor, Rev. E. J. Whan, who commenced his ministry on December 19th, expressed his pleasure at being with the people of Park Street Baptist Church, and said that he could not give any report of retrospection, but he anticipated a time of fellowship and advancement in the work and life of the church.

G. H. Batley, chairman of the Finance Board, reported for that Board, and also presented the Budget for the year 1944.

H. B. Smith, chairman of the Trustees, reported on the extensive work done on the Parsonage and thanked the Ladies' Aid for their assistance in accomplishing this.

Reports were also heard from the Senior and Young Women's Mission Circles, and the Helping Hand and the Gleaner's Bible Classes.

Frank Barrie reported for the Nominating Committee and presented the following slate of officers for this year as follows; the slate being elected on vote of members.

Man Is Fined $40 For Having Liquor

"That's rather expensive," remarked Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court today after he had fined Norman McConkey, Brock street, $40 and $2.50 costs on a charge of having liquor, acquired on his permit, in an illegal place.

Constable Harold Mesley, called to give evidence, swore that when the police visited the home of Mrs. Marion Vincent on a recent Sunday they had found McConkey there and also a bottle of liquor, unopened.

"Whose liquor was it?" asked Crown Attorney McElderry.

"It was Norman McConkey's."

"How do you know?" inquired Magistrate Langley.

"He said that it was his and that he had got it on his permit."

Neither side was ready to go ahead today in a charge against Mrs. Marion Vincent of illegal sale of liquor and that case was enlarged for a week.

Fatal Parole

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 31 —(AP.)—A Cambridge father who was on parole from a mental hospital stabbed two of his children to death with a butcher's knife yesterday, then committed suicide by drinking poison. Police found Irene Brennan, 2½ years old, and her five-months-old sister, Margaret, lying in a pool of blood. The father was found lying in an alley.

FIGHTS ON SNOWBERRY — AB. Stewart Cummisky, brother of Mrs. L. Davidson, 694 Water Street, was a member of the crew of H.M.C.S. Snowberry when it took part in the Bay of Biscay fight. He is the son of Pte. A. V. Cummisky, Veterans' Guard, at Kingston, and Mrs. Cummisky at Westwood. Before enlisting, he was employed at the C.G.E.

Park St. Honors Memory Of Cpl. L. Campbell

A memorial service to honor the memory of Cpl. Lionel Grant Campbell, killed in action two days before Christmas while fighting with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Italy, was held at Park Street Baptist church on Sunday. Rev. E. J. Whan, newly inducted pastor of the congregation, conducted the service, and he was assisted by Capt. S. Profitt, Protestant padre of the Peterborough Training Centre.

The church was filled by worshippers come to pay fitting tribute to a member of their congregation who sacrificed his life for the noble cause of Allied victory, and floral tributes in profusion decorated the church. Lt. Edgerton of Toronto, an accomplished singer stationed at the local training centre, sang a solo number, and the full choir sang "Crossing The Bar."

In his memorial sermon, Rev. Whan chose as his text the fourteenth verse of the fourth chapter of James—"What Is Your Life?" He spoke of the different attitudes to life and the challenge presented to Christians to discover relative values by which to guide their existence.

Auburn School Gives Aid To War Victims

One of the schools which took part to a greater than average extent in the raising of money to assist the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the local and district fund during last year, again takes the spotlight in doing work for the fund, and thus demonstrate that they too having set their hand to a good work, are continuing to do their part in this particular war effort, until the need no longer exists.

In this, as in all other similar features, there must of course be some leadership, and in this instance it can be ascribed to the credit of Miss Lena Dewart the teacher at Auburn School, who all during last year kept this humanitarian need to the forefront, and raised during that period, the nice sum of $82.87, through concerts and social evenings in the schoolhouse.

Continuing this good work, a similar event was held on Friday, January 21, from which the sum of $10.31 was realized, and it appears in this day's list of receipts.

In this, a goodly number of the parents and friends in the community assisted by their attendance, and all report having a splendid social evening which included the serving of a lunch, all of which serves an excellent purpose in addition to the raising of money to do such good in Britain, for it creates an atmosphere of goodwill between the home and the school, which perhaps could not be gained in any other more suitable way.

C.G.E. Award Gives Help

The Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. has a system whereby awards are given to employees who can offer suggestions of value to the company in the operation of anything pertaining to the maintenance or operation of anything in the plant itself.

Suggestion No. 11,099 (which from its numerical number shows how widely this has been utilized by the employees) was sent in by the girls of the Armature department, and concerned the lowering of the heater in their washroom.

This suggestion was approved by the committee for that purpose for which the girls were awarded the sum of $2, and having apparently by virtue of this award done a good turn in the plant, they then continue their good work by handing it over to the fund, from whence it will go on its way to do still further good to those stricken through air raids in the front line in Britain.

One personal donation from "A Friend, receipt No. 3429" is listed today, of which there could in a city of this size be a considerably greater number did people but stop to think how fortunate those who live in this land of plenty are, and realize how thankful all should be for the heroic stand made by people in the homeland, when they alone stood between this country and an invasion by the enemy.

finds out to his cost and it is fear of being driven into bankruptcy by tradesmen and servants that drives many a man into taking a second wife after the departure of his dear Maria. Yet he had never thought of Maria as a financial wizard until he tried wrestling with the household bills himself.

Women Close-Fisted Financiers.

In reality, there is no truth in the old theory that women are spendthrifts. On the contrary, they are much more likely to be close-fisted than men are. When a man sees a thing he wants, he buys it if he has the price. It is women who shop around from place to place where they can get a $5 article that has been marked down to $4.98, and who walks blocks and blocks to save a few cents on a head of cabbage.

It is women who haggle over pennies; who refuse to give extortionate tips and to pay outrageous prices for restaurant dinners and to go to places of amusement. The night clubs with astronomical cover charges would have to shut up shop if they depended on women for their patronage.

Few men ever lay up any money or begin to get ahead until after they are married. Nine times out of ten it is the wife who is the Yale lock on her hubsand's pocketbook and who separates him from his borrowing friends and the grafting relatives who have preyed upon him.

If women heretofore have given less evidence of their business talents than men, it is because they have devoted their efforts to making their husbands' earnings go as far as possible, instead of going into business themselves. But the war has changed all of that. Mama has become money-earner, and it may be that ten or twenty years from now women will head great firms and that the Morgans or the Fords or the Rockefellers of that day will wear petticoats.

Former stars of Perdue, Wisconsin, Texas, Detroit and Columbia universities will be in the lineup.

Curling News
By HERB. MARTIN

"The best laid schemes o' mice and men,
Gang aft a-gley,
And lea's nought but grief and pain,
For promised joy."

It is just about ten years ago since the competition for the "Ontario Ladies' Tankard" was held in Peterborough. And ten years is a long time to wait and even after waiting that long, up until Saturday night it was doubtful if it would be played here at all this winter. The weather man has put a real crimp in our curling schedule and from now on we'll just have to double our dates and make the best of it.

But, however, in spite of everything the ladies' tankard will be played here this week, only it will be held on Thursday and Friday instead of Tuesday and Wednesday, as was first intended.

This was decided late Saturday night when an emergency meeting was called by the different committees.

It was felt that if the weather would turn somewhat colder that good ice would be available for the later part of the week, and then the committees also took into consideration the extensive preparations that the ladies have made to entertain the visitors.

So, after all, maybe it will work out OK. However, here's hoping.

Those at the meeting were: R. P. Best, president Ontario Curling Association; Mrs. W. E. Thomas, vice-president Ladies' Curling Club; Mrs. G. Wood, Mrs. V. Selkirk, Mrs. J. Green and Mrs. F. Hall.

It's more than likely that we shall be curling this evening.

Old Honus Signs National League Contract For 33rd Season; Coaching Pittsburgh Team

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31—(AP)—Squat, bandy-legged Honus Wagner, a terror on the base paths and a scourge to pitchers during 21 years at shortstop in the National League, returned his signed contract to the Pittsburg Pirates Saturday—almost on the eve of his 70th birthday.

For the white-haired veteran, who won eight league batting crowns and stole 720 bases during his career, the contract was his 33rd in the "big time," his 12th as coach for the Pirates, for whom he played from 1900 to 1917.

"I guess that's more contracts than anybody now active on a major league playing field ever signed, except Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletic," he said.

Wagner, one of the first of baseball's greats to be voted into baseball's hall of fame, and whose diamond feats still decorate the record books of the National League, came out of retirement in 1933 to become a coach for the Pirates.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK
—By J. R. Scott

Gloom-filled Oration Given By Hitler

LONDON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Adolf Hitler told his bomb-groggy people Sunday they faced "'the hardest task' imaginable" this year and exhorted them to persevere so that the fight may "end in the biggest victory of the German Reich in spite of all the devilish tricks of our opponents."

"From this fight can emerge only one victor and this will be either Germany or Soviet Russia," he warned in a speech broadcast by Berlin radio and recorded by The Associated Press.

"German victory means preservation of Europe and a Soviet victory Europe's annihilation."

Rage Against Russia

Hitler's address, made within 24 hours after the Allies' greatest daylight aerial assault upon Germany, was a subdued, gloom-filled oration marking the 11th anniversary of his rule. He scarcely mentioned the military situation and devoted almost all attention to his old thesis that National Socialist Germany stood as Europe's only bulkwark against the "Bolshevik colossus," Soviet Russia. He uttered his usual dire imprecations against "international Jewry."

Hitler said: "After London provoked this war, England is now engulfed in events above her strength and her power in Europe is definitely at an end.

"The issue of this war will be Europe or bolshevism."

He asserted Britain already has lost her position on the Continent and declared after the war the question which would face both Britain and the United States "is not whether they will be able to fight bolshevism but whether they will be able to defend themselves against bolshevism in their countries."

He declared: "The hypocritical talk of helping smaller nations no longer deceives any one. Only German can help the smaller nations. Without her they will be swallowed by bolshevism.

Planned In London

"If Germany were not victorious the fate of Europe would be definitely sealed within a short time.

"In the fifth year of this war, the reason and ideas of this great world war are clear to every one. The time has passed in which one could have the impression that it is merely a series of quarrels which England has started to keep the balance on the Continent.

"Those people who planned the war in London are today driven to fight.

"No matter how this war will end England has played her last part on the Continent.

"The attempt of our enemies to bring about the collapse of the German people and the Reich by high explosive and incendiary bombs in the end will solidify their socialist unity and will create that hard State which has been slated by Providence to shape European history during the coming centuries" he declared.

DNB, the German news agency, said the speech was relayed from Hitler's headquarters, "for the first time."

Notice of the speech was given to the German people only five hours in advance. Trained monitors here who have heard Hitler's voice frequently said it was calm and firm.

Rev. W. E. Smith Missionary Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (Special). — A medical missionary for 40 years in the province of Szechuan, West China, Rev. William E. Smith, M. D., died at his home, St. Mary Street, Toronto, on Friday, in his 80th year. Dr. Smith was widely known and beloved throughout the Bay of Quinte Conference. Born at Kendal, in Durham County, he was one of 11 children of a widowed mother working a farm there. As a young man he became a general storekeeper at Elizabethville, later entering Albert College, Belleville, completing the course for the ministry of the Methodist Church at Victoria College, and was ordained in 1895, later graduating in medicine at Trinity College.

When his great friend, Dr Fred C. Stephenson, was prevented from going to the foreign field on account of health and remained at home to raise funds for the Forward Movement by which the Epworth League and Sunday Schools of the Methodist Church allocated the support of individual missionaries to districts, Dr. Smith became the Cobourg district missionary, which he remained throughout, and the first to be so allotted. During student days and while awaiting appointment he served as minister on the Frankford, Hall's Bridge, Epsom and Bancroft fields, and was married in 1895 to Miss Grace Olivia Young of Rockdale, near Havelock, where a sister, Miss Annie T. Young still lives.

Forced to Weave.

In a rich ministry at Jungshien, the "Glory" country, where he pioneered, and at Tzeliutsing, "the salt wells" more than any other he understood the Chinese people, adopting local customs in dress and food to get closer to the people. Three times the welter of national events drove him from the interior—in 1900 the Boxer Rebellion, in 1911 the Revolution, and a narrow escape from the firing squad at the hands of Communists in 1927. He was the founder of a Forward Missionary Movement for the native church. Maintaining throughout a close friendship with the Cobourg district, he was always a welcome speaker on his furlough. A memorable tribute was paid him by numerous friends at Port Hope on retirement and return to Canada in 1936. Mrs. Smith died in 1922 on arrival in Toronto from China where she had been long ill. He was married at Chentu, China, to Dr. Ada Speers, a medical missionary of the Women's Missionary Society, who was his co-worker until his retirement, and survives him, along with Dora, Mrs. J. D. Conover, Jean, Mrs. (Rev.) W A. Irwin, Miss Ethel and Captain Douglas, R.C.O.C., posted at Kingston on return from overseas, all of Toronto.

Active Interest.

Commemorating the lives of two greatly beloved workers is the Grace Young Smith Memorial Mission and the Della McCullough Memorial Kindergarten, Fushun City. The late Miss McCullough, Cobourg, was one of the most devoted supporters of Dr. Smith's work in the Cobourg area. Dr. Smith published "A Canadian Doctor in West China" in 1939, which outlines his life and work. He was the proud wearer of a Chinese decoration, and until a few weeks before his death attended the West China Club and college functions in Toronto.

The funeral took place in Toronto to-day, conducted by Rev. Dr. J. H. Arnup, secretary of the Foreign Missions of the United Church of Canada, and at the Necropolis.

50,000 Prisoners Taken In Philippines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—A review of official casualty reports indicates the Japanese probably captured at least 50,000 American and Filipino fighting men in the Philippines.

Of the total, approximately 22,331 were American soldiers, sailors and marines, 12,037 Philippine scouts, and the others members of the Philippine commonwealth army.

An exact count is impossible — reports did not come with any regularity from either Bataan or Corregidor during the last weeks of the fighting.

The single-seater plane came down in early evening, gasoline supply exhausted by its wandering in the fog, on the farm of Mrs. Albert Porter. Thomasburg is about 18 miles north of Belleville.

RECOGNIZE OPPORTUNITY

UNLESS YOU understand the structure and operation of a particular play, you cannot very well be expected to recognize your opportunity to make it. Such is the case with the repeated or "progressive" squeeze, whereby you make a player choose a disastrous discard from one of three suits, then use a card of the suit in which he has just discarded to put over a second squeeze between the two remaining suits.

East put his Q on the lead of the heart 7, and the A won. Able to count only 11 tricks, with the diamond finesse marked to lose, South decided his only chance was a two-time squeeze on East. So he promptly went after it, running the clubs. West made a bad decision. Deciding his hand was of no consequence except to make South think he was holding diamonds and that therefore the diamond finesse would work, he discarded first two hearts and then his three spades. Those spade discards, however, gave South his sole lease on life.

Prior to the last club, North also held two spades and three diamonds. South four spades, the heart J and diamond 9. East meanwhile kept three spades, the heart K and his two diamonds. If he tossed a spade on the last club, he would build two extra tricks there. If he threw a diamond, the A would drop the K and four tricks would be good in that suit. So he discarded his heart K.

South then discarded a spade and came to his hand with the spade A, to lay down the now good heart J, throwing a diamond from dummy. East was squeezed again. If he tossed a good spade, South could finish with two spades and the diamond A. So he threw off the diamond 2. Thereupon the diamond A dropped the K and the Q took the last trick.

If West had bid hearts and East spades, and East finally doubled his 5-diamonds, how should South play after the heart K lead?

Labor Minister Boosts Apprentice Plan

OTTAWA, Jan 31 — (CP) — Labor Minister Mitchell Announced Saturday a plan to provide financial assistance to the provinces to promote extension of apprenticeship training for ex-members of the armed forces and other civilians.

By Order-in-Council, $250,000 has been made available for distribution to the provinces in the present fiscal year, with the amount to be increased to $1,000,000 for later fiscal years.

The measure, the first Dominion assistance toward development of formal trade apprenticeship, states that while Government assistance is being provided apprenticeship is still the primary responsibility of industry.

Authority is given the Labor Minister to enter into agreements with the provinces for terms not exceeding 10 years. In cases where the provinces has not an apprenticeship Act or its equivalent, it will be required to introduce such legislation. The provinces will administer the program and will appoint an apprenticeship committee composed of equal representation of workers and employers with representatives of the Provincial Education and Labor Departments.

Training may be given to both men and women and in the case of ex-members of the forces the Dominion will bear the entire Government costs for men or women approved by the Minister of Pensions and Health. In other cases, costs will be shared equally between the Dominion, and the Provinces.

Mr. Mitchell said Government supervision of apprenticeship plans has been on a much smaller scale in Canada than in other British countries.

"It is important for the welfare of our industry as a whole, that a sufficient number of our young people in the post-war world should be given trade training of various sorts so that they may be among the most highly skilled workers in the world," he said.

Hepburn Favors Aussie System

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 31.—(CP).—Serious doubts that the C.C.F "nationalization" platform was the right answer to Canada's social and economic problems were cast Saturday by ex-Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn to the members of the Western Ontario Jersey Club at their annual meeting.

Mr. Hepburn, instead, favored a system similar to that put into force in pre-war Australia, where through a controlled currency and controlled spending, unemployment was ended as 18 million refugees walked the streets of North America.

At the same time Mr. Hepburn struck an optimistic note to Canadian livestock breeders with the flat statement that "you can't overproduce for years to come," and "nor for years will you face competition from Denmark for the British bacon markets."

"You must realize that we're going to find the occupied countries of Europe stripped by the German war machine. We face a tremendous job in feeding these," he said.

Mr. Hepburn complimented Federal Minister of Agriculture J. G. Gardiner for "maintaining the quality of bacon in the overseas markets," after criticizing him for statements on hog production requirements, statements which Mr. Hepburn claimed threw Canadian hog producers into confusion and resulted in "the liquidation of 25 per cent of all Canadian brood sows."

Dr. Hall Named Dean Of Medical School

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 31 (CP) — Appointment of Dr. G. E. Hall as dean of the faculty of medicine at University of Western Ontario, announced Saturday, crowns a brilliant academic career during which he became the only medical student at University of Toronto to pass in one year the more than 20 examinations qualifying him to enter the fourth and clincal year of the courses.

Dr. Hall, who at 36 directs the R.C.A.F. medical research unit at Ottawa with rank of group captain, hold's a bachelor's degree in agriculture from the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, a master's degree in biochemistry, a doctorate in physiology and a medical degree from University of Toronto. He was born at Lindsay.

He is believed to be the only non-flying R.C.A.F. officer to win the Air Force Cross, awarded him for "outstanding research in the field of training and operational flying."

To qualify for entrance into the fourth year of his medical course Dr. Hall "skipped" the first three years of the course and took a series of examinations, for many of which he studied in his spare time. He was permitted to do so only because his instructors felt it impossible for any student to pass them. After he did so, a ruling was issued that no other student could attempt them.

He was appointed research associate in the Department of Medical Research at University of Toronto's Banting Institute in 1935, won the Reeve Prize for "outstanding research" as a junior member of the staff in 1936, and in 1937 was appointed assistant professor of medical research, and in 1938 associate professor, and in 1939 full professor.

Before the present war broke out, the late Sir Frederick Banting, discoverer of Insulin, began research into aviation medicine with Dr. Hall at the University of Toronto. On the outbreak of war Dr. Hall joined the R.C.A.F. medical research unit, which has conducted extensive research into problems of high-altitude flying and provision of suitable clothing and equipment.

Much of the equipment devised by the unit has since been adopted by air forces of the United Nations.

Dr. Hall's new appointment carries with it the title of professor of medical research, and provides that he may continue in his present R.C.A.F. post until demobilization.

Ruthless Treatment Of Prisoners Hardens American Peace Terms

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The United States Government's determination to impose a just but pitiless peace on Japan has been hardened by the enemy's ruthless treatment of prisoners, it was learned today, and some ranking authorities are advocating a three-point program to strip the Japanese of their economic ability ever to make war again.

The main points of this program are:

1. Deprive the Japanese of all heavy industries which can be readily converted to munitions production.

2. Permit them to operate no merchant marine or commercial air fleets and to possess no ships larger than 1,000 tons capacity. This would limit their seafaring activities to fishing and small-scale trading.

3. Allow them to engage fully in the farming necessary to support their population.

Beyond these purely economic measures lie postwar measures regarding Japan on which the United States has already agreed with its Allies in the Pacific and Asia. These are to strip the Japs of their whole empire of conquest built up through half a century of aggression and to punish war criminals, such as military officials, responsible for the atrocities inflicted on British and American prisoners.

Release of information on the Philippine atrocities was one step in giving out factual, documented stories of the suffering which the Japanese have caused among groups of helpless people in their power. The stories have begun to come out in volume now largely because a majority of experts on Japan within the government finally agreed that the situation of prisoners still in Japanese hands is so bad it could hardly be worse and might eventually be improved by the force of outraged public opinion.

According to at least one line of thinking the Japanese should not be permitted to buy any more steel or other metals than is necessary to build, light, consumer-goods industries. They would have access to sea and air lines, since no nation can be permanently isolated from the rest of the world, but the ships and the planes would be owned and probably operated by friendly nations.

Those and similar conditions, under this plan, would be rigidly enforced until the Japanese people had so far broken away from the past that they could be trusted to assume a responsible and peaceful place in the world once more.

58th Anniversary

BONARLAW, Jan. 31.— (ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Barlow recently celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary. Fiery, Itching Toes and Feet

Here is a clean, stainless antiseptic oil now dispensed by chemists at trifling cost, that will do more to help you get rid of your trouble than anything you've ever used.

Its action is so powerfully penetrating that the itching is quickly stopped; and in a short time you are rid of that bothersome, fiery eczema. The same is true of Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum, Itching Toes and Feet—others irritating unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at McDermid & Jury and Lynch's Drug Store, or any modern drug store. It is safe to use—and failure in any of the ailments noted above is rare indeed.—(Advt.)

Lloyds Of London May Take Members

LONDON, Jan. 31—(CP).—Membership in Lloyd's — world-famous corporation specializing in marine insurance—may soon be made available to persons resident in the British Dominions, the Daily Sketch said today.

Terming the possibility "one of the most sensational pieces of city news in many years," the Sketch said "new members would be representative of big insurance interests in the Dominions."

The paper gave no further details concerning such new members.

It said there would be manifold advantages in such a step, "among the most important being the opening of the door to much closer cooperation between the maritime nations of the world."

13,000 Slaughtered

LONDON, Jan. 31 (CP) — More than 13,000 citizens of Earny, a town in Poland recently recaptured by the Red Army, were slain by the Germans, the Moscow radio said to-day. The broadcast, recorded by the Soviet Monitor, said the atrocities included "23 men killed in a Gestapo torture chamber, two Orthodox priests smothered in tar and burned to death on a bonfire, 1,000 youths driven away to slavery in Germany and 400 houses burned."

In attacking Brunswick and Hanover yesterday, hundreds of American heavy bombers rumbled through one of the most heavily defended air regions in the world. The bomber-gunners and escorting fighters downed 91 Nazi planes.

20 Bombers fail to Return.

A joint British-American communique said 20 United States heavy bombers and five Allied fighters failed to return yesterday from all operations, including the sweeps by British and Dominion light bombers and fighters over Northern France and Holland.

Allied guns knocked down an additional 12 enemy planes during these side forays, bringing the total bag for the day to 103.

By every indication, yesterday's American aerial task force at least equalled in size the record-breaking armada of more than 800 U.S. heavy bombers and an estimated 700 American fighters which plastered 1,800 tons of bombs on industrial Frankfurt Saturday.

Escorting American fighters yesterday bagged 45 German planes, setting a new record for the second day in a row. The previous high of 36 in one day was broken Saturday, when 42 were downed.

The latest two Berlin attacks set off new sheets of flame and gave the Germans little opportunity to extinguish the fires started last Thursday night when Allied bombers dropped approximately 1,500 tons in the raid that stands as the heaviest of all.

American Troops Invading Japan's Marshall Islands

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., Feb. 1.—(AP). — United States' troops have landed in the Marshall Islands and taken Rio, Kwajalein and have established beach-heads.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported in a communique to-day that Japanese are putting up strong opposition, but initial information indicates American casualties so far have been moderate.

This is the first time invasion has been attempted of any territory the Japanese held before the United States entered the war.

It was announced that a marine division had landed in the Aoi Island area. An infantry force landed in the Kwajalein Island area.

New Burma Road Goes Ahead

By PRESTON GROVER—Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, Feb. 1—(AP).—Fresh from a visit to the Ledo front in northern Burma, Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell told a press conference today that the reopening of a land route to China was a workable job and that the Chinese and Americans were fighting well to make it so. Stilwell conceived the project of building a road through the north Burma jungle to connect with the old Burma land route which formerly began at Rangoon, now in Japanese hands.

The General said the road would work and that critics who had said it would be impossible to build a highway through the India-Burma jungle had seen the "impossible" accomplished.

A reporter commented that it was "presumed" that the board was designed to support a land movement aimed at recapturing a workable port on the China coast.

After a brief pause Stilwell answered, "This is a start on an attempt to reopen communications with China."

Only 2 Prisoners.

Taro on the far right flank of the Ledo operation was captured January 30 after the Chinese killed a considerable number of Japanese, and the Chinese infantry now are some distance ahead of the road-building gangs.

Asked about the morale of the Japanese, Stilwell said, "You have to kill them to get them out of their holes. They are tough and they are good soldiers." He said the Chinese tactics were to shell the enemy's strongpoints if possible, and then come in from behind and rush them.

Asked how many Japanese prisoners have been taken Stilwell replied, "Two, and they were wounded."

A southeast Asia communique disclosed today that Taro and Kolum, two miles east of that point, were captured January 30 by Chinese forces after a five-mile advance in two days.

Lewis Gunner Donald Vyse Lauded After U-Boat Battle

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

A PORT IN NORTHERN IRELAND, Feb. 1—(CP Cable).—For more than three years the veteran R.C.N. corvette Snowberry tediously plowed the North Atlantic and Caribbean escorting merchant ships and tankers. All she fought were gales and high seas and a few long-range German bombers but she never saw a German submarine.

Her crew wondered what kind of war this was for fighting sailors. Then her big chance came in the Bay of Biscay on a calm starlight night as she sailed into her first action with the R.C.N. corvette Calgary and the British frigate Nene.

The action was announced by the Admiralty January 22 but the actual date was not given. The Calgary was commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. H. K. Hill, well-known Canadian yachtsman and former stockbroker, whose wife now lives at Kingston, Ont., and the Snowberry by Lieut. J. A. Dunn of Victoria, B.C., and Montreal.

It was a wild battle with star shells flaring over the sea, depth charges foaming and crashing and guns blazing tracers at the target as the three ships attacked and destroyed a German submarine threatening an important convoy bound for the United Kingdom.

Three in at Kill.

The kill was shared by all three but the gunnery of the Snowberry is what they talk about in this port of famous "little ships."

The U-boat was forced to the surface by depth charges and the conning tower showed in the blue and white glare of the star shells 800 yards from the Snowberry.

"We went full steam ahead," said Dunn as he sat in his wardroom drawing a diagram on a signals pad to demonstrate the action.

"The U-boat went under again and then lunged right to the surface.

"We opened fire with our four-inch gun and our first shot hit the conning tower. The submarine's crew came tumbling out of the hatch trying to reach the deck guns to blast us, but we swept her decks with our Oerlikon guns and pompoms.

"It looked like a movie—the Germans throwing up their arms as they were hit and falling into the sea one after the other. In a few minutes the Calgary and the Nene joined in the shooting and the three ships went after the sub like terriers after a rat.

Sub Runs Wild

"The shells and tracers were flying all over the place. At times we had to be careful to stay out of the direct fire from the other ships. The U-boat crew abandoned ship in the face of all this fire and the survivors floated around in the water until our ships picked them up.

"The Germans didn't even take time to turn off the sub's engines for she careened around on the ocean before sinking and at one time reared up and nearly rammed the Snowberry head on. We turned quickly to avoid her and she just eased her bow on our side and then lunged away. There wasn't a soul aboard her and it was a strange sight to see a ghost ship like a sub bouncing about."

The gunnery officer on the Snowberry was Lieut. John (Buck) Hollard of Windsor, Ont.

Gigantic Fires Rage In Berlin

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Allied bombs now have brought death and destruction into every quarter of Berlin, a Swedish correspondent in the Nazi capital said to-day.

"No description can tell you what happened in Berlin during the last few raids," the correspondent said in a telephoned dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter.

"Gigantic fires in uncounted houses look like great stoves lighting up the whole sky," he declared. "There is not a single quarter any more that has been spared."

The reporter telephoned his story from Berlin early to-day after communications had been severed for hours.

"In these new raids thousands of people lost their homes," he asserted. "Fires are so great and numerous it takes several days to extinguish them. A great number of

Spain Aids Hitler Soviet Paper Claims

MOSCOW, Feb. 1 — (AP). — Spain has become the "main channel" through which Germany receives South American oil, writer K. Hofman said to-day in the Red Star, Soviet Army newspaper.

Declaring that Spain remains the faithful ally of Hitler, Hofman added, "Besides helping the Germans conduct subversive work and espionage, Franco Spain takes a most active part in the so-called peace manoeuvres of the Hitlerites. Franco repeatedly makes offers of 'mediation.'"

Soviet Unit 8 Miles Off Estonia

Pincers Movement Isolates Several Large Groups

LONDON, Feb. 1—(CP)—Russian forces smashed their way nearer to the Estonian frontier today as Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad army reached the suburbs of Kingisepp, the last rail station short of the frontier, eight miles distant. Govorov's troops also crossed the Luga River 27 miles southeast of Kingisepp.

The capture was part of a relentless drive toward Narva, inside the frontier and 13 miles fom Kingisepp. A Soviet communique said the Germans were "abandoning guns, heavy mortars and stores of military supplies."

The Russians also announced capture of Lipa, two miles beyond the west banks of the Luga south of Kingisepp and there were indications Soviet forces might have crossed the river closer to Kingisepp. Capture of Bolshoi Lutsk and Mali Lutsk on the Luga three miles north of Kingisep and Bolshoye Klenna, six miles to the southeast on the river was announced.

Meantime other Govorov forces, farther south, swinging down the highway and railway to Luga, were within 37 miles of a junction with Gen. K. A. Meretskov's army. This pincers movement already had cut off disorganized groups of Germans in lakes and forests to the east.

Last night's communique also announced fresh gains by Gen. M. M. Popov's 2nd Baltic Army attacking toward Latvia from fallen Novosokolniki on the southern end of a 230-mile northern front.

Moscow was silent, however, on developments in the Ukraine where the German high command told of new Russian attacks and successes in the Dnieper Bend.

SPAIN TO HAVE ELECTION

OTTAWA—The CBC Listening Post at Ottawa today picked up a broadcast by Berlin radio saying that the Spanish government had decided to call a general election for May 1.

Nazi Gustav Line Crumbles In Italy

ALGIERS, Feb. 1 — (AP) — British and American troops bursting forward in a big offensive from their invasion beachhead have struck to the outskirts of Campoleone, 16 miles southeast of Rome, and also to the edge of Cisterna, communications town on the Appian Way 14 miles northwest of Anzio, headquarters announced today.

Campoleone is 15 miles from the invasion port of Anzio.

American troops attacking on the main front north of Cassino have hammered out new gains meanwhile, and seized 250 prisoners from the German 44th Infantry Division.

A field dispatch said German defences in the corridor northwest of Cassino were beginning to crumble.

U.S. units striking northeast of Anzio have reached within half a mile of Cisterna, a key rail and road junction and large air base. They found the Germans well dug in on the border of the city, and resisting strongly.

Launch Twin Attacks

British forces pushing northward carried ahead in a co-ordinated assault to the edge of Campoleone.

The twin attacks were the first big offensive since the landings.

An Allied officer said the Nazis brought troops from the area north of Rome to meet the Allied blows. But the Navy said that Allied landings of reinforcements and supplies were proceeding on schedule, under favorable conditions.

Patrols said the town of Cassino itself still was strongly held by the enemy.

British forces in the lower Garigliano valley to the west made short advances, capturing Mount Natale, northwest of Minturno, and winning 1,000-foot Mount Purgatorio northeast of Castelforte. The Allied consolidated positions on Mount Tuga, and repulsed counter-attacks in the Castelforte sector, headquarters said.

French Troops Gain.

French troops made local advances in the hills north of Cassino.

On the 8th Army front, Canadians attacking in clear weather with strong tank and artillery support advanced against heavy German opposition from dug-in positions on the approaches to Tollo. German fighter planes twice were repulsed in raids on Allied positions in the Orsogna area.

American heavy bombers reached into Austria seeking to destroy German air strength, pounding the air base at Klagenfurt. The four-engined bombers also smashed at Aviano and Udine in northern Italy. Berlin said extensive fires were started.

Eighteen Nazi planes fell to Allied sharpshooters during the day. The weather limited Allied operations to 800 sorties, under the number they have been flying in widespread activities. Four Allied ships were lost.

Photographs showed 80 planes were destroyed on the ground in Allied raids Sunday on German air bases, principally in northeastern Italy, bringing the toll for five days of air war to 251 German planes wrecked in the air and aground.

A navy bulletin said light Allied coastal forces, darting close to the Yugoslav shore, sank a large schooner and a small tanker between Sibenik and Split Saturday night.

(A dispatch received in London from Allied headquarters said the Germans were rushing troops from north of Rome to bolster resistance in the bridgehead sector.)

Medium bombers blasted a railway in the Adriatic port of San Benedetto while fighters lashed at the Germans in support of the advancing Allied ground forces.

Russians Flay Pope's Attitude

MOSCOW, Feb. 1—(CP)—Writing in the Soviet newspaper Izvestia, Dmitri Petrov today called Pope Pius XII pro-Fascist and said "no wonder that of Hitler and Mussolini now also includes the Vatican."

"Catholics who live in England, America, Spain, Poland and other countries as well as the Italians are becoming convinced of the pro-Fascist character of the Vatican's policy," he said.

"The Vatican has assumed the position of direct accomplice of Fascism," Petrov asserted in a long article reviewing the American Foreign Policy Association's recent observations on the Vatican.

"The Pope's declaration of equal love for all people on the fourth anniversary of the war and on Christmas, 1943, does not conform with the Vatican's practical policy which not only has maintained diplomatic relations with Hitler, but helped Hitler strangle the Italian people, including Catholic groups opposed to Fascism in Germany as well as in Italy."

Petrov asserted there was growing opposition to the Vatican in Italy and said "the Vatican is harvesting the fruits of its own policy."

Doubt Franco Will Drop Axis Tie-up

Say Huns at Border Greater Threat Than Great Britain

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(CP).— Both pro-Franco and anti-Franco elements among Spaniards here expressed doubt to-day that Gen. Francisco Franco would go to the extent of breaking off Spain's diplomatic relations with the Axis despite Anglo-American economic and diplomatic pressure.

A diplomat in Buenos Aires had predicted Spain would cut off relations this week and both Axis and neutral sources told of a burst of diplomatic activity at Madrid.

It had been expected Foreign Secretary Eden would make a statement in the House of Commons today on Anglo-Spanish relations but by mid-afternoon he had not appeared and it was unlikely he would to-day.

Franco's adherents, who profess neutrality, argued that the Germans across the border in France are a more serious immediate menace to Spain than are Britain and the United States at a distance, even with their power of blockading Spain from the sea.

Opponents of Franco said a Spanish rupture with the Axis seemed probable only if Franco were forced out by a faction or coalition which was convinced the Allies will win the war.

The United States already has cut off oil shipments to Spain for the month of February and is reconsidering relations with Madrid "in the light of trends in Spanish policy," Washington announced on Saturday.

Britain also has been taking a sterner line toward Franco's government.

The identity of the South American diplomat who was quoted in an Associated Press dispatch from Buenos Aires as predicting that Spain would break with the Axis was not disclosed. He was described

Uruguay To Buy More In Canada

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—(CP).—Ernesto Kohn Talay, first Uruguayan consul in Canada, announced to-day that honorory consuls for Uruguay will be appointed in Halifax and Vancouver in the near future.

Arriving here yesterday, primarily to augment commercial relations between Canada and Uruguay, Mr. Talay also predicted an increase of little more than $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 annually in sales of Canadian products to the Republic of Uruguay.

He said the total of $3,000,000 worth of Canadian products needed by the South American republic would be comprised of $1,000,000 worth of newsprint, $500,000 worth of seed potatoes, $600,000 worth of agricultural machinery, and the remainder would cover any other goods that Canada could ship.

Uruguay also would like to obtain asbestos, sandpaper, batteries, codfish cellulose, calcium carbon wood fibre boxes, nails, manganese, apples, and window glass, he added.

Quake Destroys Turkish Town

By The Canadian Press

The Turkish town of Gerede was destroyed by a powerful earthquake to-day and many of its 25,000 inhabitants were killed.

Earthquakes described as "very severe" and of "devastating intensity," and apparently originating in Turkey, were recorded by seismographs in both Britain and the United States.

Gerede is in northern Turkey, some 60 miles from the Black sea and 180 miles east of Istanbul. Reports from Ankara said the tremors lasted 50 seconds and were felt throughout Turkey.

In Britain, J. J. Shaw, West Bromwich seismologist, said his instruments recorded an earthquake so intense that one of the recording pointers was thrown from its bearings.

Shaw said the shock's epicentre was about 1,715 miles from England, apparently in a southwesterly direction. While this would place the centre of the quake in the bed of the Atlantic ocean north of the Azores, uncertainty as to the exact direction of the disturbance suggested a possibility it might heva occurred in the vicinity of the Black Sea.

Grant Increase To Soldiers Under Treatment

OTTAWA, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Increases in the treatment allowances paid to service personnel discharged from the armed forces for medical reasons and in allowances made under the War Veterans Allowances Act were announced to-day by Pensions Minister Mackenzie at a press conference.

Mr. Mackenzie said that in future the treatment allowances will be equal to the regular pay or rank held, up to the rank of lieutenant, plus the regular scale of dependents' allowances for the armed forces.

In the past, discharged men were put on treatment allowances which amounted to much less than the pay and the dependents' allowance received while the man was in the forces. The allowances are paid from the time the man is discharged until his treatment period ends.

Substantial Gain.

Increases have also been provided for those receiving allowances under the War Veterans' Allowance Act. Now, allowances up to $365 per year may be paid to an unmarried veteran, while $730 may be paid to a married veteran, or to the widow of a veteran with dependent children. In addition, in all cases, they may have casual earnings up to $125 annually and an additional unearned $25 annually.

Formerly, allowances amounted to about $300 for single veterans, or widows without dependents, and $600 for married veterans, or widows with dependents, less casual earnings over $125 annually and any unearned income.

Mr. Mackenzie told the press conference, held in his office in the Parliament Buildings, that previous-

Hitler's Offensive Strength Is Sapped

Extent Of Resistance Will Not Be Known Until Invasion Comes

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

With Germany undergoing a tornado of bombing from the west, and her thousand-mile battle line in Russia being ripped and smashed back by the Red Army, the question naturally arises as to just how much resistance Hitler still has up his sleeve.

This takes on particular significance in view of the great assault now in process against the Marshall Islands. Since that is merely a preliminary to the all-out offensive which must await the surrender of Hitler. Thus his strength is the key to the war.

We can say at once that Hitler's defensive strength still is great. His offensive strength, however, no longer is sufficient for him to seize the initiative from the Allies in any big-scale operation the way things now stand.

Wait for Equipment.

The reason the Allies haven't invaded Europe yet is because they only now are acquiring the necessary equipment for the job, owing to being caught unprepared at the outset of the war. Allied strength is mounting by leaps and bounds, while German striking-power is going down rapidly.

We shan't know Hitler's exact strength until we get an army of invasion ashore in Western Europe and put him under pressure from two sides. That's the only gauge by which we can measure his power. So long as France is uninvaded, the conflict might continue indefinitely.

Even after the German armies have been driven back to defence of their own frontier, they might hold out for a considerable time. Desperation gives added strength. Leningrad, with its vast population of 3,000,000 hung on for 17 months while completely surrounded by the Boche and staggering from hunger.

So Hitler's fortress might produce fireworks. However, the comparison with Leningrad isn't exact, for the final attack on the Reich will be spearheaded by the greatest fleet of aircraft ever assembled. Thus the Nazis will be beset from without and from within. Hitler will be entirely dependent on reserve resources in his own cupboard, which is becoming Mother Hubbardish.

Argentine Crisis Near Ramirez Holds Reins

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 1 — (AP).—A government crisis is brewing in Argentina as a result of her break with the Axis, private reports said to-day, but predicted that President Gen. Pedro Ramirez would remain in power with a reshuffled Cabinet.

At the same time it was reported that Gen. Arturo Rawson, who recently quit as Ambassador to Brazil, had been denied permission to return to Argentina. Rawson, co-leader of the June Argentine revolution, was President for two days.

Butter Production Drops

Fears 8-Ounce Ration May Be Reduced

SASKATOON, Feb. 1— (CP).—Unless the continued decline in volume of butter production is halted, it will be difficult to maintain the present ration of eight ounces per person weekly, J. F. Singleton of Ottawa, said in an address prepared for delivery to-day at the opening of an inter-provincial dairy conference here.

Mr. Singleton, chairman of the Dairy Products Board, reported that butter distribution during 1943 was approximately 25,000,000 pounds less than during 1942.

Since the commencement of the war, production of creamery butter in the prairie provinces has increased to a much greater extent with relation to pre-war volume than has occurred in the other six provinces of Canada.

"The geographical centre of Canadian creamery butter production is moving westward rather rapidly," Mr. Singleton said.

He also reported an increase in total milk production in Canada and a decrease in the all-Canada total for cheese—a drop of 43,000,000 pounds, equivalent to 21.3 per cent. in 1943.

All dairy products which Canada can produce in 1944 will be required and no Canadian producer need hesitate to produce to the maximum.

Halifax Gave Own Opinion

Churchill Favors Meeting Of Premiers Soon

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(CP Cable)—Prime Minister Churchill today told the House of Commons that Viscount Halifax whose recent speech in Toronto about co-operation in the British Commonwealth touched off widespread discussion "was not making any pronouncement on behalf of the (United Kingdom) government."

The Prime Minister added, however, that Lord Halifax's speech "like those of other distinguished figures on this subject was a valuable contribution to study of the subject."

Answering Edgar Granville, Independent, who asked if the Prime Minister was satisfied that the present method of consultation between Dominion leaders was adequate for day to day co-operation on Commonwealth policy, Mr. Churchill said the proper occasion for consideration of such issues is a meeting among the Empire Prime Ministers.

"It is hoped to hold such a meeting at an early date," he added.

The Prime Minister said it was a matter for the leaders of the House when Emmanuel Shinwell asked, "in view of the speeches by Lord Halifax and other distinguished persons would it not be desirable and strengthen the hands of the Prime Minister if the House did debate the matter and make a pronouncement?"

Tom Dewey Is Considered GOP Nominee

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(CP)—It now would appear that young Tom Dewey may be the Republican candidate for President next June if the G.O.P. has to send a Commando squad down the Mohawk Valley to Albany and drag him to the Chicago convention by main force.

Healthy, elegant and assured, the 42-year-old Governor of New York, who barely missed the G.O.P. nomination at Philadelphia in 1940 when delegates suddenly decided Wendell Willkie was most likely to win for them, has become the nation's mystery man.

Amid a furore of growing demands that he step in as a candidate for the Republican nomination he smilingly points to his declaration that he would not be that kind of a candidate.

But there seems no record of his having declared against accepting nomination if it were thrust upon him—and a growing volume of opinion believes that is what will happen.

Last fall Wendell Willkie let it be known he was available for the party's Presidential purposes and at first there seemed a tendency to accept him as a logical candidate, even though he was beaten in 1940.

But a Republican move away from

Jap Atrocities Continue Still

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Repeated failure of diplomatic efforts by the United States government to curb Japanese atrocities apparently has left thousands of Americans still in enemy hands with scant hope of better treatment.

The only hope still held by some military leaders and government experts on Japanese psychology is that the Tokyo militarists soon will see the handwriting on the wall.

Senator Dennis Chavez (Dem., N.M.) demanded yesterday that the war in the Pacific be stepped up immediately. He announced he was making formal representation to President Roosevelt "asking that we get action now."

"The only way to answer the Japs is with more planes and tanks and guns for General MacArthur," Chavez said.

Failure of diplomatic efforts to influence the Japanese was disclosed by the United States state department last night with publication of a detailed list of 89 protests, warnings and demands forwarded to the Tokyo government, through Switzerland during the past two years.

people are buried in cellars and many are saved after several days or not at all."

The United States office of war information said the Swedish newspaper Uppsala Nya Tidning published a Berne dispatch reporting "about 6,000 persons" were killed in the raid on Berlin Saturday night, and some 5,000 were reported killed during the last raid on Frankfurt where 50,000 people are assumed to be bombed out.

This estimate of casualties in the Saturday night raid on Berlin followed an estimate Sunday by the Swedish newspaper Nya Daglit Allehanda that 6,000 persons died in the Friday night raid bringing to 74,000 the total killed in 13 raids up to Saturday.

The B.B.C. in a broadcast recorded by the C.B.S. said "some important German government offices have been transferred from Berlin to Breslau" which so far has escaped Allied raids.

No Election Before 1945 Premier King Says Disagrees With Halifax

By FRANK FLAHERTY—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 1—(CP).—Watchword of the major parties in Parliament appeared to be "down to business" today after their leaders had their say in the House of Commons' debate on the Speech from the Throne.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King gave the cue yesterday when he voiced the most positive assurance yet that there will be no general election before 1945, declared he wanted little time wasted, and gave his blessing to moves to put more work in committee instead of on the Commons floor.

From the debate came Mr. King's official view of the recently-raised issue of a single foreign policy for the Empire: he was against it. And he disagreed specifically with the Toronto speech last week by Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, and the London speech some time ago by Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts of South Africa.

Avoid Competition.

He said both those men thought Britain should be supported by other countries to give her sufficient power to preserve a balance with the other great United Nations powers. Behind their views, he said, lurked the idea of rivalry among the great nations. Canada, between the United States and the Soviet Union, could not support such an idea.

"What we must strive for," Mr. King said, "is close co-operation between those great states themselves and all other like-minded

St. John's Vestry Reviews Year

One of the largest meetings of the annual vestry for many years was held in St. John's parish hall on Monday, with the rector, Canon W. R. Robertson, presiding.

The minutes of the previous vestry were read by the new vestry clerk, P. A. Martyn, followed by a comprehensive report of the past year by the two wardens, C. Sootheran and C. Lech. The statement of receipts and expenditures for 1943 showed a continued and favorable trend, there being a substantial balance on hand as of December 31. The mortgage is well on the way to being cleared off, through the efforts made by such organizations as the Church Women's Association, the Women's Friendly Bible Class, assisted by the "Tuesday Evening Club," the A.Y.P.A. and the Scouts.

The rector reported on the state of the parish, both spiritually and financially. Of the latter, he said there is cause for rejoicing through the wardens being able to show a surplus in their report, but he referred to the great difficulty in keeping in close touch with a parish as scattered as St. John's while carrying on without the assistance of a curate.

The Sunday School is also a source of concern to those who are giving their time to the training of children. Canon Robertson paid tribute to those who are working in the primary and main Sunday School under a handicap, and also to the two retiring wardens, Mr. Sootheran and Mr. Lech, who have carried on in office for a longer period than usual, owing to the difficult war period through which the church is passing. He named the two incoming wardens as being D. G. H. Melton, rector's warden, and W. R. Blackwell, people's warden.

Various reports from the church societies were given as follows: Sunday School report, by F. Stewart, secretary, the superintendent being Bert Graham; C.W.A. report, given by Mrs. Basil Hall, showing the efforts put forward by the ladies during the past year to reduce the mortgage, and the new furnishings they had provided for the parlor of the parish house; W.F.B.C. report, given by Mrs. Bassett, showing the many activities this small band of women performed during the year, besides a faithful attendance at Bible study, which is their main function; the choir report, read by the choir master, F. G. Mann, was warmly received and appreciation was expressed.

Tribute was paid to the lay reader, R. N. Stuart, whose health has prevented him from attending divine service as regular as he would wish.

The following are the officers for the ensuing year; Rector's warden, D. G. H. Melton; people's warden, W. R. Blackwell; lay delegates to Synod, Dr. G. S. Cameron, F. D. Kerr, K.C., D. G. H. Melton, Charles Coleman, F. Hills; substitutes, W. C. Ackerman, B. Ottewell, A. Killaly, H. A. Lemmings, C. Lech; Bible Society representatives, Mr. J. Col. L. W. Slack Reviews Battery

The 4th (R) Heavy Anti-Aircraft Battery R.C.A. made an excellent showing in the Armoury Monday night at the inspection held by the District Brigade Commander, Col. L. W. W. Slack, M.C., V.D. He advised unit officers afterward that the artillerymen had exceeded his expectations, and he was well satisfied with the local Battery.

Col. Slack, with Staff Captain J. C. Joslyn—also of District Headquarters—were in the reviewing stand, along with Major J. F. C. Maunder, adjutant and training officer of the Battery, for the march past. The parade was led by Lt. W. T. T. Fanjoy in the absence, through illness, of the unit commanding officer, Capt. R. A. Phillips. The Brigade Commander inspected the unit, which was dressed in battle order, before taking the salute.

Following the march past, the officers fell out, and Battery Sgt. Major L. J. Anthony divided the unit up and regular training was carried on. Col. Slack watched the crews in gun drill, coming into action, etc., with considerable interest, Sgt. Major C. W. Crain of the instructional staff being in charge. He also looked on as Sgt. Major G. E. as a prominent figure in Latin-American diplomatic circles.

Must Jump Now.

This source said the attitude being taken by the United States and Britain has brought Franco face-to-face with a situation where he must declare himself for one side or the other. A break with the Allies is virtually out of the question, he said, because Spain desperately needs the oil and supplies which she has been getting from the Americas as well as other goods which pass through Allied-controlled waters.

The German radio said the oil embargo already has become so effective that Spain has had to suspend bus traffic from Madrid to Valladolid and Leon.

The German radio also said today the Spanish Ambassador to Berlin, Gines Vidal Y Saura, had arrived in Paris en route to Madrid for consultations, the nature of which was not disclosed.

The Duke of Alba, Spanish Ambassador to Britain, likewise has returned home. He arrived in Lisbon yesterday and left immediately for Madrid on a German plane, saying he could not wait long enough for a Spanish plane on which he had a reservation today.

These diplomatic developments followed a series of conferences which Sir Samuel Hoare, British Ambassador to Madrid, has held with Franco in regard to British objections to Spanish policy.

Church Officers Named By Vestry

The annual vestry meeting of St. George's Anglican church was held Monday night and was well attended. A gratifying financial report was given by the People's Warden, which showed a substantial increase over the previous year and a good bank balance.

Mr. Moore re-appointed Jack Cooper as his Rector's warden and Clarence Crouter was unanimously re-elected as People's warden for another year. Mrs. Robert Pilling was appointed vestry clerk by the Rector, after he had voiced his appreciation to the wardens for their co-operation during the past year. Lay delegates to the synod re-elected were Albert Cuff and Leonard Watkiss, the latter being named as envelope secretary once more.

A change in the Advisory Board was made at the meeting by Mr Moore. A motion was made that in future the president, along with a representative of every organization would attend these meetings.

The financial report was given by Mr. Watkiss, in which he reported the Rectory Fund was taking care of itself in a profitable manner. The cent-a-day fund started in October, 1943, has been a big aid in swelling the total.

The work of the boys' choir and the renovation of the choir stalls to make room for it was discussed. The choirmaster, Mr. Branson, asked the support of the congregation in this matter, and it was promised on behalf of them, by A. Knott.

Included in the rector's remarks were thanks to all members, heads of organizations and all who assisted in making the past year such a success.

Sidesmen elected are as follows: By the Rector and Vestry—Messrs. E. Rye, C. Harloff, H. Bradley Heath, A. Knott, H. Ferguson, R. King, I. Harrison, W. White, Sr., W. White, A. Cuff, L. Moore, A. Cole, F. Darrell, M. Parry, W. Firth, E. Adkinson, W. Bannon, A. Sims, R. Pilling.

Advisory Board:—A. Sims, W. White, W. Bannon, C. Harloff, A. Cuff, M. Parry, Mrs. O. Laderach, Mrs. Glass, Clerk Mrs. Robert Pilling. Included with these will be presidents of each organization.

Reports read as follows: Afternoon Guild, Mrs. Leslie Moore; Evening Guild, Mrs. W. White; Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. W. Farr; Little Helpers, Mrs. W. Farr; A.Y.P.A., Miss Frances Legon; Sunday School, Mrs. F. Dorrell; Choir, Mrs. J. Cooper; Men's Club, Mr. A. Sims; Scouts and Cubs, Mr. M. Parry; Social and Entertainment, Mrs. F. Dorrell; Building Fund, Mr. A. Knott.

Mystery Fires Burn Curtains

Twice recently inmates of the house at 612 Armour Road have had the unenviable experience of having the curtains on the front door of the place burned off, Mrs. George Kent, a member of one of the two families occupying the premises reported to the police Monday night. Last evening they could smell smoke, she said, and an investigation showed that the front door curtains had been burned.

When the same thing happened previously some boys were seen to run away from the premises. Police are investigating the occurrence.

Very satisfactory reports were made by the various organizations of the church. The financial statement of the wardens showed a very healthy state. Of special mention was the reduction on the debt of nearly $4,000. Grant Increase ly when a man was discharged for medical reasons he immediately went on treatment allowances which provided—no matter what his rank—$44.20 monthly for himself, $18.20 for his wife, $12 monthly each for the first and second children, $10 monthly for the third child and $8 monthly for the fourth, fifth and sixth children.

Now, a private entitled to treatment allowances will receive his monthly pay of $45 per month plus a dependents' allowances eof $35 for his wife and plus $12 monthly for each for the first and second children, $10 monthly for the third child and $8 monthly for the fourth, fifth and sixth children.

A lieutenant and those above that rank will receive monthly pay of $150, plus a dependance allowance of $45 and allowance for children similar to those paid a private ,in addition, the dependents are paid the obligatory cost-of-living bonus.

The maximum pay and allowances will be that of a sublieutenant in the navy, a lieutenant in the army, or a flying officer in the air force. The ceiling will affect all officers above that rank.

Those qualifying for the increased allowances are those whose treatment is continued without interruption from the date of discharge either as in-patients, or, in certain cases, as out-patients. The allowances may be continued only for a period equal to that of service during the present war, or for 12 months following discharge whichever is the lesser.

In cases where hospital allowances are greater than the pay of rank at the time of discharge, the rate of hospital allowance will prevail. This is applicable to those requiring treatment for disabilities attributable to war service, who may, while out-patients, receive allowances equal to a 100 per cent disability pension.

Provision is made also for dependents' allowances for persons who became dependents of the ex-serviceman after the date of discharge.

Hardship Before.

"Under former regulations there were certain bases of hardship," Mr. Mackenzie said.

"To ask any army lieutenant, for instance, who with his wife, had been in receipt of an income of $195 per month to adjust living standards suddenly to an income of $62.40 per month, was asking a great deal. The same conditions applied for those who had held non-commissioned rank.

"The situation was aggravated because of the fact that a man could do nothing to help himself and to increase his income, for, even though discharged from the armed services, he was not ready for rehabitation. If his disability was pensionable, frequently there was a lag between the period of his discharge and the determining of his pensionable status.

"These new allowances will give a man the peace of mind so essential to his ultimate recovery. I am of the opinion that, with financial worries removed during the period he is undergoing treatment, his recovery will be expedited and his mental outlook towards re-establishing himself in civilian life will be greatly improved.

Nazi Announcers Become Annoyed

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(CP).— Nazi radio announcers — apparently a temperamental lot—are getting annoyed by the many recent interruptions, a usual sign of Allied air attacks.

The Berlin radio, recorded by the Ministry of Information, was an hour late in broadcasting the communique yesterday, and then in the middle of it the announcer shouted:

"Was ist nun los zum teufel. (What the devil's the matter now?")

There were minutes of silence before the reading of the communique was resumed—with a new announcer.

Wake Island Battered By Seaplanes

Drive On Marshalls Continues; No Further News

By WILLIAM HIPPLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 1—(AP)—Bombing by two squadrons of seaplanes, intended to prevent Japan's Wake Island air base from interfering with the current American offensive in mid-Pacific, was reported last night by the United States Navy but further operations of a mighty task force against the Marshalls were cloaked by official silence.

Monday passed without a word on the movements of the largest mass of warships ever sent against the Japanese. It was officially disclosed Saturday carrier planes of the task forces opened a powerful assault on the Marshalls, 700 miles south of Wake. Sunday the naval units including battleships, were reported to have moved closer to pour shells on the air bases and shipping lagoons of those Atolls.

No official credence was given radio Tokyo reports that "Japanese army and navy units have intercepted powerful enemy units which have been attacking the Marshall group." Lacking this substantiation, there was inclination here to doubt the reports, particularly as to the implication that the Japanese navy had joined battle.

The Wake raid, 10th of the war, to hit that island since it was captured Dec. 24, 1941, by the Japanese, was made by between 14 and 30 seaplanes, each probably carrying more than a ton of bombs. None of the raiders was lost while making what was described officially as a "strong attack."

War correspondents here, studying the Tokyo radio report while awaiting new word of the big fleet movements, interpreted the reference to intercepting Japanese "navy units" as meaning planes rather than ships. Strong Japanese naval units probably are based at Truk, more than 1,000 miles west of the Marshalls but they are likely held there for defensive purposes.

Partisans Whip Nazi Regiment

LONDON, Feb. 1 (CP)—Yugoslav Partisan troops have defeated a mixed force of Germans and Chetniks near the towns of Andrijevica and Berane in Montenegro not far from the Albanian frontier, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) reported today.

Eighty enemy troops were killed and 110 wounded in the Montenegrin fighting, Tito reported in his communique, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio.

Partisans are on the offensive in eastern, central and western Bosnia, Tito added, and a strong German attack has been thrown back near the town of Travnik, 45 miles northwest of Sarajevo.

Fierce but apparently indecisive battles were being fought in Slavonia and the Lika province of Croatia, it was reported.

She put the denture on the window sill, she said, while she sat back one afternoon and enjoyed a cigaret. Then she mistook the plate for an ashtray and burned a hole clear through the middle of her uppers.

Dismiss Motion To Recover Car

COBOURG, Feb. 1. — (ENS).— Judge J. C. M. German yesterday dismissed a motion instituted by Charles Robert Sparks of Toronto, Jehovah's Witness, to recover possession of a car valued at $500, which was seized by Corporal Karl Lockwood of the R.C.M.P. on January 3rd. Sparks also sought recovery of 16 cartons, approximately 800 volumes of a Bible text, entitled "Religion of Salvation" which were seized along with the car. Solicitor was W. Glen How of Toronto.

A. R. Willmot, of Cobourg, appeared as agent for Mr. How, to inform the court that Mr. How had wired him that he was in Buffalo and would not be able to be present. Fred C. Richardson appeared on behalf of Corporal Lockwood.

Mr. Richardson pointed out that there had been no affidavits filed, as required, before the notice of motion. Sparks had sworn out an affidavit before his own solicitor, which was wrong and How had sworn out an affidavit before J. K. Brower, who had appeared as joint solicitor for Sparks, Mr. Richardson said.

Judge German observed that Sparks' affidavit could not be used nor could an affidavit sworn by Brower before How be used. He declared that he could not decide on a motion which is involved in an action. The very essence of the action was the return of the car. He accordingly dismissed the motion on the grounds that there were no affidavits of Bower or Sparks. The writ served on the defendant did not show by whom it was issued. The relief claimed by the writ of summons was possession of certain articles and His Honour found that he could not determine possession of the articles on an interlocutory motion and dismissed it with costs.

Mr. Richardson commented further that in any event, the car and books could not be recovered until the Minister of Revenue so directed.

William T. Dewart, Publisher, Born In Fenelon Falls, Passes

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—William T. Dewart, president and publisher of The Sun, long a leader in the newspaper publishing business, died last week at his home at 660 Park Avenue. He was 68 years old.

Mr. Dewart, who had been general manager of the newspaper since 1903, when he succeeded Erman J. Ridgway as chief executive of the far-flung interests of the late Frank A. Munsey, manufacturer, merchant and publisher, had been in ill health for some time, but had been seriously ill only three weeks.

After Mr. Munsey's death in 1925 Mr. Dewart disclosed that it had been the late publisher's plan, during the last year of his life, to have his associates in the management of his newspapers, which included the old Evening Telegram as well as The Sun, to join him in the ownership of the properties.

Purchase Made in 1926

Mr. Dewart purchased The Sun in 1926, acting in behalf or himself and several associates in the conduct of the newspaper, from the residuary legatee under Mr. Munsey's will, the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The consideration was announced as $13,000,000 and arrangements were made to mutualize the ownership and to pay the museum in annual installments.

Under Mr. Dewart's leadership, The Sun was continued in a period when other newspapers died in mergers or suspensions, and The Telegram, later The World-Telegram, was disposed of to the Scripps-Howard interests, under whom it entered a new era of service.

Mr. Dewart had a varied business career before he joined the Munsey interests. He was of Scottish origin, his ancestors coming from Duart Castle, Mull, a Maclean Clan stronghold. His mother, whose maiden name was Jessie Graham, was the daughter of a Scottish banker and landowner.

His father, William Dewart, was a Canadian railroad builder who combined with railroad promotion a flair for learning and writing; one of the products of his pen was "Whang, the Miller." He did not prosper and in 1881 left Canada and settled in Rochester, N. Y., with his wife and eleven children.

One of the eleven was William Thompson Dewart, born at Fenelon Falls, Ont., and named for a relative, Captain Thompson, one of the British guard over Napoleon at St. Helena. The boy mowed lawns and worked in a button factory to help the family finances, missing high school but studying at the University of Rochester as a special student.

First Business Venture

His first business venture, the German-American Button Company, established with his brother, Robert, was unprofitable and he sold out to trade on commission in sugar, tea, coffee and other commodities. He got a job on a wrecking crew of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway, but its pay of 13 cents an hour for a twelve-hour day did not appeal to him.

He studied public accounting and when Mr. Munsey opened a department store and hotel in his former printing plant in New London, Conn., Dewart, then 22 years old, applied for a job. Correspondence was uninviting, but Mr. Dewart went to New London, anyway, happened to meet Mr. Ridgway and got a job at $12 a week to straighten out "the worst set of books I ever tackled."

Mr. Dewart did the job so well that he was transferred to New York to work on the books of the Red Star News Company, a Munsey distributing concern. He became in succession head bookkeeper, assistant superintendent of the manufacturing plant and auditor of the business. When the Frank A. Munsey Company was incorporated in 1902 he was made treasurer without bond.

For Mr. Ridgway, working at night, he made a record book of the costs of the business, a precursor of a modern cost system. This, and his flair for singing hymns—he obtained an engagement with St. Bartholomew's choir—attracted Mr. Munsey's attention, for the publisher carried most of his business affairs in his head and thought a good employee should be sufficiently concerned about the business to do likewise.

On succeeding Mr. Ridgway in 1903, Mr. Dewart became vice president, general manager and treasurer of the Munsey concerns, which included stores, weekly and monthly publications and similar enterprises. As newspapers were purchased he became vice-president and general manager of the Munsey corporations.

Intimate of Munsey

By 1907 Mr. Munsey had advanced Mr. Dewart from $12,000 to $15,000 a year. Mr. Munsey was a man of extreme reserve and only Mr. Dewart seemed to enjoy his intimate friendship. During his last illness Mr. Munsey had Mr. Dewart constantly by his side. After the publisher's death Mr. Dewart was named president of all the enterprises owned and controlled by him.

Grant Remand In Sparks' Case

COBOURG, Feb. 1 — (ENS) — Charles Robert Sparks of Toronto, self-styled "minister of the Gospel" of the Jehovah's Witness sect, was given a peremptory remand until next Thursday when he appeared in police court yesterday and advised that if his counsel were not ready to go on by then, to get another lawyer. Sparks is charged with failing to answer truthfully questions put to him on January 2 by Corporal Karl Lockwood of the R.C.M.P. and with failure to submit himself for medical examination under the National Selective Service Regulation. Last week his counsel W. Glen How of Toronto, asked for a remand to this week.

Sparks told Magistrate R. B. Baxterday in court that his lawyer was not present. His lawyer had understood that another charge was pending and as he would not be ready to go on, under a further charge at this time, his lawyer wished a remand, Sparks said.

"As far as I am aware there is no other charge being laid," observed Corporal Lockwood.

"My lawyer went to Ottawa to see about a charge in connection with the seizure of my car by the R.C.M.P. and he was told by them that a charge might be laid and I have a letter here which proves that it is under consideration," Sparks replied. The accused added that when a new charge was read in court last week against him, that an adjournment was granted and he assumed that he would be given similar consideration in view of the possibility that the charge hinted at Ottawa might materialize.

"I believe I know my own interpretation of my remarks. Your counsel said last week that one of the charges was new to him and I granted his request for an adjournment. But this thing is not going on indefinitely," commented the magistrate.

"There is a possibility of another charge and I submit this letter from Ottawa for your attention," stated Sparks.

When the letter was read, Corporal Lockwood pointed out that it was a standard letter sent out in the form of a notice under the Customs Act whenever anything was under seizure, a formality which had to be complied with within 30 days of seizure.

"Just what are your reasons for asking for an adjournment," the magistrate asked Sparks.

"Well, there may be a new charge laid," he replied.

"As far as I know there is no new charge. You heard what Corporal Lockwood said," answered Magistrate Baxter.

"If there should be another charge I want time to be prepared to meet it. The Crown's position will not be prejudiced. They are not in a hurry to proceed," Sparks said.

"I suppose you would like me to adjourn it for two years; then the war would be over and the government would not be interested in you. I wish that your lawyer were here today and he would proceed with it. I am getting fed up. If I find that your counsel is in town today I will notify the law society of the way in which this adjournment was obtained. I am adjourning this case, peremptory, until Thursday and whether your lawyer is here or not, I am proceeding.

Church At Keene Reviews Years

KEENE, Feb. 1 (ENS)—The annual congregational meeting of Keene United church took the form of a supper gathering, with over one hundred present. After the supper, provided by the Women's Association, devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. George Murray. An interesting reading was given by Mrs. Ross McIntyre. Reports of the various organizations were presented, indicating progress had been made spiritually and financially. The work of Sunday School, Women's Missionary Society, Women's Association, C.G.I.T., Young Peoples' Society, Tilicum Class and Choir was well maintained during 1943 and bespeaks greater things for the future. Votes of thanks were given to all who had so willingly rendered service in these different departments of church work, also to the caretaker, flower committee, organist and choir.

The treasurer's statement showed that all financial obligations had been met, with a substantial balance on hand. The giving to missions had been increased in 1943 as well as givings to other purposes outside of the church. The minister in giving a survey of the work referred to the splendid spirit of fellowship an co-operation. There had been many demands on the congregation which had been cheerfully carried out. Fourteen members were added to the church by profession of faith; there were also nineteen baptisms and six weddings. Forty-eight of the congregation have enlisted in our Armed Forces. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the Rev. and Mrs. Murray for their untiring and faithful services during the year.

Pte. T. Ferguson Back From Kiska

LINDSAY, Feb. 1.—(ENS)—Pte. Duncan "Ted" Ferguson of Glenarm, Ont., home on leave following service on Kiska since the capture of that important island, has brought back his pockets full of Jap souvenirs. The young Commando, who was among the first to land on the Aleutians, is reluctant to state how he procured the curios, among which are several rating badges for Japanese officers in the marine service.

Pte. Ferguson, a son of Mr and Mrs. Fred Ferguson, enlisted at Peterborough and following advance training at Camp Borden joined the Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury Regiment, later being transferred into the Canadian Fusiliers. He received special Commando training at Nanaimo, B.C., following which he left on a warship with Canadian and American troops under secret orders.

"We were well prepared for the invasion of the Aleutians," the young soldier remarked. "The tactics we used in landing on the enemy-held island were exactly the same as we had practised in training manoeuvres. Our unit, under Captain G. Fawcett, of London, Ont., was the first to arrive at the main town and airfield following the landing on Kiska.

Pte. Ferguson commended the men of the American service highly. "They proved regular pals to us Canadians," he said, and shared with us the same as with their own troops."

"No HEADACHES now" says Mrs. Dunn

Mrs. Dunn isn't one of those lucky people who "never had a headache." She had them all right. The point is that she's found a way to get rid of them. She writes:—

"I would like everyone who suffers from headaches to try Kruschen Salts. Before taking Kruschen, I was hardly ever free from a headache. But since I have been taking it regularly I have hardly had a headache, for which I am very thankful, for headaches can make one feel quite ill. I have been taking a small dose of Kruschen every morning in a glass of warm water, before my breakfast, and I feel so well."—(Mrs.) A. E. Dunn.

How do you deal with headaches? Do you just take something to deaden the pain, without getting rid of the trouble, which causes the pain? Thousands do, despite the medical profession's warning cry of "Don't!"

Such makeshift methods mostly suppress the symptoms of headaches. They merely numb the nerves and leave the underlying cause to look after itself. And often it just becomes worse. Headaches can frequently be traced to a disordered stomach and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the system. Remove these poisons — prevent them forming again—and you get at the root of the trouble. And that is just how Kruschen Salts help bring swift and lasting relief from such headaches. Kruschen Salts aid Nature to cleanse your body thoroughly of its clogging waste matter.

Kruschen Salts are 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

This Is What Happens In War

The authentic reports of Japanese brutality toward British and American captives have aroused the most extreme anger and thirst for revenge both in Britain and the U.S.; we share these feelings because Canadians are humane, and also because we know that Canadian captives have suffered like humiliations, and that our attempts to send food and necessities to our prisoners have been malignantly frustrated.

But the Examiner is surprised that anyone has been taken unawares by this news. The New York Times expresses its astonishment that a nation boasting of a code of chivalry like Bushido should behave toward captives in this beastly fashion; surely the Times did not expect the courtesy which prevailed between Richard the Lionheart and Saladin to be repeated between the white soldiers and the Japs? The Montreal Gazette says, "None but insensate aborigines could have practised the fearful atrocities perpetrated on the gallant Americans taken in the Philippines"; unfortunately that is not so. The Japanese are not insensate aborigines, but members of a highly intelligent race, and they have done nothing worse than the Germans, another highly intelligent people, did before the Japs entered the war.

What the Japs and the Germans have done to helpless men is not inhuman; it is all too human. It is what happens in total war. It is what happens when human beings lose all desire to be looked upon as civilised and humane in their desire for power. It is a type of conduct which has been familiar through ages of history. Aggressors are always brutal, and it is naive to expect them to be anything else.

Instances of heroism and gallantry, and isolated exploits in which brave men perform exhilirating deeds of daring sometimes blind us to the fact that all war is hideous, brutal and indefensible. The United Nations did not start this war, although their somnolence and indifference in the pre-war years made it easy for Germany to start it: we were, all of us, forced to fight and we have fought well. But we need not, for that reason, glorify war or think of it as a kind of game in which rules of conduct are fixed, and adhered to by both sides. War is a catastrophe, and aggressor nations always display the basest side of their common nature when they are fighting.

The brutality of the Japs toward their prisoners is dreadful to think of, but it is not surprising. This is total war, and the stakes are high. After all these centuries the malignity of a power-mad nation should not be strange to us.

It Has Its Virtues

Often it is easier to fight something of which we know little than it is to fight something which we know well. Many Canadian papers, since the outbreak of war, have taken a crack at the Old School Tie, condemning it with all the enthusiasm bred of slight knowledge. Recently a writer in the Winnipeg Free Press took a side-swipe at the Old School Tie while discussing Britain's new Education Bill. Now we hold no brief for the Old School Tie, but we think that it has been unfairly condemned; it has its virtues and defects, like most other things.

One of its virtues is that it is not so exclusive as many people appear to think. It is true that only the sons of moderately wealthy people go to the great public schools of England, but it is also true that two-thirds of the young men who go to Oxford and Cambridge do so on scholarships or grants-in-aid of one sort and another; the schools may be exclusive, but the universities do not exclude anyone who has the brains to win a scholarship, or to show himself worthy of a bursary.

Now what does the Old School Tie stand for? It stands for a certain type of character, primarily. The public schools of England were given their great impetus during the last century by Dr. Arnold of Rugby, whose aim it was to produce Christian gentlemen first, and scholars second. Arnold succeeded to a remarkable degree, and the modern concept of 'fair play' is largely the outcome of his teaching. He laid the utmost stress on gaining and maintaining a strong sense of honour, on knowing how to use authority discreetly, and on self-control. Is there anything wrong with those qualities? Has anyone anything to say against them? Does anybody deny that they have set standards which Englishmen have tried to maintain, and which have been admired and copied by many other nations?

Many wearers of the Old School Tie have been stupid and clannish. Not many have been corrupt. The public schools have turned out many men of the stamp of Stanley Baldwin. They have never turned out a creature like Pierre Laval. The Old School Tie has set a standard for a nation's conduct, public and private. It is not always the best standard or the most intelligent one, but is there a better one which is as widely accepted?

Knocking the Old School Tie is easy, and several waggish fellows who wouldn't know a school tie from an empty umbrella case have been very droll about it. But we should like to point out that the standards of conduct which forbid us to torture our prisoners, as the Japs and Germans do, are very much of a piece with the Old School Tie. As we have said, it has its faults, but it has many virtues, and the standards which it implies are sometimes noble ones.

Styles From New York

It was with Mayor La Guardia, we believe, that the idea arose of creating a great centre of fashion in New York City. It is proposed that from six to ten fine buildings be erected in the city, including a large auditorium, an opera house, and a school of industrial art; these last three, it has been suggested, might serve the purpose of a war memorial.

The idea has much to recommend it. New York is the centre of the garment industry on this continent; one-third of its industry and 43 per cent. of its workers are engaged in making clothes. It would be sensible for the city to encourage this great industry in every way possible.

But we are not so sure about making New York a centre of fashion. In the eyes of the discerning judges, the New York designs have never been equal to those of Paris in that indefinable elegance which makes 'style'. New York makes clothes for millions of women; it concentrates on designs which sweep the country. That has never been the Parisian way. In Paris thousands of dress designers create garments which are individual; they are meant for one woman only. On this continent only the wealthiest women can afford to have their clothes designed especially for them; the cost is very great. In Paris most women have their clothes especially designed, and they often do so for a very modest price.

The New York system of mass production rests on an industry which is well-paid. Parisian dressmaking rested on a system which included low wages and sweating. But Paris had a style which New York never really captured. It remains to be seen whether it can do so during the next ten years.

They Change Their Tune

The former Berlin correspondent of Svenska Dagbladet tells us that the Germans knew that they had lost the war in October, 1942; Dr. Goebbels admitted as much to a group of German newspaper publishers. Now it appears that their aim is not to win the war, but to destroy as much of Europe as possible before they lose it. Hitler once boasted that if he fell he would drag European civilization down with him; he will do his best to make good that boast.

The Nazis have changed their tune, both figuratively and literally. Do you remember when they used to sing the Horst Wessel Song? That was followed by "We are marching against England", until circumstances compelled them to turn and march against Russia instead. The latest Nazi ditty is this, published in a Zurich paper last September, and now compulsory singing for all German schoolchildren:

"We mount the thunderheads of war,
Valhalla is our destined place,
The earth be shattered to the core,
When falls the master race.
When Etzel forced the Nibelung band
His house crashed down in fire;
So shall Europa flaming stand
When German men expire."

What grandiose ideas the Germans have! They refuse even to be defeated like anyone else. Perhaps it's their stubborn refusal to share common human experiences which makes them so much less than men when they embark on their silly attempts to be gods.

He Became Almost An Actor

(By F. H. W. JACKSON in the Christian Science Monitor)

THE new man in the London theatre's "property" department was weighted with anxiety about the filmy, gauze-like curtain, separating by half-an-inch his shirt-sleeved self from the costumed players at the centre of the stage.

He was anxious lest this upstage minor curtain go up, without the heavy and opaque curtain that cut off the audience from the stage first coming down. Had he been told to stand in the wrong place, by some mischance?

HIS first apprehension proved well grounded. The front-of-stage curtain stayed up, and up, too, went the hinder sub-curtain. The new "props" hand, in his stagefright, dithered away a precious second or two till he realized that, auditorium and stage being in darkness, the sooner he got down to his work of moving away chairs and tables of the old scene in favour of other furniture for the coming scene: well, the sooner he did that the better.

The rest of the scene-changes were made with the front-of-stage curtain down, and the stage as brilliantly lighted as the auditorium. The new "props" man, though henceforth with both light and time to see what he as well as other workers were doing, liked best that first scene-change in the deep gloom. He felt conspirational then. Only the air between the public and himself. He felt almost an actor.

THE next show in which the property man worked was not like the foregoing, a revue, but a play by G. B. S. What may remain in his memory arose in connection with a verbal injunction, given to him on arrival for work one evening. He was to work with especial care because the audience was "fashionable."

He tried to remove the veil of mystery in relevance to the audience of the evening. However, co-workers, rather than be helpful with information, bridled at his parrot-repetition of the adjective "fashionable." What sort of a theatre did he think that was?

He dropped his efforts at inquiry. He also dropped by chance something else. That was his end of the carpet which he and a co-worker were carrying onto the stage. As he stopped to search the edge of the stage-cloth for the obstacle his foot had encountered, the co-worker inquired: "How long do you expect Mr. and Mrs. Churchill to wait for us to get this carpet laid down on the stage?"

THERE need not be undue delay over the property man's labours in the pantomime, because they were rather technical. In the second scene of the first act, thirty hunting-crops for the chorus made but one item of that one scene's "props."

A hunting-crop is, patently, a "property" more easily mislaid than, for instance, a sofa. He found in practice, however, that the hunting-crops looked after themselves, not being objects which one stage artist desired to show to another. He found it different with some "property" hats which, on account of extravagant qualities, did not belong in the wardrobe.

The next piece to engage the property man's official attention made a change indeed, being an Ibsen tragedy. Any early feeling he had about a scarcity in "props" soon passed. In number, even in type, the tragic "props" ordered were few. But they kept him occupied. One category hung up upon the "wall"; a novelty for him. These figured in the first act, being mainly architectural blueprints affixed by drawing-pins. When the "walls" were moved at the end of the scene or act, the blueprints became creased and partially detached.

Beyond the door, up-stage, O. P. side, in this first act, a small pair of horns also required to be hung up on the "wall." The tragic Master Builder used them as his hatrack. The property man, having hung up the horns as the call boy was calling: "Overture and Beginners, please," would test their security by throwing his own hat upon them. Invariably, horns and hat fell down on the stage. But the property man could not interfere with the way in which the horns were attached to the "wall." He could only replace the horns. In a few minutes, the Master Builder himself was dramatically hurling his own much larger hat upon the horns. And obediently they stayed put.

At last the carpenter, in order to allay the property man's anxiety, arranged an improved, securer way for the horns to be hung up beside the door. On this occasion the property man spoke further to the carpenter, regarding the sofa used throughout Act II. Alas, he spoke one performance too late!

THE second act of "The Master Builder," which is one third of the whole tragedy in one scene, is focussed round this sofa. Hardly had this act started when a rear leg, breaking off entirely, made as sorry a wreck of that "property" sofa as even a dramatist could imagine.

Except that the players stood up more than usual, nothing could be done about it. The audience entirely ignored the disaster till the curtain came down. Then the applause had significant emphasis. The Master Builder, speaking quietly before a sizable gathering in the privacy of the stage limits, asked for the property man to come along. The property man stepped that way, if less blithely than usual. The judgment of the Master Builder was softly expressed in this concise statement: "The act MIGHT have been ruined, but it was NOT."

The property man who, for the remainder of the Ibsen run, showed the stage furniture almost paternal care, worked next in Chekov's "Uncle Vanya." He was able to believe almost that the naturalness for which that writer is famed had seeped even into the stage "props." Enough of the extremely solid furniture mainly occupied space, precisely as used to happen in the by-gone Russia of the period.

One character, leaving the stage and closing a scene, stops back-stage to whistle up and talk to his dog. To the audience, nothing in the world could sound more natural than this invisible incident. And there isn't any dog, not even a "property" one; though the property man did his best to make scratching sounds that sounded authentic.

Too Much To Expect

Herewith a report of a conversation overheard in the ladies' room of the Ritz-Carlton last Friday evening. Two little morale-builders were powdering their noses and discussing their escorts, apparently naval officers, and one finally said: "No, I guess mine isn't really CUTE, at that. Still, he's a hero, and you can't really expect much more these days, can you?" — New Yorker.

Why Not Socialized Law?

(THE PRINTED WORD)

WHEN addressing the London, Ontario, Academy of Medicine a few months ago on the subject of the C.C.F. plan for socializing medicine, Mr. E. B. Jolliffe was asked whether his party intended to socialize lawyers. As a consistent socialist, the speaker was obliged to say that he was in favour of socializing the legal profession, but as a lawyer, he minimized the importance of such a development, "because the legal profession hasn't nearly as much social significance as the medical profession."

On the assumption that Mr. Jolliffe's opinion of the relative social significance of the two professions is correct, it might be wise for us to try socializing lawyers as an experiment, before embarking on the more important project of socializing doctors. Few persons can get through life unaided by a lawyer. Even if they escape the normal hazards of the police court, they must occasionally deal in property, make wills, sign documents of various kinds. Laymen are inclined to put off consulting lawyers until it is too late, and for the same two reasons, namely that they are afraid of what they may be told and that they hesitate to commit themselves to an unknown expense.

Under a scheme of socialized law, each of us, on payment of an annual premium, would be entitled to all the legal services and advice that he needed. Preventive laws, like preventive medicine, would be the fashionable form of practice. Before sending a love-letter, we should discuss its terms with our lawyer. The spontaneity of such documents might be spoiled, but think of the breach-of-promise suits that would thereby be avoided.

Of course, lawyers, like doctors, vary in skill and industry, and at first there might be an unreasonable prejudice on the part of the public, in favour of naming as their family lawyers those whose records showed consistent success in winning their clients' cases. This difficulty should be easily resolved, as the interests of the lawyers rather than the interests of their clients would have the first consideration. There might also be some argument about the differential in earnings between a leader of the bar and the latest graduate from Osgoode Hall, but as proponents of socialized medicine think they can settle a similar argument among doctors, there is no reason to doubt their ability to placate the lawyers.

The premiums for legal expense should also provide a fund for payment of fines when the insured person's lawyer cannot extricate him from the meshes of the law. Naturally, also, if the insured's case is so serious that he must go to the legal equivalent of a hospital, he will receive some payment in compensation for loss of earning power. The possibilities are endless, and so fraught with social significance that Mr. Jolliffe's answer is seen to err on the side of modesty.

Resignation of William Cosgrave

(HAMILTON SPECTATOR)

OFFICIAL reason given for the resignation of William Cosgrave as Leader of the United Ireland Opposition Party is that he is a tired man at 63 and wishes to retire to a quieter life. That desire can be well understood when his years of service to the Irish Free State, and the political tempests he has experienced during Ireland's pangs of this century, are appreciated. It may be, however, that he is also a disappointed man, crushed by the reverses which his party suffered in the general election of last year. The fortunes of the group he led are now at a low ebb and he may naturally feel, as those in public life are so often compelled to admit to themselves, that his magnetism has gone and his influence on Irish opinion has waned. He will retain his seat in the Dail until the next general election, when it is believed he will retire permanently from politics.

Mr. Cosgrave has proved himself a stabilizing force in the Irish Free State and was noted for his good sense and moral courage. If he was disposed to associate himself with extreme factions earlier in life, he became more moderate in his views and conciliatory in his attitudes as he grew older and laboured to make his country worthy of the new status it had gained. As first President of the Irish Free State from 1922 to 1932 he saw the nation pass from anarchy to orderly Government. One of his outstanding qualities is tolerance, which was generously displayed in his endeavour to make the Protestant minority feel at home. During the decade that he served as President he showed competence as a statesman by largely restoring the nation's economy and improving its welfare.

Mr. De Valera will probably not be sorry to see Mr. Cosgrave occupy a less prominent position in Irish politics, as the latter has been a vigorous opponent and the two frequently clashed. The future of the United Ireland Opposition Party is uncertain and it is possible that, under the new leadership of Dr. Thomas O'Higgins, the group may recover some measure of its former strength. The more likely outcome, in the view of Irish observers, is that it will eventually merge with De Valera's group and become a national party aiming to check the growth of Labour, the Farmers' Party and Independents. Mr. De Valera needs such a transfusion to help make his political future secure, but the outlook for him in the next general election is not believed to be any too rosy.

A Bible Message

And king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel, that were assembled unto him, were with him before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen, that could not be told nor numbered for multitude....

Then spake Solomon, The Lord said he would dwell in the thick darkness. I have surely built thee an house to dwell in, a settled place for thee to abide in for ever....

And Solomon stood before the altar of the Lord in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven: and he said, Lord God of Israel, there is no God like thee, in heaven above, or on earth beneath, who keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants that walk before thee with all their heart....But will God indeed dwell on the earth? behold, the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house that I have builded? (I Kings 8: 5, 12, 13, 22, 23, 27.)

God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. (John 4: 24.)

Co-Ed, Incorporated

Does our often-criticized wartime youth need hard liquor to go with its thirst for a good time? The answer would seem to be an experienced no after a trial the City of Buffalo has given its first dry night club. Established by the youngsters themselves and at once boosted by adult groups as an ideal prop against juvenile delinquency, the club, one learns, is now to become a permanent institution under the suitable name of "Co-Ed, Incorporated."

Certainly there is an example and lesson in this successful Buffalo experiment. Any one who knows teen-age young people well knows that the majority of them has a natural distaste for beer and stronger liquids. Too, many high-school boys and girls dislike the surroundings and atmosphere which often go with adult-patronized places where liquor is consumed. A good orchestra and room to dance—these they want. But, these attained, ginger ale or a "coke" can be sufficient spur to toe activities. Often a chocolate malted is their happy speed when it comes to ordering drinks.

If a city as big as Buffalo can make a success of its dry-club experiment, let Co-Ed, Incorporated, be imitated in other towns, including our own super-city of jam sessions and groove followers. For young habitues of jive are often only young habitues of being alive. They are seldom anything worse. Whether they like the comparison or not, boys and girls, we believe, are a lot like a bunch of young cattle turned out on the green range of life. They love freedom and the chance to kick up their heels. But they were never raised with Jamaica rum in their milk shakes.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Whither?

It seems to be a law of development of political parties in a democracy that there must inevitably arise divergent factions within them. Just as there is a left wing and right wing of opinion within the Liberal party and the Conservative party, there are also left and right wings within the C.C.F. Even within the Communist party, schisms between right and left have developed. This has led to wholesale expulsions, but it has not stopped the process from continuing. While the process in the C.C.F. has not yet gone far enough to determine clearly just where the left wing ends and the right wing begins, the schism is there nonetheless. One reason why the split has not developed into a clear break is because the C.C.F. has not yet made up its mind where it is going. It has not yet decided, for example, whether it is a Socialist party or not. Mr. Winch and the British Columbia comrades hold that it is. Mr. Coldwell and some of his advisers insist that it is not.—Winnipeg Free Press.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Tuesday, Feb. 1, 1944

Now that Christmas and the New Year are past, our thoughts turn to Easter, and the new styles. Suits are going to be a high light for spring, especially the more dressmaker type, which are made of the soft wool crepes, herringbones, and other such soft materials, as are being shown in the 1944 spring preview.

The colors are very bright, among some of them being emerald green, pigeon, blood ruby, sunset gold, and all purple shades, from the deep purple to the light mauve, also the ever popular black.

Of course the casual suit will still find much favor, but even this will be made on softer lines, showing the draped shoulder, small pin tucks forming a yoke, and trimmed with bright jewelled buttons. The spring coats will be made of much the same materials as the suits and show quite a decided trend toward the more fitted lines. These coats, (especially the more dressy type) are also trimmed with the jewelled buttons.

Mr. Vincent McCabe proposed the toast to the ladies, and Mrs. Leo. J. Picard responded.

PRINCE OF WALES

The ten commandments for women in wartime were given by Mrs. O. W. Laing, chairman of the Advisory Board of the Wartime Prices and Trades Board, who was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association, held Monday evening at the school. The subject of Mrs. Laing's address was "Rationing," and she summed up her talk with the ten rules to be observed by wartime housewives.

These rules are: Keep informed; check prices; do not hoard; conserve; live within rations; cooperate with merchants; do not spread rumors; salvage war materials; lend to the government; smile and be of good cheer.

Monday evening was "Citizenship Night." Mrs. G. Hutchinson was in the chair for the business meeting, and the report of the social evening held recently by the executive and the room mothers was given. The group met at the Y.M.C.A., spent the evening in bowling, after which a lunch was served.

The presentation of badges to the members of the Prince of Wales rugby team, which won the city championship last year, was made by Mr. G. S. Mattice, the principal. In his remarks, Mr. Mattice mentioned Mr. W. Noftall, the coach, and gave much of the credit for the success of the team to his wise leadership. Boys receiving badges were: Tom Kay, Dick Burrows, Fred McMullen, Allan Chalmers, Robert Miller, Ross Kidd, George Foster, Glen Kimberley, Doug. Dyer, N. Cullen, Leigh Hanes, Jack Storey, Robert Storey, Norman Nisbett, Stewart Brown.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, February 2

IT MIGHT be admonished that substantial support or personal cooperation from employers, superiors, elders or other influential persons be sought when circumstances arise that might impede the progress. Do not waste the energies and resources on substitutes or speculative enterprises, but tackle opportunities with sagacity, firmness and decisive assistance, being careful to avoid entangling alliances or dangerous schemes, when taken by surprise. Be armed with tangible resources and proceed on accepted methods not emotional disturbances or excesses.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may profit by seeking the aid and solid support either in wise counsel or financial cooperation of a tangible and practical dependability. Seek these, but be alert to intriguing adventurers or others with little of a substantial quality to offer. Work for sound constructive propositions and projects with force, energy and plans well-organized for future enduring culminations. Have tangible assets and shun being carried away by agitation, impetuosity or excess emotions. Likewise vanity and self-adulation.

A child born on this day may have opportunity in life to have the sound and generous approbation and support of those in prestige and financial standing. With emotional restraints and sound tactics they should enjoy surprising progress.

DOROTHY DIX

FEMALE DICTATOR REAL TYRANT

Must Be Obeyed and Takes From Children Individual Tastes, Habits, Opinions.

DEAR MISS DIX—War is complicated enough in itself, but mothers-in-law and grandmothers bawl it up still more, and to my notion are a greater menace to individual freedom than the Nazis and Japs. I am a married man in the army. Have a wife and one child. Knowing that I will have to go overseas soon, I would like to have my wife and child near me as long as possible, and I could easily arrange this. But my mother-in-law says NO.

She has taken possession of the baby and monopolizes him. She is going to train him according to her theories of child-rearing and we have no say-so about it. She makes all the decisions and we have to meekly do her bidding. And the only way we can keep the peace is by keeping our mouths shut and doing as she tells us. She is ruining our lives. Why doesn't she leave us alone to go our way while she goes hers?

FRED.

Women Dictators Greatest Tyrants

ANSWER—Some of the greatest tyrants in the world are women, and when a woman does have the dictator complex she makes all the Neros and the Hitlers look like appeasers. She not only rules all about her with a rod of iron, but she expects her victims to kiss the hand that smites them and to glorify her for her kindness in directing every detail of their lives for them.

Women's public activities being circumscribed, these female despots are driven to concentrating their efforts on their homes and families where they do a job of plain and fancy bossing that fills every beholder with awe and wonder. For they are not content with constituting themselves as She Who Must Be Obeyed and depriving their husbands and children of their major liberties; they also take away from them all of their little individual tastes and habits and opinions.

Thus we have the all too common spectacle of the henpecked husband who always walks behind his

MRS. E. LESSARD of Maymont, Sask., has been troubled for some time with severe pains across the forehead. The constant, sharp pains of these attacks make sleep impossible and bring on disagreeable nausea.

Quick Relief with Mustard

To overcome this condition, Mrs. Lessard says, "There is only one thing that has brought any comfort or caused the pain to subside. I prepare a very hot foot bath and put two tablespoonsful of mustard into it, having first mixed the mustard to a paste in cold water. This brings me immediate relief and relaxation."

"After this treatment," declares Mrs. Lessard, "sleep comes without any further effort, and I bless mustard for the relief it has brought me."

Many Ways to Use Mustard Remedy

You can use mustard in foot baths, complete baths, poultices or plasters to relieve pain of Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, over-tired Muscles, etc.

The strongest proof of the value of mustard in treating so many common ailments is the fact that thousands of people like Mrs. Lessard depend on it year after year and recommend its use to friends and relatives. Always keep mustard handy in your house in case of emergency to relieve Chills or Colds, or when you feel depressed by Grippe or other Winter infections. A mustard poultice or plaster should not be left on more than twenty minutes. If symptoms are serious it is wise to call your doctor promptly.

Civil Servants Plan To Organize

F. W. Whitehouse of Ottawa, organizing secretary of the Civil Service Federation of Canada, explained its objects to a company of local employees of the national service at a meeting in the city council chamber last night which was sponsored by the recently organized District Council of the Federation.

Of the 130,000 Civil Servants now employed across Canada, 24,000 are members of the Federation, and, of the others, 40,000 are in the permanent category and 70,000 are on the temporary list.

One of the topics discussed by Mr. Whitehouse was the inclusion after April 1 next of the cost of living bonus in salaries up to $3,000. "That change will not make much difference until after the war, but you will feel the benefit then because the bonus becomes part of your salaries and cannot be taken away from you," Mr. Whitehouse said. He added that official confirmation had not been given. Many of the temporary Civil Servants engaged since the outbreak of the war have been concerned about the prospect of their retention when peace returns. It is regarded as a post-war question, and the attitude of the Federation has been to represent their interests in the hope that by transfers and otherwise many of them will be kept in the Service in departments for which they are competent.

The balance to the credit of the Superannuation Fund at the end of 1942 was $63,700,000, but Mr. Whitehouse told the meeting there had been no actuarial statement that the Fund was solvent, although official intimations were to the effect that it is solvent. With a balance of such proportions one of the members enquired whether the Fund should not be self-sustaining, but there was no information available on that point.

War time extension of the age limit of sixty-five years was also mentioned. One of the changes mentioned as a prospect in the period after the war was the lowering of the superannuation age from 65 to 60 years as a means of "making room for chaps coming back from the war," Mr. Whitehouse said that in the postal department it was believed that 5,000 employees would be taken on after the war. Such an increase could not be absorbed by the opening of new post offices, and for that reason the general opinion was that "the age limit may be cut down."

The government's decision that every employee in the Service should contribute to unemployment insurance irrespective of permanency of engagement was another topic mentioned by Mr. Whitehouse.

The Federation as an expanding agency operating for the benefit of all its members, and supporting departmental affiliates, was recommended in the discussion of an aid to all Civil Servants and deserving their active co-operation and active membership.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Whitehouse in a motion by Frank Smith.

Springville Charge Has Successful Year

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 1.—(ENS). —Reports for 1943 reveal that the Springville pastoral charge under the superintendency of the Rev. J. F Everson for the past 4½ years has closed one of the most successful periods for many years.

Sixteen young people were received on profession of faith during the year, and 42 during the present pastorate. The financial position has improved by several hundreds of dollars. The two W.M.S. exceeded their allocations by $38. Contributions to the M. & M. Fund rose to $381, an increase of $49 over 1942. The minister's salary was increased by one hundred dollars. A total of $707 was given to regular missionary work, and twenty dollars additional to the liquidation of the deficit fund. The work of all the organizations was found to be satisfactory.

Sharp Reduction In Taxation Solution Of Municipal Tax

Declaring that the only solution of the municipal tax problem was to be found in a sharp reduction of municipal taxation and a substantial change in the method of assessment and collection of taxes, H. E. Manning, K.C., Toronto, president of the Ontario Ratepayers' Association outlined in an address to the Peterborough Rotary Club yesterday a program that he believed would bring about the desired results.

In the first place Mr. Manning proposed a limitation of spending and the reduction of municipal tax burdens by cutting down the number of things on which municipalities might spend money and transferring responsibilities for certain types of service such as relief, hospitalization and education to other shoulders. This would involve, the speaker said, a close supervision of estimates and should also involve internal self discipline.

Secondly under the heading of "rearrangement of municipal tax resources." Mr. Manning recommended the elimination of many exemptions from taxation now enjoyed by public utilities and by favored classes of the people.

"There are many hidden elements of cost" said the speaker "in the immunity enjoyed by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, some discriminatory immunities in some places enjoyed by Canadian National Railways, all the immunities enjoyed by government-owned manufacturing and production plants, much of the immunity enjoyed by Wartime Housing Limited. That hidden cost has to be borne by the householders and business people of the community."

"The Department of Munitions and Supply", he added "is causing its war plants to refuse even to pay the local improvement charges for service developed at the expense of the municipal credit prior to the government becoming the owner of property.

No government could force the confiscation of the property of the private situation more clearly than that."

An Occupancy Tax

The speaker also called attention to what he termed the desirability of making every person who has a municipal vote pay a municipal tax, the amount of which would vary according to the frugality or extravagance of the council elected by his vote.

"The suggestion made by property owners to the Provincial Government in their latest brief" said Manning "is that every occupant of property who is not subject to business assessment should be assessed for an occupancy tax based upon twice the yearly rental value of the property. This would reduce a tax liability equal to about 20 per cent of the liability of the owner of the property."

The third head of reform in the tax system outlined by the speaker was a revamping of the provisions for the valuation of property and the administration of assessment appeals.

Only Source Is Income

"It is absurb to say that any property should be taxed for any sum of money which that property does not in the year of taxation produce" declared Mr. Manning. "The only source of wealth is income."

"We propose," he added, "that the valuation of property shall never be allowed to exceed that which can be realized from the property now, regardless of what could be realized on some changed set of circumstances. We propose also that the taxpayer should be given just as complete a right of appeal to the courts of law on questions of fact as the common criminal and every other type of lawbreaker has."

Mr. Manning, who was introduced by Rotarian T. J. Carley, K.C., prefaced his address by a reference to what he termed "a great stirring of political change" noticed in Canada during the past six months.

"The rise of the C.C.F." said Mr. Manning, "Its urgent demand for the socialization of finance and industry and the remarkable suggestion by leaders of that party that if by any chance they should come into power they would take strong and uncompromising measures to enforce their will upon any minority which was unwilling to accept the abolition of existing features of our economy has produced an equally remarkable series of reverses at the municipal elections from British Columbia to this province."

"The determined effort to introduce party politics into municipal organization and particularly to gain control of the national will by first infiltrating into municipal government deserves some attention from the point of view of municipal tax problems."

"The constant attacks upon those of us who insist that the only solution of the municipal tax problem is to be found in a sharp reduction of the amount of municipal spending and a substantial change in the method of assessment and collection of taxes cannot pass without notice because they are symptoms of the trouble"

Criticism Necessary

"Any attack upon the causes of our present tax troubles necessarily involves sharp criticism of the weight of unemployment relief burdens on municipal taxpayers, criticism of the excessive burden of educational costs in some municipalities, and drawing attention to the serious consequences of increases in the municipal wage bill. It necessitates critical examination of proposals for extended municipal participation in providing houses for low-income groups at less than costs. Inevitably we have been labelled as reactionary."

"It does not matter we have been fighting the battle of the small proprietor whose hold upon his own home is weakened by every increase of taxes. What is forgotten by the people who criticize our resistance to increasing taxes is that increased taxes are a far more serious threat to the security of the small home owner than is mortgage money at 6 per cent instead of at 4 per cent, payable in five years instead of amortized over a longer period of time".

Mr. Manning took some time to discuss the question of property rights

"The assertion has been made", he said, "that human rights are being ignored in favor of property rights. That assertion is misleading in the extreme. The fact is property rights are human rights and the most important basic human rights which exist under our law, the establishment of security in the possession of one's property is the first stage in the development of any civilization from mere barbarism".

"The truth of the matter" continues the speaker "is that the most important of all the personal rights belonging to any one are property rights and nothing but property rights".

New Form Of Selfihne

"That bring me to what, I think, is the secret of all the present day restlessness. It is the jealousy of certain people, who have not been successful in the material world, of the prosperity of other people. It is the desire to acquire for themselves what other people have built up. It is merely a new form of selfishness."

"The significance of this in regard to municipal taxation is that if by colorful description of our deficiencies agitators can dressup their objectives as something highly moral and very desirable if they can induce people to believe there is no duty to pay for what they get then of course the man who insists upon his fundamental human right of property is a reactionary, the same kind of a recreationary who built up this country".

Declaring that municipal taxation had proven itself to be excessive Mr. Manning quoted figures from the city of Toronto where he said there had been a substantial decrease in the number of home owners. In the dozen years which followed 1929, he said, home ownership in Toronto declined by something like 13 or 14 per cent, although the population of the city had increased in the same period by rather more than 20 per cent.

In conclusion after outlining his program Mr. Manning declared that the municipality was essentially a business organization.

"It is not concerned with the fashioning of a new world. Its duty is the humdrum duty of providing roads and sewers, sidewalks and electric lights, water and fire protection and police. It is not the setting up of a new order of human beings. That type of reform belongs to the national and provincial governments. Municipalities may well influence that judgment but ought not to attempt to bring it about themselves".

Rotarian I. F. McRae expressed the thanks of the club to Mr. Manning for his address.

President Mr. George Gillespie presided and there was a large attendance of members and guests, the latter including Mayor James Hamilton, City Clerk E. A. Outram and City Assessor W. J. Henry.

Owing to bad ice the Hockey game with the Park Hill community Troop had to be postponed, to be played on Tuesday, February 1st, if weather permits.

These boys were successful in passing tests, Russ Andrews and Wayne Ferguson:—First Aid, Ross Barker:—Scout Laws. A court of Honour meeting was held.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

From Lakefield comes the complaint that old John B. Winter has been letting down the hockey teams in that village and among the victims is the team representing Grove School. Because of the unusually mild weather of the past few weeks the boys on the Grove squad have been unable to hold many practices, in spite of the heavy schedule that awaits them. The team is expecting to play quite a number of games with district teams, as well as their regular prep school exhibition games with Trinity College School, Port Hope, St. Andrew's College at Aurora, Pickering College and Joe Primeau's junior B entry, Upper Canada College, Toronto. The Grove team is being coached this year by Edgar Moore of Peterborough, a former Grove pupil who also handled the football team last autumn. Mr. Moore expresses great confidence in this year's hockey squad and explains that any weaknesses in sight at present could be blamed largely on the lack of practice. With the coming of colder weather, the Grove should improve steadily.

* * * * * *

This year the team is built around the speedy front line of Harris, Giroux and Mackenzie, three boys who have been playing together for several years and who show a superb passing attack. The second line is pivoted on Hoppo Strathy, last season's centre ace with Eayrs and Langmuir on the wings. Ian Hyde, last year's goalie is back in the nets and Doug Crang, a newcomer to the school, is also working out between the posts. Shanly, Smart, Patton and Roy share the defence duties and round out a well-balanced squad who just want a week or two of good ice to show their stuff. The only tangible result that the Grove team can show so far is a 7 to 3 win over a Lakefield team, played a week or so ago as a pre-season warmup for both squads.

Great Future For Hockey

American sports writers are predicting big things for professional hockey after the war. One Cleveland scribe, pointing to big attendances at games in both the National Hockey League and the minor pros argues that new class of fan is being developed during the war time boom, folk who are making big money and as a result have begun to patronize hockey and to like it. The Cleveland writer says thousands of the regular fans who have known and followed hockey for years are now in the armed services. The result he predicts is that when the war is over the former fans will be climbing out of the fox holes, stepping down out of the planes and coming ashore from the battle wagons to follow their favorite game. In the meanwhile a new crowd of hockey followers will have developed and the final result will be such a body of fans that more professional teams will have to be provided and more hockey arenas erected to take care of all the people who want to watch hockey. He predicts there will be clubs in many American cities not at present represented in pro circles. If he is half right there will be plenty of opportunity for young Canadians for it looks as if this country will have to continue to provide the player material that will be needed. Unless Peterborough steps into line with a modern hockey plant capable of giving youngsters a chance to develop, the boys of this community are going to miss the boat when the plums are being handed out.

Hockey's Hall of Fame at Kingston is beginning to attract attention and already the question of how the players to be honored by selection for this shrine of hockey are to be chosen is being considered. Our advice would be to make haste slowly in that direction. If we are to look for guidance to baseball's hall of fame idea we will find that our neighbors have not been in a hurry to name baseball stars for the great honor of being remembered in this way. The first step was to choose a few of the great names in the early days of baseball and then to add slowly to this initial panel, taking care that only those whose exploits on the baseball diamond have really earned for them, such a distinction are considered as possible selections. We should proceed on somewhat similar lines in choosing our hockey greats. Already there have been scores of players mentioned. Some of them, in the opinion of this column at least, never possessed the qualities to warrant their being chosen in the select few whose names are to be kept alive in the hockey hall of fame. We venture the opinion that a similar criticism could not be made in regard to a single name on the American list of great ball players. Each one selected was so clearly worthy of the honor that the choice was never attacked.

In The Junior Groups

Oshawa Generals were to have played at Port Colborne tonight but the Port team is badly riddled as a result of injuries on the ice and a car accident on the way home from St. Catharines Saturday night and as a result the game will have to be postponed. The Port Colborne team has been playing very good hockey, especially at home, claiming Galt as one of their victims there last week and Soup Campbell of the Oshawa Times-Gazette had been warning the Generals that they would have to be at their best. Incidentally he also adds the following: "There are not very many games left but the Generals still have to win a couple away from home in order to be certain of finishing in first place. They have still to visit Port Colborne, Hamilton and St. Mike's, while Young Rangers and St. Kitts have yet to come to Oshawa. Just a word about Galt—it seems that South Porcupine hasn't given official releases to their two players who last week moved into Galt and certain clubs are all set to protest if Galt uses either Babando or McKay without proper permission. It looks as if Galt interests are trying everything possible. They have already had more than 20 imports there this winter."

In the National Hockey League race the Chicago Black Hawks play in Boston tonight and a win over the Bruins will put the Chicago club right in behind the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Detroit Red Wings who are tied for second place. The Hawks should do the trick for the Rossmen appear to be completely demoralized and are not likely to make much of a stand against the sizzling Hawks although this seems to be one of those seasons when anything is liable to happen. Although the Leafs are tied for second place the position of the Toronto club is not nearly as good as it appears for the standing shows that Hap Day's brigade have played a total of 35 games while Detroit who are even with them in points have only had 32 battles so far and thus have a chance to pick up six points. That is true of the Chicago Black Hawks who also have three games in hand so far as the Leafs are concerned, and of the leading Canadiens who are already 17 points ahead of Toronto and in a position to make it a margin of 23.

Curling News

By HERB. MARTIN

Well, we're still living in Canada and it looks as if we may have a few cold days yet.

The sudden dip last evening is just going to fix things up pretty nice for the ladies' Tankard on Thursday and Friday. It may have been a wise move after all to postpone the contest 'till the end of this week.

After a lay-off for about ten days some of the curlers got going again Monday night. True, all the ices were not fit to play on, but to-night we expect it will be altogether different.

We have received instructions that from now until we catch up with the schedule, it will be double-headers. So curlers take heed and be prepared.

Boston Bruins Meet Chicago Tonight's Game

By The Canadian Press.

Two teams whose recent records are diametrically opposite clash to-night in a National Hockey League contest which incidentally supports the theory that one or two good players can make or break a club in wartime.

The opponents are Boston Bruins who rode the league's top brackets until three of their star performers traded sticks for crutches a few weeks ago, and the Chicago Black Hawks, currently on the crest of a four-game winning sequence which has lifted them one point ahead of the fifth-place Bruins.

The Bruins haven't gained a point in six games since January 15, a week after Bill Cowley suffered his shoulder injury against Toronto Maple Leafs. Chicago, on the other hand, won only one game in nine starts from December 22 to January 22 before starting their upsurge with the arrival of Goalie Mike Karakas and Defenceman Art Wiebe.

Boston, outscored 30-27 in breaking even in six starts against Chicago this season, will have the advantage of home ice for to-night's game.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star has uncovered new evidence of hockeys anticipated rapid growth in United States. Doug quotes Franklin Lewis, sports editor of the Cleveland Press: "It seems to me that hockey, more than any other sport, is adding fans in these troubled years."

Lewis anticipates terrific expansion of hockey after the war, even to the extent of endangering baseball as the United States major sport. He says football may have a hand He refers to professional football's August-through-December season, envisages lengthening of the hockey season into May and comments:

"Unless baseball meets the challenge of hockey through April and even through May and of football through August and September, the so-called national sport may be a June-July affair, as far as its monopoly is concerned. Baseball now is no longer a daily sport. It's a night, week-end novelty attraction.

"Comes the revolution and more fun, I'al guarantee."

Soo, Soo, baby:

One of the famous old hockey circuits of the West, the Soo Line League in Southern Saskatchewan, has vanished with the war. Towns between Estevan and Moose Jaw which once produced players like Nick and Don Metz, Buzz Boll, Ken Doraty, Elmer Kreller, have given their youth to the services and war plants. Only in Wilcox is there an effort to keep hockey alive. There Father Murray, long the sponsor of youthful sport, has organized a four-team league.

Incidentally:

Extension of the service ban to all interprovincial sports upset the New Brunswick basketball calculations. The senior game in that province was knocked kicking because the only two senior clubs were Air Force teams at Scoudouc and Pennfield. The entire intermediate schedule requires revision. Four civilian intermediate teams remain, two in Saint John and one each in Fredericton and Moncton ....Jimmy Ward, former Montreal Maroons star, is refereeing minor hockey on Montreal outdoor rinks ....Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson recalls one of the great scorers of hockey was the late Marty Walsh of Ottawa. Walsh scored 42 goals in 12 games in 1909, playing with the Ottawa Stanley Cup champions. That same year Chubby Power of Quebec finished fourth in scoring with 21 goals. Chubby now is Canada's Air Minister.

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 2 — (CP).— Bashing a defence carried no terror for hockey-playing Don Maher of Westmount, Que., but he holds no ambition to participate in the favorite sport around his present locale. He admits, however, to being an ardent ringsider.

Al this information comes from the Azores where the most popular sport is bull fighting. Don, a gunner with the rank of flight sergeant, in a Coastal Command Flying Fortress, is stationed there along with many other Canadians. It's a far cry from the time he played hockey with Toronto's senior Marlboros, and Victoria and Verdun juniors in Montreal.

"One of the R.A.F. boys stepped into the bull ring the other day," Don said in a letter here, "He looked like a born toreador as he tossed the darts at the bull, then took some smart evasive action. But not for me.

"I've seen some of these local chaps nearly killed, despite padding on the bull's horns. Under Portuguese regulations, it's illegal to kill the animals.

"I'll stick to softball around these parts."

That softball business is pretty easy to do, as far as numbers go, because there are plenty of Canadians in this R.A..F unit. The main difficulty is obtaining softballs. Incidentally, one of Maher's softball mates is FO. Bob Thomson whose Westmount home is less than two blocks from that of Maher.

Since moving overseas Maher has been doing anti-submarine patrol with the Fortress unit, both here and in the balmy Azores.

It has come to pass that Porky Dumart and Milt Schmidt rate snappy salutes from that third member of the Boston Bruin Kraut line, Bobby Bauer.

That's because Porky just received his commission and, like Milt, is a pilot officer. Bobby is a leading aircraftman engaged in radio work.

Milt and Porky are sports officers at a couple of stations of the Canadian Bomber Group.

A lad who keeps games going at one Canadian bomber station is Sgt. Jock Stephen, 33-year-old physical training instructor from Rosemount, Que. He organizes everything from hockey to baseball and received his early experience at No. 1 Wireless School, in Montreal.

A sister, AC1 Barbara Stephen, is a member of the R.C.A.F. (W. D.) Training Command Headquarters in Calgary.

Herbie Cain In First Place Tie With L. Carr

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Boston's Herbie Cain pulled into a first-place tie with Lorne Carr of Toronto during the last week of National Hockey League play, picking up three points to raise his total to 56.

Carr, who led the point-getting parade alone a week ago, added two points since the previous weekly official combilation, while the injured Bill Cowley of Boston retained third spot, four points behind the leaders, despite another week of idleness.

In fourth spot with an even 50 points is Doug Bentley of Chicago, a point ahead of team-mate Bill Mosienko. A year ago to-day Cowley was leading the field with 51 points, and Carr was second with 49.

Cain's 29 goals put him in the lead in that department, three up on Carr and four up on Mud Bruneteau of Detroit. Cowley and Buddie O'Connor are tied for assist honors with 33 each, while Elmer Lach of Canadiens and Clint Smith of the Hawks have 32 each.

Mike McMahon continues atop the penalty department, with one hour and one minute served in majors and minors so far.

Callura Loses 10-Round Spat

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Feb 1 — (CP). — Gallant little ex-champion Jack Callura, of Hamilton, Ont., was pushed back in the featherweight ruck here last night by a run-of-the-mill 126-pounder, Charles (Cabby) Lewis of New York.

Lewis all but toyed with Callura in hammering out a unanimous decision triumph over the Canadian in a 10-round feature bout that attracted a $4,056 gate, part of which will go to the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

The New York negro speared Callura with straight and curved left and right hand smashes, dropped him to the canvas twice, once in the first round and again in the eighth, and throughout had much the better of the scrap.

Callura weighed 129¾ to Lewis' 125½.

Callura's stablemate, Tony Brandino of Hamilton, Ont., 148½, knocked out Jackie Collins of Boston, 156, in the fourth round of a scheduled six-rounder.

13 Sure Starters

NEW YORK (AP)—A graduate of the Shipyards Baseball League, Daniel Gardella, 22-year-old New Yorker, yesterday was signed as an outfielder for the New York Giants. The National Leaguers now have 13 players in the 4-F draft classification while, another, pitcher Johnny Allen, is over the draft age.

Ban Jap Players

BRIDGETON, N.J. (AP)—The police last night placed a ban on the playing of a basketball game in which three American-born Japanese were to have played following warning of impending trouble because of recent news regarding Japanese atrocities. One of the Jap players has a brother with the U.S. Army in Italy, it was stated.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 — (AP). — Capt. Hank Greenberg, now a student at the Army's School for Special Services at Washington and Lee University, says: "I've been in the Army three years now and I don't know anything about baseball"....He'd still have a hard time convincing the Briggs Stadium bleacherites.

Just for the records:

Wonder if any one-coach High School can beat this?...In 21 years that Wallace Bailey (West Point 1921) has been coaching at Russellville, Ark., High School, his teams have compiled this record: Football—Won 150, lost 49, tied 15; track—won 81, lost 24; basketball—won 292, lost 101; golf—won 16, lost 5.

One-minute sports page:

Red Ormsby, the retired American League umpire, also has retired as a member of Chicago's County Highway Police Force. When a retrenchment order reduced him from sergeant to patrolman, Red thought of his 12 kids, and went looking for a more lucrative job......Leo Diegel's idea of having golf raise the dough to build golf courses at veterans' hospitals, seems to be going over. One is being built at Valley Forge, Pa..... Diegel ran an exhibition at the Torresdale Club to provide $10,000 for that—and the second will be built near Cleveland.

IT DIDN'T PAY

PERTH, Australia—(CP)—A store advertised that it had 30,000 clothes pegs for sale. The next morning crowds rushed the place, burst open the doors, and swept away a guard of shop assistants. Clothes pegs are one of the wartime shortages.

Baseball Moguls To Discuss Post-War Plans

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 — (AP). — The recent discussions of baseball's farm system—for and against—may have led to the belief that when baseball's post-war planning committee meets on Saturday, the minor league setup will be the principal problem.

That idea, according to Ford C. Frick, National League president and a member of the committee, is all wrong. Frick doesn't believe there will be much talk about the farms at the outset because there are more immediate problems to settle.

The most pressing matter still is how the ball players who return from the services when the war ends can be absorbed. That, he says, "affects the fairly immediate future. If the war should end, say, in the middle of next summer, we would have to have the machinery ready to take care of these men.

"We don't know where we could use them or when; whether a fellow who has been in the Army a couple of years still can play major league baseball or how long it will take him to get into shape. Our problem is to provide enough flexibility to cover all contingencies."

The National League president also pointed out the legal requirement that a baseball club, just like any other business, must re-employ a returning soldier in approximately the same position that he held before the war within 40 days after he applies for reinstatement. Under present conditions, with the major league clubs restricted to 25 active players and a reserve list of 40, the only solution would be to release enough men to make room for those who returned.

Organize Groups To Boost Baseball

CHICAGO, Feb. 1—(AP). — The National Baseball Congress today opened a nation-wide campaign to organize "old time baseball player and fan" groups to perpetuate the sport as the national pastime during the war period.

President Ray Dumont said free charters are to be issued to all "old time" groups in a national association and function of each organization will be to organize semi-pro leagues into a national association and establish district tournaments.

He said plans call for each group to have its own "hall of fame," selected from persons who have accomplished most for baseball in the section which the charter covers. Three persons will be named annually by each group.

The congress today also approved 1944 starting dates and sites of 22 state tournaments, winners of which qualify further in the program to determine the national championship at Wichita, Kas., next August 11 to 25.

United Church Plans To Clear Off Mortgage

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1— (ENS).—All departments of Lakefield United church showed balances for the year 1943 as about a hundred members and adherents gathered for the official annual meeting following a banquet in the church basement.

One of the outstanding decisions of the session was the plan to completely wipe out the $2,800 mortgage on the new parsonage this year, thus leaving the church completely free of debt. The pastor, Rev. George Kelly, was given an additional month's salary to cover the increased cost of living in conformity with the United Church policy throughout Canada.

Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's church, as guest speaker, said the year 1944 is likely to be one of the most momentous in the world's history. The dominant idea is the war and the church has a contribution, a message of peace, comfort, hope and salvation to give to a war troubled world, he declared.

Many people wonder what the position of the church will be after the war. "The church," said the speaker, "is imperishable. It is the pillar of morality and Christianism, the ground for democracy."

Dr. Young asked those present to pray for their pastor, to refrain from criticism and to co-operate with the church in the trying days ahead.

Treasurer's Repor.

The church treasurer, George Spence, reported a balance on hand of $386.44, of which $155 was sent from Young's Point. Seven hundred dollars was sent to the United Church of Canada for missions, leaving a small balance on hand. The Women's Association had an exceptionally good year, with expenditures of $598.07 and a balance of $85.06. They had sent 58 boxes to members of the congregation with the armed forces. Mrs. A. E. Higgins is the treasurer.

The report from the session, submitted by Andrew Young, showed 6 members died during the year, 7 members moved away and twelve new members were recieved. The Women's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. P. Spence is treasurer, showed a balance of $8.84 with expenditures of $417.89. The Missionary and Service Club reported a balance of $19.64 with expenditures of $197. The Sunday school treasurer, Miss Zelma Darling, reported a balance of $24.44 with expenditures of $273.91. The Young People's Union met expenses of $31.31, leaving a balance of $7.78. The Mission Band had raised $74.23 during the year and had a balance of $5.63.

Miscellaneous expenditures were: Ontario Temperance Federation, $53.25; Lord's Day Alliance, $40; British War Victims' Fund, $100.50; soldiers' Christmas boxes, $83; Red Cross (per Young Women's Missionary and Service Club) $25; to missions, congregation $700, W. M. S. $410, Mission Band $61.

Elect Officers.

W. A. Fairbairn, Sherman Northey and George Hendren were elected elders for a five year term. Theodore Crawford, Frank Payne, Roy Kidd and John McKercher were elected stewards for a five year term. Jack Brown was elected for a four year term in place of E. Davidson, who died during the year, and Wilbert Frankish for a one year term to fill the vacancy left by the late Dr. H. E. Moore. W. A. Fairbairn and Charles Hunter were elected auditors. Miss Zelma Darling was named observer representative and the ushers for this year will be David Spence, Alex and Bob Hunter, Jack Millage, Don Milburn, Melvin Northey, Gordon Carveth, Ken Carveth and Ralph Jackman.

OUSTED BY LABOR PARTY

MANCHESTER England —(CP)— Alderman Joe Tolle, former member of the Labor Party National Executive, has been expelled from the party for breaking the election truce by contesting the Skipton by-election as an independent. He lost his deposit in the election.

COULDN'T SLEEP COULDN'T WORK

What a relief to settle down to a real night's rest, and awake fully refreshed, ready for the day's duties. I was tortured by broken nights—tossing, turning—never comfortable. Half awake days —over-tired, driving body and mind to work when they needed rest. "Try Dodd's Kidney Pills," said a friend—"it may be your kidneys." I'm glad I followed his advice as now I'm sleeping like a top—thanks to Dodd's.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

R.C.A.M.C. WAGES SUCCESSFUL FIGHT—Waging a war behind the lines against the scourge of malaria, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps officers and men in the Mediterranean have capped a campaign to popularize the use of a little yellow pill—the anti-malaria synthetic quinine drug, Mepacrine, with important success. Snappy slogans that caught the eyes of the troops and cautioned even generals to wear long trousers and roll down their sleeves after sunset helped put the use of Mepacrine across. The result: the incidence of malaria among Canadians in North Africa, Sicily and Italy was less than 10 per cent. of the malaria rate with only 0.25 deaths in every thousand men. On the left is shown samples of "catch" phrases which were posted on the roads in Sicily and Italy to keep Canadian soldiers Mepacrine-minded. Right, stores of goods including Mepacrine awaiting distribution.

Gendarmerie Victims' Cries Heard Months In Shanghai

By RUSSELL BRINES—Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP).—Revelations of Japanese brutality to American and Filipino war prisoners from Bataan and Corregidor highlight many stories of Japanese militarists' inhumanity reported in scraps of information reaching me while I was a civilian internee at Manila and Shanghai.

Manila internees who underwent unrestrained Japanese tortures came back to Santo Tomas camp with tense faces and tight lips, betraying the full measure of their experiences.

Once in gendarmerie clutches, the prisoner was entirely at the mercy of unprincipled secret police officers who consider force and brutality essential to their trade.

Their methods of eliciting information vary from plain beatings with a lead-weighted club to more vicious measures—the rack; the "water cure" which involves the first stages of drowning; day-long kneeling on a concrete floor, with an iron bar between the victim's knees, and other, more unspeakable "refinements."

(Russell Brines, Associated Press correspondent in Manila when the Japanese struck, was interned for nine months at Santo Tomas Camp here In September, 1942, he was taken to Shanghai, where he was interned for a year before he boarded a repatriation ship last September.)

The gendarmerie operates through all occupied Asia. Thousands of natives in every locality and more than 200 Occidentals have felt their brutality. In Shanghai, particularly, the moans of gendarmerie victims in half a dozen central stations have been heard for months by neighboring residents.

Weak Die And Hauled Away.

No foreigner can say accurately how many have died in gendarmerie stations. The prisoners are thrown back into dingy, barren and crowded cells, without medical treatment, after undergoing torture. The weak die and are hauled away; the strong recover somehow.

Kuangson Young, Chinese Consul-General in Manila, and at least 1) of his staff were shot after undergoing gendarmerie torture.

A prominent British businessman in Hong Kong died in a gendarmerie station. The Japanese said the cause was beri-beri, but they refrained from delivering his body to the widow until it was so decomposed that interned British doctors could not make an autopsy.

I was in Santo Tomas when two Britons and an Australian were captured while attempting to escape. Foreign Secretary Eden reported their preliminary beatings and their summary execution after a brief court-martial.

They were shot while sitting on the edge of a large communal grave in a local cemetery. Other internees, forced by the Japanese to attend as witnesses, said the men still were moaning when laborers started shoveling dirt over them.

been raiding the Marshall Islands group" since Sunday morning but that details of the fighting are "not known to us at this time."

The broadcast, intended for domestic consumption and recorded by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, said: "It has been made clear to us that the enemy has taken a new offensive operation against our Marshall Island group" and that "we can surmise the enemy has raided our islands with a task force on a large scale."

While describing the attacking force as "superior," the broadcast assured Japanese audiences that "our army and navy forces garrisoned on the islands have intercepted and now are engaged in fierce fighting."

Wording of this announcement was similar to that of a English language broadcast which the Tokyo radio beamed to North America yesterday morning.

Another Tokyo broadcast last night described the attack as "centring around aircraft carriers" and spoke of it as the "second phase" of a large operation.

The German-controlled Vichy radio quoted Tokyo reports today American forces attacking the Marshalls were "the most important ever to take part in such an operation." This broadcast said fighting of "extreme violence" was still under way.

countries."

The idea of a common Empire policy "runs counter to the establishment of an effective world security and therefore is opposed to the true interests of the Commonwealth itself."

Coldwell Opposed

Disagreement with the Halifax view point was also expressed by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader. Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, said his party would not raise a controversial issue "when common sense indicates that every effort must be made to secure a united Canada in a greater and more powerful British Commonwealth."

Mr. King said it was unfortunate Lord Halifax made his Toronto speech at the time he did, since it tended to divert attention from the winning of the war. He expressed hope the subject would not be debated at length in the House—but he invited other party leaders to state their views and said he was not avoiding the issue.

Apart from a few jibes at the national leader of the Progressive-Conservative party, John Bracken, it was a friendly opening of a Throne Speech debate, and also one of the most expeditious on record. Both Mr. King and Mr. Graydon had finished their speeches before the dinner adjournment — 2½ hours for two speeches which in previous years had taken as much as eight.

Ribs Bracken

Mr. King called upon Mr. Bracken to obtain a seat in the House and said the Conservative party had not had a leader in Parliament since 1940. No man who was not elected to Parliament, said the Prime Minister, had the right to speak for the Canadian people.

Mr. Coldwell said Mr. Bracken had had ample opportunity to seek a seat in the two by-elections in Western Canada last year.

New Democracy leader John Blackmore had his own challenge for Mr. Bracken. He asked Mr. Bracken to say whether he stood with the common man or with international finance. Mr. Bracken had once been a friend of the common man, said Mr. Blackmore, but he added that now he was not sure since Mr. Bracken had become Progressive Conservative leader.

New Democracy, said Mr. Blackmore, stands for abundance against scarcity, for full production, and for the maximum use of Canada's natural resources. To achieve that it would be necessary to have debt-free money.

Condemned Mutual Aid

Maxine Raymond, leader of the Bloc Populaire, was the last of four party leaders to speak. He said he looked upon the Speech from the Throne as a preliminary to an election. He condemned mutual aid with its gifts to Britain, a country richer than Canada, and a war effort disproportionate to Canada's means.

Frederic Dorion urged Canada to send an Ambassador to the Vatican and asked the Prime Minister to press for representation of the Pope at the peace conference.

Both Mr. Graydon and Mr. Coldwell accused the Liberal Government of adopting their parties' programs. Mr. Graydon spoke particularly of the Throne Speech proposal to establish a floor under farm prices—a development which he said came from Mr. Bracken's Lethbridge, Alberta, speech on agricultural policy. Mr. Coldwell said the Social Security proposals in the speech came from the C.C.F. program but that the government had not gone so far as to adopt the economic base which would make Social Security possible.

With the bank act up for revision this year, Mr. Coldwell urged public ownership and control of all banks. He said the government should retain the war plants it had created and use them to produce peacetime goods.

Parliament should announce the sum it was prepared to spend in the post-war period—"say $5,000,000,000 a year on housing, develop rural electrification and extend scientific research.

Urges Social Security

Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Graydon both urged the government to put its proposed social security measures on the statue books this session.

Mr. Graydon, who spoke before the Prime Minister's statement on the election, said "the vague generalization" in the throne speech would accomplish nothing. Mr. Coldwell said the measures proposed were "not firm commitments" and the government should put them into effect before going to the country.

Mr. Graydon proposed an amendment and Mr. Coldwell a subamendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The Progressive Conservative motion expressed regret regarding men and women on demobilization, to provide adequate measures for Agriculture, to establish a national labor code, to correct coercive and restrictive clauses in the wages control order, to lesson bureaucratic controls and to halt infringement of provincial rights.

MORE ABOUT— Tom Dewey

Willkie and toward Dewey is gaining momentum even in the face of the latter's apparent indifference.

This Dewey trend will grow, says the Washington Post's Edward Folliard, "unless some of the smartest politicians in the G.O.P. have lost all their sagacity."

Republicans, apparently convinced that they will have to beat Roosevelt if they are to win this year, seemed determined to put up New York's famous "gang-buster" against the greatest vote-getter of all time.

But Dewey, busy and happy at his task of running New York State—next to the Presidency, the biggest political job in America—is as sphynx-like as Roosevelt was in 1940 and promises to be in 1944.

From many points of view Dewey appears to be in the best possible position for the Republican nomination—a position he might never hold again, and there seems little doubt that when the Republican convention in Chicago is over next June it will be Dewey who will carry into the Presidential campaign the hopes of the G.O.P.

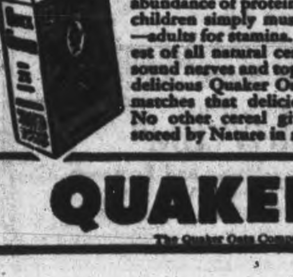
I DON'T WANT TO CHEAT MY FAMILY of the Big Health Factors IN WHOLE-GRAIN QUAKER OATS



I know that no other natural cereal gives them such an abundance of protein—meat's main element. Growing children simply must have protein for normal growth—adults for stamina. Whole-grain oatmeal is also rich in vitamin B₁—needed for sound nerves and top energy. So I serve big bowls of delicious Quaker Oats to my family daily. Nothing but the natural whole-grain oatmeal. No other cereal gives the same healthful benefits stored by Nature in real whole-grain oatmeal.

St. Paul's Church Holds Annual Meeting

MARMORA, Feb. 1— (ENS).—The annual vestry meeting of St. Paul's Anglican church was held in the parish hall on Monday evening, the rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, presiding. Mrs. Percy Gray acted as vestry clerk.

The treasurer's report, presented by G. Kerr, revealed receipts as $3,433.38. Included in the disbursements were $295 on the parish hall mortgage, $260 on the rectory mortgage, $162 for missions, and $341.39 for the new furnace installed last summer. Reports of the Laymen's Association showing the raising of $173.70 for various funds, and St. Paul's furnace and basement repair fund which reached a tqotal of $426.25 were given by W. J. Cottrell.

As chief canvasser in a triple canvass about to be concluded, Mr. Cottrell showed that at the end of 1943, $364.50 had been received from a canvass which had as its objective approximately $750. On behalf of Miss Jennie Gray, Mrs. Percy Gray gave the report of the Sunday school. Receipts for the year were $141.38 and expenses which included $63 for missions totalled $123.29. The rector's report which followed gave the following figures. Number of services 101, celebrations of Holy Communion 15, mid-week services 7, Easter communicants 64, baptisms 29, confirmed 10, marriages 6 and burials 10, Sunday school sessions 52, average attendance 32.

Guild Reports.

A successful year for the Ladies' Guild was indicated by Mrs R. E. Bonter in her report. Of total receipts of $772.04, $727.40 was allotted to the general funds of the church. The report of the Chancel Guild was given by Mrs. Reg Winters. The Guild received donations of $18.30 which was spent on flowers for the altar

Because the auditors report was not presented, the election of wardens and other church officers will be held at a deferred vestry meeting. H. R. Pearce was re-elected lay delegate to Synod for three years and Mits Miriam Savage was reappointed auditor.

Presentation.

H R. Pearce read an address and presented a pen and pencil set to W. J. Cottrell as a token of appreciation of members of the congregation for his services to the church in recent years.

Boat Is Missing

HALIFAX. Feb. 1—(CP)—Discovery of the bodies of two seamen off Nova Scotia's southwest tip lent strength yesterday to reports that a merchant ship was missing on a voyage from Halifax to St. John, N.B. It was learned the vessel—a coalboat—had left Halifax about a week ago on the 260-mile voyage that normally would take only a day.

Fraser Supports Halifax View

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Feb. 1 — (CP Cable)—Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zeland is fully in accord with the viewpoint expressed by Viscount Halifax when he stressed in a Toronto speech the desirability of a common Empire policy on foreign and defence affairs, he said Saturday on his return from Australia.

Fraser, who went to Australia to take part in conversations leading to the signing of the recent "Anzac pact," said obviously responsibility for action in external affairs should be a matter of constant consultation and agreement between the Dominions and the United Kingdom since the action of any one must tend to involve the others.

The "Anzac pact" represented an extension of this principle of unity between members of the Commonwealth, he said. Fraser added he was certain New Zealanders would support this view point and also the proposal of Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia for a more complete and closer system of consultation between the Dominion and Britain.

'IT'S FIT FOR A KING,' SAID KING RAINBOLT

1. Old King Rainbolt
was fairly morose.
He called for his men and he said,
"Stop your fiddling... where's my bowl of coffee?"
And the men said,
"The Crown Prince has lured Cook away.
Her Majesty is doing the marketing herself,
Sorry, Sire—no Cook, no Queen, no coffee."

2. So he popped off of his throne and holding his crown behind him so that he looked like a subject, he snucked into line with the King's Guard
when they lined up for breakfast.
And the Queen happened by with her market basket.
So she said, "Get out of that line right away. I've got some Postum."
And the King said, "What's Postum?"

3. So the Queen smiled and said,
"It isn't like coffee and it isn't like tea,
It's a grand mealtime drink
And it can't hurt anybody because it doesn't contain any caffeine."
So they went into the kitchen and the Queen made him a cup of Postum.
He smacked his lips over its rich flavor.
"It's fit for a King," said he.

4. And the Queen, seeing that he was in rare good humor, brought out a silly and somewhat expensive hat
she had bought.
And the king said,
"You look cute as a button in that new hat." And he never asked her
what she paid for it.
But he did ask for another cup of Postum.

Giving Service To All Classes V.O.N. Reports Active Year

"Appreciation of the work and the place in the community of the Victorian Order of Nurses is growing all the time, and we feel that the foundation has been well and truly laid. Now we can look forward to a period of substantial growth," Alderman James Dutton, president of the order, told an assembly of its directors and the general public at the third annual meeting Monday night.

Held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. the meeting attracted a large gathering of interested citizens who proved by far the most enthusiastic audience to attend a meeting of the V.O.N. since the date of its establishment in Peterborough.

Expressing his gratification of the growth and increasing importance of the local branch, Mr. Dutton went on to speak of the manner in which the value of its services has been highlighted by development of the war. "I think you will agree with me," he said, "that the war has revealed some unpalatable facts regarding the general state of health of the Canadian people. I am not exaggerating when I say that we were shocked at the number of rejections recorded among apparently fit men of military age. It shows us what we need. All the people must be given the benefit of the advances of scientific research and be given them in such terms as everybody can well understand. This is a job the Victorian Order of Nurses is eminently qualified to do."

Popular Misconception.

He laid emphasis on the popular misconception that the services of these public health nurses are limited to the poorer classes that cannot afford to pay for their nursing care. "The Victorian Order," Mr. Dutton said, "renders service to all classes and renders it on the basis of a 24-hour day. For those who can afford it, there is a set fee; for those whose means are limited, we ask them only that they pay what they can afford to pay; and if they cannot pay at all, our services are free."

He gave a brief review of the relative importance of various phases of the nurses' work, of which beside nursing is substantially the greater part, and outlined the valuable educative training pursued by the Order in matters of pre and post-natal care. He also stated it was a source of regret that to date no arrangement had been made to extend the area of visits beyond the city limits; that this was due to the necessity of drawing up an agreement with each municipality entered by the Order and up to the present time North Monaghan had not been favorable to the plan; but that it was hoped with annexation the problem would be solved and the service of the V.O.N. made available to perhaps 4,000 additional persons.

Review of Work.

Reviewing the accomplishments of the past year, Miss Ross stated it had been one of increased opportunities and she echoed the sentiment of Mr. Dutton in saying she believed the local branch had passed its initial stage. She quoted figures supporting the president's assertion of the Order's classlessness in service, saying that in 1943 12 p.c. of the patients had paid all the fees, 18 p.c. had paid part and 60 p.c. had been treated free of charge. The other 10 p.c. examined were holders of Metropolitan life insurance policies.

In the year now past, Miss Ross reported, a total of 796 patients had

Band Concert Gives Fund Good Boost

Just how much people love to hear a good band play was fully demonstrated this Sunday evening past, when the R.C.A.M.C. band from Camp Borden directed by Bandmaster Albert Croasdale WO.1, attracted a capacity audience at the Collegiate Auditorium for a concert given on behalf of the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

This was made possible through the kind permission of Lt.-Col. W. Bapty, O.C., local training centre, where the band was quartered at that time, whose co-operation in this particular is very much appreciated by the fund management.

Having performed on a few occasions previously in this city, the band had already established a reputation for performance that had demonstrated what a good leader could accomplish, and the bandsmen under his leadership gave a splendid response to his conducting, with the background of inspiration that always comes from such an appreciative and enthusiastic audience as was present for this occasion.

A Splendid Program

A leader displays good judgment when the program is so varied that it keeps its audience interested right up to the final number, and this was fully evident from the splendid variety that a program which contained such numbers as "In a Monastery Garden," an arrangement by Bandsman Louis Litowitz of the popular "Night and Day," and a comic presentation of "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf" had to offer.

Further contrasts were given by the performance of such numbers as "Finlandia" with its soul stirring grandeur, and the light hearted "Humoresque" coupled with a spirited Cossack Dance by name of "March Adolphe" accompanied by its Slavic yells, which more than amptly demonstrated how well the band could adapt itself to the many different types of music they performed in such excellent manner.

Guest soloist for the occasion was Miss June Shields, A.Mus. (McGill), A.T.C.M. of Mount Pleasant, whose renditions of Liddles "The Lord is my Shepherd" and Willeby's "When birds go north again" received their full measure of applause.

Acting as chairman for the occasion, H. L. Garner made a stirring appeal on behalf of the offering to be made for the fund, which was taken up by members of the Peterborough Women's Service Corps, in charge of Miss F. Mitchell, who also acted as ushers, and this resulted in a splendid response, itself an indication of just how well the band was received, for a total of $126.47 was realized, which allows of a net sum of $116.47 being recorded in today's receipts, making the finest return ever to be made from an effort of this kind on behalf of the fund.

Just prior to the playing of "O Canada," the chairman expressed on behalf of the fund management, thanks to all who had co-operated in such a splendid manner to give such a good boost to the objects which it seeks to serve.

Bell Telephone Penny Box

Always collected once each month, the penny box at the Bell Telephone Co. Ltd. Office on Hunter street has been a steady performer on behalf of the fund, its latest contribution listed today at $1.50, gives it a total credit of $105.73 in goodness done on behalf of the people of Britain.

$5,000 Or A Man? Debated, And Cash Loses

Sandwiched into the serious business of discussing post-war employment and the functioning of credit unions, the Peterborough Farm Young People's Club debated the proposition that "$5,000 is of more benefit to a girl than a husband."

For the affirmative were Misses P. Staples and D. Cathcart; and the negative: Messrs. Raymond Kelp and Jack Preston. The decision of the judges rested with the two young gentlemen who were suspected of having received some degree of aid in the possibility that their feminine opponents were pulling their punches. At any rate there was the notion that the sizable portion of money, although it was accorded convincing advocacy might have had some verbal reinforcement if the circumstances were somewhat altered. At any rate the oratorical interlude was an entertaining feature and provided a lot of fun.

Harold Lewis, discussing Credit Unions, said that these financial associations were retarded only by the lack of understanding of farmers and rural groups who did not even try to inform themselves on the subject.

Clifford Johnston presided. Braden Mann gave a report of a short course in co-operation held at Kingston during the Christmas holidays at which Professor Wallace of Queen's University was one of the speakers. Speaking on the problems of reconstruction after the war, Professor Wallace said two million people would have to be placed in employment, and nearly three-fourths of them would be from the armed forces. He also believed that industry would absorb about 75 per cent, and that in preparation for that transition to new idustrial activity a committee of the Government was planning to provide a period of special training with pay for returned men. Professor Wallace also declared that a greater effort than this country had yet put forth should be organized after the war to advance education among the people, especially those whose opportunities in that direction would otherwise be restricted.

Mrs. C. Laing and Alan Drummond spoke on the Federation of Agriculture and its recent annual sessions, and other program numbers were a reading by Miss Janet McIntosh, and vocal solos by Miss Mary Robson. The rest of the evening was spent in folk dancing and relays led by Jack Marshall. The president urged everyone to be present for the February meeting which will be arranged by the North District.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

Feb. 1, 1940—President Kallio of Finland renewed an offer to conclude "honorable peace" as Russians started new drive against the Mannerheim Line. Members of the Balkan Entente met to discuss "economic neutrality" as a means of avoiding war.

Dependents Get $18,000 In Year

The regional headquarters of the Dependents' Board of Trustees has been transferred from Mayor Hamilton's office at the City Hall to 159 Hunter Street, the former office of Canada Life Assurance Company, the first premises west of Elliot's Drug Store at the corner of George and Hunter Streets.

The members of this voluntary committee are: G. A. Gillespie, chairman, Alderman J. E. Sullivan, Peter G. Wallace, Mrs. Reg. H. Turner and Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, with Morley Duff in Belleville, John F. Reid of Bancroft and Mrs. F. S. Vrooman and Harry J. Johnston of Lindsay.

Mayor Hamilton's office was placed at the disposal of the regional board at the time of its organization but steadily increasing affairs have required enlarged accommodation.

The Board was authorized by the Department of National Defense to provide special assistance to dependents of men serving in the Canadian forces. Financial help may be provided 'over and above what is already received under the existing marriage or dependents' allowance regulations; and also non-financial assistance," chiefly advisory, "and can arrange for assistance to be given, in all types of problems, through the various organizations in the community."

Mr. Gillespie informed the Examiner to-day that the Children's Aid Society has been most helpful in many cases especially those relating to the care of children.

"Illness of dependent wives and children creates something like 82 per cent. Last year our regional Board disbursed 18,000. The Board meets every Monday, and there is always a sheaf of applications to be considered. Our district comprises the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton. That is why we have representatives in Belleville, Bancroft, and Lindsay. We receive applications, have them investigated and make our recommendations on the information we obtain."

During the last war a similar service was rendered by a committee of the local citizens' Patriotic Fund.

2 Youths Given 2 Months On Theft Count

Two months imprisonment in the county jail was the sentence passed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on Walter Drummond, 17, of Lansdowne street, Peterborough and Trooper Bert Young, 17, Canadian Tank Corps, Newmarket who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the warehouse of York Trading, Limited, Simcoe street and stealing a quantity of cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and other goods.

Giving evidence in the cases this morning Officer Archie Menzie said that entrance to the warehouse had been gained by breaking a window. The officer testified that goods to the value of $147.25 had been taken. After the arrest of the two prisoners he said that he had recovered goods valued at $40 or $50 hidden under some bushes on Armour Road.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., informed the court that Drummond had no previous record.

Speaking in behalf of Young, Lieut. Mason of the Military Training Centre said that the accused had a clean military record and asked for leniency.

"He would be of more use to his country as a soldier than in jail", the officer suggested.

"But we can't have soldiers breaking into our warehouses and stealing", remarked Magistrate Langley.

Young, it was stated, was out on suspended sentence as the result of a charge against him last September.

"You don't seem to have learned anything from that" the court said to the accused.

"It is difficult to know what to do in a case of this kind; they are both only 17 years old", said the magistrate and then sentenced the two to two months in jail, warning them that a repetition of the offence would mean a reformatory sentence.

Bickell Resigns

OTTAWA, Feb. 1—(CP).—The board of directors of Victory Aircraft, Ltd., Malton, Ont., has resigned and a new board has been constituted, it was announced last night by the Munitions Department. J. P. Bickell of Toronto was succeeded as president of the firm by V. W. Scully, also of Toronto.

LANDS IN ENGLAND — Gnr. Elliot R. Norrad has arrived overseas according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Norrad, 149 Stewart Street. Gnr. Norrad enlisted in the L.A.A. in February, 1942.

Capt. V. E. R. Zufelt And Pte. Max Glover Help In Publishing Army's "The Red Patch"

"The Red Patch," the weekly front line newspaper of the First Canadian Division in Italy, was of special interest to Peterborough in its issue of December 18. The new format was planned by Private Max Glover and a leading editorial contribution appears over the name of Captain V. E. R. Zufelt, minister of Knox United Church, who retired from his pulpit to go overseas with the men.

Captain Zufelt devoted his column to implications of the Teheran meeting of Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill. In "The Mail Bag" column there are two minor grouses one of them asking why the men of the Division cannot get Canadian beer "instead of the English beer we've been getting" and the other along a kindred line suggests that Canadian cigarettes would be greatly preferable to the "V" brand. There is an article on rehabilitation, a brief story about the difficulties of publication so far from the ordinary resources of business; a poem entitled "Refugee", whose last two lines indicates its theme.... (From Herod's hate and greed and tyranny
The small boy Jesus was a refugee.)

Also the National Hockey League standing at December 18, squibs of news from home, and an eight line poem entitled "I Care" and 'a soldier in Italy sends greetings to his wife,' just a quotation suggests its preoccupation 'This happy feeling that I have, for the one and only you, It's filled with precious memories.'

"The Red Patch" seems to be an impossible production, and a home reader can hardy realize that it was set up and run off somewhere behind the battle lines in Italy.

P.O. Dean Kelly Fights Over Malta Escapes Unscathed, But Tangles With Motor Traffic In England

In three years with the R.C.A.F., including seven months with a Spitfire squadron over Malta, the only serious accident to Pilot Officer Dean Kelly was a pedestrian mishap shortly after he arrived in England when he was struck by a truck and was laid up in a hospital for three months.

"I wasn't accustomed to the English traffic custom of driving on the left side of the road, and I was hit as I got out of a car, but outside of that accident, which shouldn't have happened, I guess I've been lucky," said young Kelly, grandson of the well known Kelly family of Bridgenorth, and son of the late T. N. D. Kelly and Mrs. Kelly of North Monaghan and formerly of Peterborough.

Under Famous Ace

Seven weeks with the famous R.A.F. squadron "602" of which "Paddy" Finucane was the leader and wing commander was another of many experiences the young Peterborough officer in three years of a "grand time" in which he was officially credited with at least one enemy plane over the Mediterranean.

The Irish "ace" was a wonderful flier and was as fine a personality as his friends related of him after his untimely death.

"That squadron was in the south of England when I was with them six or seven weeks. Then they were transferred to the north and I was posted to Malta."

Pilot Officer Kelly enlisted in Toronto January 7, 1941, received his wings at Dunnville in October that year, and after a leave of fifteen days he was headed overseas. Shortly after his arrival he was flying a Spitfire, and until February he was an instructor around Bournemouth. That was when he became a casualty of the English traffic practice, just the opposite of that to which Canadians are accustomed.

Right In Action

"Six of us were flown to Malta in a Lochheed-Hudson. We stayed at Gibraltar for about a week, and I got some flying there. I landed on the little island the day after George Beurling was shot down into the sea, and was rescued and brought to shore with an injured foot that sent him to hospital. Enemy planes raided Malta six times during the first night I was there, but the worst of their Blitz was over by that time, in October 1942, and by Christmas the war was rapidly changing in the Mediterranean.

The island was extremely short of food that October and November. Everybody was on siege rations, three pieces of bread a day, sometimes a bit of butter, army biscuits and "bully" beef served in a lot of different ways, but still good old "bully." There were a few eggs to be had at 50 cents apiece, and that's where most of our money went."

Kelly and his companions were assigned to a squadron immediately after their arrival and were in the air the next day.

Had To Move Fast

When word would come that Germans or Italians were heading for the Island we had to get out on the double, "three minutes to scramble," meaning to be out and up. I will always remember the first planes I saw going down in smoke and flames. Eight of us went up that day against twenty raiders. We got height fast, climbed up above them, and then dived straight through them. Our squadron knocked down three of them. It was a strange sensation watching those planes spiral down in smoke down to the sea."

The tide had turned against the Germans and Italians in North Africa, but they were sending supplies and men across in big transport planes, Junkers.

"We spent most of December on long sweeps trying to intercept those transports. Our squadron managed to shoot down twenty of those Junker-52s, but our luck was entirely with our "B" flight." They got ten one morning, and the very next day another ten. These planes went over comparatively close to the sea, and they were easy picking once you spotted them.

Bombing Runs

After that we were doing bombing duty over Sicily. The Spitfires were equipped to carry two two-pound bombs. You'd go up to 18,000 feet, or something like that, and then turn and head straight down toward your target at 450 to 500 miles an hour. Our instruments stopped at 450 m.p.h. Then you let go. In that work we ran into quite a lot of enemy ack-ack. You would be flying along at 250 to 300 m.p.h. and you'd see the puffs of black smoke as the anti-aircraft shells burst nearby. We were bombing factories and airfields in Sicily.

I had one week's leave in Tripoli, but that was my second time along that part of the African coast. Several of us went along one night with some destroyers shelling coastal positions. It was just a naval trip for us, and to become better acquainted with their work.

In May, 1943, I arrived back in Gibraltar on my way to England where I was posted to a flying instructors' school, an Operational Training Unit, for six months. Now I'm home for a month, and after that I don't know what is in store for me.

Frankly, it was all a thrilling experience for me. The worst part of it was now and then you remember you had folks at home worrying about you. I got a good look at Tripoli during my week's leave. The Italians had built there the biggest airdrome in Africa "Castle Benito." By the time I got there it was a wreck, a tangle of German and Italian planes, more than a hundred of them, destroyed by our bombers.

No So Battered

One of my surprises was to notice that Malta, only a small island was not so badly wrecked as you might expect. The harbors caught it, especially Valetta. Up to that time it was the most bombed spot on he war map. Supplies?—Oh, yes, the relief of the island really occurred about December 20, 1942, with the arrival of a boat from Alexandria with the food we all needed."

Pilot Oficer Kelly has grown six or seven inches in height and has balanced it with a nice harmony of weight and general stature. He has renewed close friendship with his former Dalmatian pet "Wimpey." His dog gave him an affectionate reception, and apparently recognized him as soon as he put foot in his home.

While in Malta, P.O. Kelly met Hugh Fallis, nephew of Senator Fallis, who was observer on a Beaufort; he also met Griffin Young, another Peterborough boy, while at O.T.U. in England in May, 1942.

John Sears Is Laid To Rest

PORT HOPE, Feb. 1.—Division engineer of the Ontario Department of Highways for this district for the past nine years, John Sears died on Friday morning, following an illness of two weeks.

He was a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, in civil and mining engineering; most of his life, however, was devoted to railway construction and highways. He has been a member of the permanent staff of the Ontario Department of Highways since 1922, being located since that time as division engineer at London, Chatham, Ottawa and Port Hope.

In 1911 he married Mary Bowen, of Toronto, whose grandmother, Mary Adams, was a founder member of St. Mark's (then St. John's) Church, Port Hope. James Adams, her first husband, was one of the first to be buried in the old St. Mark's Churchyard. The late Mr. Sears was a regular attendant at St. Mark's Church where he was a sidesman and member of the vestry. He was a Mason and Shriner, a member of the Professional Engineers of Ontario, the Port Hope Club and the Port Hope Golf and Country Club. Generous to a fault, he was beloved by all with whom he came in contact, and was a friend to all, particularly children.

Besides his widow, he leaves to mourn his loss, a daughter, Mrs. J. P. Sackville, of Edmonton, Alta.; three brothers and three sisters.

The funeral service was held at St. Mark's Church Monday at 2.30, the service being conducted by the Rev. T. Crosthwait.

Honorary pallbearers were the following: Hon. George Doucett, Minister of Highways; Hon. R. P. Vivian, Minister of Health; Mr. R. M. Smith; J. D. Miller, Deputy Minister; A. A. Smith, chief engineer; C. A. Robbins, district engineer; D. O. Johnston, contractor; and F. J. Cross, president of the Ontario Road Builders' Association. The active pallbearers, all close friends of the deceased, were Messrs. C. H. Nelson, W. F. Noonan, C. S. Mann, E. Wynn, J. W. Cumming, and W. A. Anderson.

Interment will be made in the Bowen family plot in Cataraqui Cemetery, Kingston, at a later date.

HARDING.— In loving memory of our dear Mother, Jane Harding, who passed away, February 1st, 1943.

A cluster of memories,
The fondest the heart can frame,
We weave them into a garland,
And tuck them round our mother's name.

Our eyes shed many a tear;
God alone knows how much we miss you
As it ends our first sad year.

Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever remembered by his Wife and Family.

wife when they go abroad, and sits where she tells him to at the movies; who eats what she sets before him, whether he likes it or not; who votes for her candidates; who worships God according to the dictates of HER conscience, and who hasn't as much authority in the house he supports as the cat.

And thus we have the children who are never permitted to grow up and have minds of their own, or to develop any individuality. Mother does all of their thinking for them and makes all of their decisions. She chooses their careers and picks out their husbands, and it never even occurs to her that Mother isn't always right, or that they have any right to their own lives.

Worse still, when the autocrat's children get married, she doesn't set them free. She merely extends her field of action and undertakes to run their homes and their wives and husbands and children, and woe be to those who rebel against her authority.

Evidently, Fred, you have had the bad luck to fall into the clutches of one of these domestic tyrants, and if you don't want to be a slave the balance of your life you will have to stage a rebellion against her. And quick, for the longer you delay, the tighter she will get her grip on you and yours and the harder it will be to break it.

If you are about to be sent overseas, there isn't much you can do about it at present, but when you get back you will be wise if you take your wife and child and emigrate as far as possible from the dictator's sphere of influence.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a soldier student and I want to marry a girl with whom I have been sweethearts for three years, but I am prevented from doing so by my mother who goes into hysterics and weeps buckets of tears over losing her baby boy every time I try to talk to her about it.

She has no objection to the girl, who is lovely and fine in every way. And there is no question of money for we are both welloff. It is just that she doesn't want me to marry. Now I love my mother and I can't bear the thought of making her miserable, but I don't feel that I am called upon to sacrifice myself and the girl who loves me for the sake of her whim? What shall I do?

BEWILDERED SON.

Tears Women's Oldest Weapon

ANSWER—Pay no attention to your mother's tears. They don't mean a thing except that she is exerting women's oldest and most true and tried weapon for getting what she wants. Probably Mother Eve discovered that her greatest asset was her tear ducts and that while she couldn't conquer Adam in a hand-to-hand fight, she could subdue him by weeping. For there seems to be some strange chemical in a woman's tears that melts down a man's backbone and makes him putty in her hands.

At any rate, ever since the beginning women have been wise to the value of the cry-baby act, and they put it on in every emergency. Many a woman has floated herself to the altar on her tears. Many another has wept for a mink coat until she got it. And many and many a mother has drowned her children's happiness and made old maids and bachelors of them with her tears.

So don't take your mother's tears too seriously. She isn't going to perish of a broken heart if you get married. She will dry her eyes when she finds that her tears are not getting her anywhere. So marry your girl and by the time the first baby comes she will not only be reconciled to your being married, she will think that she made the match.

been cared for, an increase of 50 over 1942 and of 150 over the first year of operation. In all, 5,781 visits had been paid and of these 2,575 were in the interests of mothers and children. Saying that 159 expectant mothers had been visited, she pointed out that this was only one-third of the total in the city, and that here—when opportunity offered—was a great field for educational work. "But," Miss Ross added, "figures fail to reveal the true extent of the Victorian Order's work; there are intangible factors that cannot rightly be evaluated, such as a nurse's ability to adjust to seven or eight different families in the course of a day's rounds."

Bishop Speaks.

The guest speaker of the evening was Bishop John R. MacDonald, who characterized the qualities that go to make a successful member of the nursing profession as an eagerness to help others, a spirit of sacrifice and united with these a Christian love that was necessary to overcome hampering sensations that might ordinarily be raised from frequent encounters with ugliness and abnormality. He touched on the new heights of personal bravery that had been exhibited in nursing as in other fields as a direct result of the war and called for the cooperation of all citizens in an endeavour to raise the standard of living to a point where economic suffering might be abated and a far larger portion of mankind be in a position to employ the services of graduate nurses whenever illness struck.

The financial statement read by Ronald McGrath revealed a total income during 1943 of $6,762.78 and disbursements totalling $6,072.58. Balance on hand at the end of the year was $1,193.83.

Charles H. Elliott reported for the Publicity committee and told of the successful advertising that had been done. He also intimated that a radio play was being written and produced by Mr. and Mrs. Robertson Davies.

In moving a vote of thanks to Bishop MacDonald Alderman R. M. Glover said that members of the city council, with the exception of those serving on the Board of Health, were not conscious of the vital part played by the V.O.N.

Speedy Medical Care Is Saving Lives Of Thousands Of Men

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1 (ENS) "Modern military medicine cannot save a soldier from instant death, but speedy medical care—sulfa drugs and plasma in this war—is restoring more of the wounded to useful life than in any previous war. Our boys in combat today have the backing of the best medical services the world has ever known." So declared Dr. George A. Stobie, surgeon and physician of Belleville in an address before members of the Campbellford Rotary Club here on Monday.

Speaking on the war that was being fought by the medical corps against bullets and bacilli, Dr. Stobie gave a dramatic account of the new treatments and the astounding part that the sulpha drugs were playing in medicine. He said, "This is a war of new weapons, far more accurate, far more pervasive, far more deadly than any that have ever been used before. In hundred of books and thousands of articles, in every paper and over every radio, the power of these weapons has been broadcast until even the youngest schoolboy can recite the lethal qualities of Zeroes, Flying Fortresses, General Grants, Spitfires and Stormviks. But there is another kind of new weapon, that may play just as important part in winning this war; a type of weapon that is little discussed, and less well known than any of the new planes and tanks. These are our new medical weapons, the weapons that save lives.

"To a very substantial degree, the new tools of medicine and surgery have already gone far to counterbalance the greater destructive power of our modern weapons; it is the new drugs, devices and techniques which maintain the fighting strength of our troops at a higher level than ever before.

Kept Pace With War

These weapons are vital to the maintenance of the morale and the will to fight in the face of mechanized destruction. In the final reckoning, these weapons will be responsible for the fact that tens of thousands who have died in any previous war, will not die in this one. Military medicine has kept pace with the development of war itself. It has, in fact, advanced so far within the last generation that the change has been converted from a quantitative to qualitative one. During the last war, despite all the advances of the preceeding hundred years, the men responsible for maintaining and restoring the health of armies, were helpless against a score of scourges which today we can and do control and defeat. Disease in a hundred different forms killed millions of men, often before they reached their first battle. Infection of battle wounds, carried off hundreds of thousands who today can be restored to full health. The lack of some of our newer drugs or techniques spelled a sentence of death for many tens of thousands and condemned others to lives of endless pain and incapacitation.

"Today we have the sulfa drug, we have bottled and dried blood, new pain killers, anaesthetics, new forms of treatment, new surgical procedures, toxoids that are wiping out tetanus, inoculations that end the menace of yellow fever. We have synthetic specifics against malaria without which our armies could not hope to fight in the tropics. Most important of all, we have developed to a high level of perfection the means of bringing these inventions to the individual soldier."

Two Causes Of Death

"Shock and heamorrhage are the two things that kill a wounded soldier more quickly than anything else and therefore, require most urgent treatment. In the first Great War blood transfusion was at very beginning and very little used, I was in a base hospital for one year and I can't recall having seen a transfusion given. The method used then was practically useless for the early treatment of haemorrhage and shock because the patient had to be taken to the donor and that, with the method then employed, could only be far behind the battle front in a base hospital, many hours or even days after the wound was inflicted, and long past the time when it would have been of much value to the patient. Now the life saving fluid is brought to the wounded man even in the front line." The story of modern blood transfusion was one of the most interesting in modern medical science and clearly showed its international aspects since it had been brought to its present state by contributions from Russian, English, German and American scientists.

At the same time as the blood plasmas discovery was made, new discoveries were made regarding shock. "Nothing produces shock more quickly than a burn and the number of casualties from burns in this mechanized war is high." The speaker described the clear fluid which filled blisters following burn as plasma and this weeping of the body during severe burns can quickly drain the body of its plasma. The plasma also leaves the blood vessels and runs out into the tissues around the vessel making it useless to the proper functioning of the circulatory system. "As this fluid runs away the blood becomes very thick, and soon becomes so viscid that it ceases to flow and death rapidly occurs".

Rotarian N. Alex MacColl moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and guests at the luncheon included Doctors F. B. Brintnell, Warkworth; F. de F. Free and W. W. Baker of Campbellford and Messrs E. Archer, S. Hopping, A. Yearwood, S. Flint and Fred Palliser.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

PO. ALLAN MARSHALL

Although he is a long way from home, PO. Allan Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marshall, Reid street, has managed to find the novelties of life and flying in England very interesting. The following paragraphs are some of the interesting extracts culled from recent letters to his family.

"One thing I enjoy about flying over here is that you meet every type of operation aircraft that is flying. You really have to keep watching and cultivate the roving eye. One minute you are on the tail of a Spit, and the next a Lightning is sitting on your tail, or you are being bumped by a Mosquito of Lancaster, or waving at a Fortress beside you. If you hear me on the radio some day asking for permission to land, open the door and I'll land on the sidewalk.

"There is no shortage of tea or coffee over here. We have tea in the afternoon and dinner at 7. At tea I eat gobs of bread and margerine (exactly like butter) and that is where your gifts of jam come in. I am at an R.A.F. station now, hence the tea. It's a great idea this tea. I fly with Englishmen, Scotsmen, Canadian, Aussies, New Zealanders, and Indians of the R.A.F., some of whom wear turbans. They are all great boys and so far I have enjoyed working with the R.A.F. and see no reason why I shouldn't.

Vapor Trails Form

"Things quite common here and rarely seen in Canada, are vapor trails from aircraft. You see them almost every day when the fog lets up. They are quite beautiful and form long featherly trails behind the aircraft and when a raid goes over, you can sometimes see a whole cloud formed by them. You get them because the kites fly so high and because the relative humidity is so high over here.

"Had a bit of fun recently when I was flying solo. Went up to do aerobatics, and the cloud was about 5/10 or half the sky. I called up and got radio communication with our ground station and asked for homing course for base and proceeded to beat the sky about for a while. When I called up again, I didn't know where I was, so asked for a course to steer for home. They told me the radio gear was out of order so I really was lost. The ceiling was lowering rapidly, and it was raining a bit, with a gale coming up, so I stayed around until I found myself a drome and put down O.K. It was something new and different for a change. I got back O.K. by following the "iron compass" (the railroad.)

Boys Have System

PO. Marshall writes that he has discovered the absence of eggs from his diet. With his Canadian accent plus some chocolate and gum, he has found homes where the hens occasionally lay more than the family can use and the cows give more milk. The boys at the station have followed his lead and they have decided they will survive. The airman writes that he claims no distinction for the idea, since necessity is the mother of invention, and this was merely an effort for survival.

"I will give you the 'gen' on parcels. We like soup, oxo, postum, chocolate, chocolate bars, gum, Christmas cake, cheese, cookies, life savers and jam. I have just come back tonight from giving England a few jars and night flying is great stuff. It provides something new now and then, and you can generally catch up on a lot of sleep. I really go for having my batman wake me up as usual and telling him to let me go back to sleep."

LIEUT. LETH SANDERS

Lieut. Leth Sanders (Nursing Sister) with No. 1 R.C.A.M.C. (R.U.) recently arrived overseas, according to a cable received by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Sanders. She enlisted in Kingston, October 11, 1942, and was stationed at the Military Hospital there until going overseas. She is the first nurse to go from Belmont township. A brother, L/Bdr. E. R. Sanders has been a Petawawa, over three years.

Prisoners of war have a chance of learning a new trade, and Lt. Flt. Bruce Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker of Norwood, who is in a German camp, writes that he is becoming quite a good bricklayer as they are building a shower room.

His parents have received a card and letter from him, one written in October, and one in November. The card was an acknowledgment of a parcel and cigarettes which he had received. His letter was in the nature of a Christmas greeting and he expressed the hope that he would he home next year. Although he had received a parcel from home, at the time of writing he had still not had any mail. He expressed great interest in the progress of the deer hunt during 1943 and was interested in the scarcity of cars.

Flt. Lieut. Baker enlisted in December 1940 and went overseas as a pilot oficer in November 1941. He was injured in March 1942 and spent nine months in a hospital. Resuming air operations in January 1943, he was promoted to FO. and in April was shot down over enemy territory and taken prisoner.

The climate of the Bahamas is delightful in the opinion of WO 2 Charles Soule, 22, who recently returned to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Soule, 97 Princess street. Outside of the sand flies, there were no other disadvantages, he said. The temperature is even and at midnight its becomes cool, so that people can sleep well.

"The people are grand, mostly natives with few white people, and they look after us royally," he told his parents. "There are all kinds of sports procided and they have bicycles. Everyone saw that we got around the islands to see points of interest, and the natives wanted to wait on us. One of the more interesting things on when I was there, was the Oakes murder trial in Nassau, and I was in the court room several times during the trial."

Although milk is both scarce and expensive and there is not so much, they found plenty of fruit and quite frequently he picked pineapples and bananas himself.

Enlisting in August, 1941, WO. Soule left the Westclox to train as a wireless air gunner. After serving at Manning Pool and Guelph, and graduated from Mountain View. He was also stationed in Quebec and Ancienne Lorette.

PTE. C. W. DOWNER

Christmas in a Canadian hospital in Italy had almost all the comforts of home for the boys, Pte. Clarence William Downer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Downer, 172 Lake street wrote. Although he was wounded earlier in the war on the Mediterranean Front, he was hospitalized a second time for an operation, shortly before December 25.

"We had a lovely Christmas dinner and the menu features roast turkey and pork, cauliflower, carrots, roast potatoes, and pudding with brandy sauce. We had a little party on Christmas Eve and sure had fun. Everyone sang songs and carols until we fell asleep. The nurses and M.O. came around singing carols and on Christmas morning, the Red Cross appeared with a large basket filled with presents and we all drew one out. Mine contained a tooth brush, tooth paste, wash cloth, handkerchiefs, pipe, pipe tobacco, 1 pack of cigarettes, comb and brush, shaving soap and razor blades, and I feel I was mighty lucky.

"Two nights before, there was a party at the Red Cross tent, and we had a swell time. All the nurses were there, dressed in their civies and it was a big change. On New Year's it was raining so I went to bed early. Our dinner consisted of turkey with dressing, potato salad, doughnuts and tea."

Cornwall Man Held

COBOURG, Feb. 1 — (ENS) — Percy Walker of Cornwall was arrested during the week-end in Haldimand Township by Provincial Constable Alex MacLeod of Cobourg on a charge of theft. He was locked up in the counties jail on a week's remand. Walker is alleged to have stolen a sum of money from Mrs. Mary Wills of Haldimand Township on January 22.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

FINISH LIKE NO TRUMPS

YOUR GREATEST natural advantage, as declarer in a suit contract, is that the trump was of your own side's choosing. When possible, you want to retain at least one good trump late in the hand, to protect you against the strong suit of your adversaries. There are times, however, when you must use up all of your trumps and finish playing in No Trump style, perhaps using a lead-throwing end-play to polish off the opposition.

Upon seeing the dummy after West led the heart K, South reckoned that East's double was based on his holding the strength in the black suits, and that therefore a club finesse would surely lose. With that as his premise, he went on to his conclusion. Ruffing the heart lead, he then ruffed a spade in dummy, a second heart in his own hand, a second spade, a third heart on which East discarded, a third spade and a fourth heart, bringing him through seven tricks on a cross-ruff. With only two top trumps left, he used them to fortunately drop the outstanding ones.

He now was out of trumps, but he also was all set for the deciding play. Correctly reading East as holding now two spades and two clubs, he threw that defender in with the spade J to the Q. The spade A was also cashed, but then East had to lead a club from his K-9 into the dummy's A-Q, giving the declarer the last two tricks.

Russian Drive Opens Way For Sea Action

By ROBERT STURDEVANT
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 1—(AP)—The Russian advance toward Estonia created uneasiness today in Swedish naval circles, which speculated that powerful Russian fleet units might soon break into the Baltic and threaten Sweden's traffic with Finland and Germany.

Since 1942, the Russian Baltic fleet has been bottled up in the Gulf of Finland and restricted to limited operations from its base at Kronstadt. With the occupation of Estonia, the Germans threw an extensive minefield and submarine booms across the narrow neck of the gulf from Baltisch Port (Baltiski) to Finland.

A Swedish naval officer, E. Oeberg, writing in the Stockholm Tidningen, said the Russian advance opened the possibility of an early Russian occupation of Baltisch port.

Isolate Finland

The Russian Fleet and Air Force operating from Estonia could isolate Finland and Germany from traffic with the eastern Baltic countries and make traffic between Finland and Sweden difficult. Swedish iron ore is one of the main raw materials of the German arsenal.

Oeberg named the following ships as comprising the Russian Baltic fleet: the 33,000-ton battleship October Revolution; the 8,000-ton cruisers Kirov and Maxim Gorky; the 2,000-ton destroyers Leningrad and Minsk; 10 other destroyers of 1,700 tons each; numerous torpedo boats and some submarines.

Oeberg urged a strengthening of the Swedish destroyer force and asserted that in 1942 Russian submarines attacked Swedish merchant ships in Swedish waters. He warned that the Russians might even occupy the Aaland Islands in the southern part of the Gulf of Bothnia between Finland and Sweden.

Board Re-elects J. H. Abbott President Of Lakefield Fair

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1—(ENS)—A. J. Abbott was returned as president of the Lakefield Fair at the annual meeting held in the council chamber recently.

Harold Scott, new Ontario member and Thomas Brown, president of the Peterborough Fair were added to the list of honorary directors, along with Reeve Gordon Scriver, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., G. McIlmoyle, Jerry Maloney, Thompson Braden, T. T. Milburn and A. E. Higgins.

H. W. Beavis, secretary, presented the financial statement showing receipts for 1943, $2,073.40; total expenditures were $1,993.32; bank balance from 1942 was $151.41, leaving a balance on hand to date of $231.49.

Grants and special prizes received included $248 from the Legislature, township $130, county $250, Clydesdale Association $10, Royal Bank $10, Robert Simpson Co. $5, Black and White Association $237.60, sale of timber $12, admission fees $487.45, entry fees $138.10, membership fees $54, concessions, dances and donations $506.25.

Expenditures

Horses, $150.50; cattle, $536; sheep, $55.50; swine, $44.50; poultry, $50.25; dairy products, $17.75; grains, roots, orchard and garden products, flowers, $62.65; domestic science and ladies' work, $89.45; exhibit of school work, $11.30; horse races, $237.50. The society paid out $1,012.90 to the 188 exhibitors. The grounds have been improved by a new fence and the buildings painted costing $130. The directors purchased an up-to-date barn to be used for race horses and it will be moved to the exhibition grounds. The season of 1944 will see some of the best race horses in the country training on this track. Merton Storey and Hugh Stewart are making arrangements to have their horses stabled at the fair grounds, starting May 1.

Committee Reports

George Mullen stated the horse committee had had a very good year and Clarence Coons complimented the Clydesdale men on their exhibit at the fair. E. Pimmett and Elwood Dunford reported for the Beef cattle and Mr. Pimmett suggested the fair be set ahead a few days to keep away from Belleville fair and they might have more exhibits.

Rol Dowling and S. Woods were in charge of the Dairy cattle. Stan Woods suggested that the prize money be raised to increase competition. Erie Tully stated that some of the exhibits in the grain show had been disqualified instead of receiving prize money, as it was mixed grain.

Mrs. Hilliard Crowe was the only lady director present out of eight on the board of directors. Mrs. Crowe said more help was needed in the ladies' department.

Fair Suggestions

Frank Paterson in reviewing the fair said he saw only the Black and White section of the fair. "The Black and White day would be vastly improved," said Mr. Paterson "if the judges gave verbal reasons for their decisions. If the exhibits are of inferior quality they are obviously only there to get money and it is the judges' duty to disqualify them. If the judge hasn't the backbone to do so the director should."

Lack Of Help Hindrance

Thomas Brown, president of the Peterborough Fair, said the fair on the whole was good. Some of the classes were not too good, but were all right considering the shortage of help.

Stan Woods and Erie Tully moved that a delegate be sent to meet a representative of each Breed Association in the county to get them to exhibit at Lakefield Fair. Mr. Paterson said the prize list should be prepared jointly.

Howard Beavis was of the opinion that members of the Black and White Association should be members of the Lakefield Fair Board. In order to get the government grant of $268 the Board must have 60 paid-up member and they are difficult to find.

Mr. Paterson said definitely that all Black and White exhibitors should be members of the Society, paying a fee and helping to direct the general policy as well as their own part of the show.

Howard Beavis was appointed delegate to the convention in Toronto in February.

Elect Officers

Mr. Paterson then presided for the election of officers. H. E. Abbott was re-elected by acclamation. The other officers were elected as follows: 1st vice-president, George Mullen; 2nd vice-president, Roland Darling; secretary-treasurer, Howard Beavis; auditors, George Spence and A. H. Clark; honorary lady directors, Mrs. R. Garbutt, Mrs. A. Darling and Mrs. G. Graham; directors, W. Tedford, H. D. Coons, M. Pimmett, E. Mohoney, S. Wood, E. Tully, A. Darling, C. Coons, A. Davis; associate directors, F. C. Paterson, J. McKerchar, W. Hawthorne, H. Mullen, T. Garvey, E. Waldon, E. Sloan, E. Dunford, H. Donaldson, and R. Beavis; lady directors, Mrs. H. Crowe, Mrs. D. H. Webster, Mrs. George Spence, Mrs. S. Higgins and Mrs. J. P. Bickell.

Nations Urged To Unite In Peace As War

TORONTO, Feb. 1—(CP)—Britain and the United States have always stood together against aggressors, Sir Godfrey Haggard, the British Consul-General in New York, said Monday, advocating that the two Powers continue to work together in the future.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club of Toronto, Sir Godfrey recalled lend-lease and the exchange of leases of British West Indies and Newfoundland bases for over-age American destroyers.

"Cannot we capitalize on this innate capacity for sensible agreements between us?" he asked. Quoting from Prime Minister Churchill, he added, "if we are together, nothing is impossible; if we are divided, all will fail."

Sir Godfrey said the "spreading Dominions" of the United States had grown up "under exactly the same internal impulses as our Empire has—the outward thrust of a strong united people against weaker and less advanced neighbors." He pictured "the Empire of the United States....growing simply because it had to, to the West Coast and beyond; to Alaska and Hawaii; to he Philippines and Panama; and, because the war must be won, even to bases in the British West Indies, Newfoundland, Greenland and Iceland.

Act As Go-Between.

The Consul-General called upon Canada to try to interpret the British Empire to the people of the United States—"to say to them that our society of British Nations stands ready as ever hand in hand with the United States to march on together 'in majesty, in justice and in peace'"

"The British Empire...is a hard, hard fact, one of the really hard facts of the world to-day. It is fighting a total war now and after the war it will still be there, fighting for a total peace. When we say we mean to maintain our Empire it is a defensive stabilizing war aim. For British strength is American strength. We support each other."

Associate Workers.

Turning to Empire relations, he said, "the Statute of Westminster recorded so many declarations of independence peacefully won and gladly accorded. They are also now seen to be declarations of interdependence. If self-determination can mean an act of separation, it can also, the Dominions say, mean an act of association....We have act of association....We have taught the world something new there between us; an idea that is going to play a great part in the history of the years to come."

Sir Godfrey concluded his speech with a tribute to Canada for her support of Britain in the war, mentioning the $1,000,000,000 gift to the United Nations, the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, the role played by Canadian airmen in the Battle of Britain, and "the priceless assistance of the great Canadian Navy."

Lakevale Ladies' Aid To Meet With Gilmour

FOWLER'S CORNERS, Feb. 1—(ENS)—The Lakevale Ladies' Aid held their January meeting at the home of Mr. Harold Archer. The Scripture reading and commentary were given by Mrs. R. McAdam.

Short readings were given by the following ladies: Mrs. K. Nurse, Mrs. H. Archer, Mrs. M. Moncrieff.

After the devotional period it was decided that the ladies join with the Baptist ladies in celebrating the World's Day of Prayer, which will be held at Gilmour Memorial church, at the end of February. It was also moved that the society dispense with the serving of lunch for the coming year, with the exception of quiltings and special meetings.

Mrs. M. Deyell read letters of appreciation from Roy Millen and M. Moncrieff for boxes which they had received at Christmas and it was decided to quilt two quilts at the home of Mrs. D. McAdam during the month of February. The February meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. R. McAdam.

Destroyer Losses In War Triple That Of 1914-1918

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP). — Contending navies in 53 months of the Second Great War have lost more than twice as many destroyers as the belligerents in the First Great War which lasted about two months less than the present conflict has. Destroyer losses in the present conflict total 425, compared to 185 between August 1, 1914, and November 11, 1918, official and semi-official sources indicate.

Figuring in the increase has been the global scope of present naval patrol and offensive operations, contrasted to concentration of such activity in Atlantic and European waters between 1914 and 1918.

Another factor in the increased expenditure of destroyer strength probably has been the airplane, a naval weapon of negligible value 30 years ago.

Planes Effective.

Plane attacks are known to have cost more than one in every 5 of the combined Anglo-American destroyer losses and an even higher degree of fatality among Japanese ships of this type.

Illustrative of the greater expendability of destroyers in the present war is the British Navy's loss of 110 from all causes, compared to a toll of 67 in 1914-18.

Even more striking have been American and Japanese casualties in what to these powers has been a full dress naval show as contrasted to the last war.

Allied communiques have reported at least 129 Japanese destroyers sent to the bottom. American destroyer loss is 41 from all causes.

One Japanese and two American destroyers went down in the First Great War.

In the present war, paralleling the trends in 1914-18, the Royal Navy's destroyer losses have been nearly twice as large as the combined total of 57 of its battleships, battle cruisers, aircraft carriers, cruisers and armed merchantmen.

Msgr. Sheen Raps Russian Attitude

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP).—A Russian writer's charge that the Vatican had pursued a pro-Fascist policy throughout the war prompted a counter-accusation last night from Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, associate professor of philosophy at Catholic University here, and also known as a writer and conductor of the Radio Catholic Hour.

He said Russia is laying the groundwork "for alienating itself from the Allies and making a separate peace with Germany."

"Soviet condemnation of the Vatican is merely an item in a pattern which Russia is skillfully working out," he added.

His comment, in the form of a prepared statement, followed publi-

Tanks Disperse Japs In Burma

NEW DELHI, Feb. 2 (AP)—Allied bombers ranged far over the long Burma front yesterday blasting Japanese barracks near Fort White in the northern Chin hills and enemy installations in the Mayu Peninsula and leaving two Japanese-occupied villages in Kaladan in flames, an Allied communique said today.

Sporadic clashes between Allied and Japanese patrols featured the ground fighting, with Japanese detachments operating in the Fort White and Arakan areas being dispersed. Allied troops occupied an important hill position east of Htindow.

The Allied advance southward in the Kaladan area continued, with spearheads reported active on the Laungkdu and Naigyaung areas.

Supported by tanks making their first appearance on the Burma front, Indian troops have blasted their way through the outer Japanese defences east of Maungdaw and now face strong hill positions blocking their advance on the Port of Akyab.

Attacking two or three times a day over a span of 72 hours, the Indian forces have taken a score of hill features aided by the point-blank fire from tanks.

Allied heavy, medium and dive-bombers also have been supporting the advance.

Oil Shipment Ban Irks Spanish Press

MADRID, Feb. 2—(AP)—The entire Madrid press today interpreted the Anglo-American agreement suspending oil shipments to Spain as a move to force this country to abandon its neutrality.

Throughout Spain streets and highways were cleared overnight of all motor driven vehicles as the government met the suspension with the most severe gasoline destrictions Spain has ever known.

Some of the newspapers printed attacks on the suspension mainly against Britain. All asserted that economic pressure on Spain and what they termed a press and radio campaign against her was the wrong way to obtain the country's friendship.

Vengeance Closing On Japs

Roosevelt Assures Day Getting Near

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP) — Americans fighting in the Far East and the Pacific Islands had assurances from their commander-in-chief to-day that they are bringing vengeance closer to the Japanese torturers of their comrades.

Those guilty of atrocities against the defenders of Bataan, President Roosevelt told a news conference yesterday, will be tracked down and punished as surely as will those responsible for killing American fliers who were captured after bombing Tokyo.

The primary American objectives in Asia, and the Pacific, he said, are expulsion and defeat of Japan, in closest collaboration with the Allies.

He emphasized the military rather than the political or civil nature of this task.

"Nobody in India or anywhere else in Asia," he said in a statement, "will misunderstand the presence there of American armed forces if they will believe, as we do at home, that their job is to assure the defeat of Japan, without which there can be no opportunity for any of us to enjoy and expand the freedom for which we fight."

That declaration apparently was intended to counter enemy propaganda that American forces, as well as British, are in India to stay and that the United States is supporting British Imperialism.

Reds Crossing Border Into Estonia

2,000 Germans Die As Russians Push Toward Baltic

By EDDY GILMORE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Feb. 2—(AP) — The Red Army west of Leningrad, pressing a strong campaign for liberation of Estonia after seizing the border town of Keikino, made swift progress to-day down the broad highway and railroad which are parallel between captured Kingisepp and Narva.

With the capture of Kingisepp, the Russians now control the entire southern shore of the Gulf of Finland. This gives the Baltic fleet an opportunity to participate in the land campaign as it did in helping lift the siege of Leningrad.

Narva would be one of the greatest prizes of the offensive, for it controls the eastern shore of Lake Peipus, along which are numerous fairly large towns. Narva with its railroads to the south and west is a key to a vast area.

Narva, on the west bank of the Pliasia river, is five miles inside of Estonia and may be a tough nut to crack because the Germans will flight desperately with reserves from Reval.

Much Booty Taken.

South and southwest of Leningrad, the Russian offensive developed speed. The Red Army was sweeping in more large areas and thickly-populated villages and moving ever closer toward the Leningrad-Pskov railroad below Luga.

Front dispatches said the Germans continued to flee in some sectors. Huge amounts of booty are being collected and indications are that nothing like a similar amount of war material has been captured in the war to date.

A Copenhagen dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said the Germans had seized seven Danish ships for use in evacuating Baltic areas menaced by the Russians.

Cross Luga River

Keikino was captured after the Russians crossed the Luga river. The town is seven miles northeast of Narva, the first important Estonian station.

In a southern thrust Russian forces reached lake Samro and occupied the town of Valovo, seven miles northwest of the lake and 28 miles from the frontier. The mouth of the Luga, emptying into the Baltic, also was captured.

Eastward of this area, Gen. Kyrill A. Meretskov's Volkhov front troops, cleaning up between the Leningrad-Moscow and Leningrad-Novgorod railway, captured the railway station of Movinka on the line to Vitebsk and 35 miles west of the Leningrad-Moscow line.

Meretskov's left wing, which had cut the Leningrad- Vitebsk line to the south, captured 30 towns and hamlets and was spreading to the heart of the German escape system from the north.

East of Luga Red Army troops smashed a counter-attack by German reserves which had just arrived in that area and killed 800.

Allies Smash Big Breach In Gustav Line

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Feb. 2—(AP).—French and United States troops converging north of Cassino have torn away several miles of the Nazis' strong Gustav line, and are advancing deeper in a grim struggle. Allied headquarters announced today.

To the northwest, on the Anzio bridgehead, British and American invasion troops threw back a strong German counter-attack west of Littoria supported by tanks and artillery, and advanced in some areas.

British troops are fighting hard near Campoleone 16 miles from Rome, and American units are at grips with the enemy near Cisterna, 14 miles northeast of Anzio.

A headquarters officer declared the Germans still are building up a large force near the beachhead, and a heavy counter-attack may be expected soon.

Troops Pour In.

Allied reinforcements are pouring into the beachhead, now 14 miles long and eight miles deep on the average, with some prongs running considerably farther inland.

On the main 5th Army front, American and French troops are fighting side by side as the spearheads of their attack join in the area north of Cassino.

They advanced a mile, seizing more heights, and U.S. units now are within a mile of Terelle, some five miles northwest of Cassino. French forces took 100 prisoners yesterday, and Americans captured 50. A battle now is raging on Mount Manna southeast of Terelle, and German pockets in nearby areas are being mopped up.

ON BOARD JOINT EXPEDITIONARY FLAGSHIP, KWAJALEIN ATOLL, Feb. 2 — U. S. Army and Marine amphibious troops Monday completed a series of lightning assault strokes, capturing 10 islet beachheads and on Tuesday were fully engaged in assaults on the main enemy stronghold of Kwajalein, Roi and Namur Islands—pivotal bases in the Japanese-held Marshalls.

Resistance was light or non-existent in the opening day operations. Casualties were extremely light. More than 40 Japanese were slain and a number captured.

The enemy now is desperately defending Kwajalein, Roi and Namur atolls. A great American fleet, hundreds of planes and a heavy concentration of land-based artillery continued all night churning the palm hooded coral islands into clouds of dust and pillars of smoke.

A heavy three-day bombardment by air and sea decimated Japan's aerial strength. Not a single enemy plane was sighted during the attack south aimed at Kwajalein Island proper.

The northern assault forces at Roi and Namur shot down 18 enemy planes and destroyed or damaged 51 on the ground.

Kwajalein atoll is 66 miles long and forms the hub of defences among the 32 Marshall atolls which bar the way to Japan's naval base of Truk, more than 1,200 miles to the southwest, and to Tokyo, 2,700 statute miles to the northwest.

Under command of Vice-Admiral R. A. Spruance, a powerful fleet escorted transports and landing craft to the invasion scene, 2,000 miles southwest of Pearl Harbor. Before the landings, big guns of the naval escort churned Kwajalein and other Atolls with a terrific bombardment.

Planes Support

Constant support is being afforded the ground forces by land-based planes and hundreds of planes from the carrier forces.

During more than 20 straight days of neutralizng raids prior to invasion more than 300 enemy planes were destroyed or damaged, 113 of them on the last two days, in the Marshalls. More than 20 tons of explosives also hit Wake Island to keep that enemy air base from interfering.

Gravity of the action was recognized in Japan.

"The Japanese homeland is directly linked up with these mandated islands, which form the outer front line of the Japanese Empire," said Mainichi, one of Japan's most influential newspapers, published in Osaka. It added "the enemy must be beaten back, even at the greatest sacrifice."

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' communique announcing the invasion said despite strong opposition encountered, "information indicates that our casualties are moderate."

Experts here do not expect any 76-hour capture of the Marshall Islands, such as took place in the invasion of the Gilbert Islands.

The Japanese have many more bases in the Marshalls than they had in the Gilberts. They also have spent more years in fortifying them.

It's no secret now even to the Japanese that the hundreds of ships engaged in the attack form one of the most powerful fleets ever assembled. The nearest comparison is

U.S. Invasion Of Marshall Island Group Lauded By Chinese, Direct Route To Tokio

CHUNKING, Feb. 2 — (AP)—Chinese newspapers, headlining the landing of American troops in the Marshall Islands, hailed it today as a crack in Japan's "Siegfried Line" in the Pacific and took the view generally that the United State is seeking a showdown battle with the Japanese navy.

"The Japanese navy will now no longer be able to avoid its destiny —destruction," the Army mouthpiece Sao Tang Pao, said, and added it was expected the landing would have a "great and important effect on warfare in the Pacific."

Vice-minister of foreign affairs K. C. Wu said the invasion of the Marshall came as very welcome news, adding:

"It's one step nearer Tokyo. The next is Truk—let's hope after that it's Japan proper."

Invasion Coast Rocked Anew January Loss 385 Planes

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 2—(AP).—Britain's swift Mosquito bombers lashed again last night at Berlin, still smoking from Sunday's heavy hammering, and today large formations of Allied planes renewed their attack on the "invasion coast" of France. United States heavy bombers with fighter escort struck at military objectives in northern France, it was announced, and medium bombers, without loss, bombed an airfield in Normandy.

The daylight raiders roared across the Channel early in the morning and came streaming back 45 minutes later. The operation against the Pas-de-Calais area reopened attacks which were interrupted yesterday for the first time in nine days.

The Mosquito stab set air raid sirens howling in the devastated German capital for the fourth time in six nights.

The Air Ministry disclosed last night the R.A.F. had loosed 16,500 tons of explosives on Germany during January to break all monthly records for bombing attacks on the Reich as additional details filtered through concerning the damage inflicted on Berlin.

Dispatches from Stockholm quoted travellers arriving from Berlin as saying the German capital was a "dead city" and that 10 more raids on the scale of the most recent R.A.F. raids would finish it completely.

The Air Ministry review said the weight of bombs dropped on Berlin alone in six heavy raids during January totalled more than 9,300 tons.

In addition to the 16,500 tons dropped on Germany, approximately 1,500 tons of explosives were showered down on other European objectives by the R.A.F. last month.

Japanese Deny Atrocity Stories

CHUNGKING, Feb. 2—(AP)—The impending formation of a war crimes commission in China was announced today by Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs K. C. Wu, who hinted that the body might include various Allied commanders-in-chief.

Information Minister Lian Han-Chao said large numbers of prisoners of war and civilians had been tortured and murdered by the Japanese in China.

A Tokyo broadcast quoted a Japanese spokesman as saying, "Japan is giving enemy prisoners of war and civilian internees fair and considerate treatment in accordance with international law" and also that "we have never used gas and we are not going to use gas in the future unless our enemies use it first."

The Melbourne, Australia, radio said Tokyo had broadcast an assertion that there would be no change in Japanese treatment of prisoners of war.

Murphy Knows

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 2—(AP). — Murphy, a bulldog owned by S. H. Woodward, Curtiss-Wright test pilot, has an acute sense of balance, his owner says. "I used to send him up with my students," Woodward relates. "When they banked too sharply, or landed too hard, or made any other flying mistake, Murphy growled. If the student pulled a real boner, Murphy barked outright."

Nazi Bomber Fleet Attacks Huge Convoy

ALGLERS, Feb. 2—(AP)—R.A.F. Beaufighters of the coastal air force intercepted 40 German bombers 50 miles from a convoy off North Africa shooting down three Junkers-88s, but a few planes go through to the convoy, headquarters said today.

The action took place at dusk, with the Nazi force consisting of Junker-88s and Heinkel 11s.

The German communique claimed German torpedo planes successfully attacked an Allied supply convoy last night off North Africa, hitting a cruiser and seven freighters totalling 52,000 tons. Some suffered heavy damage, it added, and two British planes were shot down.

Soviet Move Amazes Entire World

Foreign Diplomats Say Action A Brilliant Step

By HENRY CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—(AP).—Foreign diplomats examining the Soviet Union's reconstruction of the relationships of its 16 republics with the outside world to-day saw in the move possibilities for one of the broadest, most elastic foreign policies of any government in the world —one which could give Russia the opportunity to swin great weight in Allied Councils.

Increasing interest was shown in the trends the new program might take, especially whether the Soviet Union will seek to set up separate representations in the various countries with which it now has diplomatic relationships.

Autonomy of the republics in foreign affairs would give the Soviets the legal right to ask for multiple representation in such councils as the League of Nations like that enjoyed by the British Commonwealth.

There are diplomatic authorities here who feel the Russians have pulled off a brilliant piece of work in international diplomacy, no matter what are the immediate developments.

Strengthens Soviet.

The history-making plan adopted unanimously by the Supreme Soviet (Russian Parliament) last night gave the 16 republics the power to deal directly with other countries and raise their own army units.

Foreign Commissar Molotov submitted the proposition, explaining to the delegates "this new step forward in the nationality question," concerning the various nationalities in the Union, resulted "through the success of the Soviet Union as a whole in the war against the invader."

Autonomy of the 16 republics—including Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—would give the Soviets great bargaining power in foreign relations. It is believed that Russia will seek to realize as much as legally possible from the reconstruction.

16 Hun Divisions Stymied By Tito

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(CP).—German reinforcements, rushed from Greece, have been thrown into bloody fighting against Yugoslav Partisans in Dalmatia, while in Macedonia the Nazi two-weeks-old offensive has collapsed, headquarters of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced to-day.

The sudden Partisan threat to German positions in Dalmatia centred in the Cetina Valley between the towns of Knin and Benkovac, west of the Adriatic ports of Split and Zara, Tito's communique said.

Tito's forces, greatly strengthened by the increased supply of Allied war materials reaching them, apparently have stymied Germany's winter campaign to crush the Partisans, who have successfully held off the better part of 16 divisions.

Only small-scale fighting was reported from the rest of the 245-mile-long front stretching from Northern Croatia to Montenegro.

Russian Move Arouses Speculation

Conferring Sovereignity On 16 Republics May Bring Other Countries Into Fold

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press War Analyst.

Remoulding of the Soviet Union into what amounts to a Commonwealth of Nations, which appears to confer a large degree of sovereignty on the 16 members comprising the Union, bids fair to have far-reaching effects. For one thing it might give the Soviet 16 votes in any postwar "League of Nations" which may be created to maintain peace, whereas a Government like that of the United States would have only one. There is, however, another point which, while not so obvious, strikes me as presenting momentous possibilities, and it is this:—

This new Commonwealth of Nations seems to contemplate a wholly flexible organization—a sort of big club—which could enlarge its membership freely without any troublesome annexations or apparent infringement of the sovereignty of the new member.

May Attract Greece.

Thus, for example, if countries like Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, or Greece—all of which have developed strong communistic parties— want to become members of the Soviet Commonwealth, despite their geographical separation from Russia, they could do so without surrendering their independence. If this is so it would permit of a wide-spread enlargement of the Soviet Union.

Want Naval Battle.

In the Pacific, American forces, supported by the greatest naval strength ever assembled in one place, have invaded the heart of Japan's Marshall Islands stronghold. They are hitting at the powerful bases of Roi and Kwajalein Islands, having by-passed numerous other isles with the idea that if they take the two key positions, the other bases will more or less fall of their own weight.

Marines and army units are ashore on the Kwajalein atoll. There is fierce fighting, but early reports were that losses had been moderate. Indications are that the invasion forces have a lot of dirty work ahead of them, for these Japanese defences are among their strongest. The Marshalls are, of course, one of the main shields for Japan proper.

The greatest event which could grow out of the invasion would be for the Japanese to rush to the rescue with the big naval fleet which they are sheltering within the harbor of their powerful naval station of Truk, 1,200 miles west.

That would precipitate a battle which would either make or break the Mikado.

However, it may well be that the Barbarians of the Rising Sun won't risk their Truk fleet in such a great gamble. After all, Truk and the surrounding Caroline Islands present a formidable barrier—so long as they are strongly held—between the Allies and both Japan and the Philippines even if the Marshalls are captured.

Japanese Suffer New Losses

Allies Control Underside Of New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA, Feb. 2 — (AP) —Allied control of most of the underside of New Guinea was indicated to-day in an official report that the Japanese had suffered a high-percentage loss in an attack at the mouth of Ellanden river.

Eight enemy barges brought troops to attack a post there manned by Netherlands and Australian soldiers. Four bargese were sunk and 60 Japanese killed by the Allied ground force, an Allied communique said. Australian fliers later bombed and strafed the remaining four, and pilots said they doubted that any of the enemy escaped.

Report of the action was the first headquarters' disclosure of the location of an Allied post on the south New Guinea coast so far from Port Moresby. The mouth of the Eilenden river is about 600 miles northwest of Port Moresby. It also was the first report of Netherlands troops being in action with Australians.

Fighters and bombers from Allied bases in the Solomons hammered the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, again Sunday in three attacks which destroyed 28 enemy planes in the air at least five Japanese bombers on the ground, sank a medium cargo ship in the harbor and set fire to a destroyer and two more medium-size merchantmen. The attacks cost the Allies four planes.

Soviet Union Reorganizes 16 Republics

Belief Exists Move Would Strengthen Russia After War

LONDON, Feb. 2—(CP).—The Soviet Union's adoption of a plan whereby its 16 individual republics will have their own foreign policy was viewed in some London quarters today as affecting the part Russia will play in the reconstruction of post-war Europe.

Although there was no official comment, it was assumed here that the next step might be for the Soviet republics to request recognition from other countries. Should this be granted each presumably would have a voice in any peace-time world organization.

It was noted in London that in proposing the plan, Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov said the change would "serve further to increase the authority of our country in the eyes of the peoples of the nations of the east and west."

It also was observed that Dr. Joannes Vares, president of the Estonian Republic, said in endorsing the plan, "The diplomats of the national republics will be guided by the general principles of Soviet diplomacy."

The Daily Sketch commented that the plan had implications which might affect the situation in the Balkans, and it might make a special appeal to Pan-Slavic sentiment in both Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

The Daily Express said one result of the decision might be an increase of voting power "of what may be called the 'Russian group of nations' in any reconstructed League of Nations."

He added: "If, as likely, the Soviet government claims a wide sphere of influence in eastern Europe after the war, the Baltic States are certain to be included in it."

Fruit Men Oppose 35-Mile Limit

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — (C P) — Seeking to have the 35-mile truck limit raised or abolished, members of the Ontario Fruit Merchants Association, meeting yesterday elected a committee to visit Ottawa this coming week-end and discuss the matter with Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices Board. Great quantities of fruit and vegetables are being wasted, it is said, by the limit on trucking.

Thirty-five merchants from different Ontario points attended. The committee selected, aided by counsel, was as follows: M. Bankoff, Kitchener; Joe Anthony, Peterborough; W. Bogers, Toronto; Joe Amodeo, Napanee.

Mr. Bankoff, of the Twin City Produce Co., of Kitchener, states that early this winter he was caused a loss of $300, through a shipment from his firm being left out in freezing weather on a transport which he had been forced to engage, rather than run his own equipment beyond 35 miles.

Another Nazi Crime

LONDON, Feb. 2— (CP).— The Moscow radio was reported to have charged the Germans last night with "the devastation and destruction of the ancient town of Novgorod." It said of 2,300 houses only 40 were left intact, and historic monuments, churches and monasteries were burned, adding, "Germans defiled the greatest monument of Russian religion, Sofia church, built in the 11th century, by turning it into a store."

MARRIAGES STUPIDLY PLANNED

Business Never Would Be Successful If As Little Intelligence Were Put Into It.

IF people brought as little intelligence to bear upon their other affairs as they do upon marriage, there would hardly be a going concern in the whole breadth and length of the land. For while the dumbest of us perceive that it takes a few brains and a certain amount of working at the job to make any kind of procession or business a success, we consider that marriage doesn't call for any serious thought or effort.

Consider the way men and women marry. Theoretically they know that taking a husband or wife is the most important act of their lives and that on their decision hangs their whole future happiness, or misery; but they don't use even ordinary caution in picking out their mates.

Man Gypped By Nitwit

No man would buy an automobile because it was painted red and had a few fancy gadgets, but he will marry a silly little nitwit girl because she is all dolled up with rouge and mascara, and then feel gypped because she bores him to tears and can't cook and pinch pennies the way his mother did.

Before a girl buys a dress she considers her lines and her taste and its wearing qualities, but she will marry a man without even trying to find out if his character is all wool and a yard wide and guaranteed not to shrink or fade in the every day wash of matrimony. Nor does she bother to assure herself that their habits and politics and religion jibe so that they will stand a reasonable chance of getting along in peace and harmony, instead of being in a brawl from the altar to the grave.

Not only do people marry on the grab-bag principle, but they rush into it without even considering whether they have a talent for domesticity or not. Most of the unhappy homes are the result of men and women marrying whom Nature destined to be old bachelors and old maids. The born philanderer can no more make a success of marriage than a stone deaf man can of being an opera singer. Nor can the woman who is allergic to gas ranges and babies and all that pertains thereto make a wife who keeps her husband on his knees thanking God for her.

Marriage is the career that most men and all women plan to follow, yet not one in a million ever tries to prepare themselves for it. Apparently, they expect to be miraculously endowed at the altar with inspiration about how to get along with their mates, so there is no use in learning the trade beforehand, as they would have to do if they undertook to be lawyers, or doctors, or carpenters.

Some Always Amateurs in Marriage

Anyway, boys get married without having any way to support a wife. Girls get married without knowing how to cook or run a budget. Husbands live for forty years with wives without ever trying to find out why they act the way they do. Wives bemoan grouchy husbands without learning how to stroke their fur the right way so they will purr under their hands. There are plenty of otherwise intelligent men and women who never learn to be expert husbands and wives. They stay rank amateurs to the end.

Not even the most optimistic could expect a business to prosper if there was no co-operation between the partners and if they fought each other over every issue and plan, but in half the families you know there is no teamwork between husbands and wives. They pull against each other all the time and that is why so many marriages end in bankruptcy.

Everywhere else except in marriage men and women realize that if they wish to make a success of their affairs they must learn to compromise with others and to get along with them in peace and harmony. But in marriage only too many husbands and wives make no effort to sell themselves to each other, and make their homes a perpetual battle-ground rather than yield an inch of their prejudices and authority. Yet nowhere are the rewards of the appeaser so great as they are in the family circle.

So when you consider the stupidity with which most of us face the domestic problem, it is not strange that divorce is so common. The marvel is that it isn't universal.

Large Crowd Attends Music Teachers' Recital

The recreation room of the Y. W. C. A. was filled to capacity Tuesday evening for the recital of students of members of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association. A varied program of piano and vocal selections was presented by pupils from primary to advance grades, representing 19 members of the Association.

Eunice Moncrief opened the program by playing Schubert's "Scherzo in B flat", and little Bobby Turner followed with Schubert's "Melody from Unfinished Symphony," "Bourree", by Bach, and "Lullaby" by Brahms. Betty Nicholls played Boccherini's 'Minuet,' and Mary Ronco also played a minuet. Another young performer was David Langhorne, who presented "Capriccio", by Haydn, and "Waltz", by Duncan, and Max Clark played Chopin's "Valse in A flat".

Donald Cole gave Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G", and Jean Hills played "Troika" by Tschaikovsky, with feeling and good expression. "Golliwog's Cake Walk" by Debussy, played by Marion Downer, was particularly enjoyed by the audience, as was "Solfeggietto", by Bach, given by Betty Mehew, and Waltz in A flat, by Brahms and "Liebestraum", by Liszt, played by Nancy Sootheran. Other selections on the program included "Etude" by S. Heller, and "Gypsy Dance", by Lichner, played by Mary Shannon; Minuet in C", by Mozart, played by Jim Abraham, and "Adagio in B Minor", by Cesar Franck, played by Ann Ottewell.

Piano Trios

There were two piano trios on the program, and both selections were well presented. The first was a trio composed of Marilyn Pomeroy, Marie Derry and Willia Wright, with the selection being "La Carillon", Op. 19, by Leon Ringuet. The second trio, composed of Shirley Goard, Barbara Vanstone and Eleanor Pollard, played a medley of Hungarian Folk Songs by Juhasz Aladar, which was greatly enjoyed.

Vocal presentations of the evening were excellent, with the Junior Public School Choir presenting three pieces, "The Nut Tree", an old English song, "Fairy Counterpanes", by Arthur Warrell, and "Tirra-lirra-lirra", a German folk song. The diction of the children was particularly good, and their sweet voices were appropriate for the light and airy songs they sang. Doreen Groombridge sang "Sing, Sweet Bird", by Wilhelm Ganz; Hazel McLaren sang Roger Quiltera's "Love's Philosophy" and "Young Love Lies Sleeping", by Arthur Somervell; Morley Coombs sang Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song"; and Leone Northrop sang "Rose Softly Blooming", by Spohr, and "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair", by Haydn.

All the numbers on the program were well prepared, and showed careful instruction. Most of the piano selections were played from memory, and consequently the performers were able to give more attention to expression and style, and this fact was noted in their manner.

Twins Give Their Lives

Toronto, Feb. 2 (CP)

THE Baker twins of Toronto—six - foot - three youths who couldn't even wait to finish school before enlisting—have given their lives to their country.

Pilot Officer Jim Baker, at 22, was killed last year in an R.C.A.F. training plane crash near Richmond, Ont. Flying Officer Jack Baker got his last Friday night, flying a Canadian Lancaster on the Berlin raid—eight months to the day after his brother's death.

Annexation Area Includes Cemetery

All of Little Lake cemetery except its frontage depth on the east side of Haggart street from the C. N.R. to the main gates is included in the North Monaghan area which will be annexed by the city, R. H. Parsons, city engineer, told the Examiner today.

This area has not been generally known to be part of the township, at least in the public knowledge. In references to the area south of Lansdowne street which has been proposed for annexation, it was probably assumed by city and township authorities that the cemetery area as a section of North Monaghan was not yet within the city limits. When the property facing on Haggart street was bought by the Cemetery Board it was then city property with the boundary line extending through that part of the cemetery from approximately the C.N.R. to the Little Lake. It is understood that the W. G. Morrow lot is within the present city section of the cemetery.

Another fact which Mr. Parsons mentioned today was the extent of the task which will devolve to Fred Morrow, local registrar of deeds.

"If annexation goes through, it will mean that all the deeds relating to township properties and subdivisions will have to be altered recording the transfer and date from North Monaghan to city property," Mr. Parsons said, "and I should imagine that will require a great deal of time to complete the alterations applying to all the lots in the two areas, the one west of the city and the other to the south."

Mr. Parsons has completed exact detail drawings indicating the individual properties in those two sections of the township. Incidentally the lots on the south side of St. James street are included in the annexation project.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2 (CP)—Joseph E. Truck Loaded With Ice Drops Into Lake

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 2—(ENS)—William Edwards, trucker, had a close escape from drowning Monday afternoon about 3:30 when his truck loaded with forty blocks of ice crashed through a frozen bay in Lake Katchewanooka.

Edwards, who was alone in the truck at the time, was able to jump from the cab as the rear end of the machine, dropped through the ice some 75 feet from shore in front of Colonel A. T. LeFevre's boat house.

Feeling the truck starting to sink underneath him Edward said he gunned the machine for all it was worth and he thinks that that is what probably saved his life, for as his truck speeded up his load of ice shifted to the rear end and the truck thus lightened caught and was suspended by the rear of the platform with the front end mostly out of water.

He believed that had the ice stayed on the weight would have forced the machine to the bottom into about 12 feet of water. It took the united efforts of the McManus' brothers truck and the whole gang of ice cutters over three hours to jack the Edwards' truck up and with the aid of a block and tackle attached to a beech tree on the shore, pull the machine out onto sound ice.

Where the truck broke through there was eighteen inches of ice.

Take Prisoners

Troops attacking behind tanks entered the northern half of some old Italian barracks near Cassino, transformed by the Germans into a bulwark of the Gustav Line, and took prisoners.

Patrols pushed to within 300 yards of Cassino Monday night, but withdrew under heavy machine-gun fire from Nazi squads left in the town to delay the Allied advance and deny use of the main road to Rome, Highway No. 6, passing through Cassino.

Evidencing the intensity of fighting on the Cassino front, French Gen. Paul Devinck, chief of Gen. Henri Giraud's personal staff, said French losses in two months in Italy had equalled their losses for the entire Tunisian campaign. Devinck, returning after a visit to the front, said important casualties had been inflicted on the Germans, but the French had suffered higher losses.

Cut Main Railway

Radio France at Algiers said the main coastal railway supplying Germans in the Cassino area had been cut by Allied forces which battled their way to Campoleone.

A Berlin broadcast estimated 250,000 men were engaged on both sides in the Italian bridgehead. "One hundred Allied guns are facing a single German division alone," another broadcast said.

The part of the Gustav Line near Cassino through which the Allies have smashed consisted of dugouts, pillboxes, minefields and barbed wire entanglements on the slops running down to the Rapido river. Farther back were observation posts from which the Nazis poured down accurate artillery fire.

On the 8th Army front Canadian troops knocked out three 75-millimetre antit-ank guns in a short gain against stiff German opposition. The Canadians won positions commanding a crossroads just southeast of Tollo, five miles inland from Ortona.

The Navy announced the British cruiser Orion and Netherlands gunboat Soemba again had shelled the Germans in the Formia area, on the gulf of Gaeta.

The air bulletin said Allied night bombers struck at an oil refinery at the North Italian port of Trieste on Monday night. Medium bombers attacked a road junction at Albano yesterday as bad weather generally curtailed air operations.

Nearing Terelle.

Light bombers blasted the rail station at San Valentino while the fighter bombers hit at shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

Five German planes were destroyed. No Allied aircraft were lost.

The American advance north of Cassino moved to within a mile of Terelle, a town slightly more than five miles north-west of Cassino.

Assailing what he described as Russia's "rigorous censorship" of the press, Msgr. Sheen stated:

"Every other nation on the face of the earth knows that the Vatican condemned Fascism in an encyclical writter in Italy, Nazism in an encyclical written in German, and Communism in an encyclical written in Latin. He evidently referred to the Soviet-Polish border problem.

In a 40-minute speech outlining the plan, Molotov said it demonstrated the strength of the Soviet Union, adding that "not every state would make such a venture." He declared that national units of the Red Army previously had lacked full opportunity for national development and said that "now they can be put on a firm footing."

Asserting that the creation of a central commissariat to handle international affairs for all the republics had been a "necessary stage," Molotov said that the republics "have some interests which cannot be satisfied by general agreements with the Soviet Union. They will be better satisfied if they have separate commissars for foreign affairs."

Should Stay Out

QUARRYVILLE, Pa., Feb. 2 (AP)—The groundhog saw his shadow today at 9.37.05 EDT.

The official time was announced by Slumbering Lodge of grounhogs as the climax of a march, in flowing robes and tophats caked with verdigris, through the quarries to the groundhog's hole. Hibernating Governor Charles Hess, who ordered the Candlemas Day ritualists to ride horseback for the first time, said there isn't the slightest doubt now that there will be six more weeks of wintry weather.

Bench And Bar Honor Rinfret

OTTAWA, Feb. 2 — (CP). — Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret received the congrfatulations of the Bench and Bar on Tuesday when he presided over the Supreme Court of Canada for the first time since his appointment to the senior position in the Judiciary of Canada recently.

Mr. Justice Rinfret said the near future might bring new relationships between the individual and the state which would call for the development of new concepts of jurisprudence by the Bench and the Bar. This was one of the things which would make his task heavy, and he said he would need the loyalty and co-operation of his fellow-judges.

The task was also heavy because of the abilities of "the great and eminent jurist who preceded me" (Sir Lyman Duff).

Walker Favors Veterans' Dept.

KAMLOOPS, B.C., Feb. 2 (CP)—Alex Walker of Calgary, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, in an address here last night commended the federal government's announced intention of establishing a Department of Veterans' Affairs.

The Legion is urging the government to establish insurance for members of the armed forces serving anywhere in the world, Walker said, rather than insurance confined to men serving overseas only.

The Legion is also asking that the disability pension for women in the armed forces be placed at par with that already in effect for men, he added.

At present there is no government insurance system covering members of the forces.

However, pension benefits apply to a man serving overseas and his dependents whether he is killed or injured while on service or on leave. In Canada, pensions benefits cover a man and his dependents only when he is killed or injured in the exercise of military duties. A man killed or injured on leave in Canada is not entitled to pensions benefits.

Inspector Raps Makers Of Inferior Boots

TORONTO, Feb. 2 —(CP) —The Globe and Mail in a 3,000-word story to-day carries a detailed list of charges, made by a former inspecting officer, of irregularities in production of "thousands of boots" for the Canadian Army, and a charge-by-charge reply by the inspection board of United Kingdom and Canada, issued through the Defence Department of Ottawa.

The newspaper quotes James Clark of Toronto, for nearly four years a board inspector, in his allegations of failure of manufacturers under Government contract to meet specifications, use of inferior leather and other materials, and boots improperly constructed as to soles, lasts and patterns.

The Board in its reply cities authorization for departure from specifications on certain "experimental" orders, permission to adopt "temporary expedients" during labor shortages and in change-over processes, and necessity to shift to other materials when stock piles of specified products were depleted.

Want Probe.

Clark, who now is demanding an investigation by a "competent tribunal," claims he was "unceremoniously discharged" last Aug. because he attempted "to protect the public treasury from improper charges and the army from inferior boots."

The Board's reply says it was necessary to discharge Clark or a superior official of "more valuable" service, "since Mr. Clark would not comply with instructions of that superior officer."

Fix Leather Prices

OTTAWA, Feb. 2—(CP). — The Prices Board last night announced adjustment of leather and footwear prices for tanners and manufacturers, but stipulated there must be no increase in the retail price of shoes. One order provides that tanners, jobbers and leather dealers are to sell their leather to shoe manufacturers at a discount of two per cent, instead of four per cent. as formerly. Another provides that shoe manufacturers may increase their selling prices by three per cent, rather than one per cent. as formerly.

M.O.H. Not Seen At School In Twenty-two Years

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2 — (ENS) Immediate aciton to correct what principal C. S. Haig described as "deplorable conditions" existing at the public school, was taken by the Board of Education for its first session of the year.

For the benefit of some few members who were not aware of the problem, which public school teachers were having to cope with unassisted by public health officials, Mr. Loucks said "we have ring worms, lice and other contagious diseases in the public school and the itch has been effecting pupils there for the past three years." He said that in other schools a qualified nurse visited the rooms at regular intervals but here everything was left to the individual teacher whose only course was to send the pupils home if she observed any of these troubles. Several members expressed surprise at Mr. Loucks assertion, but when Principal Haig was called on for a statement they got an even greater eye opener.

Mr. Haig said, "Something has to be done. Conditions are deplorable. We have tried to correct the trouble by sending home the ones that are lousy but some parents send them back the next day with nests of eggs in their hair still unremoved. Children have been suspended but that doesn't seem to do any good. The Board of Health must go into the homes and clean them up."

He spoke of other children being sent to school unclean, saying "we have some casese where you should use a gas mask. It is terrible and all due to dirty homes. I was in one class room last Monday and actually had to leave the door open. There's no reason for that condition existing. One teacher sent home 7 or 8 pupils with head lice in a single day."

Examine Monthly.

"In some towns, smaller than this one, they have a nurse and doctor to examine pupils once a month," declared H. A. McArthur.

"Why doesn't the local Board of Health do something about it?" asked Mr. Loucks, who suggested the Board of Health be notified.

Mr. Haig told members that teachers had full authority to suspend a pupil until he was cleaned up."

"Does the M. O. H. ever visit the school?" asked Mr. Armour.

"I haven't seen one there making an inspection in 22 years," replied Mr. Haig.

The dicsussion was concluded with a motion by E. C. McKeel that the secretary notify the Board of Health of the conditions existing at the school "right now." The motion carried.

Organize Home and School.

A delegation comprising nine ladies representing local churches and headed by Mrs. G. N. Maxwell brought the question of forming a Home and School Association to the attention of the Board. Mrs. Maxwell, who acted as spokesman for the group, said it was their desire to have the Board's approval and cooperation in their project. She outlined the association's creed to promote child welfare in the home, school and community and described the work as a cooperative, non-partisan, non-sectarian effort. Mrs. Maxwell explained that such an Association could not function efficiently without the consent and co-operation of the Board of Education and added they would like to have the use of the High School Auditorium for their monthly meetings. It was expected a lady organzier would be on hand to assist at the initial meeting next week.

A motion by Dr. Richardson and Mr. Bonnycastle that the Board co-operate as far as possible with the organization of a Home and School Association, was carried.

Grants Come Through.

Dr. Richardson, whose efforts were primarily responsible for the opening of Home Economics and Manual Training Departments in the Public School, last year, reported with satisfaction that the Department of Education had approved of their equipment and sent cheques covering grants of $204.00 for each subject. A petition signed by 69 public school pupils expressing dissatisfaction with the 9.30 to 4.30 hours caused the Board to rescind a motion passed last November and revert back to the 9 to 4 school day. It was pointed out the change had been made to accommodate less than 10 per cent of the pupils (who have to walk in from the country) and now members felt with the days growing longer the chief reason for this had ceased. On motion, the public school will resume its 9 to 12.00, 1.30 to 4.00 on February 7.

The Board rejected a request made on behalf of the Trent Valley Chapter I. O. D. E. for use of the High School Auditorium on Easter Monday. It was pointed out that neither a Provincial nor Municipal license had been taken out for the auditorium and it could not be used for a dance without these. Appearing on behalf of C. Company Midland Regiment (RF) Major N. Alex MacColl requested use of the High School gymnasium for target practice one night each week during February and March. Use of the gymn was granted with a rider being added to the motion to the effect that the targets be placed parallel to the wall since it appeared when shooting at a 75 foot range diagonally last year some bullets ricocheted into the wall.

New Officers.

Following the passing of accounts Chairman Locke retired and secretary W. Stephens re-convened the members for their annual meeting. A. J. Armour, vice-chairman in 1943 was elected the Board's chairman for the coming year and E. C. McKeel was elected vice chairman. Committee heads were elected as follows:— Internal, H. A. McArthur; Finance, E. C. McKeel; Property, R. J. Locke. As in previous years the chairman were empowered to select their own committee members. After reading a letter from Richard Weston requesting that he not be re-appointed to the Library Board, members appointed Rev. H. R. Bryant for 1944-45. Rev. G. N. Maxwell whose term had expired this year, was re-appointed.

GREAT-WEST LIFE Policyholders

BUILD SOUNDLY IN 1943

Policyholders in the Great-West Life shared a notable year in 1943. By their thrift and prudence they made remarkable headway in spite of the many strains of wartime and the unusual demands on their incomes.

1. Their increased savings added more than $13,000,000 to the funds which the Company is holding for them. Over $200,000,000 is now held in trust for 231,000 policyholders.
2. They were joined by 24,500 new policyholders who, along with former policyholders, added $101,000,000 of new protection for themselves and their dependents.
3. They now own policies totalling $759,000,000—an average of $3,286 per policyholder.
4. They bought $29,000,000 of Victory Bonds and U.S. War Bonds through their Company during the one year—representing $125.00 for each policyholder.

To many policyholders, 1943 brought death, retirement or unexpected emergencies, but through their foresight they had provided for these contingencies. Beneficiaries whose homes were saddened during the year received $4,573,000, while living policyholders received $9,189,000—a total of $13,762,000.

A complete report, showing the strong position of the Company, is available. It gives striking evidence of how men and women in Canada and the United States are making financial provision for their own future security.

Church Cleared $800 Mortgage

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2 (ENS) —Holding of their annual Vestry meeting on Monday marked a highly successful year in all departments of Christ church, and earned a note of appreciation from Rev. W. J. Lennox, who voiced his thanks to the congregation for their splendid work.

The financial report for the year was given by the People's Warden, F. A. Burgar, and it was disclosed the Parish was no longer confronted by any outstanding debts and in addition that all current obligations had been met. The outstanding event of the year, from a financial viewpoint had been the retirement of the $800.00 mortgage on the Parish Hall as a result of the efforts of the Parish Guild. Missionary and Diocesan allotments had also been fully paid. In all nearly $2,700.00 had been raised during the year and approximately $1,500 of this was from the envelope system, open collections and special offerings. The sound financial position was further reflected in the fact that the winter's fuel supply was on hand and a substantial balance was being carried in the bank. Apart from regular allotments a contribution of $36.80 had been made to the re-building of churches destroyed in England since the war.

J. P. Archer, who was appointed Vestry Clerk, gave a report of the church envelope system and Miss Ethel Bedford reviewed the work of the Parish Guild whose $825.00 contribution to the Wardens had made possible payment of principal and interest on the Parish Hall mortgage. Joseph Poulton spoke of the work done by the Men's Club, which had contributed $100 to the general expenses of the church. Other reports were given as follows: the W.A. by Mrs. J. A. Linton; the Choir, Major J. M. Bygott; Sunday School, Hilton Beatty; A.Y.P.A., Mrs. C. Newman.

Elected and appointed officials for 1944 are:—Peoples' Warden, F. A. Burgar; Rector's Warden, Hilton Beatty; Lay Delegates to the Synod, J. V. Bedford, J. M. Bygott; envelope secretary, J. P. This Is Real Democracy

The word 'democracy' is knocked about rather carelessly these days, and it is defined in many different and occasionally contradictory ways. We have said many times that our own idea of democracy is a system of government which gives everybody freedom under the law, and allows everybody a chance to develop his special talents as far as he wants to, or as far as he can. What a really good man wants most in life is a chance to show what he is made of; given that, he does not really care whether the state broods over his welfare; he is reasonably confident that he can look after himself. In a democracy the highest offices in the land should be open to the man who has brains enough or character enough to be fit for them.

This condition exists, to a great extent, both in Great Britain and in the U.S. It is a pity, however, that the notion is so widespread in the U.S. that British government is almost entirely in the hands of Tory aristocrats, who do not allow the 'lower classes' to have a real voice in affairs. This misunderstanding is caused, to a great extent, by the British system of titles; Americans do not usually bear in mind the fact that a title may be earned, and that many a man who has one now came from humble beginnings.

To make this clear, let us examine the present make-up of the British Cabinet. There are three aristocrats in it: Winston Churchill, grandson of the Duke of Marlborough, is one; Anthony Eden, of a famous Whig family is another; Oliver Lyttleton, the Colonial Secretary and a member of a distinguished political line is another. What may be called the Middle Class—the well-off but not aristocratic class—is represented by Clement Atlee, the Lord President of the Council, and Sir John Anderson, the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Men from the humblest beginnings are Ernest Bevin, the Minister of Labour, Herbert Morrison, the Minister for Home Security, who is the son of a policeman, and Lord Woolton, now Minister of Reconstruction, who gained a fine education on scholarships, and made a fine business career on his own abilities.

Sir Arthur Salter, the Joint Parliamentary Secretary for War Transport, was the son of an Oxford boat-builder; the First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, was the son of an artisan engineer; Lord Leathers, the Minister for War Transport, was the son of a cockney carpenter; Lord Beaverbrook was the son of a poor Canadian clergyman, and had little schooling. These men serve their country along with the Stanleys, the Cecils, the Salisburys and the Russells. No one has attempted to keep them from seizing the great places to which their brains entitle them.

There may be one valid reason for the American misunderstanding of British democracy: an Englishman, as he mounts the ladder of success, usually tries to alter his speech and his manner to fit his new circumstances and the dignity of his position. Neither Lord Woolton nor Lord Leathers, for instance, has felt it necessary to retain in later life the speech which he learned as a boy, though Morrison and Bevin have done so to some extent; it is worth noticing, however, that neither of the latter men is as popular as the more suave Woolton, who did a magnificent job in handling Britain's food during the worst days of the war.

Genuine democracy does not discriminate against any man on grounds of birth or education; if he has ability, he must be allowed to use it. It would be as undemocratic to exclude Churchill from the Cabinet because he comes of a great family as it would be to exclude Ernest Bevin because he was once a dock-worker. A country needs all its brains, and they must have an equal chance, wherever they may be found.

Nobody has yet discovered how to keep his chin up without occasionally sticking his neck out.

The Man From Emporia

It is not often that a country editor becomes both famous and rich; it is even more rarely that he becomes a national institution and an unofficial counsellor of the government of his country. The late William Allen White did all these things, and his death at the age of 75 removes a characteristically American citizen from the American scene. It was in 1895 that White bought The Emporia Daily and Weekly Gazette with a borrowed $3,000; in a comparatively short time he made it known and heeded in a country which does not, as a usual thing, pay much attention to its small papers. He did so because he was a man of unusual journalistic ability, unusual common sense, unusual integrity and unusual goodwill; he was also, it must be added, a shrewd man of business, for newspapers, however well-written, cannot be financed on goodwill alone.

White wrote home truths about the state of Kansas and about the U.S. at large in an attractive colloquial style; he might be described as a 'folksy' journalist. But although the truths were coated with home-made taffy, they had a sharp edge; the Republican party had a doughty fighter and also a scathing critic in the Emporia editor. He used the paper of which he was sole owner as a vehicle for ideas and judgements which have attracted attention in a metropolitan daily. Nor did he forget Emporia; the Gazette never had a swelled head; it was always a first-rate local paper. Indeed, the folksiness of White's journalism was sometimes in questionable taste. The death of his daughter Mary provoked an editorial which has been widely quoted as a touching expression of grief, but whether it had any place in the columns of a daily newspaper is a matter for debate; but the man from Emporia made his own rules, and they were usually excellent.

White's death closes a typically American story; he started with nothing but his own brains and ability, and by using these he achieved fame and fortune. It is a good country where such things can happen.

'Neglident'—Hail And Farewell

An American professor of physical education has invented a new word, 'neglident' which he hopes to introduce into the English language. Most of the things which we describe as accidents, he says, are really the result of negligence, and we need a word which makes that clear; 'neglident' is his contribution to greater clarity in speaking and writing.

We think that the professor had better stick to his dumb-bells and Indian clubs. Amateurs should leave the difficult business of mating words to experts; 'neglident' is perhaps a possible word if we consider its Latin ancestry, but it makes thick-tongued English. We can worry along with 'accident' and 'negligence' as we did before.

The great problem in writing and speaking today is not that we lack words which have exact meanings, but that far too many people abuse and prostitute existing words and meanings, using a high-sounding but philologically despicable jargon. Too many people 'finalize' a thing instead of ending it; too many blather about 'normalcy' when they mean 'normality'; the expression 'post-war' has almost ousted the more effective and wholly English 'after the war'; and 'control' seems likely to become standard English for 'civil-servant tyranny'. We don't need any new words for a while; we need to learn how to use the old ones.

The abuse of the English language—which has nothing to do with the normal alteration of the language through good colloquial use—continues apace. It appears to be inevitable in an age when education neglects the cultivation of the ear and the tongue, and when a love of words for their own sake is taken as a sign of preciosity; and when great numbers of writers and speakers conceal the fact that they are costive of ideas with a flux of words, good, bad or indifferent.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A psychologist says that mental habits are fixed for life at the age of five. Or earlier, judging by the way some people cling to the bottle.

"Great crooners are born" says Sinatra's press agent. This kills the rumour that Frankenstein made them out of the scraps he had left from his Monster.

An aged lady in Ottawa says that it is "still one of her greatest joys to read the Evening Journal, and her Bible". As a corrective?

In reply to Arthur Rodzinski's remark that swing music rots the intelligence Frank Sinatra replied: "I grew up in a jazz age and I did all right, didn't I?" Well, that question is still in debate.

Books—Mainly About the War

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

TODAY I want to deal with an accumulation of books, all published by the Macmillan company, most of which deal with some aspect of the war. The first and most significant of these is "Behind The Steel Wall," by Arvid Fredborg, who was correspondent of the Stockholm paper, Svenska Dagbladet, in Berlin until the summer of 1943. Therefore his inside information about Germany is more recent than that contained in any other book. It has been pointed out that, in spite of this fact, he does not tell us much which we did not know before; I must say, however, that he tells it better. Fredborg is a journalist in the European manner; that is to say, he is more cautious, more modest, and infinitely better versed in European history than his American colleagues. His book is about Germany, and not about himself and his adventures in Germany, as so many books by foreign correspondents have been. Even if it does not say much that is new, it is an important book because it presents the facts about modern Germany in a coherent and intelligent manner.

AN appalling defect in the human race is made clear in Fredborg's book, not because he particularly stresses it, but because everything he says points to it; it is simply that abuses and tyrannies can become so much a matter of everyday that we soon do not know them for what they are, and invent good reasons for showing that they could not well be otherwise. The Germans under Nazi rule soon ceased to see that what ailed them was simply bad government by bad men; they accepted the drabness and restriction of their lives as characteristic of life itself, and even characteristic of life at its best. Our ability to 'rationalize,' as the psychologists call it—to dope ourselves with lies when life is wretched—is perhaps our greatest weakness. After the last war the Germans were shocked and hurt to find that we considered much of their conduct monstrous; they will be just as shocked this time, and if we do not take care that the truth is brought home to them, they will continue their elaborate self-deception.

FREDBORG'S book is heartily recommended. His suggestion that post-war Europe might be steadied by the restoration of a number of hereditary monarchies has been cried down in the U.S., where the predominantly republican attitude of mind makes it impossible to consider a monarchy more stable than a republic. Nevertheless, his idea is advanced with cogency, and deserves a careful examination. It is well to notice, also, that he says that Goebbels confessed that Germany had lost the war in 1942; perhaps we may accept the present struggle as an attempt to bring about a stalemate and an easy peace.

IF space permitted, I should like to give a whole column to "A Garland of Straw," by Sylvia Townsend Warner, for it is the best volume of short stories I have seen in a long time. Mrs. Warner has a keener perception, a finer sense of style, a sharper wit and a more distinguished mind than all but a handful of living novelists; she likes to work in miniature, eschewing the jumbo novel, and as the jumbo novel is fashionable she is unknown to many people who would be delighted by her stories. There is a wonderful freshness about her work; her stories are written without a superfluous word, and she uses the frowsy cliche only in the conversation of characters to whom the frowsy cliche is a natural form of speech. Her great gift is to see the unusual in everyday things and people; who could be more commonplace than a professional singer of the lower order, and yet Mrs. Warner sees precisely what it is in his character which makes him a caricature of a man. She has a few stories in this book about Nazis, and she sees what makes them caricatures, as well. "A Garland of Straw" will give rare pleasure to discerning readers; the title, by the way, is from the old song, "My Lodging It Is On The Cold Ground."

IN one way and another the war has given rise to a startling crop of babies; if, at this late date, there are any expectant mothers who do not know how to care for themselves and how to look after a new baby they had better get Dr. Mario Castallo's book, "Expectantly Yours," which gives all the necessary information with no more than a reasonable amount of coyness and jocosity; it is only fair to say, however, that you can have a baby without reading any books at all.... For those who want complete information on the subject a large pamphlet called "Fleet Air Arm" gives excellent letterpress and a great many first-rate pictures.... "The Story of The British Army," by S. J. Curtis is another excellent pamphlet, containing a lot of out-of-the-way information; most of us have no idea how the army grew from warrior tribes to its present complicated organization.... In the light of Lord Halifax's recent speech in Toronto Arnold L. Haskell's pamphlet, "The Dominions—Partnership Or Rift?" is interesting; Mr. Haskell makes a sound argument for real partnership.... Finally, Arthur Bryant has prepared a pamphlet called "Dunkirk, A Memorial," the proceeds from which go to the Daily Sketch War Relief Fund.

Sour Grapes, Mr. Buck?

Tim Buck, one of our most rubescent Communists, made a speech at Massey Hall on Sunday night, in which he said Canada is not yet ready for socialization "as proposed by C.C.F. spokesmen," and that the C.C.F. program "tends to drive many Canadians right into the arms of reactionary elements." He urged C.C.F. members to force the leaders to change their attitude toward the Labor-Progressive party.

These are changed times for Tim. Or is it Tim who has changed? There was a day when he would have spoken contemptuously of the C.C.F. form of socialism as milk and watery and he would not have welcomed it into the Communist fold until it pepped up its platform a bit. Today, he would have us believe that the C.C.F. is more socialist than the Communists and is a danger to the Dominion.

Tim has been trying for a long time to form a union of the Communist party and the C.C.F., but now that C.C.F. has receded from his blandishments he brands it reactionary. It would be interesting to know, who, in Tim's mind, the reactionary element is into whose arms the C.C.F. is driving the people.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THE KIND OF SECRET WEAPON ADOLF NEEDS —By Thomas

A Great Tobacco Library

(NEW YORK TIMES)

GEORGE ARENTS has made the city his debtor by the gift to the New York Public Library of his collection of four thousand volumes about tobacco. Many are of the greatest value and rarity. If to assemble them was a delight, to part with them must have been a great stroke of self-denial. The subject reaches from the time of Mayan civilization to Duke University. Its interests is historical, agricultural economic, social, geographical, medical and so on.

Tobacco seems to have begun as a religious, sacred plant, a fragrant offering to the gods. A stone bas-relief carved on a figure in a Mayan temple at Palenque shows a Mayan priest smoking a straight-stem pipe. The date is about A.D. 100. We know nothing more of tobacco-smoking till the Spanish explorers and conquerors came. It was found in Mexico and the Caribbean islands. The Spanish, Portuguese, English, Dutch, French navigators and colonizers spread it over the world. The age of pipes is still lasting. So in this country is the age of snuff, though that of snuffboxes has departed.

In 1776 Johnson was saying that "smoking has gone out." Within three years a German got from the Papal government a sole right for five years to make "tobacco sticks." The age of cigars, long in use in Mexico and the West Indies, had begun. The cigarette age started in Europe with the close of the Crimean War; started doubtfully here with the Philadelphia Exhibition of 1876. Now cigarettes must be more numerous than "the sands of the seashore."

Mr. Arents' library will tell us that women smokers are no novelty. The Princess Palatine, sister-in-law of Louis XIV, found the French women contemptible "with their drinking and their tobacco." There is a print of Mme. Vigee-Lebrun with a long, slender-stemmed pipe in her hand. The prints in the Bibliotheca Arentsiana will be another delight. You can't speak of tobacco without bringing up a string of associations. Louis XIV hated tobacco and snuff. Yet his whole court was an addict and he caught his own daughters smoking pipes. What must Mme. de Maintenon think of Moliere, who makes Sganarelle say in 1665 that "he who lives without tobacco has nothing to live for?" In June of that year, a plague year, Mr. Pepys saw on two or three doors big red crosses inscribed: "Lord have mercy on us!" Mr. Pepys sickened at the sight and bought a roll of tobacco to smoke and chew. He must have been one of the last believers in the therapeutic use of tobacco. There can be no doubt that the use of Mr. Arents' library will be healthful to many minds.

Everybody's Servant Problem

(THE PRINTED WORD)

IN PEACETIME, many of us employ a full-time domestic servant, and all of us, even the poorest, employ innumerable servants on a part-time basis. We buy a pair of shoes, a car or a radio and our purchase money goes to recompense the thousands of men and women who have played a part in manufacturing the product and delivering it to the ultimate consumer.

War has forced all but a fortunate few to relinquish the services of former domestics, and the skill and industry of many part-time employees is no longer at our command. Yet addition of last year's cheques in favour of the Receiver-General of Canada shows that we are still paying their wages. In fact, we have had to add to our payroll soldiers, sailors and airmen, their dependents, members of the auxiliary services and a host of temporary civil servants. No wonder our taxes are high.

One may as well be cheerful about it and imagine that one is paying the inadequate wages of the man who will score a direct hit on Herr Schickelgruber. On the other hand, a gloomys realism suggests that one may be paying for the training of a zombie who will stay in Canada for the duration, or for the upkeep of a government official whose principal duty appears to be the ruin of one's business.

Because Canada has been able to provide virtually full employment in wartime, some of our planners of the post-war scheme seem to think that continuance of governmental spending will mean a continuance of prosperity. They neglect one great lesson of the war, namely that the taxpayer's abiltiy to employ servants is limited. He has been able to pay the wages of a mass of temporary employees simply because he has been doing without the products and services that he would order from them if he were free to do so.

Some of our economists have the vision of an expanding economy after the war, and their vision may be truthful. The immediate post-war period certainly promisese plentiful employment in replacing goods that have worn out and in developing the new products that will come on the market. It may be that after the initial period is passed, we shall have learned something about keeping trade and industry moving without running into the major depressions that have characterized our recent economic history.

At any rate, planning for an expanding economy, in which we may fail, is a more exhilarating programme than planning for an expanding civil service, in which we are only too certain to succeed.

Mr King's Foresight

Lord Halifax said in his Toronto address that Canada's progress "during the war under the far-seeing leadership of Mr. Mackenzie King has made her a veritable supply base for the armed forces of the United Nations." The reference to Mr. King's foresight is an appropriate one. It is a quality which he possesses to a high degree, ot a degree, in fact, which annoys his critics when they find policies vindicated by time. —(Toronto Star.)

Wise or Foolish?

We can see clearly now that Russia is insisting passionately on her right to make what disposition she chooses of her boundary question and that she means to allow the other Allied Powers no opportunity to mistake her meaning. That issue, or that difference of opinion, if it is a difference, is thus spread forth for everyone to see. At least we cannot accuse the Russian Government of double-dealing. With the issue thus defined, it is possible to think more clearly about it and ask ourselves whether we should be wise or foolish to press the point.—(Baltimore Sun).

One Cause of Delinquency

Much juvenile delinquency can be traced to the lack of "something to do." Every normal boy seeks adventure. He wants to feel that he is participating in adult life, that he counts for something, is wanted and needed. Laski Outdone

When Professor Harold J. Laski attacks Mr. Churchill and declares that the world's true hope lies in socialism, he may appear to be taking in a lot of territory. But his claims are modest compared with those of our own Mr. Coldwell. For Mr. Coldwell, socialism is not only desirable; it is the specific and sacred thing for which we are fighting the war.—(Winnipeg Free Press).

The Cost

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us.

We are trobuled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair.... For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal .... For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens ....

For we are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life. Now he that hath wrought us for the self-same thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit. (II Cor. 4: 6-8, 17, 18; 5: 1, 4, 5.)

Letter To The Editor

THE LATE F. H. DOBBIN

Sir,—I have just finished reading "Our Old Home Town" by my old friend, the late F. H. Dobbin. It is an amazing volume, not only describing how the town of Peterborough came into existence and its struggle to survive and prosper, but it also reveals the real Mr. Dobbin.

I knew him well. We lived next door. He was a kindly man and looked on the better things in life. As in all cities, there was dirt in the ditches, but his mind never seemed to dwell on it. Like Emerson's Bee "sipping only what was sweet, seeing only what was clean," he always considered the feelings of others.

The following anecdotes illustrate. A few years ago when Peterborough celebrated its "Old Town Week," Mr. Dobbin, acting as secretary, had his office and reception rooms over Duffus' Garage. One day a woman called and the following conversation ensued:

"Mr. Dobbin, my mother avers that she danced with the Prince when he visited Peterborough. Can it be true?"

"How old is your mother?"

"Eighty-four."

"And she firmly believes she danced with the Prince?"

"Oh, yes! She minutely describes the dress she wore and his charming manners."

"My dear lady, let her continue in this belief, but for your information, may I tell you that the Prince arrived in Peterborough at ten a.m. and left at two in the afternoon. There was no dance, but I beg of you do not tell your mother this."

On another afternoon, an elderly man entered and asked whether he might write a letter. He had not been in town for forty years. Mr. Dobbin with his usual courtesy supplied him with the requisites and placed him at a table near a window on the east side.

After a time he came over and asked for a stamp and remarked what a change had come over the Otonabee. In his boyhood days, it was a lovely stream of clear water.

Mr. Dobbin strolled over and sat down at the writer's table. He then saw that the old man had been looking at the gravel roof of the freight sheds. He turned to his friend and remarked: "Oh, yes, much gravel, sand and mud have come down the river since you were a boy."

Japs Bayonet Wounded On Stretchers

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—Japanese laughed deliriously as they bayonetted wounded American soldiers in an ambush attack on New Georgia Island last July, J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent, wrote in a story from there last July which inspired one of the first atrocity posters printed by the army in this war. Lodge has returned to the United States.

Distribution of the posters among factories throughout the country was begun today.

The story said a force of 300 Japs broke through the Munda trail and attacked a litter convoy along the Bairoko River near what formerly was a frontline of foxholes. Eyewitnesses estimated 20 out of the 40 litter cases were killed.

A detail of 25 Americans guarding a waterhole on the trail had received word of the Jap advance and rushed to the aid of the convoy. Lieut. Nicholas T. Kliebert, who had charge of the detail, gave Lodge this account of the attack:—

Used Machetes

"The Japs who got through to one of our litter cases propped the man against a tree and five Japs took turns bayonetting him. I got three of them. Several times we saw Japs pull blankets off litter cases and then line up and take turns machetting them.

"They cut one of the poor lads from the top of his head to his feet, meanwhile laughing deliriously. They shot him through the head.

"We couldn't stand that, so we let the oncoming hordes alone and turned the now cooled-off rifles into the Japs among our wounded and killed six of them. But the others kept up their dirty work.

"One of them evidently was an officer for he had a sword. Using both hands, he raised the weapon overhead to strike one of our men. In doing so he cleaved the head off one of his own men, who was standing behind him.

"By this time, other Japs had got into the foxhole area and were dumping our wounded off the litters which they used to carry back their own wounded.

"Five more of our boys, now freed from the job of taking back the wounded, dashed in swinging their bayonets and knives. Many Japs fell dead, but only after they had hacked to death a number of litter cases, including officers."

Boys Once Hid In Old Air Vent To Hear Sousa's Band In Bradburn Opera House

Above the poop deck of "H.M.S. Howe," otherwise the side gallery of the old Bradburn Opera House, possibly there is still an air duct or vent in which three boys tucked themselves late in the afternoon of the day Sousa's Band played a concert in Peterborough. Tickets were one dollar, and those small boys had only a great urge and a will, which seems to weaken as they grow older. When the caretaker's back was turned, one of those former boys recalled to The Examiner this morning, the three of them sneaked up the stairs to the gallery and climbed up into the air duct. Before John Phillip Sousa began his program the lads called down to some one they knew in the gallery to catch their legs and ease them to the floor.

"We sat on the floor for two or three numbers, but it was highbrow stuff to us and going over our heads, and as the place was packed to standing room we asked for tickets to go out, and then we sold the tickets for a dollar each. It was only mischievous fun for us. I think the boys of our day were probably a little more resourceful than this new generation that spends too much time in picture shows and is generally too wise in their salad conceit."

Nazis Destroy Works Of Art

LONDON, Feb. 2—(CP)—A German incendiary squad in Italy wantonly destroyed priceless works of art and important archives of European history dating from 1238 to 1811 despite a plea by Italian authorities to spare them, War Secretary Sir James Grigg told House of Commons to-day.

The outrage occurred September 30 at Livardi, where the Italians had desposited art treasures from Naples—886 cases of selected doduments from state archives and a quantity of museum pieces.

Among the objects destroyed were registers of the Hohenstaufen and Angevin Kings of Naples, Kings of the House of Aragon and the Bourdon dynatsy and 60 to 70 paintings including a nearly portrait by Botticelli and a Madonna and Child by Luini.

Wrestler Hurt In Bout At Brock Arena

Wild Bill Longson's dreaded pile-driver hold brought Tuesday night's main bout feature of the Tunney wrestling rodeo at the Brock St. Arena to a sudden end. The No 1 man of the grappling art applied his favorite grip on Wilbur Toar Morgan after 21 minutes' spirited battling and not only took the first fall but the match for the former marine was so badly hurt that he was unable to come back.

The pile-driver, used by the world champion to win many an important bout, is a killer. Longson simply shoves his opponent's head between his legs, lifts him high in the air and drives him down on the canvas head first. He used it twice on Morgan in quick succession and on the second application the marine was out like a light. The champ dropped on him for the fall and then strode out of the ring leaving his opponent prostrate on his back.

He lay there for some moments and finally Referee Powers, Coach Phil Lawson and some of the other wrestlers carried him to the dressing-room in an unconscious condition. He was still out cold when the time for resuming the battle arrived and Longson was pronounced the winner. In fact Morgan did not come to for nearly half an hour and he was in bad shape when he left the Arena, suffering from an injury to the back of his neck.

I' Showed Them

Longson demonstrated to the satisfaction of Peterborough fans why he has been world champion for three seasons. Wonderfully fast for his 240 pound weight the St. Louis grappler is not very particular about the methods he uses and when he cuts loose with a rabbit punch or some other form of skulduggery he really snaps it in there, with plenty of power. He knows all the questions and answers and when it comees to this modern wrestling technique he is at home in eery phase of it.

No one expected Morgan, game as he is to beat the champ, but the marine was good enough to make Longson produce some of his best stuff and the two contributed 21 minutes of really lively battling. Morgan did not do all the catching; he was carrying the fight to Wild Bill on a number of occasions and twice forced Longson to do what the boys in the Air Force call taking evasive action. The marine waded into his opponent with a series of punches and the champ showed his speed by vaulting over the top strand of the ropes to the floor of the arena.

Like the young man on the flying trapeze he seemed to fly through the air with the greatest of ease.

Longson, however, forced the fight over most of the distance and despite Morgan's gameness and willingness the champ showed class enough to indicate there could only be one end to the struggle. It finally came when after softening up the marjne with a couple of hefty punches the champ applied his pile-driver hold twice to take the fall and put Morgan completely out of action. As it turned out that was the match for the marine could not have wrestled any more if the bout had been held up an hour waiting for his return.

A New McCready

In the all-Canadian semi-final argument between Earl Moose McCready and Al Bunny Dunlop the fans saw a new McCready win in a way that for him was novel. The Moose took the bout after 18 minutes by the simple expedient of driving Dunlop out of the ring with a series of rights and lefts to the jaw that sent the Toronto strong man hurling through the ropes to land heavily on the floor of the arena. Bunny wound up by cracking the Dunlop dome on one of the platform supports and for several minutes he lost all interest in the proceedings. Before the birds stopped singing Referee Powers had counted him out and McCready was back in the dressing-room.

Dunlop, however, did not go down without a battle. I nfact he made things so lively for his fellow Canadian that at times the Moose forgot all about his favorite rocking-chair cradle hold and his flying scissors specialty and went in for straight back-alley fighting. And the crowd seemed to love it for they roared their approval every time he laid into the pugnacious Dunlop. Usually the Moose is satisfied to rely upon his vast store of wrestling science but on this occasion Dunlop's aggressiveness made him change his style completly and he finally won the argument without using any science at all. He simply walloped the strong man out of the picture and the fans were delighted.

A Lively Preliminary

Two fast - moving middle-westerners, Gerry Meeker of Indiana and Jack Larue of Iowa got the card away at a lively tempo by going 30 action-packed minutes to a draw in the preliminary bout. Larue was voted the bad man of the act and in the early stages he really gave the Indiana mat artist a gruelling but Meeker got tired of being the target for the night and half-way through the bout he staged an offensive of his own that had Larue in trouble. He dropped him twice with flying tackles that really jolted but Larue managed to crawl to the ropes and escape. Later Meeker floored his opponent twice in succession with a smartly applied monkey drop but could not follow up the advantage.

Curling News

By HERB. MARTIN

The curlers did really get back into their stride Tuesday night. Curling commenced around seven o'clock and finished up about eleven-thirty. All ices were going in the form of double headers, and that state of affairs will continue for some time. Dr. C. Lawrence's rink was the only one to come through the night with two wins. Most of the rinks broke even.

To-morrow is ladies' day, at least up till six o'clock. Lady curlers from all over the province will be here to play in the Ladies' Tankard. Many of them will arrive during today or come in this evening. It is not often that the Peterborough club has the honour of this event and a real big time is expected. The public is cordially invited to come and see some of the finest lady curlers at play.

In the ladies' section Mrs. V. Selkirk still leads. Her rink has, so far, won all their games and from here it looks as if they are home free.

Yesterday's Results.

Mrs. V. Selkirk won from Mrs. Westbrooke.

Miss F. Gladman won from Mrs. G. Wood.

Miss M. Patterson won from Mrs. Dulmage.

SPORTS—Day by Day

The race for the leadership in the Ladies' Five Pin League continues to be warm. Last week the Westclox girls who had been trailing right on the heels of the leading Outboard Marines for weeks opened up a nice lead by cracking down on their rivals to the tune of three straight wins. This week the Big Bens took no chances on losing any part of that margin. They played safe by rolling up 3097 pins and taking three straight from the Commandos. Westclox hit four figures in all three games and did some consistent rolling with Isobel Bullock taking her turn at leading the attack by coming within two pins of the 700 mark. She settled for 698 and three of her teammates were also in the 600 class, Aggie Anderson with 621, A. Livingstone with 616 and Marg. Hawthorne with 616. It was a neat effort and it was necessary for Outboard Marines to keep pace with the leaders by taking three straight games from the Five V's. Marion Timm was the sparkplug with the high three for the week, the handsome total of 774, made up of 226, 250 and 258. The third-place Brintons also came through with three wins.

The fast-travelling Chicago Black Hawks climbed to within two points of the second-place Leafs and Red Wings last night night when they invaded Boston and shaded the shattered Bruins 2 goals to 0. It was the first time that the Rossmen had been been blanked since they played a scoreless tie with Toronto in January, 1942. The Bruins put up a tough fight but couldn't beat Karakas while the high-scoring line of Smith, Bentley and Mosienko put together one Chicago goal in the first period and George Allen fired a second counter in the final session. Significantly enough, only 8,500 fans, a small crowd for Boston saw the battle. The Bruins are badly in need of reinforcements and there are apparently none in sight. Black Hawks on the other hand have been strengthened materially recently and they promise plenty of trouble for everybody from now in.

Another Athlete Missing.

Bill Walshe in the Whig-Standard tells of the possible death in action of another well-known Kingston athlete in the person of Hal Hurley, former softball pitcher. Says the Kingston sports scribe: "Five weeks have passed since we wrote here about a friend who was missing somewhere in Europe and his name was kept the customary secret to give him every chance to escape but the silence may now be broken as it is feared Hal Hurley is to be listed on the honor roll of heroes who made the supreme sacrifice. There is always a hope that he may have escaped but last week Ottawa was advised by the Red Cross that quoted German information to the fact that Pilot Officer R. James Hurley lost his life Dec. 16. No further news is given and there is a suggestion that the German information may not be correct, in fact he is still officially listed as "Missing" by the R.C.A.F. Hal had been awarded a commission a few weeks before his last flight, but rank did not greatly concern the popular Kingston sportsman. He made friends where he found them. His happy attitude won him the nick-name of 'Prince Hal' when he was pitching softball for Kingston teams and he deserved the compliment as he was a prince of good fellows. When the going was toughest, Hal's friendly grin and humor always helped. On the long O.H.A. senior trips to the peninsula two winters ago, Hal generally drove his own car filled with players. Although nerves were often frayed on the tiring trips he always had the happy faculty of finding fun. He was an organizer for good sports in his home city.

Chick Appel of the Straford Beacon-Herald continues to dig into certain aspects of the junior A hockey situation. Here is his latest effort to get some questions answered: "It will be interesting to see how the National Selective Service Board carries out their announced intentions of making a survey of all industries and weeding out all young men of military age who are not essential to the war effort in their present frozen jobs. If the employees in these plants are gone over with a fine-tooth comb it might make a difference in some junior hockey clubs, for there are three clubs at least who have not been hit by military call-ups of their members, the most outstanding example being Oshawa Generals. St. Catharines Falcons and Port Colborne Recreationists do not appear to have suffered terribly either, but Brantford, Hamilton, Galt and Stratford have had their original teams almost completely wrecked through players either enlisting or being called to service. No good sportsman would place hockey ahead of our combined war effort, but still it makes one wonder whether junior pucksters, eligible for military service, are granted deferments in preferred war plants."

No Cut Rate Baseball.

With an ever-increasing number of baseball stars going into the armed services, the standard of play obviously will not be up to pre-war standards in 1944. But though it is crippled in a playing sense, with 4F's manning many important positions, no crutch will be extended to the public in the form of cut prices, says Doug Vaughan in the Windsor Star. Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, is very much opposed to any such move. "I thought prices were frozen for the duration," he said the other day. "Baseball operating expenses are just as high now as they ever were and the salaries that are being paid are about the same as usual. It couldn't be done; in fact there may be a boost in the admission prices if the entertainment tax is boosted, which it probably will be. Shaughnessy thinks that the fans will be getting their money's worth next summer, even if it is baseball of an inferior brand to which they have been accustomed. And he is probably right After all it doesn't make a great deal of difference who is playing just so long as the competition is keen. Manufacturers have promised a livelier ball for the 1944 season and that should be a big help. The result will be more hits and longer hits and that is what your average fan likes to see. The baseball you will see won't be high class but it will be packed with the usual amount of action and thrills. What more can anyone ask for in such times?

The Dawn Of Hockey.

With the compliments of the Kingston Hockey Hall of Fame committee an attractive brochure compiled by the veteran executive, Capt. James T. Sutherland, has reached this column. The pamphlet gives the eighth Duke of Beaufort a chance to explain how the game of hockey was first called "Bandy" and was played in England as far back as 1813-14 which was seven years before Adam Scott landed in Peterborough and neglected to bring along any hockey equipment with him. His Grace quotes an English authority, C. G. Tebbutt, who pointing out that the game was first played at Bury Fen, Huntingdonshire, has the following to offer: "The game of Bandy, otherwise known as hockey, or shinty, is doubtless one of the earliest pastimes ever known. The word 'hockey' is now given to a well-established game under definite rules, played with boundaries and goals as football is on grass, while 'Bandy' has long been identified with a game played like hockey, but on ice, and it is with this game we are now concerned...Probably 'Bandy' was played on the ice before skates were in use. A very ancient form of this game, which did not require skates, existed centuries ago in Holland, and was played with sticks or mallets and balls. Polo, it may be added, is another branch of the same game." Mr. Tebbutt goes on to say: "But once the player was shod with skates, and could rush over the ice at a great pace, could suddenly stop and as suddenly start, could turn and dodge at full speed and maintain a pace impossible on land, then enthusiasm for Bandy was assured; it became, in fact, to its devotees, the most fascinating of games."

* * * * * *

The record, according to Tebbutt, shows that during the great frost of 1813-14 the game of Bandy flourished. When the army of Napoleon, retreating from Moscow, were starved and frozen to death by thousands, when the scarcity of coal at Cambridge was so great that the trees within the grounds of St. John's College were cut down for fuel; and in all the colleges, we are told, the men sat in their rooms two and three together for warmth—then the hardy "Bandy" players of "Bury Fen" were quickening their circulation by playing "Bandy" on their local ice. It was then that that fine old Fenman, William Leeland, at the time scarcely eleven years old, remembers watching the matches and joining in the games. Young Leeland lived to captain the "Bury

Will Close Park If Baseball Quality Drops

CLEVELAND, Feb. 2 — (UP) — President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians declared today he would close his park if he couldn't present high class baseball this year.

"It's too good a game to be turned into a farce and that's what will happen if we insist on operating whether or not we've got big league ball players to operate with," The club owner explained "I for one have too much respect for the dignity of baseball to stand for that. If I can't present baseball of high quality I'll close my park."

Bradley believes the Majors will start the season but he isn't certain they'll finish. "For two years peoples have been offering to bet me that the game wouldn't survive the season but this time I'm not taking any bets of that kind. The manpower pinch is just beginning to be felt."

Although he emphasizes "it's going to be damned tough to operate", the grey-haired executive maintains the game should continue if the caliber of play doesn't fall too low.

"I think baseball has something real to contribute in wartime and I won't consider quitting until there's no other course open to me. But common sense tells me that time may come whether I like it or not."

NO FAIR KICKING—Kilby MacDonald (8) of Rangers, rests topside down on the ice, as he appears to let loose on Emile (Butch) Bouchard (3) of Canadiens, with his feet. This extra bit of excitement was afforded the paying customers at Madison Square Garden, New York, when members of the two teams engaged in a free-for-all. After the proper "parties" were penalized the game resumed with the Montreal team taking the honors, 5-3.

CANADIENS SCORE AGAINST RANGERS—Phil Watson (14) of Montreal Canadiens, shoots the puck into the Rangers' goal to score for his team. Action was seen on ice at Madison Square Garden, New York, when the two teams, Canadiens and Rangers, met. Canadiens took the game, 5-3.

St. Mike's Trim Galt Juniors

By The Canadian Press

St. Catharines Falcons took over undisputed possession of first place in Group 2 of the Junior "A" series of the O.H.A. last night but required overtime in which to dispose of Stratford Kroehlers on St. Catharines ice, the score being 4-3. The scoring hero of the fray was P. Long who accounted for the winning goal in the extra session, his second counter of the evening.

The Falcons had been paired with Galt Kists in top position but this partnership was disrupted when Kists fell before St. Mikes 5-4 at Galt despite the two-goal performance of Pete Babando who recently had migrated from South Porcupine to strengthen the Galt squad. Double scorers for the students were Dave Bauer and Johnny McCormack, with Frank Dunlap good for a single. The first period of this tilt was scoreless. The Toronto Collegians now stand only four points behind Oshawa Generals in the Group 1 standing.

Toronto Young Rangers added another loss to their list at Hamilton where the Whizzers steamed to the fore with a 6-1 verdict, the score at the first intermission being 4-1. It was Tomiuk's night for the Hamiltonians, snaring three goals, with Comfort, Kaiser and Brown sharing the other three. Rutledge was the lone scorer for Young Rangers.

Because of injuries to a number of Port Colborne players, a scheduled game with Oshawa Generals was not played.

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — (CP). — The average player in a modern hockey game covers between three and five miles. Acting on a query from a United States sports editor, managing director Red Dutton hired a statistician to estimate how far two forwards skated at a recent National League game in Montreal. The statistician chose two centres, Elmer Lach, a tireless skater, and Buddy O'Connor, who covers considerably less ice.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson reports Lach's record thus:

First period, on three times, made 42½ rushes, covering from 7,650 to 8,500 feet. Second period, on three times, 41 rushes, 7,300 to 8,200 feet. Third period, on three times, 53 rushes, 9,540 to '0,600 feet. Total, from 24,570 to 27,300 feet, or between 4¾ and 5¼ miles.

O'Connor, on twice in each period: First period, 24 rushes, between 4,320 and 4,500 feet; second, 32 rushes, 5,760 to 6,400 feet; third, 36½ rushes, 6,570 to 7,300 feet; total between 16,350 and 16,500 feet, or between 3 1-6 and 3¼ miles.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—The Red Army soccer team may bring Russia into International sports competition even before the war ends...that's just a rumor brought back from Moscow by radio correspondent Bill Downs, but he thinks its a good one...the report is that the Army team, the only top-flight sports outfit in a country that hardly has begun competitive sports, will visit Britain and possibly come to the United States.

Tim Cohane, New York World-Telegram: "I remember when the Polish boarder meant simply a star halfback with a full scholarship."

Chuck Ward, recently signed to scout for the Phillies, succeeded Honus Wagner as the Pirates' shortstop...now if he can only find another successor to Honus—...Will Walls, the football Giants' end, has signed to play the part of a bomber pilot in the movie of "thirty seconds over Tokyo." ...He'd likely do right well, too, in "thirty minutes under the Bears."

Hawks Blank Bruins 2-0 In Fifth Straight

By The Canadian Press

A three-cornered fight for the National Hockey League's runner-up spot was shaping up today in the wake of a form reversal which has enabled Chicago Black Hawks to win five straight games in 10 days.

The Hawks recorded their latest success last night, blanking Boston Bruins 2-0 to climb within two points of Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, co-holders of second place. The defeat was Bruins' seventh in a row, skidding them three points behind Chicago.

The 8,500 Boston fans had little at which to cheer except the earnest performance of rookie Maurice Courteau, who filled in capably enough for injured Bert Gardiner but had no chance on the two Chicago goals, both scored from close range.

Bill Mosienko caged his own rebound three minutes before the first intermission. After a scoreless second period in which Courteau kicked out 19 shots, Earl Seibert shook George Allen loose on a breakaway pass for the second goal.

It was Chicago's fourth victory in seven starts against Boston this season and the first shutout in the N.H.L. this season for Mike Karakas, 32-year-old Eveleth, Minn., goalie who has been beaten only once since he returned to the Chicago nets Jan. 16. Over that stretch, Karakas has to his credit five victories, one tie and one loss in seven starts.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Capt. and Mrs. James T. Sutherland of Kingston, were guests of honour last night when prominent amateur hockey associates gathered from all parts of Ontario to pay tribute to them on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Capt. Sutherland, a past president of both the O.H.A. and the C.A.H.A., spoke in continued support of the proposal for the creation of a hockey hall of fame in Kingston

Sport officials who attended the testimonial dinner included President P. J. Mulqueen of the Canadian Olympic Association; President W. H. (Dinty) Moore of the O.H.A., Port Colborne; Past President Ross Clemens of the same Association, Hamilton; George Dudley of Midland, past president, C.A.H.A.; William A. Hewitt of Toronto, secretary and registrar of the two hockey organizations; George Panter, O.H.A. vice-president, Gravenhurst; President W. Watts of the Kingston Hockey Association, and Stewart Crawford of the Kingston Hall of Fame committee.

Will Retire.

Veteran referee of the National Hockey League wars, Norm Lamport announced at Niagara Falls last night he had decided to retire from the ice at the close of the current season for business reasons.

Johnny Ertle, world's bantamweight champion before the last war, is busy helping to produce bombers in New Orleans. In a comeback attempt after serving in France, Ertle dropped decisions to Kid Williams at Columbus, O., and Windsor, Ont.

Boxer Gets Call

Dates for the lightweight championship elimination series were moved up yesterday when the New York State Athletic Commission received word Beau Jack, recognized titleholder in New York and Pennsylvania, would be drafted within two months. Jack's bout with Bob Montgomery was moved from March 31 to March 3, the winner to take on Sammy Angott, N.B.A. champ March 24.

The Newark Bears announced a schedule of seven spring training games at Plainfield, N.J., before the opening of the International League April 20. The first exhibition is scheduled for April 8 with Boston Braves.

The Michigan Athletic Board yesterday fined Harry Pittler of Pittsburgh, manager of middleweight Ossie Harris, $200 and issued a suspension for his part in a ringside demonstration at Detroit last Friday when Harris was defeated by Jake La Motta in 10 rounds.

Clinching of the N.H.L. title by Montreal Canadiens was conceded last night by Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings but he warned the Stanley Cup playoffs would be different because anything could happen in a short series.

TUNNEY BACK ON THE MARS — Commander Gene Tunney, ex-heavyweight boxing champion, was among the passengers returning on the U.S. Navy's new $7,500,000 flying boat, the Mars, which has completed its first round-trip to Hawaii. The world's largest operating airplane set a new record in cargo carried by the plane across the Pacific. Tunney is shown, Left, dining with Lieut.-Com. William F. Coney, the Mars skipper.

Canada's Future Tied In With Gt. Britain

TORONTO, Feb. 2—(CP).—Canadian farmers should realize that their chances of strength and security after the war will remain with the British Isles, Premier Drew yesterday told 350 members of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Association.

While Britain had stepped up food production to 70 per cent. of its needs, which some regarded as a possible detriment to post-war farm production here, Col. Drew said he believed this percentage would not be continued after the war in a country basically industrial and now living on strict rations.

"There seems little chance that the 48,000,000 people of Britain will again see their agriculture reduced to what it was in the years preceding this war," said the Premier, "but that should cause little perturbation among Canadian farmers.

"Over there they have not the same food supply as over here; they are not eating the things they would wish to eat; they cannot feed their children as much milk or butter as they will after the war.

"They will want more food supplies from Canada when peace arrives."

He said he believes there is no other people for whom Britons have as warm a regard as for Canadians. "The young people of Britain have been sold on the idea that Canada is a land of opportunity; many of them will desire to come to Canada after the war."

Officers elected to the Canadian Shorthorn Association last night were: President, Dr. T. A. Robinson, Toronto; vice-presidents, Dr. R. H. Chant, Foam Lake, Sask.; W. J. Member Urges Prompt Action To Curb Anti-Canadian Activities

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2 — CP). — The House of Commons, setting a new record for speed in getting down to business, to-day has its standing committees and two special committees constituted, with two more probably to come into being to-day.

Usually committees are not set up until debate on the Throne Speech ends, and last year the debate went on for many weeks. Some members talk of an end to this session's debate this week — but a good many others are preparing speeches.

The committees set up yesterday were the regular ones on banking and commerce, agriculture and colonization, and so on, with special committees to study service voting provisions and revise the rules of the House.

The debate on the Speech from the Throne last night brought out a suggestion for a Canadian edition of the United States Dies Committee on un-American activities.

Fred Rose (Lab.-Prog.-Montreal Cartier) in his maiden speech condemned anti-Semitism and other movements which he said are dividing the Canadian people. He said an anti-Catholic agitation is carried on "by certain people in Ontario," while in Quebec there was literature about the Jews which was a disgrace.

"The time has come when a Royal Commission should be set up to investigate all these anti-Canadian activities which are splitting us asunder when we should be strongly united," he said.

The new member of Parliament, first representative of his party which is under the leadership of Tim Buck, former national secretary of the Communist Party, got a good hearing for his first speech.

Jewish Question.

Mr. Rose said the Labor-Progressive Party stands for Socialism, but is realistic enough to know the Canadian people are not ready for it. In essence, he said, Socialism is democracy and cannot proceed faster than the popular will. Those who tried to make a bogey of Socialism and confiscation of savings were seeking to divide the Caandian people.

Jewish matters came in for an airing from Arthur Roebuck (L.-Toronto Trinity), who urged that Canada assert her position as a world Power to induce the British Government to reconsider its position on Jewish immigration to Palestine. He also urged a more liberal Canadian attitude toward refugees from Nazi persecution.

Criticism of the wartime wage-control order came from four members—Clarence Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South), Rodney Adamson (PC—York West), George Cruickshank (L—Fraser Valley) and Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) on the ground it is too restrictive, particularly in imposing a penalty on strikers and putting the burden of proof of innocence on the person accused.

Pensions At 65.

Ligouri Lacombe of Laval-Two Mountains, leader and founder of the Canadian party, expressed opposition to any immigration while rationing persists in Canada, while there is any unemployment, and until all members of the forces have been demobilized.

A single foreign policy for the Empire found favor with T. L. Church (PC—Toronto Broadview), who said that if the Dominions kept on sending ambassadors to other capitals they will create a "tower of Babel" in each.

Dr. F. W. Gershaw (L—Medicine Hat) expressed pleasure at the indications of social security measures contained in the Speech from the Throne. He urged lowering of the age for old-age pensions from 70 to 65 and more generous treatment of pensioners receiving casual earnings.

Lt.-Col. Arthur Ross (PC—Souris) urged creation of a food ministry to control and handle Canada's contributions to the relief of liberated countries. Such a ministry, he said, would have avoided recent confusion in regard to bacon production.

Stating that 74 members of the present House were elected on a minority of the votes cast in their constituencies, he urged adoption of the single transferrable vote for single-member constituencies. This suggestion also was supported by Mr. McIvor.

Lt.-Col. Ross said that if a Federal Minister of Food had been appointed much wastage of foodstuffs would have beein avoided.

He had never been satisfied with the Canadian army organization, Col. Ross said. He had questioned Defence Minister Ralston about it, and he wanted a statement from the Minister. There should be further information on the retirement of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton as commander of the Canadian army overseas.

Imperial Touch.

Mr. Lacombe said that in the 1942 manpower plebiscite a 'shameful dictatorship" had been applied to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation by the four main political parties, and "thousands" were "gagged" so the result would favour releasing the government from previous pledges in respect to manpower.

Farmers were being "exploited" by Trusts purchasing their products, Mr. Lacombe said.

Mr. Church said "there is a very dark outlook for the Dominions and for the Mother Country unless they hang together." Britain could not exist without the Dominions and the Dominions could not stand alone.

He expressed surprise at Prime Minister Mackenzie King's stand, "where he refuses to co-operate with Australia and New Zealand in a permanent Empire Council." The time had come for Canada to declare its foreign policy. Without the Dominions "Britain would be another Denmark."

"The Commonwealth depends very much on Canada," he said. "We should declare our position now. It will be too late when the Premiers meet in London. It is now or never."

Inflation controls have made a valuable contribution to the welfare of Canadian farmers, Senator Frederick Johnston (L-Saskatchewan) said last night in moving in the Upper House the address in reply to the speech from the Throne

Control measures imposed by the present government would "sink into insignificance" beside the regulations the C.C.F. would impose if it gained power, said Senator Johnston.

Senator A. L. Beaubien (L-Manitoba) said England's fight for civilization should not be forgotten and neither should the part of the Dominion and the United States.

When the war ended "we shall be in debt only to ourselves," Senator Beaubien said. Because of the government's financial policy, Canada would be in a good position to re-establish her national and international trade and so switch from war to peace industries.

BECALMED.

After its fitful fever of the last two months, the annexation project seems to have dropped into a restful calm, according to information from all quarters except the county, and even some of the rural observers feel that the county delegates did not make much impression on the Municipal Board at the last sitting. North Monaghan council, at a meeting Monday night, decided that it had taken all the present steps it could, and was ready for the meeting here next Tuesday. Reeve M. H. Johnston has been suggesting to Mayor Hamilton that there were some details which should be discussed at an early meeting of the two bodies.

Rangers Given Inspection By Col. Slack

The officers and men of the Prince of Wales Rangers (RF) under the command of Lieut. Col. M. H. Park, V.D., were inspected Tuesday night at the Armouries by Col. L. W. W. Slack, commander of the 33rd Brigade group. The inspection, which was very detailed, included in addition to the formal review of regiment personnel, inspection of training operations and of regimental records and stores.

Dressed in battle equipment and wearing their steel helmets, the Rangers staged a march past the reviewing stand to the music of their regimental band. While formed in ranks and standing at attention, Col. Slack went down the lines, examining the equipment of the men and addressing a few words to many of the men individually. The brigade commander's party present at the review included four or five officers of the brigade staff.

Thorough Inspection

After the formal review was concluded the men went ahead with their regular training program and the details of this were watched with interest by the inspecting party. It was generally felt that the whole affair had presented a satisfactory appearance and officers of the regiment were pleased at the turnout and performance of the men. Comments of the men themselves were to the general effect that it had been a very thorough inspection, and that their capabilities as soldiers of the Reserve Army had been pretty well assayed.

Battalion stores, records and all phases of administration and office efficiency were then checked and gone over by the inspecting party, who appeared well-satisfied with the entire set-up. A few suggestions were offered in incidental matters of detail, but there was nothing suggestive of criticism in the course of the evening's proceedings, which continued until late at night. All transport attached to the unit was also inspected.

One of the subjects taken under discussion during the review of battalion affairs was the problem of increasing attendance at the weekly parades, and methods and means whereby this end could be achieved were gone into by Col Slack and commanding officers of the Rangers.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, February 3

THE ASTRAL influences ruling on this day are fraught with certain dangers and losses that may be avoided by shrewdness, precaution and systematic attention to details and the regulation of practical procedure according to the accepted methods and routines. Any careless, impractical or over clever gestures might exact penalties or losses. The extravagant use of assets, or personal resources, through excess or prodigality would defeat the best laid plans and most desirable propositions. Slow but sure might be the motto, with "the other fellow" taking the chances. In public stick to rules and codes.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter some perplexing and difficult situations, which call for shrewd, systematic and sound working out of plans rather than ill-advised, showy, or extravagant use of funds or energies. These might be squandered to no constructive purpose, and with definite peril to some encouraging opportunities or to accumulated resources. It might be well to take time to consider the most practical means to desired ends, with keen as well-developed insight to basic situations. Public or community wellbeing also demand consideration, with study not snap judgment. Be patient in crises.

A child born on this day may have much constructive ability and wish for sound objectives. Although it may play with its opportunities, by extravagance, prodigality or folly. This may apply to funds and physical energies.

GONE ACROSS TOO—Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Blackbourn, Hastings, that their son Fred has arrived overseas. He took his training at Kingston, Peterborough and Petawawa. Before joining up, he was employed by the Peterborough Lumber Company.

Asphodel School Gives Aid For War Victims

Bright hopes for what the future may hold are always aroused, when young folk of this generation demonstrate their aptitude for thoughtfulness for other people who may be in need or distress, of which so much evidence has been brought to light through the work that school children have done on behalf of the sufferers through air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

In pausing, one cannot but help pay a well deserved tribute to the teachers who have given leadership in the matter, which all so unconsciously is directing a feature in their lives, which must undoubtedly display itself in later life to the benefit of mankind in general, and result in the enrichment of the lives of all concerned.

This does not confine itself to just one centre, for this work has been done by children in all parts of the county and district, two of such being recorded today from the township of Asphodel, where school section No. 12, taught by Miss Marion Hope, is credited with $1.75, and school section No. 5, taught by Miss Laura E. Buck, is also credited with the sum of $5.00. Such acts as these will be recalled in later life by the children, and will not fail at that time to give them cause for much satisfaction at having taken a part for good at a period when the Empire was passing through very dark days of stress and trial.

The penny box at the Utilities office on Simcoe street has been a regular contributor for three years now, collections being made from it every second month, the latest of these taking place on Monday resulting in a further credit to its performance, which by now must have given assistance which would pass the $100.00 mark.

One personal gift is also recorded today as coming from 'A Friend, receipt No. 3433" for $2.00, marking another individual effort which could well serve as an inspiration for a great many others to do likewise.

Draw for Guitar

A young lad by name of Richard Pulley who has given some leadership on previous occasions which resulted in help coming to the fund, has given his Guitar for the purpose of holding a draw, since a new one was given him for a present last Christmas time.

He wants his class at King George School to get credit for the money it will raise, and they are now beginning the sale of tickets at 10 cents each or three for 25 cents. The outfit is complete with case and is in really good shape as he had used it for performance at concerts, and it should make a well worth while prize, particularly for beginners in learning to play this class of instrument.

War—4 Years Ago

Feb. 2, 1940 — The Red Army used parachute troops and steel-roofed sledges in an attack on the Mannerheim Line. French issued a statement in support of the British contention of the right to search neutral mail.

Use Planes To Restock Remote Lakes

Use of hydroplanes in delivering fish fry and fingerlings for the restocking of a series of lakes in the northern part of the county west of the Apsley Road is recommended by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association. These lakes are inaccessible by truck. They include Bass, Serpentine, Copper, Deer, Eagle, Sucker, Bottle, Wolf, Crab, Popular, Cox, Stop Long, Cadge, Trout, Turtle, Coon, Crane, Concession, Long Lake (Galway) Duck, Mountain and Black.

The Association has made out forms for more than 125 orders for fry and fingerlings. The executive nominated the following district men to act as supervisors in conjunction with the Association in restocking work: Norman Lean of Apsley; Max Humphries of Asphodel; Harry Shearer, Buckhorn; Stewart Brown, Apsley, B. W. Harvey, Peterborough.

The executive drafted a series of recommendations to the Department of Games and Fisheries including a change in the pickerel season. In a motion by Chris Hughes, seconded by Alex Weddell, it was proposed that the pickerel season opening in this area be advanced to May 1.

Protect Beavers.

A five-year close season for beavers was recommended in a motion by W. E. Addyman, seconded by Sid Black, and the secretary was asked to write the Victoria County Association for their co-operation.

Other recommendations were: "On account of the scarcity of birds, the Department is requested to direct a closed season for partridges during 1944"

"That the open season for deer be changed to first Monday in November of each year."

"That the duck season open October 1 in the territory north of No. 7 Highway and close November 15."

"That the lake trout season open on May 1 for the use of copper line trolling and close on October 14."

Federal Plan Will Take In 4,326 Children

Peterborough families would receive between $35,000 and $40,000 a month if the proposed Federal Aid to families on the basis of providing for children were now in effect.

At present there are 4,326 children between 5 and 15 years, according to the information obtained last year by the assessment department. Then, of children under five and between fifteen and sixteen, there might be another 1,500, raising the total number to five or six thousand.

Five thousand children at $7 each a month would account for $35,000 and for twelve months $420,000. Such rough estimating is largely a surmise, because the plans of the Government have not been announced in detail beyond its intention to provide grants for children within certain year brackets, and also only a certain number in any family.

The program is an advanced type of social service, and is intended to provide for the generation that is unable to provide for itself, even to the extent of secondary education.

Car Strikes Tree

COBOURG, Feb. 2 — (ENS) — Driving east on University Avenue, Tuesday, a car driven by Joseph Wolfman of Toronto almost collided with a truck driven by Melville Stevenson. Stevenson in avoiding the collision, skidded into a tree, causing about $80 damage to the truck. Police said that Wolfman blamed his steaming windshield for the accident, stating that he didn't see the truck until he started past the intersection with Ontario Street. Constable Ted Houghton investigated.

Relic Of 1812

CORNWALL, Ont., Feb. 2 (CP)— The bones of a man who died about 132 years ago, believed to date back to a tragedy of the war of 1812, were found yesterday in a sandpit on J. A. Brown's farm, 12 miles west of here. The bones are believed to be either those of an Indian spy in the service of the Americans during the war of 1812 or those of an American soldier.

Children Seek To Purchase Fighter Plane

While the local food industry is engaged in its undertaking to sell $26,000 of War Savings Stamps during February, the children of the city and county schools began on Tuesday their campaign to sell $25,000 in stamps to buy a Hurricane highter plane.

As School Inspectors Downey and Copp recently informed the County Council the school children have been allotted until the end of June for their endeavor.

Gordon Monkman is chairman of the stamp committee, and Bob Everitt of the Empress Hotel is in charge of its publicity.

"We are hoping to obtain permission from Ottawa to have Flight-Lieutenant G. R. Wooll speak to the children over CHEX some time early in this campaign, and also to permit him to make a special flight over Peterborough in a Mosquito plane," Mr. Everitt said today. He made the following appeal to the people of the city and county today as an aid to the school children:

"This drive started on February 1 and ends on June 30. Everybody can participate in this effort by buying War Savings Stamps from the children. They will be delighted when they reach their $25,000 objective, but obviously they cannot do it themselves. They are going to need some substantial help, and that is where the public comes in. And there is nothing like starting early to help the young people and keep them interested in the Mosquito plane that is going to be to their credit."

Counsel Objects To Remands In Car Cases

"It is getting to be a habit in this court for the prosecution to get a week's remand every time there is a plea of not guilty," declared John A. Bralshaw, defense counsel, in police court this morning in objecting to a postponement in several cases in which he was concerned.

"I am always ready to go on," remarked Magistrate Langley in expressing agreement with Mr. Bradshaw in his charge that there were too many remands and adjournments.

Counsel's objections arose out of a series of charges involving four youths.

One of them, Jack Maloney, 18, of New Chamberlain street, was fined $10 and $1.75 costs after he had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of the theft of the use of a car belonging to W. H. Girven, Waterford street.

Fine [illegible]itary Record.

T. [illegible]arley, K.C., represented Maloney and called Major Clair Stuart, recruiting officer, to the witness box. Major Stuart said that young Maloney had had a fine record as a member of the reserve army and afterward, although he was under the age limit had enlisted in the active service forces, had done two months' basic training and some time in advance training before his real age was ascertained and he was discharged.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated that the boy had no previous record.

"I think that instead of giving him suspended sentence I will impose a fine," remarked Magistrate Langley.

In another charge against Maloney of stealing a motor car, the property of D. A. Wilson, the Crown offered no evidence and the case was dismissed.

Maurice Pelland, formerly of Three Rivers, who had previously pleaded guilty to the theft of Wilson's car, entered a plea of not guilty to stealing an overcoat, the property of Joseph Csumrik. He also pleaded guilty to theft of the use of a car belonging to W. H. Girven. There was a remand until February 9.

Charge Withdrawn

Pelland, Kenneth Hunter, 22, of Adaline street, and Gerald Sweet, Donegal street, were jointly charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to Major James McGrath but after they had pleaded not guilty, Crown Attorney McElderry asked that the charge should be withdrawn.

John A. Bradshaw appeared for Sweet and Hunter while Pelland was undefended.

Then Sweet and Hunter were charged separately with stealing five tires, tubes and wheels, the property of James McGrath and again entered pleas of not guilty.

Pelland had previously pleaded guilty to that charge.

"I will have to ask for a remand," said Crown Attorney McElderry. "Major McGrath is a material witness and will have to be brought here from Brockville.

In spite of Mr. Bradshaw's objections these cases were all enlarged for a week.

Sweet pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing a watch from John Louckes and again the Crown asked for a remand.

"Major McGrath is not needed in this case," said defence counsel, who went on to complain that such delays were becoming the common practice.

Magistrate Langley intimated that the Crown must be prepared to proceed with these charges next Wednesday.

Douro Youth Given One Month In Jail

Donald Ellis, 16-year-old Douro farm laborer, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to a month's imprisonment in the county jail after he had been convicted of stealing a bicycle from his brother-in-law, George Smith, 543 Park Street.

Ellis pleaded not guilty to the charge and had no lawyer.

Smith testified that he had locked his bicycle up in his home while he and his wife were on a visit to Coe Hill, and on his return found that the wheel had been stolen. Later he had gone to the Douro farm where the accused was working and had recovered the stolen machine.

Smith identified a bicycle produced in court as his property.

Michael Smith, brother of the other witness, said that Ellis had admitted entering the Smith house and taking the bicycle.

Ellis did not enter the witness-box but told the Magistrate that he had taken the bicycle because he did not think that his brother-in-law would complain.

"There may be something in that," remarked Magistrate Langley. "After all it was not quite the same as stealing from a stranger."

Accordingly, in spite of the fact that the youth had something of a record, the court made the jail sentence one month.

Veteran C.P.R. Conductor Jay J. Bedford Retires After 42 Years Of Service

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — When the Canadian Pacific Railway's passenger train No. 602 pulled into Peterborough last night, Conductor Jay J. Bedford, 60, of 145 Bolton avenue, Toronto, ended 42 years of service with the line.

Today, Mr. Bedford is finding work to do about his home. He said that he "definitely" did not sleep in this morning, but rather snatched a few hours last night at Peterborough and returned to town this a.m. on what was "his" 602—but as a passenger.

"It was, I admit, a little odd," he said with a chuckle, "but knowing all the boys on the run, I made myself at home."

Mr. Bedford was born at Myrtle, Ont., and during his boyhood he made numerous friends among the section hands and engineering staff in the district.

He joined the railway when he was 17, entering train service in 1903 and for a time was a trainman on the West Toronto to Havelock run. He was baggageman on the Berkely-Bobcaygeon run until 1916, when he became conductor on freights between Toronto and Havelock, Toronto to Trenton, and Havelock to Port McNicoll. In 1930 he was promoted to the position of passenger conductor. He held this post until his retirement last night, being for the past 14 years a familiar figure on the Toronto-Ottawa and Toronto-Peterborough runs.

CAESAR, SOUTH PACIFIC HERO — "Caesar," jungle-trained veteran of the U.S. K-9 corps, seems happily excited as Marine Pfc. John J. Kleeman, Philadelphia, fastens a collar message he'll deliver to the front line on Bougainville. Note the dog's bandaged leg, wounded earlier in the landing attack. Through 48 hours of fighting "Caesar" was the only means of communication between the command post and the lines.

Sinking U-Boat In Bay Of Biscay Described By Lieutenant Ackerman

With shots whistling in front of them from a submarine and shells passing over their bridge from a sister ship, Sub. Lieut. Benny Ackerman received orders to go and play the searchlight on the surfaced U-boat.

"I don't think I have ever had such a nerve racking few minutes as I waited expectantly to be sprayed with machine gun bullets. I was really scared," Lieut. Ackerman declared.

"We had been with the convoy two or three days when H.M.S. Snowberry picked up a contact with a sub, dropped charges and then a flare to light up the position. This was about 10.30 p.m. and three ships the British Frigate Nene and the corvettes H.M.S. Snowberry and H.M.C.S. Calgary, were ordered to do a box sweep around the position, where the sub had been contacted.

"After a little while, as we kept circling, the sub surfaced. The Germans opened fire at the Nene and this ship circled behind placing us in the line of fire. That was when I was ordered to put on the searchlight.

No Fooling

"The Nene was circling around us firing, when the Snowberry saw the men attempt to get to their deck guns. They raked the deck with machine-gun fire and landed a four-inch shell on the conning tower of the submarine. The remainder of the crew came out with their hands up, while we were told to pick up survivors.

"A yelling, screaming group of men waved wildly as the searchlight swept the sea.

Prisoners Grateful

"The prisoners were so darned grateful for being rescued, that they got down on their knees in front of us, and with their bushy beards looked something like Mohammedans. We gave them everything we could and they were turned over to the medical officer.

"It was a magnificent sight to watch all the guns in action against the darkness. The Oerlikon guns, and pompoms blazing away with the red tracer bullets looking like ping pong balls, the "snow flake" illumination, like the 24th of May rockets."

This officer said that the battle lasted about 20 minutes and while the Snowberry was trying to ram the sub, the submarine, minus a crew, was still running around in circles. It turned the tables on one ship and gave it a bang on the side, veering off without doing much damage.

Air Attack Too

Every night, during what has now been named the "Bay of Biscay Battle," fighting was going on in different sections of the convoy. Lieut. Ackerman described it as the heaviest attempt on a convoy since the start of the war. There was not a time during the 24 hours in the day that some section of the large fleet was not under enemy bombardment, he explained.

"We had just gotten nicely through the sub packs when aircraft came over. Fifteen planes let go 15 of the new glider bombs but they only sank one ship and damaged a second.

"In order to avoid the ack ack, the planes dropped their bombs a long way off. Although not bearing our number, they came quite close and we had a good look at them. The glider bomb look like smaller aircraft attached to the mother ship and it shoots out from the bottom at about 500 miles an hour. The bomb covered the distance between us on the outer edge and the convoy in a hurry. Part way down it began trailing black smoke and as it zoomed along the water beside a line of ship, it turned sharply in and struck.

Special Work

Lieut. Ackerman has been a member of what he describes as a "striking force," which is purely offensive in character. They work through Admiralty designated "danger zones", and when they stop escort, the regular escorting vessels carry on. Their position in these special areas, is to form a screen around or ahead of the convoy. When subs are contacted these ships go out for a strike, while the rest keep their appointed stations.

He pointed out that it was an unscheduled life, as the striking force went nowhere in particular when they started out and the Admiralty shifted them around wherever the need was greatest.

Talk To Prisoners

"We were all allowed to visit sick bay where the German prisoners we had captured, were under guard. Although they were quite haughty, they weren't too bad and they spoke good French. One of our men spoke German so between us we were able to have a conversation.

"They said they surfaced every day, and each man was compelled to swim so many times around the submarine. All of them wore beards, because they are not allowed to shave at sea.

Sub Lieut. Ackerman, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. C. H. Ackerman, 475 Hunter St. West, was one of the first Peterborough boys to enlist in the Navy about 3½ years ago. He trained as a wireless operator. In May 1943, he was assigned to the Calgary, and in another week he will report to London where he begins a course as an executive officer. After three months there, he goes to King's College, Halifax, for more training.

He won his commission at the beginning of the New Year and before joining the Calgary had done a lot of patrol work, particularly in the St. Lawrence. In spite of the strain and responsibility in the job of wireless operator, that is what Lieut. Ackerman prefers.

Simonds Children Seldom See Fighting Father

By FRANK HINDS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2—(CP)—The Simonds youngsters find it difficult to distinguish between their dad, Lieutenant-General Guy Simonds, commander of a Canadian army overseas, and Sir Bernard Montgomery, the famous British General, when either of the two military leaders appears on the newsreel screen.

Ruth, 10, and Charles, nine, have seen their father only during one 10-day visit in August, 1942, since they have been old enough to remember what he looks like, so that the confusion is only natural. They pipe "there's daddy" when either of the two military leaders appears on the screen.

Mrs. Simons, the former Katherine Taylor of Winnipeg, has no post-war plans but, like every soldier's wife, she would like to "settle down and be normal and have some proper home life again."

Not a career woman from her own statement, Mrs. Simonds is nevertheless taking a prominent part in the activities of various service organizations. She is the official upholsterer for the Winnipeg Salvage Corps and does hospital mending for the officers' wives auxiliary.

Letters Mean A Lot.

Two or three times a week she takes time off from these activities and the full-time job of raising her two children to write to the general who is just as anxious to get mail as any private under his command. Like lots of privates, too, he is not so good at answering his mail and Mrs. Simonds considers herself lucky if she hears from her busy husband once a month.

Mr. Simond wear a pretty gold and red enamel pin, a recent gift from the general, on the front of her tailored dresses ,thees days. The pin, complete with gold maple leaf, is a miniature replica of the famous Red Patch which distinguishes the Canadian 1st Division in the Mediterranean theatre, formerly commanded by her husband.

The general's wife does her daily shopping on the bicycle which has followed her on her tours from one to the other of the 17 different houses she has lived in since her marriage to young Lieut. Simonds. Some of these houses were in England where she spent three years before the war while her husband was training for the role he is playing today.

Shopping is somewhat simplified since the head of the family has been away. A picky eater, the general just won't eat his vegetables and young Charles tries to follow that example when he can get away with it on the excuse that "daddy doesn't eat his spinach."

Knits For Husband

In addition to her regular letters, Mrs. Simonds sends her famous husband at least a parcel a month with the sweaters, socks and gloves she always knits for him. He lost his entire kit on the way to Sicily and Mrs. Simonds has been knitting ever since. She encloses chocolate and tea in the parcels and once recently sent him a tin of sardines before she realized that was a perfect parallel to the proverbial gift of coals to Newcastle.

The general public helps her keep informed of the latest news about Gen. Simonds by writing and telephoning every time he appears in a news story or film. Total strangers sent her clippings frequently.

Mrs. Simonds is one of three sisters who married into the army. Geraldine is the wife of Capt. Sid Stevens of Winnipeg, now stationed at Kingston, Ont., and Ruth is the wife of Capt. Fred Roost, a Swiss-born resident of Ottawa, who went to Kiska Island in the Aleutians.

Mrs. Simonds attended Rupert's Land College, Winnipeg, Bishop Strachan School, Toronto, and graduated in household science from the University of Manitoba. Her daughter now is at Rupert's Land and Charles attends St. John's College School, Winnipeg.

How Your Child May Be Inviting Colds

Due to being indoors more with less chance for play, many youngsters' bowels become less regular in winter and this condition often lowers resistance and invites attack by cold germs. To help prevent such colds, keep your child's bowels regular with Children's Own Tablets. These pleasant, little tablets are a laxative and more. They also help sweeten the sour stomach that often goes with out-of-order bowels. Get Children's Own Tablets today and guard your child against unnecessary colds. 25¢ at druggists.

Mother, This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Splendid

Saves Real Money.
No Cooking. Real Results.

To get really surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—anyone can do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it's hard to beat, for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a 16 oz. bottle. Then add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid cough syrup—about 4 times as much for your money. It never spoils,and lasts a family a long time.

And for real, quick relief, it is actually splendid. It works in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Small Tricks Save Fuel In Daily Cooking

Conservation is the order of the day, every day, and it is well known that the needs of war industries must come first. Fuels are vital to these industries, and are often wasted in the home through carelessness or lack of proper conservation methods.

Here are several things to remember about conserving electricity. Don't turn on a surface burner or unit until it is needed, and start the oven just soon enough, so that it will be heated sufficiently by the time the food is ready to bake.

See that the right pan is placed on the right burner. A small pan placed on a large burner wastes valuable heat. But, on the other hand, too large a pan on a small burner takes much too long to cook.

This idea applies to both gas and electric stoves. Food should always be brought to a boil with a high heat, but, when the boiling point has been reached, the heat can be turned low, just enough to keep the food boiling. Lifting the lid often, and peeping in ovens, waste precious heat, and can be overcome with a little practice. Some people, like Dagwood, just lift tops from sheer habit, not realizing that heat is being wasted.

One-dish foods are excellent heat savers. If the oven is on, the housewife should plan a baked dinner, and take up all the room in her oven, so that there is no space going to waste. Vegetables can be steamed in the oven by cookng them in a little water in a covered pan, while a roast is cooking.

Capt. S. Profitt Guest Speaker

As next Sunday evening will be a special Young Peoples' service in Knox United church, with Captain S. B. Profitt, padre of the local Training Centre, as guest speaker, the decision to ask all members of Young Peoples' Unions of Peterborough to attend this service was made at the regular meeting of Knox Young Peoples' Union, held in the ladies' parlors. A fireside meeting will also be held after this special service, in place of a regular meeting.

At the beginning of the meeting Velma Stewart led in the singing of hymns, after which each person introduced himself to the group. Loretta McDougall led in the singing of Negro spirituals, following which Warren Trotter, Citizenship convener, took charge, and led a discussion on the plans of Canadian Youth Commission, the Ontario Youth Conference, and the Young Peoples' Unions of Peterborough. Marion Williamson read the Scripture, followed by a prayer by Glenn French.

As this week is National Young Peoples' Week, the Union held a party Tuesday evening or all the young people of the church.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Wednesday, Feb. 2, 1944

Man in his earlier years, lived upon roots, and fruits of the earth, and later added game and fish. To-day, man still lives on the fruits of the earth, fowls of the air, beasts of the field, and fish of the sea, yet they are prepared so differently that it adds much to man's health and happiness. Two simple recipes, made with our own Canadian apples, are given below.

Apples in Blankets

Peel and core six medium sized apples. Fill the centres with brown sugar, and a little cinnamon, make a crust as for pie, cut in squares, place an apple on each square, and fold crust around it. Put in preheated oven at a temperature of 425 degrees, and bake about 45 minutes. Serve with cream, or a thin custard.

Improved Apple Sauce

Pare and core five tart apples, and cook with as little water as possible, then add one-half cup of sugar. Whip the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth, to this add two tablespoons of sugar, add apples, and stir rapidly for a few minutes. A little lemon juice may be added if desired. Cool, and serve. This makes a simple and tasty dessert.

GLAMOR WITHOUT GLITTER—No need to glitter with sequins and such when you fare forth after dark, if you don't care about dressmaker fireworks. Some of the smartest frocks designed for cocktail or theatre wear are absolutely devoid of glitter, as is this New York creation, designed by Jo Copeland. It is a beautifully cut and detailed one-piece model of dark brown crepe with bodice and skirt tucks that give an effect of draping that ends in spanking bows of brown taffeta. Worn with a brown coq hat and muff.—By Alice Alden.

First Aid For Burns

Statistics show that burns are almost as frequent as falls in the list of accidents which occur in the home, and therefore it is wise to know how to treat them. If a burn is serious, that is, if the skin is severely scorched or scalded, a doctor should be called immediately.

However, there is a simple treatment for the "singes" that so often occur when the housewife is in a hurry, and picks up a hot pan with a hot handle without using a pot holder, or brushes against a hot dish. Spreading a little butter on the afflicted spot used to be the accepted remedy, but, with butter rationing, that method is definitely "out".

Here's simple treatment that is used in the armed forces for minor burns, and also in industrial plants. Before treating the burn the person administering the aid should see that his hands are clean. Then the burned skin should be cleansed thoroughly with mild soap and water. A light touch is necessary, and care should be taken that blisters are not broken. When the burned area has been gently cleansed, it should be covered with fine sterile gauze coated with petrolatum, (petroleum jelly), and bandaged firmly not tightly with a thick dressing.

Care Of Kiddies' Books

Children's books can be protected by covering them with brown book jackets, or, if it has a dust cover, the ends of the cover can be pasted inside the cover of the book. A brushing with white shellac diluted with alcohol will also protect covers against dirt. If the book has glossy pages, each page can be given a thin coating of clear shellac. This helps prevent tearing, and also preserves illustrations. The pages can be cleaned with a damp cloth.

Fashion Tips

A new spring idea just introduced is a vest to match a suit. A great many of the new styles being shown for spring and early summer wear have little vests, which can be worn by themselves as separate jackets.

Pearls, which were exceptionally good this winter, are carrying on into spring without a pause. Single or double strands are popular and look best with suits, while three or more strands worn either twisted or plain will dress up a sweater or a plain blouse.

Quiet Please

To add coal to the fireplace neatly and quietly, try placing it in a paper bag, and dropping it on the fire. There is no clatter while putting it on, and as the bag slowly burns, the coal is distributed over the grates. However, if it seems a waste of paper when the paper salvage campaign is in full swing, it is a good thing to know, if anyone is sick, or sleeping, and the fireplace has to be refueled.

Double Duty

When dish or hand towels begin to wear thin, and their usefulness seems to be just about at an end, try matching them together in pairs. they can be stitched around the edges and from corner to corner, and will give many months more wear.

Cleaning Tips

Potato water is an excellent cleaner for silverware. After the water has been drained from the potatoes, it should be poured over the silver. Then the silver can be washed and dried in the usual way and will emerge bright and shining.

Lemon juice on a clean soft cloth is usually a good way to remove green corrosion from nickel. Wash off the metal, cover with a good metal polish, let dry, and polish with a clean cloth.

To clean blackened kettles which have been used over coal or wood fires, try dipping a rag in gasoline then in wood ashes, and rubbing it over the blackened spots.

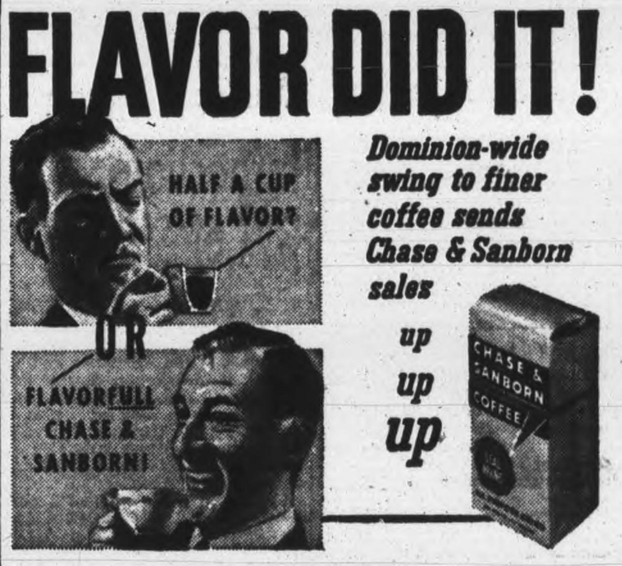
Saving Slip Covers

Slip covers can be kept from soiling and wearing much longer if, when they are made, extra pieces of the same material, cut so that the design matches that of the arms and backs of the cover, are also made. These extra pieces can be tacked over these spots which get the most wear, and are easily taken off, laundered, and put on again. This method saves the trouble of removing the complete slip-cover when only the back and arms are soiled, and also helps save wear.

W. A. Hears Talk On Fabric Care

Household hints contained in a talk on "The Care of Fine Fabrics" given by Miss D. Winchester, were heard by the members of George Street Women's Association at their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. G. McLaren presided at the well-attended meeting, held in the church parlor, and Mrs. D. Wellman's group had charge. Miss Mary Elliott read the Scripture and Mrs. H. L. Roberts gave the prayer. Reports were given for the month, and a number of letters were read from members of the forces at home and overseas for Christmas parcels which they had received.



3,500 Canadians Cut Pulpwood In Maine Woods

OTTAWA, Feb. 2—(CP)—Canada is "guaranteeing" the United States 3,500 men to cut wood for munitions and pulp, and is allowing the U.S. "leeway" to take care of the turnover in this type of work, a Labor Department spokesman said last night.

He was commenting on a report published in the Boston Herald that wood urgently needed in the U.S. for "munitions and pulp" is being held up by a Canadian government emigration ruling, while hundreds of able-bodied men "loaf" on the streets of Quebec towns near the Canada-U.S. border.

(Staff reporter Arthur Stratton of the Herald said manpower in the vicinity of St. Come, only a few miles away, is so scarce that wood can't be cut and that the Quebec French-Canadians have "pleaded in vain" to work in American forests. He added that they charge they are being "forced on relief rolls."

(Stratton reported that among other idle workers are several thousand men from an Aluminum Company reducing its war production.)

"We are giving them pretty much the same (quota) as they always got," the Ottawa spokesman said. "A lot of the men don't stay very long. To provide 3,500 men means supplying about 3,750."

One year the U.S. was allowed a quota of 4,000 men to cut wood, but Canada now needs men for her own woods. A number of Canadian companies own timber limits in Maine, and the Dominion is helping them as much as possible.

"We can't allow able-bodied men to flit over the border," the spokesman said. "We have to make sure they get back to their farms."

Food Industry Stamp Drive In Full Swing

OTTAWA, Feb. 2—(CP)—Canada's far-flung food industry Tuesday opened a drive to sell least $2,000,000 worth of War Savings Stamps and Certificates through 40,000 retail food outlets, including grocery stores, butcher shops, restaurants, hotels, dairy and bakery companies.

The campaign, a phase of the National War Finance Committee's work, will continue for a month. Featuring the drive will be the introduction of The 25 Club to be composed of citizens who pledge themselves to buy at least one War Savings Stamp a week.

Stanley H. Young, of Toronto, is campaign chairman and the drive will be directed by 60 of the ablest executives in the food industry. Nearly 200,000 men and women will sell the stamps and certificates across Canada.

"Canada's future depends upon Canadians individually and collectively, each one of us taking our full share of responsibility," Mr. Young said today in opening the campaign.

Bachelor Hoards Scrap Metal In House Chief's Edict Unloads 5,500 Lbs. For War

WATERLOO, Feb. 2—(CP)—Between the fire and police chiefs of Waterloo, and Joe Plecan, who thought he should hold his scrap for a better market, 5,500 pounds of salvage today was funnelled into the Canadian war effort.

Joe started collecting salvage some time ago, but he never got around to having anybody pick it up. He stowed it in his house, until one room after another became fairly well filled. Still Joe kept collecting, and still, he couldn't see his way clear to sell.

Then Fire Chief Albert Pagel and Police Chief C. E. Moreau heard about it. They looked over Joe's house and condemned it as a fire hazard—unless the salvage was removed. Joe pleaded ill-health, said he couldn't do it by himself.

So—knowing this wasn't exactly the course the law intended, but finding no better plan — the fire chief and police chief hired a truck and went to work. Now, the salvage has been sold, and Joe must be wondering what to do with all that extra elbow room.

Bit Mixed Up

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP).—A Brooklyn man paid a $50 fine in court here for smoking aboard a steamer tied up at a dock, a violation of the War Emergency Act. He listed his occupation as a fire watcher — seeing that persons did not smoke on the ship.

Community Honors Retiring Librarian

GORE'S LANDING, Feb. 2 (ENS)—A presentation was made to Mrs. Lynn MacDonald (nee Emily Pratt) at the Public Library recently, in recognition of her services to this community, and of her recent marriage.

The vice-president of the Library, Mrs. R. J. Meggs, spoke briefly of the work and interest in the Library of Mrs. MacDonald, who had been librarian for seven years. During this time, she had devoted much thought in helping to choose books for the two local schools, No. S.S. 17 and No. S.S. 16, as well as courteously helping members in search of good reading material. On behalf of her many friends, Mrs. MacDonald was given a purse of money.

Preceding the presentation, seven tables of euchre were played and three tables of crokinole. The party was in aid of funds for the Library upkeep. A lunch was provided by the ladies and $9.50 was cleared for the Library expense account.

Shaw Is Angry Rebels At Taxes

LONDON, Feb. 2—(CP)—George Bernard Shaw, in a letter to the Times complaining he had been transformed from "a prosperous playwright" into a "tax collector" forced to work for a commission of sixpence in every pound sterling, called to-day for abolition of excess profits tax and exemption from surtax of all incomes above £20,000 annually.

Shaw also advocated that a system of figuring income on a three-year average ‑ ‑evived and "made extensible in hard cases to any reasonable period."

In this connection, he said that in his profession "one lives precariously from hand to mouth, and acquires capital enough to provide for his dependents and educate his children only by windfalls," which should not be taxed at the same rate as settled incomes.

Will Name Group To Study Social Security

OTTAWA, Feb. 2—(CP)—A select committee of the House of Commons will be set up to study and report on a national plan of social insurance and another to study post-war reconstruction and re-establishment, Prime Minister Mackenzie King revealed to-day in a notice in to-day's Commons' Votes and Proceedings.

Similar committees functioned last session but had not completed their investigations when the House recessed last summer.

The Insurance committee, to report "on a national plan of social insurance which will constitute a charter of social security for the whole of Canada," will study existing Dominion and Provincial social insurance legislation and similar legislation in other countries and recommend the most practical measures of social insurance for Canada, including health insurance.

In addition to studying the best methods of making Provincial and Dominion legislation interworkable, the committee will report on the constitutional and financial adjustments "which will be required for the achievement of a nation-wide plan of social security."

Forty-one members are named on the committee, including two ministers, Labor Minister Mitchell and Pensions Minister Mackenzie. The Reconstruction committee will have 35 members, including the same two ministers.

Reporter's Wife Sues CBC For Insurance

MONTREAL, Feb. 2 (CP) — For the first time since the war started a damage action yesterday was presented in Superior court by the widow of an accredited war correspondent.

Mrs. Edouard Baudry, claims $8,375 for the death of her husband who was killed when the aircraft in which he was going to the Casablanca Churchill-Roosevelt conference was fired upon by anti-aircraft guns over Spanish territory.

The action was taken against the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for which, Mrs. Baudry said, her husband was to broadcast to Canada from the historic meeting place in Jan. 1943.

Mrs. Baudry claims that her husband had a $10,000 insurance policy but that it was not in force because an extra war risk premium had not been paid.

She claims the extra premium should have been paid by the C.B.C. or the C.B.C. should have protected her husband to the extent of $10,000 while he was on duty as a war correspondent.

The insurance company, she said, granted her $2,500 under her husband's policy.

Wrestler Hurt

Then Larue stung by this reversal of form, sailed into his rival, tossed him out of the ring, knocked him back through the ropes half a dozen times when e tried to climb back. Meeker finally got into the ring again and gave the Iowa grappler a taste of his own medicine by pitching him through the ropes and kicking him out each time he tried to re-enter. It was action plus and honors were about even when the timer's gong ended the argument.

Big Ernie Powers of Hamilton was the third man in the ring and as usual Fred Scates looked after the stop-watch and did the announcing.

Port Hope Girl Is Wed In Church

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Port Hope, was the scene of a lovely mid-winter wedding at seven o'clock Monday evening, January 24, when Rev. G. Rowland united in marriage Margotte Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Fair, and Pte. Roy Dayman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dayman, in a double ring ceremony.

Baskets of bronzed and yellow and white mums and ferns adorned the altar, while the guest pews were marked with white bows. Mrs. Greer, organist of the church, played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was a radiant figure in her wedding gown, a floor length model of ivory slipper satin fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, three-qquarter length sleeves, a tight basque and gathered skirt with a slight train. Her full length net veil was caught with an ivory satin calot sparsely trimmed with opalescent sequins and a jeweled tiara and carried a muff of orchids.

The bride was attended by Miss Aileen Mason, of Belleville, as maid of honor, and Miss Maxine Austin, of Port Hope, as bridesmaid. Miss Mason's floor-length frock was of rose moire taffeta fashioned on princess lines with sweetheart neckline and her flowered hat had a shoulder length veil. She carried a cascade bouque tof American Beauty roses and bouvardia. Miss Austin's gown of hyacinth blue moire taffeta was floor length with tight-fitting bodice, square necklined, and her petaled head-dress was caught with a shoulder length net veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations and bouvardia.

L.A.C. Norman Hickey, of Trenton, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Charles Wood, of Peterborough, and Jack Jamieson, of Port Hope.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Charles Wood, of Peterborough, very beautifully sang "Because." She was accompanied by Mrs. Greer at the organ.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 132 King street, where the guests were received by the bridal party, assisted by the bride and groom's parents.

The rooms were attractively decorated with lighted candles and flowers. Mrs. Fair, the bride's mother, wore a street-length dress of burgundy crepe with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Dayman, mother of the groom, wore a frock of printed silk jersey and matching accessories and her corsage was of Briarcliff roses.

Later the bride and groom left for points east. The bride travelling in a smart wool suit moss-green trimmed with beige, brown seal coat and a "Casablanca" tam with an over-the-face veil and brown kid pumps. Her corsage was a spray of mauve orchids.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. L. Mason, Mrs. Rickett and Miss Vivian Smith, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson King, Mr. and Mrs. John King, Mr. and Mrs. William King, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bryson, of Kirby, and Miss Clare England, C.W.A.C., and Miss Phyllis Dayman, of Toronto.

Supreme Court Upholds Judgment

OTTAWA, Feb. 2—(CP)—A Supreme Court of Canada judgment upheld to-day an Ontario Appeal Court ruling that A. Acorn and Collacutt's Coach Lines was responsible for a highway accident near Cobourg, Ont., in which Mr. and Mrs. William Dean of Toronto, were injured.

The judgment affirmed awarded Mrs. Dean damages for $3,000 for personal injuries and Dean $100 for injuries, with $3,568 for out-of-pocket expenses.

The injuries were suffered when a bus driven by Acorn struck Dean's car as it was stopped on the highway while he and Mrs. Dean were examining a flat tire.

Fenners" wiel into 1850 and only died in his ninetieth year. One of the first particulars of a match came from Mr. Richard Brown, who refereed on the occasion. It was about 1827 and is typical of the matches then held. William Leeland was captain. It was a match between Willingham and the "Bury Fen" players, and was fought out on the Old West river near Willingham. The game was for a leg of mutton, which all afterwards enjoyed at the expense of the Willingham team at a neighboring inn. After play it was usual to have what was called a "randy," when good healths were drunk, defeat and hard luck forgotten, and fresh matches arranged.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

Pilots Photograph Much Of Europe In Spitfires Minus Armament

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 2—(CP)—Single-seater aircraft, armed with nothing more lethal than a Verey signal gun, range almost unmolested in solitary fights over enemy territory doing work which, though not spectacular, is playing a major part in winning the war.

The aircraft, generally specially-adapted Spitfires, belong to the R.A.F. photographic unit. Instead of guns, the machines carry extra petrol for long-range flying and some of them have been flown as far as Berlin and back, an approximately 1,200-mile trip.

The unit's work essentialy is concerned with the photographing of bomb damage. But it has done other jobs. P.R.U. pilots were the first to find the Bismarck and during the invasion season in the summer and fall of 1940, photo Recce pilot were over the invasion ports as often as three times a day. Possible future targets, airfields and shipping are photographed.

Maps Tell Tales

WO. Keith Campbell, an Australian pilot, told in a broadcast of some of the jobs he has done.

"All our work is not as interesting as bomb-damage, assessment flights," he said. "I have gone on many sorties where I have just photographed field after field of occupied Europe and Germany. It seems a bit pointless until you know the reason behind this work, but from these photographs, maps that will guide our invasion army are made... an ordinary photograph that I might take of a field can be the source of valuable information to the economic warfare people and those who will be concerned with the feeding of Europe when it is free again—for from this photograph the experts can tell what the present crop is like and they can decide what sort of crop can be expected from this field in the years to come.

"We have taken so many photographs of Europe since the war got going that a spade of earth could not be turned there without our knowing about it—we simply compare present photographs with past ones. Our pictures reveal how much rolling stock is available in Europe and what it is being used for. The German-supplied rumors from neutral sources, concerning the concentrations of troops and fortifications of their western wall can be either confirmed or proved false by our reconnaissance."

It was Campbell who took the first pictures of Berlin after the start of the big raids on the German capital. Unbothered by flak, he made four photographic runs over the city and obtained a complete set of pictures. He saw one fighter, but it didn't come near him, and on two previous trips to Berlin he met no opposition.

Pilots have their amusing moments on these sorties. Returning from Dusseldorf, Campbell saw two Focke-Wulfs coming in to attack him. He went into a circle and kept turning as sharply as he could. The F-W's did the same, but because he was turning in a smaller circle he eventually landed on their tails. One who obviously thought Campbell was armed, evidently caught sight of him in his mirror, peeled off and disappeared in a steep dive. His mate immediately pushed off, too.

"Sitting there in my cockpit with only a Verey pistol, I laughed," Campbell said, "having sent two gallant Luftwaffe pilots running for their lives."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

GROUND HOG A TEACHER

IF YOU ARE willing to learn the correct lesson from him, the ground hog can be a good teacher. It is not just that he is afraid of his own shadow. That would not be something good to learn. It is that he makes deductions. Perhaps they are wrong deductions, but nevertheless they are deductions. In bridge, if you get the habit of inferring one probable fact from another which comes to your attention, you are already a good deal along the way toward becoming a fine player.

After the spade 2 was led to the K, and South found, after the diamond K and A, that the suit would not break, his only chance for the contract seemed to be to give up a third diamond to the Q, which he did.

If a spade came back, he would be okeh. So would he if a club was led, or if a heart came back and the possessor of the A did not play it at once, letting him win with the K.

But in the East was a great card reader, one of the top women experts of all time, Mrs. Wilkinson Wagar, of Atlanta, who has just won the necessary additional "master points" to make her a Life Master of the American Contract Bridge league.

When she won the third diamond, she made some clear-cut inferences. The spade 2 was clearly fourth-best from a four-card suit. Her partner showed only a singleton in diamonds. Consequently her partner, who would have led a five-card suit if holding one, had exactly four cards each in hearts and clubs. In that case, South had a singleton heart, which probably was the K, and had made a shooting bid. Acting on this reading, she laid down the heart A and dropped the K. The pair then ran the suit, to defeat the contract.

Women's intuition? No, the common sense of an expert, sometimes fancily misnamed card sense.

Russians Capture Rovno and Luck 10 German Divisions Trapped

CAPTURE SIX GERMANS — Pat Gahagan (Left) and Mike Gahagan (Right), sons of Mrs. Gahagan and the late Martin Gahagan, Sherbrooke Street, who are credited with the capture of six Germans in Italy. A third brother, Martin, is also in the services.

Gahagan Boys Use Rugby To Capture Six Germans

By GREGORY CLARK

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Feb. 2.—Here is a Pat and Mike story that was not very funny at the time. Mike and Pat Gahagan, in order of their ages, are brothers, both corporals from Peterborough, with an Ontario unit. Under command of Lieut. George Hopper of Timmins, and with Pte. Jim Fordred of Vancouver, they were doing one of those small ambush patrols which are the style of work being done by both Canadian and German paratroopers in these wintry vineyard valleys between Ortona and Pescara.

About 3 a.m., with a slim moon declining, the four were sitting motionless far out in no man's land when they heard behind them the sudden furious sounds of a clash between a roving German patrol and another Canadian standing patrol. The rapid stutter of the German Schmeissers and more pugilistic slams of the Canadian tommy-guns, besides a few bombs of both nationalities, warned them that the encounter would result in the retreat of the Germans in their direction.

"We waited quite a while," said Lieut. Hopper, "and were about to leave our position, thinking the Hun had gone back another way and passed us, when Fordred saw their heads come over a skyline behind us about 50 yards away. We stayed perfectly still until they were about 30 feet away, six of them. Then Mike Gahagan challenged them.

Used Rugby Tactics

"I never saw anything more like cats than the way these six Germans fanned in the dark, but Mike had his eye on one and young Pat Gahagan had his on another, and these two closed forward at them. Not a sound was made, but a shot fired. They used ordinary rugby tactics. Each armed with a tommy-gun, the two corporals closed with their men, while Fordred and I backed them with our tommies.

"Mike's was a 19-year-old paratrooper fresh out to Italy from duty in Holland, and this was his first encounter. Pat got a gefrieter, or corporal, age 26, and this was his birthday. When Pat closed with the corporal and forced him to drop his Schmeisser, the corporal held out his hand and presented Pat with an egg bomb. To be handed a cold, round bomb by an enemy in the moonlight, 500 yards from your own lines, is quite a sensation. The other four Germans we did not hear a sound or shot from, and we returned immediately to our lines with our prisoners. This is a characteristic experience of our present way of life."

American Fliers Spare Airfield On Kwajatein

ABOARD A BOMBER OVER KWAJALEIN, Feb. 1—(Delayed)—(AP) — The air over Kwajalein Island is filled with United States aircraft and the sea is alive with warships as landing craft line up offshore for a beach assault on the smoking Japansee Marshalls stronghold.

This is the lead plane of a squadron of bombers which five minutes ago dropped a heavy cargo of 2,000-pound blockbusters on beach installations and pillboxes at the west tip of the island.

As the squadron leader swings his plane in a wide arc to view the island, large craters show on a portion

1,100 Bombers Hit Germany

LONDON, Feb. 3 — (CP). — More than 1,100 American bombers and long-range fighters attacked targets at Wilhelmshaven, in North-west Germany, to-day, United States Army Headquarters announced.

The sixth operation in seven days by Britain-based American bomber and fighter forces was made in clear weather against the German U-boat and shipbuilding centre. The flight represented a 700-mile round trip.

Wilhelmshaven was last hit by the Americans November 3 by 560 bombers, believed to have been a record force of four-engined craft up to that time.

The target is one of Germany's major ports.

The shattering daylight assault followed R.A.F. Mosquito attacks on targets in Western Germany last night, keeping the greatest sustained Allied offensive of the war rolling around the clock.

Hours after the American heavy bombers had left the smoke and flames of Wilhelmshaven behind them, other Allied bombers and long-range fighters kept streaming across the channel in what appeared to be one of the heaviest offensives in weeks.

One watcher said one large group of the late returning channel raiders required three-quarters of an hour to pass the coastline.

British aircraft also laid mines in enemy waters during the night, the announcement said. No planes were lost in the forays, which followed a series of daylight assaults by the United States heavy bombers yesterday on the invasion coast of Northern France.

Canadian Fliers Numerous In R.A.F.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3—(CP)— For every Canadian fighting as aircrew in R.C.A.F. squadrons overseas, there are 10 other R.C.A.F. men flying with R.A.F. squadrons, J. W. G. Clark, Director of Information for the armed services, told a service club luncheon here today.

"This is a brilliant highlight in Canada's war effort," he said in a prepared address. "I am not sure, however, that Canadians, or for that matter British and Americans, fully realize this fact."

Would Relieve Real Estate

Drew Foresees No Trouble In Legislature

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—(CP)— Premier Drew, paying a brief visit to the capital, said in an interview last night that immediately after the opening of the Ontario Legislature the government will move "to lighten real estate's financial burden of educational costs."

Premier Drew said he did not anticipate any great difficulty arising from his lack of full majority in the Provincial House, and would proceed with the legislative program he had pledged for the province.

"We will proceed with our legislative program and let the chips fall where they may," he said.

The Premier said he was "gratified" by Prime Minister Mackenzie King's announcement that a Dominion-Provincial conference on social security would be called. He said hqe had pressed for such a conference in recent correspondence with Mr. King.

Cassino Hit From Rear By Americans

Two-Prong Attack Reaches Edge Of Fortified City

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, Feb. 3—(AP).—Allied troops had battled to within 500 yards of Cassino from the north today and Allied headquarters announced that the core of the Germans' Gustav line was "seriously threatened."

American and French units tore wide gaps in the Gustav line in bloody fighting in the mountains to the rear of the stronghold despite fire from German six-barrelled Nebelwerver mortars and self-propelled guns manned by a "last-ditch" garrison fighting from the ruins.

At the same time other Americans were making a direct frontal attack on the city, guarding the Liri valley.

To the north, meanwhile, Allied troops enlarged their Anzio bridgehead in the face of German counter-attacks and engaged in hard fighting in several sectors. One of the German counter-attacks thrown back was just west of Littoria.

Near Collapse.

With their Cassino front near collapse the Germans were throwing attacks against the beachhead with increasing strength as new elements arrived in the enemy line in an effort to seal off the most serious threat to Rome.

On the comparatively quiet British 8th Army front along the Adriatic the Allies had the enemy jumpy and nervous. The Nazis were shooting off flares frequently at night, and there was much movement of enemy transport behind the lines. Units of a Canadian Corps forming the 8th Army's right flank from the Adriatic inland were reported yesterday to have reached a crossroads 1½ miles from Tollo.

Widen Breach.

But the Americans and French to the north widened the breach in the Gustav line to three miles, capturing several heights near Terelle. The Americans crossed the Cassino-Terelle road and Terelle itself was almost surrounded after the capture of a series of heights on Mount Castellone, a 2,300-foot peak where 100 prisoners were taken.

Cassino faced encirclement if the Germans continued to fight to the last man as they gave every indication of doing. Allied troops coming down from the mountains were in a position to cut Highway No. 6 to Rome behind the defenders. The highway was of little use to the Germans since it was under command of Allied artillery on the slopes above.

Night bombers attacked Maribor in Yugoslavia Tuesday night and yesterday a force of heavy bombers again swept across the Adriatic and bombed wireless installations at the Albanian port of Durazzo.

Quebec House Resents Halifax Speech

QUEBEC, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Members of the Legislative Assembly yesterday discussed housing and nursery problems and began debate on a motion by Rene Chaloult (B.P.-Lotbinierre) to protest against "Lord Halifax's new Imperialism," while the Legislative Council gave first reading to the Government Anti-Strike and Labor Relations Bills.

Mr. Chaloult said yesterday he hoped "Canada will declare her independence after the war and will join the Pan-American Union" and said the project suggested by Lord Halifax last week was "inspired by the Government of London."

Mr. Chaloult's motion, seconded by Jacques Dumoulin (Lib. Quebec-Montmorency) read "That this House considers it its duty to express divergence as regards Lord Halifax's new Imperialism and dangerous tendencies."

Dangerous Policy

"Canada's interests are not necessarily those of England," the lone Bloc Populaire member in the Assembly said, "and the new Imperialism proposed by Lord Halifax is dangerous for us, even from the economic point of view."

Hon. Oscar Drouin, Minister of Municipal Affairs, Trade and Commerce, said that the declarations made by Prime Minister Churchill Tuesday "make it clear that Mr. Halifax's views were not dictated by London," but added tha recent speeches by "imperialists" were "a clever campaign" to force the British Dominions towards a "dangerous imperialism."

"I hope that English-speaking Province of Canada will not let themselves be fooled by these new tactics." He added. He termed Lord Halifax's project "a concentrated plan to make us accept a new version of the Westminster Statute and to make us lose the liberties our ancestors won for us."

Two Mighty Red Armies Join 70 Miles Inside Polish Border

By E. D. BALL—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 3—(AP).—In a triumphant order of the day, Marshal Stalin announced today the joining of the first and second Ukrainian fronts, trapping 10 German divisions, after the German high command had acknowledged the loss of Lutsk (Luck) and Rowne (Rovno) in the pre-war Poland. Stalin proclaimed the capture of Smela, rail centre in the Dnieper Bend and said the two mighty Red Armies of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin and Gen. Ivan S. Konev had made gains of up to 45 miles in a 100-mile break-through of the German lines.

"As a result of these operations troops of the second and first Ukrainian fronts joined up in the area of Zvenigorodka and Shpola and thus closed a ring of encirclement around an enemy group operating north of this line, numbering nine infantry and one tank divisions," Stalin announced in his proclamation, broadcast from Moscow.

Stalin did not mention Lutsk, 70 miles inside the pre-war Polish frontier, or Rowne (Rovno), 30 mile west of that border. Evacuation of these places had been admitted earlier in a sweeping acknowledgment of losses by the German high command, broadcast in the daily German communique.

The Nazi withdrawal from Lutsk was surprising, since last previous reports from this sector of the eastern front had placed the fighting in the area of Rowne, 40 miles to the east, and there had been no indication that Lutsk was yet menaced.

The high command's communique, broadcast by D.N.B., said:—

"Rovno and Luzk were evacuated in the course of embittered defensive fighting."

The evacuation of Lutsk indicated Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's Ukrainian army had advanced 50 miles in a few days and was in a position to turn the German lines all along the Lower Dnieper river and throw the Nazis into Bessarabia, part of pre-war Rumania. Two days ago, the Germans began reporting a new offensive 50 miles east of Lutsk.

May Turn Flank

The swift advance threatened completely to nullify Marshal Von Mannstein's desperate stand around Vinnitsa and Uman in the Western Ukraine, attacks which have been blocking the Russians from the Bessarabian border 60 to 70 miles away for several weeks. Should Vatutin sweep down the railroad from Lutsk to Lwow, the estimated 500,000 Germans in the Ukraine could be extricated only through Rumania.

From Lutsk, Vatutin also menaces Brest-Litovsk, one of the most important communication centres of pre-war Poland and key to the entire White Russian front.

An earlier announcement by the Berlin radio said:

Admit Retreat.

"In the course of German movements in the eastern front Rovno and Luzk were abandoned by German troops yesterday. The German troops have taken up new positions west of the two towns."

Although the Russians themselves have not disclosed a new offensive in this region, Berlin reported last night that an intensified Soviet drive had been launched and said the Red Army had crossed the middle Gorin River which runs west of Rowne.

Pte. B. Meagher, Douro Boy Aids In Rescue Of Soldier

By FOSTER BARCLAY—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Feb. 3 (CP).—There's drama, humor and excitement behind the daily routine reports of patrolling activities along the Adriatic coast as the Canadians and Germans jockey for position.

There was the night, when a central Canadian patrol was ambushed during an attempt to retrieve the body of an officer. Only five returned to their own lines—the rest were killed, wounded or taken prisoner. Then the next evening eight members of a western Canadian regiment volunteered to rescue a Maritime soldier who lay on the battlefield, wounded and without food. They got back.

The westerners told their story as they stood outside a sniper's hut near battalion headquarters, nestled at the crest of a gully in one of the front's hot spots.

Between ducks and explosions, Pte. Bernard Meagher, Peterborough, Ont., said he had spotted the Maritimer crawling about at dawn, now and then flashing a mirror in the sun, hoping to catch the attention of an observation plane which crossed the area occasionally.

Chinese Capture Burma Village

NEW DELHI, Feb. 3. — (AP).—Chinese forces driving across Northern Burma have captured Taipha Ga, defended village on the main Japanese supply route after a six-day battle, Allied Headquarters announced to-day.

The strategic village fell Tuesday after a battle that began about Jan. 25. The victory placed the Chinese forces about a third of the way across Burma in their drive to clear Japanese forces from the route of the new Ledo Road to China which will connect with the old Burma road to the southeast.

The Chinese are consolidating their forces within the village area and are striking on southward, the Allied communique said.

Other Allied successes were reported farther to the south, where more than 200 Japanese officers and men were killed when they attacked Allied positions in the Mualbem area.

Huge Airport Falls To U.S. Marines

Kwajalein Harbor Under Fire Is Main Objective

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 3.—(AP). The four-day-old United States invasion of the heart of the Marshalls, a tactical surprise so complete that a vital air base for bombers and fighters was captured in less than a day, threatened the Japanese to-day with imminent loss of a fine harbor.

The four-runway airfield at Roi, on the northern end of Kwajalein Atoll, was overrun Tuesday, the second day of invasion and on the same day that forces went ashore at that point. The deep anchorage of boomerang-shaped Kwajalein Islet on the southern end of Kwajalein Atoll is seriously menaced, with one-third of the islet already in American hands. The airfield and the anchorage are the keys to Kwajalein, world's largest atoll.

Capture of Roi airfield and invasion of Kwajalein Islet were announced yesterday by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz. His communique made it clear the choice of Kwajalein for the invasion scene had fooled the Japanese, who for 25 years had been on the mandated Marshalls.

Parallel lines of eastern and western atolls make up the Marshalls, with Kwajalein near the centre of the western group. Apparently the Japanese looked for an attack on the eastern group—the chain facing Hawaii more than 2,000 miles away—or at the southern extremities of either chain in the direction of the recently-captured Gilberts.

"It is now apparent that the attack took the enemy completely by surprise," Admiral Nimitz said.

American troops also landed on Tuesday on Namur, adjacent to Roi on the northern end of Kwajalein atoll, and connected by a causeway with the Roi air base.

While Marines and Army veterans of the Aleutian campaign expanded their holdings on Kwajalein, invaded Monday, other fortified atolls in the Marshalls were kept under heavy attack from the naval artillery and Allied planes.

The attack apparently has isolated thousands of Japanese troops which now may be conquered at leisure or left to die of starvation.

These troops are garrisons— believed to be of considerable size—stationed on the chain of atolls which form the eastern limits of the Marshall group and in which the principal enemy bases are battered Wotje, Jaluit and Maloelap.

Germans Infiltrate Into Spanish Plants

LONDON, Feb. 3—(CP-Reuters)—Dingle Foot, economics warfare under-secretary, said today the government has received considerable evidence of German infiltration into Spanish industry in recent months.

"Spanish law prohibits acquisition by foreign companies of controlling interests in Spanish companies," he told the House of Commons.

"German infiltration, however, takes the form of making available processing and patent rights and supplying technical plans, advisers and engineers."

Murray Belch, Of Millbrook, In Convoy That Weathered Many Attacks

Written for The Canadian Press
By Flt. Lt. W. H. Dumsday, R.C.A.F.

A WEST COAST INDIAN PORT, Feb 3. —(CP) — Weathering sustained air attacks en route by sea, a detachment of R.C.A.F. air crew officers and radio mechanics has arrived to take up the battle against the Axis in southeast Asia command.

Nine fliers, members of the R.C.A.F. flying boat crews who served previously with coastal command in the United Kingdom, told of their experiences when their convoy was subjected to two attacks by German bombers. One lasted two hours.

The Germans used their new glider bomb in the attack, the fliers said, but the closest the enemy came to the ship in which they were travelling was 200 yards. In both attacks the enemy was driven off with a tremendous ack-ack barrage.

In the same convoy, however, were seven radio mechanics who were not so lucky. The ship in which they travelled in a previous convoy was struck by an aerial torpedo but all passengers were removed at leisure and there were no casualties. An escorting destroyer took them to a port where they later joined the convoy that brought them to India.

Canadians on the torpedoed vessel, all of whom are safely in India, included: LACS. Lloyd Boyd, Fredericton, N.B.; John MacDonald, Lion's Head, Ont.; Don Duncan, Green River, Ont., and Sgt. Don Reid, Drayton, Ont.

In the convoy which they later joined, their vessel helped materially in driving the enemy aircraft to cover.

"I saw our gunners blast the daylights out of one of the attacking planes and it exploded right in the air," Boyd said.

Telling of these attacks, the flying boat officers said the first lasted two hours and the enemy came in three waves. They came over a second time in a one-wave affair that lasted less than a half-hour.

During the first raid, the fliers, all of whom ferried flying boats across the Atlantic from Newfoundland, were on deck and "saw quite a bit of the surprise show before they hustled us below." They had to be content to watch the second attack through the port-holes.

Fliers who made the trip included: FO. Grant Nelson (39 Elgin Street), St. Thomas, Ont., and FO. Murray Belch, Millbrook, Ont.

A group of radio mechanics who sailed all the way with the second convoy included LAC. F. A. Haller, Windsor, Ont.

Monty Wants More Action

Believes War Can Be Finished In Year

A SOUTHEAST ENGLAND TOWN, Feb. 3 —(CP)—Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery told his troops yesterday that they could finish the war in Europe in a year "and we will."

"I want you men to know," said the commander of British ground forces in the invasion command, "that I never put an army in battle until I am quite certain it is going to be a good show. We won't have any question of failure. If there is any question we won't start...

"This war began a long while ago. I am getting fed up with the thing. I think it nearly time we finished it. We could not see at the beginning how it would end. That is not so today. Definitely not.

"Today we can see how this business is going to end. The only thing we cannot see is exactly when. But I would say we must make a great effort to finish it off this year. We can do so—and we will. You and I will see this thing through together."

Federal Group To Meet With Provinces

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Demand for a more liberal policy on private enterprise in the field of civil aviation, from Hon. R B. Hanson (PC-York-Sunbury) in the House of Commons yesterday opens up a subject which is expected to be debated at length during the present session of Parliament.

Mr. Hanson, former Opposition Leader and a veteran member, said the present practice of restricting private enterprise is "dwarfing the progress of Canadian air transportation."

At yesterday's short sitting Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced the Government hopes to have a conference with the provinces "before very long" to "deal with some of the social problems and financial questions that they have had necessarily to consider along with ourselves."

No Budget Date.

The conference is expected to attempt to solve the issues of relative Federal and Provincial jurisdiction in social and labor legislation, and take up the financial relationship between the Dominion and the Provinces where it was left at the Dominion-Provincial conference of 1940 when Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia objected to consideration of recommendations made in the report of the pre-war Royal Commission on the subject.

He said the bills to be dealt with this session would be brought in roughly in order of immediate importance: 1. Urgent war measures; 2. Measures on such things as soldiers' rehabilitation dealing with the transition period immediately after

Terming the refusal "indefensible," the News Chronicle said:

Namur Becomes Graveyard Under Naval Bombardment

By ALVA DOPKING—Associated Press War Correspondent

NAMUR ISLAND, Kwajalein Atoll in the Marshalls, Feb. 3 —(AP).—United States Marines were mopping up the last enemy resistance yesterday on Roi and Namur Islands, all but levelled by the great naval bombardment that cleared the way for the invasion forces.

Massed graveyards of littered Japanese blown from pillboxes and heavily-reinforced concrete blockhouses told the story of the heavy, deliberate and accurate pounding from the sea.

There is plenty of evidence that the Japanese were completely surprised. Those who survived the inferno of shell-fire had only small arms to fire from battered blockhouses as the Marines landed shortly before noon Tuesday. Shore batteries had been blown sky-high.

The Marines ran into sporadic resistance in the interior during the first day. The triple-runway Roi airstrip fell in four hours. Mild opposition from snipers on Roi was quickly suppressed. Harassed remnants of the Japanese troops escaped over a causeway to join their forces on adjacent Namur.

Blast Pillboxes.

The Americans stormed nearly 200 yards across Namur on their first blow, then methodically began blasting out the enemy, pillbox by pillbox the rest of the way across the little island.

I landed shortly after the assault waves Tuesday on Namur. The Japanese sniped from trees and the ruins of pillboxes The Marines picked off hundreds of them before nightfall the first day. After dark, the enemy began infiltrating, but they were systematically thwarted' The Marines took some prisoners, including crack naavl guard forces. The Japs' cockiness was gone.

All buildings on Namur were razed except one badly battered concrete structure. Only the steel framework of hangars at Roi were left standing. Coral runways there were pocked with bomb craters as was Namur's cocoanut grove and beach area. Marines used the craters as foxholes until they had time to dig in.

I slept in a foxhole. Enemy bullets whined overhead through the darkness. Our casualties appear light.

I saw one pillbox where 18 Japanese, including several officers, had been exterminated by the naval bombardment. Their charred and broken bodies were buried in debris. Two prisoners were taken from the same pillbox.

The pier at Namur was left a mass of debris. A giant steel crane at its end was twisted like so much wire. Ammunition dumps were still exploding when I walked to the beach.

Leo Richard and Tony Hemmerling counted for Pittsburgh.

Allied Supplies Turning Tide

LONDON, Feb. 3—(CP).—Yugoslav troops have smashed six German columns attempting to break through Partisan defences into liberated territory in Slovenia, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced today.

Tito said these recent successes against the Germans had been aided materially by a substantial increase in supplies sent him by the Allies during the past month and by Allied sea and air assaults against German positions in Yugoslavia.

"These increased deliveries have fulfilled the hopes expressed at the second session of the council of the Yugoslav Government of Liberation," a spokesman said over the Free Yugoslav radio. "Our allies may rest assured that these war materials will be put to the best possible use, as they are in the hands of seasoned fighters. It is hoped that the greatest possible quantity of supplies will be received in the future."

Richard K. Law, British Minister of State, said recently Tito was receiving the bulk of Allied help because he was doing most of the fighting against the Germans in Yugoslavia.

German attacks have been scattered, Tito's communique said, but it added grim fighting continued.

Tito's bulletin said fierce struggles were in progress along the Croat and Dalmation coastal areas, where the Nazis were trying to prevent the landing of Allied supplies for Tito's forces.

Federal Ballot Bill Passes First Test

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — The Administration's Federal Ballot Bill for the armed services won its first Senate test today with defeat of a "State's Rights" amendment aimed at restoring local registration and poll tax payments as voting qualifications for those in uniform.

The rollcall vote was 68 to 23 against the amendment, first of a host of changes projected at the administration - backed bill which would send a uniform Federal ballot to military voters.

The amendment, offered by Senator John Overton (Dem.-La.), would have given State election laws complete control over the validity of the Federal ballots.

that was our target. The target area lies directly in the path of landing forces marshalling almost within rifle range of the island.

Battleships and cruisers as well as smaller warships are shelling the island with repeated salvoes, and as we pull away from the target area navy dive-bombers are cutting down into their sharp diving runs.

Not a single burst of anti-aircraft fire came from the island toward our plane despite the fact the bombers went in at a low level.

Warships spotted the surface as we approached the island. One battleship was belching out one great balloon orange flame after another. The projectiles geysered in a lagoon and further crushed battered beach areas on the northerly side of the island.

No attempt was made by this squadron to bomb the airfield because American air forces obviously had air supremacy. As Lt.-Col. Elliott Pardee of San Francisco said: "The Japs built this airfield; let's save it for our own use."

Farmers To Discuss Crop Improvements

Peterborough farmers who can get away for a day or two are reminded of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association's meetings in Toronto, during the first three days of next week. Monday morning is devoted to potatoes with sessions in the afternoon and evening; and the registered seed growers begin their sessions Monday afternoon. They are holding a joint meeting Tuesday afternoon with the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

This convention last year was regarded as one of the most helpful to farmers. The three-day program comprises many interesting features, including on Tuesday evening talks on pasture improvement, seed grains, and a report on the 1943 crop tests by Dr. G. P. McRostie, of the Field Husbandry department, Ontario Agricultural College.

An outstanding feature will be the address Tuesday afternoon by Dr. H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, on the subject "Soil Conservation in Peace and War."

recalled Jerry Zastre, Winnipeg. "At first we thought he might be a German trying to pull a fast one, but it soon became evident he was one of our own men. We couldn't understand why he didn't crawl toward our own positions, but apparently he had lost his direction and wasn't taking any chancees of talking into the enemy's lines."

When dusk fell a party, including Meagher, volunteered to go out and bring him in.

"We didn't have much trouble," shouted Zastre as a mortar bomb exploded outside, sending hunks of dirt through the doorway. " We could hear the Germans talking in their slit trenches, but they didn't interfere.

"Three other persons were huddled in a hole and when we asked the maritimer how they were he replied: "They are dead—dead as door nails."

The rescuers agree dthat the Maritimer had plenty of stuff the army calls guts. One leg was badly wounded, but he didn't complain.

"Why," recalled Mackay, 'when somebody asked him if he would like a cup of tea he raised his head and whispered: 'sure would, but without cream or sugar."

Pte. Meagher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Meagher of Douro and a sister Miss Loretta Meagher lives at 176 Albertus Street. Before enlisting with the Prince or Wales Rangers in 1942, he was employed at the De Laval, and when he went overseas in February, 1943, as a reinforcement, he was eventually assigned to the Princess Pats.

A brother, Gnr. Leo Meagher, is also fighting in Sicily at the present time.

they were about to set forth on another ambush job with Lieut. Hopper. They are regular Peterborough huskies of heavy build, but with a very lithe air about them and they have done plenty of fishing and shooting and are at home in the quiet and stealth of patrolling. The country in which they are working these days is a series of rolling ridges covered with vineyards which make a cover almost like underbrush over all.

No Man's Land Full of Secrets

The vines are heavy and secured to stake supports and are trellised so that working among them offers a witty man any amount of scope. All the soft stone farmhouses scattered amid the vineyards are wrecked by the fierce passage of December, and desolation far more silent and forbidding than any we have come through so far lies over all.

No man's land is wide and full of secrets and all day long our multitude of guns lashes and storms the farther edge of it and the German guns and mortars working on a random pattern of trying to surprise these poor, jagged, ghastly ruins of farmhouses fall with a sort of crazy fury here, there and anywhere at crashing intervals all through the silent day. But at darkfall comes a plan. You can actually feel the change and you know that out in that tangled blackness, patient placid men all day have with twilight come to life. As in the old war, night is the infantry's portion, and out in that dark, bitten with these same gnashing flashes of mortar and shell go the Gahagans and the thousands of nameless men, hunting the first enemy which is man, and watchful of the last enemy which is death.

"I can think of lots of things I'd rather be doing," said Corporal Mike when we recalled Peterborough and which musky waters we remembered best thereabouts, but when he walked off with his patrol, with his tommy-gun snug to his shoulder-blade, I thought a man never carried a deer rifle more affectionately.

This seemed to indicate that each of the 16 republics would send envoys to the countries with which Russia has diplomatic relations and that the way would be opened for each foreign country to send an envoy to each of the 16 republics.

The paper added that single representation by an "all-union" representative abroad no longer could fully answer the growing needs of the 16 republics, and that all-union pacts and agreements with other nations also no longer sufficed.

Farther to the south-east the communique said the Russians were attacking Shepetovka New Soviet thrusts also were reported on the Nikopol bridgehead, while south-west of Dnepropetrovsk the Nazis were heavily engaged against advancing Soviet tank formations.

The Germans also were being pushed back inside Estonia, where the Red Army driving along the Gulf of Finland west of captured Kingisepp, reached positions along the Narva River, north-west of the seaport of Narva itself. This indicated that the Russians now are battling on Estonian soil.

Take 40 Towns

The Russians captured more than 40 towns in their approach to Narva, rail junction and northern gateway to Estonia.

Berlin reported not only a new Russian break-through in the Dnieper Bend but also a new Soviet drive upon Rowne (Rovno) 30 miles inside pre-war Poland.

The Russians appeared to be developing a new pincers attack such as that which wound around the army at Stalingrad a year ago yesterday and squeezed it out of existence.

One army was driving south from the Kingisepp-Narva area and swinging toward Luga from the northwest, the spearhead reaching Osmino, 35 miles northwest of Luga.

The other arm, advancing up from Novogrod in the southeast, was within 14 miles of Luga at Yugostitsi.

Prize of the pincers' tips, less than 50 miles apart, would be all the German troops north and east of Luga in a great pocket still held by the Germans.

Ray Clapper Killed In Plane Crash

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—Raymond Clapper, the well-known Washington columnist and political commentator, has lost his life in a plane accident while covering the invasion of the Marshalls in the Central Pacific. He was 51.

A brief Navy announcement here said:

"The commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet has reported that a plane in which Mr. Raymond Clapper was a passenger, engaged in covering the Marshalls invasion, collided with another plane while forming up. Mr. Clapper was in the plane with the squadron commander. Both planes crashed in the lagoon. There were no survivors."

The exact time and place of the accident were not given.

Clapper, long associated with the Scripps-Howard newspaper syndicate, left here on Dec. 28, going to Honolulu and Australia and subsequently joining the Pacific fleet.

A native of Kansas, he attended the University of Kansas before going into newspaper work. His wife and two children live in Washington.

He began his career as a reporter on the Kansas City Star in 1916, later joined the United Press, eventually becoming its chief political writer and manager of its Washington bureau.

Clapper subsequently became a special writer for the Washington Post and went to the Scripps-Howard newspapers in January, 1936, as columnist and political commentator.

He was the author of the book "Racketeering in Washington."

Anglican Church Reports $11,200

COBOURG, Feb. 3 — (ENS) — Total receipts for the year were $11,200 and a good balance remained after all expenses had been paid at St. Peter's Anglican church. A special committee was appointed to arrange for the celebration in October of this year of the 125th anniversary of the founding of the parish, the committee to consist of A. D. Spragge, Miss K. Warner and a representative from the Parish Guild, Women's Auxiliary and Mothers' Union. It was reported that 161 Christmas boxes had been sent out to soldiers of the parish.

The Parish Guild Soldiers' Box Fund handled $308.77 and ended the year with a balance of $82.32.

Appointments made were as follows: Rector's warden, J. E. Hutton; peoples' warden, W. E. Wiggins; vestry clerk, H. V. Cunningham; lay delegates, W. H. Dundas, G. W. Taylor, Dr. G. C. Kidd; alternate lay delegates, S. A. Smith, M. A. Hewson and D. Massey; advisory council, A. Field, M. Hewson S. Smith, A. Spragge, H. Bellamy and A. Cowin.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP).—Attorney James J. Laughlin said last night he plans to summon Rear-Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj.-Gen. Walter C. Short as witnesses at the trial of 30 persons charged with plotting to overthrow the government and set up a Nazi regime.

Anglican Church Reports Most Successful Year

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3 (ENS) — In the memory of present members, St. John the Baptist Anglican church, in 1943 had its most successful year, finances showing a balance of $641.55 at the annual Vestry meeting in the Parish Hall this week.

Rev. S. A. R. Wood in detailing the progress of the Parish during the year, said it had been the most gratifying in a long time, and the financial support absolutely magnificent. He regretted that the Sunday School is still laboring under difficulties, but all other organizations had a very successful year.

In reporting for the Parochial Council Mr. Wood said the response to an appeal for funds to repair the church and rectory was so amazing that words of his could not begin to express their appreciation.

The speaker made particular mention of the contribution by a special collection of $118 from the Grove School.

"It does one good" said Mr. Wood, "to know that these boys will back us in this way, and they faithfully come to church in spite of the occasional growl." He suggested that someone go to the Grove and thank them for what they have done.

Most Successful Year

Magistrate O. A. Langley, in accepting the rector's report, said it was because of the splendid leadership and energy shown by Mr. Wood that the church had gone forward.

J. Winder Smith, headmaster of the Grove School, said it was a special privilege for the boys to take a part in the village church.

Review Finances

Rev. Mr. Wood presented the budget for the year 1944 with total expenditures of $2,037 planned. The church warden's report was presented by Warden's S. E. White and S. F. M. Touchburn, as follows: Receipts: church, current $1,757.44, church savings $878.28, Guild $92.86, W.A. $171.96, Sunday School $36.48, War Service Club $80.46; total $3,017.48.

Expenditures: church current, $1,581.49, church savings $496.10, Guild $69.39, W.A. $137.61, Sunday School $20.86, War Service Club $70.28; total expenditures $2,375.93; total credit balance $641.55.

During the evening the organist's salary was raised to $120 and the vestry clerk will be paid $25 yearly.

Mayor Intends Salary For Use In Charity

COBOURG, Feb. 3 — (ENS) — Mayor Jack Burnet intends to put his $200 salary as mayor into a special fund from which he would be entitled to draw funds for subscribing to various charitable organizations. Council at its opening session this year decided to pass a by-law which would pay the mayor $200 a year and each councillor five dollars a session.

Mayor Burnet said that he favored the remuneration bylaw but wanted to put his money into an account designated for charitable donations for which "the mayor continually has his hand in his pocket." Mayor Burnet also pointed out that in two hours on Monday of this week he had eight interviews on town business which consumed 100% of the two hours. Both Councillors Reuben Jackson and Jud Kennedy want to donate their pay to charity.

Donald Stewart, 19 Cuts Foot With Axe

CAMPBELLFORD, February 3, —(ENS)— Donald Stewart 19, of Seymour Township was treated in the Campbellford Hospital Wednesday afternoon following an accident in which he severely cut his left foot with an axe. H was working for Mr. Chester Meeklejohn ,Rawdon Township when the axe he was using glanced off a tree and cut through his shoe into the top of the foot just below the ankle. It is expected he will be able to leave the hospital in two or three days.

2 Million Loss In Shipyard Fire

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 3— (AP)—Fire wiped out one of the nation's $2,000,000 key Liberty-ship engine-manufacturing plants here last night.

Eleven firemen were injured slightly in fighting the flames. Two of 400 workers suffered minor injuries.

Firemen, able to save only a machine shop and a welding and pipefitting shop, said there was "no apparent cause" for the fire.

Estimate of $2,000,000 loss, covered by insurance, was made by E. C. Sammons, company vice-president. and Fire Investigator William Goerz.

Shortage Acute In Dairy Produce

TORONTO, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Most farm products are in short supply with the shortage probably most acute in dairy articles, it was noted in the report of President George C. Jackson of Downsview, Ont., presented yesterday to the 61st annual meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada.

Increased demands for whole milk and butter for home consumption and for cheese and all types of powdered milk and condensed milk for Britain are not being met satisfactorily, the report said.

Referring to the shift of labor from farms, forests and mines to the manufacture of goods for war purposes, report stated, "If Great Britain and our Allies are to receive the dairy products they require, when they need them, competent help must be directed to the dairy farms and price ceilings on such products may have to be revised upwards."

Secretary-treasurer George M. Clemens of Brantford, Ont., reported 999 new members in 1943, bringing the total to 8,547, of which 6,628 are in Ontario.

The Extension service Committee, headed by J. J. E. McCague of Alliston, Ont., reported a record allocation of $50,000 for its work last year. A special grant was made to assist the New Brunswick branch in the purchase of 110 Ontario cattle, Mr. McCague said.

Russia Multiplies Itself

It is still much too early to draw any conclusions about the Russian decision to grant a measure of autonomy to her component republics, but one thing is already clear: we shall in future be dealing with sixteen Russias, and not with one. Who shall say that this is a bad thing? Presumably the sixteen Russias will stick together as closely, for instance, as the British Dominions do. Nevertheless, in certain matters they will have greater freedom than they have now, and where sixteen republics have a degree of autonomy, totalitarianism and dictatorship is less liable to flourish than where one gigantic country is dominated by a single government. It is not too optimistic to greet this move as a decided step in Russia toward the sort of freedom which the Anglo-American world enjoys.

Already many people are worrying that Russia will have sixteen votes in any future League of Nations. That will probably be so, but until we see how the sixteen republics mean to use their votes we cannot say whether it is a good thing or not. If they mean to vote as a bloc, they will be formidable indeed; it is possible, however, to see their objection to having one vote and thus being put on a par with a number of small states which have not a hundredth part of their stake in world affairs. Russia may be planning to do some shrewd bargaining for herself; if that is so we shall have to be equally shrewd, and there is no doubt that we can match Russia in shrewdness.

Russia clearly means to play a great part in world affairs after the war, and it may be that this latest move is a means of gaining power. But we must not assume that Russia's moves are all entirely selfish or that she is always moved by an unfriendly spirit. It is not surprising that she should want a place in the sun; we must not assume that she wants to have all the sun.

Discussion of the Russian multiplication, except in the most general terms, is pointless at present. In time we shall see what it means. It may mean that a great step has been taken toward a better and more steady world. The Russians have shown that they have a genius for making war; perhaps they have an equal genius for keeping the peace. The two qualities often go together.

A New World Calendar

An organization exists called The World Calendar Association which wants to reform the calendar so that it would be the same for every year. Holidays would be fixed and the months would be of equal length. The Association thinks that great benefits would follow the adoption of their idea.

The benefits would be benefits of uniformity. We have not much admiration for uniformity for its own sake. We rather like the irregularity of the present calendar. We find it interesting that Easter hops about in the Spring and that Christmas comes on all the different days of the week in turn. We fully admit that the present calendar is probably out of line with the stars and the moon, and that Leap Year is a fantastic and foolish thing. But what about it? The calendar makes for variety, and we do not want to see all the variety organized out of life to suit people who have the minds of arithmeticians.

What is more, the World Calendar would not be a world calendar at all. It would be a European and American calendar. The Russians would not adopt it because we did so; they have more sense than that. The Chinese, the Hindus and the Mohammedans would regard it as another evidence of Occidental fidgetiness. The Jews would go on adhering to their own calendar in private, as they do now.

Logic adjures us to adopt the so-called World Calendar. But Mr. Churchill has warned us against the futilities of logic in such matters as this: "Logic is a poor guide compared to custom", says he. Leave the calendar alone. It is illogical; life is illogical. We shall not make life logical by monkeying with a calendar which works quite well for the part of the world which adheres to it.

A Look At The Bright Side

The number of deaths in battle, as compared with the number of casualties, has been very small in this war, when we compare the figures with those of the last war. We have recently received some figures for the year ending March 31, 1943, which make this clear. During that time almost 30,000 battle casualties were admitted to hospitals in the Middle East, and of all that number the total of deaths was 611, or 2.1 per cent.; during the last war the mortality rate for hospitals in Egypt and Palestine was 7.44 per cent. For further comparison we cite the case of a British hospital in France during the last war which had 1,300 severely wounded patients, and lost 113 of them; in Tunisia a hospital of similar type had 1,500 patients, all badly wounded, and only five of them died. British Army medical service has come a long way during the past quarter of a century, and there are three main reasons why army hospitals are able to do such excellent work at present.

The first reason is that it is now possible to treat wounded men more quickly than ever before. Doctors and nurses go closer to the front line and in some cases they even drop by parachute, with emergency equipment, directly behind the fighting men, from specially equipped planes. Mobile operating theatres are in common use, and airplanes are used to get the wounded from the field of battle to the medical station as fast as possible. Both in the North African campaign and the invasion of Sicily over thirty thousand men were evacuated from battle-fields by plane, with doctors working as they travelled. The quicker a wounded man can be given medical attention, the better his chance is of escaping death.

The next reason for the lowered death-rate is the general use of drugs of the sulphonamide group, of penicillin, and of blood plasma. These drugs prevent a bad wound from becoming worse, they combat infection and shock, and the blood transfusions increase the resistance and will-to-live of the patient. The work of blood donors in Canada and in all the United Nations helps to save the lives of men who are wounded in battle; has such a small sacrifice ever done so much good?

And the third reason for decreased deaths from battle wounds is the great improvement which has been made in training the orderlies of the Royal Army Medical Corps. They now know how to give every aid possible to the wounded man, short of expert medical attention. This is good news indeed.

We Share The Wealth

The columnist T.D.F. in the Ottawa Citizen recently delivered himself of this sound bit of commentary:

"Kingston Whig-Standard disagrees somewhat stiffly with the statement of Dr. Blatz of Toronto University that Canada has 350,000 potential geniuses. (We suppose the proper plural there would be genii, though it might not look so well in print.) Anyway, the paper argues that there haven't been that many in the whole world since the dawn of history. It admits, however, that there may be three. Assuming that Kingston has one of them, which is quite reasonable, and that Hamilton will demand one (which is inevitable), does the Whig think for a moment that Toronto is going to be satisfied with what's left? Foosh!"

Now the Examiner is not a proud, vainglorious paper, eager to keep itself wholly to itself; neither is it niggardly, refusing to allow its contemporaries to slake their editorial thirst at the copious, sparkling stream of its columns. But we should like to point out, humbly, that T.D.F. has quoted from the Examiner and has attributed the quotation to the Whig. We don't mind; we merely mention the fact.

Maybe T.D.F. is one of those old-style Bohemian journalists who spreads all the exchanges on the floor and reads them, upside down and crossways, while lying on his stomach. At any rate, we like to think so. Ottawa needs such individualists.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Miss Pomp At Opening Of Parliament" says a headline. Don't know her, but we hope she enjoyed it.

One clear proof that water attracts electricity is that every time a man gets into a bathtub his telephone rings.

"Atrocity Stories Harden U.S. Peace Terms For Japan" says a headline. The time to harden peace terms is when we have won the war.

A scientist says that the roast beef of the future will be cooked with infra-red rays in six seconds. And if you leave it a second too long, your roast will be a cinder. No thanks.

Water statistics show that in most parts of this continent, Saturday is no longer bath night. And as we sit in the crowded bus we wonder whether any other night has taken its place.

Women Make Inferior Politicians

By the Countess of Oxford and Asquith (In Empire News)

THERE has been a great deal of nonsense written about my sex, and when women claimed to be equal to men I could not have disagreed more.

Women are not only different from men in their bodies, but in their minds. I might also add in their morals. They will say that whereas most women are moral, the majority of men are not. I wonder if this is true. I do not think it is.

Men are more brutal; but women are more cruel than men. I have known women who have made hell for their husbands by their perpetual nagging. To live with someone who is always asking, "Where have you been?" "What have you done?" "Who have you seem?" and a thousand other such wooden questions can only end in divorce.

IF a woman knows that her husband is on the verge of falling in love with someone younger and possibly more attractive than she is, her questions should be different. She should say: "You told me that you would be able to get away from work early to-day. I was glad of that, as you have looked tired lately, and men who are tired take no pleasure in their work."

Husband: "That's true; they don't."

Wife: "I hope that you have been with (Mrs. or Miss So-and-So) and had a happy afternoon. I have not seen her often, but when you introduced her to me I thought her charming and so good-looking! I think that you should see her as often as possible. Why not invite her to stay with use in the country when we leave London for our holidays? Would that not be a good idea?"

Husband: "Are you sure that you would like that?"

Wife: "Of course, I would. If you like to be happy, so do I. Our marriage was not what the French call a marriage de convenance; it was a marriage for love."

DELIGHTED at this remark, the husband invites her to spend her holidays with them in the country, and the wise wife leaves them together as often as she can. But after a time he ceases to enjoy this, and longs to be alone with his wife.

Why were clubs invented? Women seldom go to clubs; I think—though I may be wrong—that it is because the average man usually prefers the society of his fellow men to that of women, or it may be because he wants a respite from his wife. If you telephone to a club and ask for the address of a man you want to see, the answer is always the same: "He has left no address. We do not forward letters to members of this club."

Before women were given the franchise our lives were threatened day and night, and Scotland Yard deemed it necessary to employ two detectives to protect us whether we were in London or in the country. Eventually women got what they wanted and what have they done with it? You may say that up till now they have not been sufficiently educated in politics to make their names famous in the House of Commons.

No amount of education will make women first-rate politicians. Can you see a woman becoming a Prime Minister? I cannot imagine a greater calamity for these islands were they to be put under the guidance of a woman in 10 Downing street. They are not even good speakers. With the exception of my step-daughter, Violet Bonham-Carter, I have never heard one woman of whom you could say, "She is an orator."

THERE have been many Prime Ministers who have not been good speakers, but they have had other qualities which have made up for that. To be a great Prime Minister you need not be a great orator. The other qualities are balanced judgments, a power of deliberation, to be open to reason, and above all, to suspend judgment.

Can a clever woman do any of these things? Certainly not if she is clever: on the contrary, the cleverer she is, the less likely she is to suspend judgment. Nor is reason the strongest part of a woman's intellect. Intuition? Perhaps. Prejudice? Often. Courage? Always.

I am not a good judge of my own sex because, though I have met many remarkable men, I have hardly ever met a remarkable woman. In this I have been unlucky, since there must be many remarkable women. I am only writing of my own experience, and if there are remarkable women, I have never met them.

Blake writes in "The Marriage of Heaven and Hell": "Prudence is a rich, ugly old maid wooed by incapacity." Prudence may be wise, but it is the last thing which would attract me if I were a man.

Why did Shakespeare bequeathe to his wife his second-best bed? There are women whose love has inspired the whole of a man's life. To be lovable you must be human. This is what I miss in women. They are less human than men, and more marriages have been ruined by a woman taking her husband's love for granted than anything I know.

LOVE-MAKING is as important an art as any other. Even more important since your happiness and youth depends upon it. Why should it cease when the wedding bells are rung or after the honeymoon? If she marries the wrong man, that is her affair; but even if this were to happen, a woman of observation, imagination, and insight could make her companionship of greater delight to her husband than that of any other woman.

I am not writing of unhappy but of happy marriages. Watch a couple at a restaurant. Do they talk to one another with animation? Nothing has struck me more than seeing how pleased they are when some lively person joins them at their monotonous meal.

When a husband comes back tired from his work, does his wife wear her prettiest dress? Never, when they are alone. And if he did not notice her dress, would she twit him about it?

Does she read the books he reads, or try a new way in which she could amuse or interest him? I doubt it. It may be said as an excuse that women, if they have had a previous experience of the mystery of love, have not been looked upon favourably by society.

To my way of thinking, "society" should not play too large a part in a woman's life. Home is the sacred word—not to be translated in any foreign language that I know—and if "home" is routine, then she can turn the lights out.

We Are Over the Top But There Is No Easy Way Down —By Thomas

Salaried Tax Farmers

(THE PRINTED WORD)

WHEN Mr. Ilsley and his colleague, the minister of national revenue, are considering taxes, they should give thought to the growing resentment over certain administrative habits and policies which have developed in recent years. From the burlesque stage to the radio to the capital of our fair country has come the dictum, "Never give the sucker a break." The burlesque stage never really meant it.

Once upon a time it was the gentlemanly custom of Dominion tax collectors to rule in favour of the taxpayer if there was a reasonable doubt as to the justice of a claim by the government. But now the policy in many instanc is to rule against the taxpayer, in case of doubt, and dare him to take the case to the exchequer court if he has the time and money therefor.

Nor is this the worst policy. They are likely to rule one way with respect to income tax, when it is to the advantage of the government so to do, and the same officials have been known to rule the opposite way when a further sum could be exacted by way of excess-profits tax. In the case in mind, a protest to the highest local authority in a large city brought the comment that the taxpayer might win in court but, in that event, "We (the officials) would change the law."

The innocent might assume that the law is changed by parliament, which is the House of Commons for all practical purposes in revenue matters. It is true that measures are brought into the house by the minister, usually Mr. Ilsley, but are invariably approved without debate on the minister's explanation that the changes proposed are merely routine clauses desirable for "clarity" and "administrative convenience." Behind such changes often may be—and often seems to be—injustice to a sizable group of taxpayers. The policy which has been applied in some cases apparently is that it is better to mulct a hundred taxpayers unjustly than to leave a loophole where one may escape.

Another practice which is wholly wrong is an effort of the income tax branch to circumvent decisions of other boards or other branches of government. The instance in mind is an industry which was ruled by a board as being depressed in the basic period, with the result that the amount collectable under the excess profits tax act was materially less. It was a thoroughly sound ruling, as anyone knows who ever owned a security in that industry. But immediately after the ruling, the income tax branch assigned the whole time of a couple of chartered accountants to the job of—apparently—trying to see how many hundreds of thousands or millions of dollars could be exacted in other ways. The "other ways" consist in questioning normal rates of depreciation, charges for maintenance and other items, for the purpose of enhancing the taxable income.

It isn't a new industry and we are assured that accounting practices prevailing have not been altered since the basic period, which already has been dealt with by another board.

The tax farmers of ancient date—who worked on a percentage basis—could hardly be more zealous than are some of the workers under Minister Gibson. The Canadian tax farmers all work for salaries but it has been noticed that their chief recently obtained a promotion in status and, presumably, salary. In the income-tax branch, does promotion come because of efficiency and fairness to both government and taxpayer? Or are the rewards in relation to the amount of cash lifted from the pockets of harassed citizens? We're all for all legal taxes being collected but we're against civil servants making the laws.

Reconstruction Committee's Report

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE report tabled Friday in the House of Commons by the Government's committee on reconstruction is a distinct contribution to clear appraisal of post-war needs. The committee, which is presided over by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal of McGill University, and which includes Dr. R. C. Wallace of Queen's in its membership, offered a series of common-sense recommendations which, without exception, should receive the serious attention of the Government. It might even be said that they should receive favorable consideration, for most of them are interdependent and all appear based upon the re-establishment of free enterprise.

Recommendations which will be heartily commended by business men throughout the Dominion are those dealing with the tax structure. They include reduction in the corporate profits tax, elimination of the excess profits tax, and reconsideration of the consumer sales tax. These recommendations, if implemented, would lift from business in general the heaviest of the confining restrictions which have either hampered or completely prevented its normal rate of expansion.

It is a generally accepted fact that a business enterprise must either advance or recede; it cannot remain stationary for very long. Under war conditions, advancement has been doubly difficult for many businesses. It is well known that some have been forced to enter into long-term borrowing agreements to maintain normal expansion. The tremendous gouge taken by the Government through corporation and excess profits taxes has precluded expansion from current revenue or even by means of short-term loans. Business has made very little protest against these conditions; general sentiment has been that as part of the war effort they had to be accepted. But business will expect, and has every right to expect, taxation relief as soon as possible.

Another point in the committee's report which should meet with national approval is the indicated responsibility of business to maintain employment at a high level. More than ever before in history, business men stand ready to accept this responsibility. Not only that, but they are even now preparing to do so, as far as they are able under difficult conditions. However, before business of any nature, large or small, is able to guarantee maintenance of full employment with any degree of confidence, its rightful share in its own earnings must be restored.

We think that Dr. James and his committee deserve the thanks of the Canadian people for a most thoughtful and comprehensive report. Neither radical nor reactionary, its proposals offer opportunities for progress under the system which built the Canada of today, and which we are certain offers the best hope for an even higher standard of living in the Dominion if set free from the burdens and controls imposed by war.

Peanut Butter

Arrangements having been made to buy part of the Algerian crop of peanuts, Canadians are assured that they will have at their disposal a much larger quantity of peanut butter than has been available for the past two years. The Canadian consumer won't care a great deal where the raw material comes from as long as peanut butter loses its distinction as a rare item.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Private Fish Farms

Commercial fishermen who are getting 30 cents per pound and upwards for their fish may be expected some day to establish private fish farms. To build them up along some of the water courses might be more profitable than dependence on the uncertainties of the open lake. If they could include brook trout for commercial sale as in some parts of the United States, it would be more popular still.—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

A Bible Message

REGARD not them that have familiar spirits, neither seek after wizards, to be defiled by them: I am the Lord your God. (Lev. 19:31.)

For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel; Let not your prophets and your diviners, that be in the midst of you, deceive you, neither hearken to your dreams which ye cause to be dreamed. For they prophesy falsely unto you in my name: I have not sent them, saith the Lord. (Jer. 29:8, 9.)

Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils; speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their conscience seared with a hot iron....

If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Jesus Christ, nourished up in the words of faith and of good doctrine, whereunto thou hast attained. But refuse profane and old wives' fables, and exercise thyself rather unto godliness.... These things command and teach....

Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them; for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee. (I Tim. 5: 1, 2, 6, 7, 11, 16.)

A friend went into the shop and pointed out to the chemist that the notice might be misunderstood or made fun of by the public.

The next time his friend passed by he read: "We don't dispense with accuracy."

Leningrad

Allies of the Soviet Union will share in the rejoicing over the lifting of the seige of Leningrad. They have watched the tide of Russian military fortunes with that concern which recognized their own interests as vitally affected. The ability of Nazi armies to push far into Russian territory soon after Hitler's attack on the Soviet Union spread consternation among all those who had dedicated themselves to opposing his tyranny. The closing of an iron ring around Leningrad was bad news even in capitals which had avoided direct participation in the war against Nazism.

For two and a half years—how terrible, how heroic, let the Russian historians, poets, artists, and musicians now record for the ages—Leningrad stood like a great, grim, steadfast rock in a hostile sea, and the city's rocklike defiance of savage elements around it inspired mankind to remeasure its faith in itself. Words that Pushkin addressed to heroes in Siberia in another dark age may have often passed among those who would not surrender their city or their hope:

The heavy hanging chains will fall ...
And Freedom greet you in the light,
And brothers give you back the sword.

—(Christian Science Monitor)

Our Plain Duty

According to an Ottawa report, pay and allowances of members of the Canadian armed forces "are being placed on a new and higher basis under a plan already approved by the three defence departments." The situation is simple enough. All men and women honorably discharged from the Canadian forces should receive from the public treasury money sufficient for their needs in the transition period and to refit them with civilian clothing of good quality and in adequate supply. If we do anything less than that, it will not be creditable to Canada.—Halifax Herald.

Weight Order Angers Vegetable Men

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association yesterday passed a resolution asking that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board lift the regulation under which green-top vegetables must be sold on a weight basis. They said they must have immediate W.P.T.B. action that plans may be made for this season's crop acreage.

Spokesmen maintained that it was impracticable to bunch green-top vegetables to a specific weight of one pound or one-half pound in the case of beets or carrots under the present W.P.T.B. ruling. They said that last season, at least 75 per cent. of the bunching operations were done by school children, that growers would have to depend on this type of labor again next summer and were worried about the responsibility of guaranteed weight

Problem of Scales.

Furthermore, they said, scales for these small weights cannot be obtained, the use of scales on all public markets is prohibited unless checked daily by Federal Weights and Measures inspectors, and such service is not available. They also said that, while a bunch might meet the regulation weight requirements when picked in the field it might not do so later when the vegetables lost some of their moisture or parts of the bunch were broken off in handling.

Growers also told Mr. Chambers that they were concerned about the shortages of certified seed potatoes and he promised to take this up with the Agricultural Supply Board, Ottawa. The blame was placed on the shortage of refrigerator cars required to bring the seed potatoes from the Maritimes.

A resolution was passed by the growers asking that the 1943 subsidy on new potatoes be renewed in 1944. They also recommended that, during July 20 to Aug. 20, a free trade period in tomatoes exist between Canada and the United States.

Officers elected were: President, Hubert Scott, Kingsville; vice-presidents, D. Pallett, Islington; R. Butler, Harrow; secretary-treasurer, G. F. Perkin, Toronto; directors, George Reeves, Islington; Ross Fuller, London; C. T. Williams, Ottawa; E. J. Atkin, Leamington; W. J. Cooke, Kingston; C. Greenwood, Brantford.

Officials Mum On Soviet Move

LONDON, Feb. 3—(CP)— Official quarters maintained continued silence on Russia's new program of greater autonomy for her 16 constituent Republics as the British press still speculated cautiously today on its probable significance.

Political observers awaited a possible statement on the subject by foreign secretary Eden in the House of Commons, but it seemed likely he was delaying comment pending receipt of further information from the British Ambassador in Moscow, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr.

The News Chronicle described the Moscow decree giving each Soviet republic the right to conduct its own foreign affairs a demonstration of immense confidence by Russian leaders "in he strength and cohesive unity of the U. S. S. R."

The News Chronicle commented that "the more powers the government undertakes to delegate, the more confidence it must possess in the loyalty of its constituent parts."

The newspaper observed, however, that "the main power" wil remain under federal control and that it "seems probable that in practice the independence will turn out to be of minor significance."

Would Suspend For Duration Rule Forbidding Player Swap

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Suspension, for the duration of the war, of the major league rule which forbids trading and sale of players, except on waivers, after June 15, today was hinted by Ford Frick, president of the National League, as an inevitable outcome of the sessions of the Postwar Planning Board, which opens on Saturday.

Frick predicted that the planning board would pay a lot more attention to pressing problems of the moment than to questions which would not require legislation until peace had returned.

Manpower Is Big Question

The interview opened with a query as to how serious the fight on the chain store issue would become in the postwar councils.

"Chain stores? Why, there won't be any fight," Frick replied. "That issue already has fizzled. There is more immediate stuff. We have got to consider manpower for the 1944 season.

"I believe the strength of the farm issue has been overemphasized. I can't see how there can be any legislation on that subject. There is no real, organized bloc fighting the chain idea. There are varying degrees of sentiment about the scheme. But nobody is going into that meeting with a proposal that chains be abolished. Where would we go from there?

"Far more important is the need for assuring the 16 clubs of the major leagues balanced rosters for the approaching season. At present, trading is much too cumbersome for the conditions which could develop.

"For example, the Giants might find themselves with a lot of pitchers and no outfielder. The Dodgers could wind up with a bunch of outfielders and no pitching. Under the June 15 rule, they could not trade with each other. I throw that out as a suggestion of the type of material which could force everything else, chains and farms included, deep into the background.

"Please keep this in mind. The Postwar Planning Board can pass nothing. All it can do is recommend to the leagues.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The second round of the schedule of the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.M.C.A. will wind up tomorrow night and it is probable that the Transports who have been leading the parade since the opening night of the season will wind up the regular schedule without a loss. Their opponents will be the Normal School team and while the latter have shown a marked improvement in recent games they cannot be expected to do what no other team has been able to do this season: that is to stop the Transports in their tracks. The two clash in the opening game of the Friday night double-header, starting at 7:45 o'clock. Generals and the Y Cadets will meet in the second game of the card, starting at 8:45 o'clock and it should be an interesting argument. Y Cadets would like nothing better than to toss the Electricians for a loss. Tomorrow night's games will wind up the second round and also the regular schedule for Normals have defaulted their postponed game to St. John's and thus the double-header tomorrow night will clean the slate and open the way for the playoffs.

* * * * * *

Incidentally the setup arrangement leaves all five teams in the playoffs with the first three outfits, the Transports who have won seven games and lost none, St. John's with six wins and two losses and Generals with three wins and four losses meeting in a round robin series for the senior honors while the Y Cadets and Normal will be bracketed in a playoff series for the intermediate championship. They will probably play a best-three-of-five round to decide that particular title. Definite arrangements have not been completed for the playoffs yet but it is altogether probable that the first playoff games in both divisions will be played a week from tomorrow night, with a double-header featuring a game in each bracket. This arrangement should make for a lot of interesting basketball before the winners of the two series are determined. Although the Transports have gone through the season without a loss their recent games with St. John's and Generals have been tough battles and one or other of those two outfits might furnish an upset when the final series gets under way. At least if they don't it will not be for want of trying for both teams have plenty of fighting spirit and a pickup in scoring punch would make them decidedly dangerous.

Interesting, Anyway

According to the findings of a statistician engaged by Red Dutton the average forward in a N.H.L. game skates between three and five miles in a game. The investigator checked upon the activities of centre players Elmer Lach and Buddy O'Connor of the Canadiens. In Lach's case he reported that the Canadien star had rushed 136 times for a total distance of between 24,570 and 27,300 feet or between 4⅔ and 5⅙ miles. O'Connor, not used as frequently, was clocked as doing some 93 rushes for a total of between 3 1/6 and 3¼ miles. It is presumed that by rushing the hockey research worker also included back-checking, although nowadays a lot of N.H.L. forwards seem to have forgotten that a good hockey player travels both ways. Some folk may think that from 3 to 5 miles is quite a distance to travel on skates in one night but then almost any ball player will tell you that the walk from the home plate back to the bench after you have fanned with the bases full seems every bit as long as the hockey star's mileage in any one game. Anyway the Dutton figures will give the boys something to argue about.

* * * * * *

It doesn't seem possible but it was just 20 years ago today that the Canadian team won the Olympic hockey honors by defeating the United States team 6 to 1 in the final game played at Chamonix, France. The Maple Leaf team on that occasion consisted of the Toronto Granites with a couple of reinforcements and included such well-known players as Cameron in the nets, Dunc Munro on the defence and a forward line of Hooley Smith at centre, Albert McCaffrey at right wing and Harry Watson at left. Most of those stars were prominent in Canadian hockey for a long time after their triumph in Europe. Hooley Smith graduated into a long and brilliant career in the N.H.L., Watson is well remembered by Peterborough fans for his appearances against the Petes on many occasions and McCaffrey passed on into the referee class. In the victory at Chamonix Watson did the hat trick by scoring three goals for the Canadians. Starring on the American team was Herb. Drury, a Midland, Ont., stick-handling wizard who nearly became a member of the Peterborough hockey team on an earlier occasion when some importing was being done and Abel, big defence player, who played in the N.H.L. for years afterward.

Belleville In Front

Belleville juniors are still out in front in their junior B group despite the fact that they failed to do better than tie the Stirling-Marmora Combines the other day. Ken Colling comments on the situation thusly: "Toots Holway's local juniors came home from Stirling with a 3-3 draw last night to retain the leadership in their junior O.H.A. group. Billie Holway bagged two for his dad, Don Barrett getting the third. Bert Bastedo got two for the Combines, one of which was deflected into the local cage. Goodchild notched the other Combine counter. There was no scoring in the first period, when the fastest hockey of the night was seen. The Combine supporters were out in full strength last night and giving their pets the support that warrants the continuance of junior hockey in this area for years to come. Incidentally Belleville drew down 11 penalties to the Combines' two last night. It seems strange that no matter whether the locals are playing on the home ice or away they always seem to draw down the margin of penalties. It just couldn't be that Skipper Holway's charges are that much rougher than the rest of the players in the group, or do the visiting teams gets unbiased officiating when they visit the Hume arena?

* * * * * *

While admitting that the Canadiens have such a big lead that there is no chance of heading them off from the N.H.L. championship, Jack Adams, of the Detroit Red Wings opines that the Stanley Cup series may be something else again and he could be right. In a short series anything can happen and right now both the Red Wings and the Chicago Black Hawks are hot enough to cause plenty of trouble. Bruins and Rangers would seem to be definitely out while Toronto Maple Leafs are too inconsistent to justify any predictions. Occasionally they come up with a game that fairly sparkles and then they drop back into mediocre efforts that make them look definitely bad. The work of Coo Dion in the Detroit nets and the return to the Black Hawks of Mike Karakas are factors that have materially altered the N.H.L. situation.

That's really clicking, chum.

Red Wings Very Optimistic On Chances For Stanley Cup Laurels

DETROIT, Feb. 3—Detroit's revived Red Wings believe they are loaded with Stanley Cup ammunition. But first they plan to give the Toronto Maple Leafs both barrels in an attempt to clinch second place in the National Hockey League this week-end.

Jack Adams isn't making any predictions. Jolly Jawn is becoming cagey on predictions now that he has what looks like a real cup threat. Torontonians remember several seasons back when Adams and his underdog Red Wings came into Toronto raging, uttering threats of Leaf extinction they almost made good against a superior Toronto club.

Now it's different.

"Percentage favors the Leafs," said Adams today. "They've lost three Saturday night games in a row. They've beaten us only once in seven starts. They're overdue to win from us."

Men More Optimistic

But Adams' men are more optimistic. They want to clinch second place, not only against the Leafs, but against the pressing Chicago Black Hawks, who are looking more and more like the real threat for the second spot. They are looking ahead to playing Canadiens in the cup final, and they don't plan in stubbing their toe now.

"There will be no slump against Toronto," said the Wings' new captain, Flash Hollett today. "We need those four points and we're going after another sweep this week-end."

The Red Wings look and feel like a new hockey team since the addition of Centre Murray Armstrong, Hollett and Goalie Connie Dion. These three men have played in only one losing game for the Wings. That was the 2-3 setback in Chicago that broke the Wings' nine-game unbeaten streak Sunday.

20 Points in Nine Games

Armstrong gets the major share of the credit because his playmaking has put the punch in the Wing attack. The slender centre who came out of the Canadian Army and made his first start for Detroit in the 5-0 shutout of the Rangers Jan. 6 has run up 20 points in nine games. He was shut out for the first time Sunday against Chicago.

Armstrong is enthusiastic about the Wings and their chances. "It's my first chance to play on a Stanley Cup team and I certainly am going to put out to make good on it," he said. "We've got a real hockey club here."

The Wings are just as enthusiastic about Armstrong, and in the five home games he has played for Detroit he has three times been awarded the war bond which goes to "the Red Wing of the night." He is credited with making a scoring star out of Adam Brown, the left wing from Hamilton who has suddenly developed into one of the club's best offensive players.

Veteran Frowns On Speed Ball

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 — (AP). — This vitamin-filled "rabbit ball" the major leagues are using—now, there's something big Ed Walsh, the old Chicago White Sox pitcher, doesn't approve.

Walsh came to Chicago from his Meriden, Conn., home to be guest of honor at to-night's annual old-timers baseball banquet—an event attracting some 1,000 yarn-spinners. He's carrying the torch for the outlawed spitball, wants it reinstated or the lively ball kicked out.

"Only one in 20 pitchers can throw a real curve to-day," says the "Big Moose," who was drafted by the late Charles Comiskey for a mere $750 in 1904 and turned into an amazing 40-game winner four years later. "Put the spitball back in and let 'em get their curves with it. Or put a ban on this danged rabbit ball. This generation is getting too home-run conscious. The spitter acts just like a curve, but breaks more on the end."

The 195-pound master of the spitball will be 64 years old in May. He is one of baseball's all-time greats as well as all-time bargains and is confident he could win 50 games or so to-day despite the revigorated ball.

"Course, I couldn't step up on the mound and do it right now," he contends, with some restraint. "But if I had the arm I had back in the good old days...."

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

President J. S. Edstrom and Secretary Bo Ekelund, both of Stockholm, yesterday announced in the Swedish capital the official recognition of a number of athletic performances in the United States and Sweden as world's records by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, including belated acceptance of a British mark established practically 10 years ago which, Ekelund said, had been forgotten. The British record was 1:14:30.6 for the 10-mile walk made by F. J. Redman at London May 26, 1934.

Among the new world records: are Cornelius Warmerdam, pole vault, 14 ft. 7¾ in., at Modesta, Calif., May 23, 1942; Roy Cochrane, 440-yard hurdles, 52.2 seconds, Philadelphia, April 25, 1942; Fred Wolcott, 120-yard high hurdles, 13.7 seconds, Philadelphia, June 29, 1941; Arne Andersson, one mile, 4:02.6, and 1,500 metres, 3:45.8, both made in Sweden last summer.

A former member of the Argonaut Rowing Club and high-jumping champion, Capt. Grover Wesley Dennis, 27, Toronto, is reported to have died of wounds in Italy while serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He earned the Athletic Shield while attending Queen's Unviersity, Kingston.

Traffic Trouble

The 70th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, Ky., May 6, will be confined to street-car limitations again this year because of transportation difficulties, it was announced last night by Col. Matt J. Winn. Boxholders living outside the Louisville area who desire to purchase tickets to perpetuate their claim for box-seat accommodation will be permitted to do so on condition the pasteboards are donated to soldiers or sailors in the Louisville district.

The condition of Joe Tinker, 63, once-famed infielder of the Chicago Cubs, was reported to be slightly better at the hospital in Orlando, Fla., where he is being treated for a combination of ailments. Tinker was still under an oxygen tent last night.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati, O., has been petitioned to dismiss the appeal of James V. Orlando, former Detroit Red Wings hockey player, from a sentence of four years and a fine of $2,000 for violation of the Selective Service Act, it was announced yesterday at Detroit by Kennety Wilkins, assistant U.S. attorney.

Catcher Henry Helf of the St. Louis Browns has been inducted into the U.S. Navy, it was announced by the club last night. Helf played with the Milwaukee Brewers last season and was scheduled for the major league team this year.

100 In Tourney

Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia and Bryon Nelson of Toledo head the field of 100 golfers who have entered the $5,000 Phoenix, Ariz., open golf tournament which gets under way tomorrow. Nelson and McSpaden placed first and second in the San Franciso open last month.

John Franklin Baker, 58, once acclaimed as "Home Run" Baker of the Philadelphia Athletics and batting leader of the American League four seasons, has been re-located at Trappe, Md., population less than 300 where he is a farmer, town councillor, bank director and a member of the fire company.

Secretary Eddie Brannick of the New York Giants stated last night the club was not even considering the possibility of closing down this season or failure of the major leagues to operate. The clubs had a big investment to protect, he said.

President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals announced at St. Louis last night most players of the National League championship team had been granted salary increases for 1944.

Wings Favored To Take Rangers

By The Canadian Press.

Detroit Red Wings, transformed almost overnight into a prominent challenger for the Stanley Cup they won last year in four straight games, meet New York Rangers to-night in the National Hockey League's only scheduled contest.

In fifth place less than a month ago, the Wings will be solidly favored to suppress the tail-end Rangers and climb into undisputed possession of second place ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs. Toronto and Detroit now are deadlocked with 34 points apiece.

The Detroit revival dates roughly from the addition of Murray Armstrong, slim centre who has collected 20 points in nine games since January 6, when he joined the Wings after receiving a discharge from the Canadian Army. About the same time Manager Jack Adams acquired two valuable players in Conny Dion, discharged by the Army at Cornwall, Ont., and Flash Hollett, received from Boston Bruins in a trade for Pat Egan.

Looking back on a streak which has seen Detroit beaten only once in their last 10 games, Adams concedes Montreal Canadiens probably will win the league title, but says the Stanley Cup is "something else again."

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 — (AP)— Baseball men likely will raise a howl about Alva Bradley's statement that he'd rather close the Cleveland ball park than present anything but "high quality," baseball (and he'd better start overhauling the padlocks now), but they all are giving serious consideration to possible shortages...One of the likely moves will be to relax the rule against trading after June 15, except by waivers ...If a club should lose its only short-stop, for example, it would have to make a deal in a hurry and not wait for the three-day waiver period to expire.

Ray Garrett, Hamilton (O.) Journal-News: "The former Cincy Red and New York Giant, Bill Werber, is batting a million in the life insurance league. In his first full year in his new profession, Bill has written over $1,500,000 worth of insurance. Maybe another erstwhile Giant, Bill Terry, wasn't so far wrong after all—'there's no money in baseball'."

Gowdy Wasn't Gaudy

M. P. Jeffry, a Tampa, Fla., fan, writes to nominate Hank Gowdy for baseball's hall of fame, not only because Hank was the first major leaguer to enlist for the First Great War and because he "was a great ball player over many seasons." Only Ruth and Gehrig ever beat Hank's .545 world series batting average of 1914.

There is something to the contention that there are no delinquent children—just delinquent parents. A theatre manager heard an uproar in the theatre and left the lobby to find out what it was. Standing on the stage beside the screen were two little boys who had come up for a better look. The manager chased them back to their seats—beside their father. He didn't see anything wrong with the children acting as they did.

Another manager found a lost three-year-old girl wandering around. Her mother, watching the film, allowed her to seek out the ladies' room all by herself.

Perhaps you saw the all-star film, "Forever and a Day," when it was around. Hollywood's British actors contributed their talents and the profits were designated for British and American charities.

Last week a delegation, headed by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, presented President Roosevelt with a cheque worth $250,000 for his pet project, the Infantile Paralysis Foundation. Another $50,000 went to the Los Angeles Community Chest and $30,000 for theatre charity. Contributions to British causes haven't been announced yet.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, one of those responsible, put in 18 weeks for nothing when he could have been earning a high salary.

In the days of the silent films actors and actresses had a great time saying anything they pleased. A lip reader who saw one of these silent films, at a revival reported that, during a deathbed scene, the leading player said "I'll die and no mistake if they shoot this scene once more."

The quirky Hollywood atmosphere has given rise to the saying that "You don't have to be crazy to get along in Hollywood—but it helps." And recently a famous Canadian lawyer, addressing movie men, referred to "this weird, wonderful and sometimes crazy business." Another claimed that "Hollywood is a place where artists try to be business men and business men try to be artists."

It is this sort of publicity which gives the visitor a letdown. There are, of course, many beautiful girls about and the odd character but mostly it's a sleepy town where people go to bed early so that they can be up in time for early shooting in the sunlight.

Actually, most of the humorous derogatory remarks are made by Hollywood folks about themselves. The nervous atmosphere of the place is the result of being in a business where guessing wrong about the fickle public can cost millions of dollars.

Some actors make so much money in a few years that they have to look for new ways of spending it. What a problem!

TORONTO, Feb. 3 — (CP). — They say sailors can't resist a fight and about 250 tars in a crowd of 800 at a Windsor Hockey League game did their best to prove it. Colonial Tool was well on its way to a 10-2 sudden-death semi-final win over Navy when a free-for-all began between the players of both teams. In a jiffy sailors were swarming over the boards in all directions to get into the scrap. The players gave one frightened glance at the intruders and immediately took it upon themselves to restore order.

Hamilton Team Takes Top Spot

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Majors, at home to Toronto Navy last night, chalked up their 20th victory of the Senior O.H.A. season to recover leadership in the standing one point to the good against St. Catharines. The one encounter of the evening resulted in an 11-6 score for Majors.

Hamilton notched eight goals in a row before Hugh Barlow of Navy connected after more than 15 minutes of the second period. The second period closed with an 8-2 score and, in the final frame, the Sailors ran in four tallies to Hamilton's three to complete the contest.

Doug Runions of Hamilton was way out in front as a sniper, beating goalie Red Gilbert on four occasions, while Clarence Shillington and Johnnie Conick grabbed two apiece. Dillon Brady, Stan Robertson and Davey divided the other three tallies.

Leading the Tars in the score column was the former Hamilton player, Hugh Barlow, with two while singles were registered by Laycoe, Livingstone, Thompson and Benson.

IMPORTED SALT.

Before the war, Canada imported 110,000 tons of salt annually.

Men Laid Off Will Likely Be Called Up

OTTAWA, Feb. 3 — (CP). — A program for the orderly layoff of war workers and their transfer to military service or high-priority employment was tabled Wednesday in the Commons by Munitions Minister Howe.

Here, briefly, are steps to be taken:

1. Employers will file a report on employees to be laid off, showing their military status and industrial skill.

2. The list of men expected to be discharged will be studied by Labor Department officials in relation to military and industrial needs.

3. Labor officers will be at the plant in layoff day to tell the workers their destination, whether it be military service or a new job.

4. The plant experiencing a curtailment of orders and contracts, necessitating a layoff, will reduce working hours to 48 hours a week, "or to the normal working hours for the industry."

Text of Statement.

A Labor Department statement tabled by Mr. Howe said:

"It is not our intention that the least desirable or least efficient workers will be those to be laid off, but rather first, those persons available for the Army; and second other persons who can be moved to the advantage of or with the least disturbance to the general labor situation.

"The demands of the Army are continuing demands and must have a definite priority, unless the persons available have exceptional skills which are greatly in demand by high-priority industry...."

A Labor Department directive said that "generally women should not be laid off as long as they can replace men."

Where persons in addition to those on military deferment are to be laid off, they will be discharged on the following priority basis, subject to seniority rights and collective bargaining agreements:

1. Workers with previous agricultural experience, particularly on dairy farms and in stock raising. These persons will be directed, if possible, to year-round farm jobs.

2. Workers who are needed in other essential industries in the same vicinity.

3. Workers who are required by outside essential industries.

4. Younger workers without family obligations, since workers in this group are most easily moved.

5. Married women, if their husbands are supporting them.

6. Older men and women, if the foregoing classes have been exhausted.

Call-Up for Some

The labor directive said each regional employment officer should make himself acquainted with the status of each employee on military deferment. He should advise the employer that, up to the number involved in the layoff, all men on deferment will be called by the divisional registrar unless there are "very good reasons for not having particular men called."

The directive added that a percentage of men who are on military deferment will not be accepted by military authorities for various reasons and may later be available for re-employment, any additional men on deferment must be given layoff notices.

"The directive said: "This procedure will, in many cases, look after an entire layoff."

Men who have received temporary military deferment and are waiting to be called will only be referred to jobs of short duration.

In an informative bulletin to war contractors, the Labor Department said: "Owing to the need of the army for a large number of men, the first step (in arranging layoffs) must be to release those men suitable for the armed forces."

FATALITIES REDUCED.

Accidents in Great Britain killed 17 per cent fewer workers but injured 16 per cent more in 1942 than the previous year.

Member Fasts To Arouse Child Interest

LONDON, Feb. 2 —(CP)—If the methods of Gandhi will stimulate interest in feeding the children of Europe then Dr. Alfred Salter is quite willing to risk his health, sapped by a chronic heart ailment, and his years, 71, in employing them.

For two days the labor member of parliament for the London borough of Bermondsey went without food in an attempt to "arouse public opinion to the sufferings of starving Europe." At the end of that time he said that he hadn't felt better in a long time and prophesied: "next time it is possible that I will fast for a week."

It's not that the good doctor believes his fast will move Britain in any great degree. He laments "Christian public opinion is horribly obtuse...the public is callous...no longer affected by brutality."

But "food for Europe" remains his No. 1 interest in life now what his role in parliament is more or less that of a silent onlooker.

His fast was in line with a plan devised by the Peace Pledge Union which wants food sent to the starving people of the continent. It called upon 20 prominent people to fast and to remain anonymous, to "avoid personal publicity."

New Party Grows

The new Lord Ammon of Camberwell, first trade union official to attain peerage rank, is reported likely to be offered a Colonial governorship. Widely travelled, the former labor member for Camberwell has a particular interest in Newfoundland and as Charles Ammon, M. P., led the recent parliamentary mission to that colony...

The death of labor party chairman George Ridley returned to the administrative committee —nicknamed the "Oppostion Cabinet"—of the parliamentary labor party Emmanuel Shinwell. His new interest in the Empire has fellow M. P's guessing at the future course of this outspoken, strong individualist. Shinwell's defeat in the original elections to the administrative committee was a surprise.

Ex - schoolmaster, ex-taxi-driver, ex-cafe owner, ex-company director Eric Troward has brought forth the latest in parties—the liberator centre movement. Troward left the Common Wealth party because it was "too extreme" but his claim to have taken 80 Common Wealth branches with him is sturdily denied by that party. His platform is studded with slogans like "landlords to be abolished...unemployment to be abolished... better salaries."

a direct threat to the liberties of the press."

The Mirror said that while it has little interest in the politics of the Daily Worker, it protested the ruling on a matter of principle. The paper felt Grigg had gone far beyond his rights as an interpreter of the rules governing relations between the press and the Army.

The Mirror also said that one gets the impression Grigg is very little in touch with public feeling and that in particular he has curious notions of what the average man whether in uniform or out expects to find in his newspapers.

Distrust Sheets

"Brought up on a free press, the newspaper reader, first and foremost, likes to feel confidence in the paper of his choice. Doubtless the absence of this feeling is why according to our information, the troops in the Middle East now take little more than a perfunctory interest in the newspapers which are produced for them by the army press unit.

"For some reason the men have developed a distrust of these sheets, as they might of publications which were known to be merely instruments of propaganda. This suspicion on the part of the soldiers may not be justified but whether it is or not, we think we can, without much difficulty, trace its origin. Men of the forces have undoubtedly felt uneasy in their minds ever since Sir James Grigg refused, to allow the Army Bureau of Current Affairs to discuss the Beveridge report. This was a repressive decision of the worst order."

Bancroft News

Mrs. Ross Viscoff of Peterborough has returned home to Bancroft to be with her father, Mr. C. McAllister, who is seriously ill at his home.

Pilot Officer J. A. Broad is spending a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Broad of Bancroft, accompanied by Mr. William Mohler of New York.

Miss Mary Calver and Miss Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Flynn, both of Maynooth are in the Bancroft Red Cross Hospital, having undergone appendicitis operations.

Miss Mary Metcalfe, who underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Belleville General Hospital returned home over the week-end, where she will spend a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Metcalfe.

Anyone in the northern part of Hastings County who thought that spring had finally made its appearance awoke Tuesday morning and received a huge jolt as the temperature changed from 40 above, which had remained as such for the past week, to five below Tuesday morning accompanied by high winds. Monday's three-inch fall of snow was whipped about during the night blocking several of the side-roads.

the war; and 3. Those dealing with social problems in the post-war period.

If the House were agreeable, he could undertake to have all committees set up this week. He could not say when the budget would be brought in.

The 1944-45 estimates would be ready soon, Mr. King said.

He could not indicate what legislation there would be in addition to that outlined in the Throne Speech. There might be a Bill in respect to disposal of war materials.

Only three speakers took the House floor in the Throne Speech debate yesterday—Mr. Hanson, Dr. Pierre Gauthier (BP-Portneuf), and Walter Kuhl (Ind.-Jasper-Edson).

Opposes Immigration.

Dr. Gauthier expressed opposition to any immigration while there was any prospect of unemployment. He said he sees in appeals like that made in Lord Halifax's Toronto speech the makings of an "Imperialistic crisis" for Canada in the near future.

Mr. Kuhl questioned "full employment" as a post-war objective. He said that with recent technological progress it should be possible sharply to reduce hours of work and that the objective of an economic system was not employment but the maximum of goods and services with the minimum of work and trouble.

Mr. Hanson based his criticism of civil aviation policy on the refusal of a franchise for an air route between Saint John, N.B., and Halifax. He said the reason given was military necessity but that it was not convincing.

Munitions Minister Howe interjected that he took responsibility for the action. It was not a refusal; the application had not been dealt with.

"It was turned down because we believed that the valuable air franchises should be held by the people who are fighting our battles overseas," he said.

Record Barrage Batters Islands

HONOLULU, T.H., Feb. 3—(AP).—More than 3,500,000 pounds of bombs were dropped on Japanese bases in the Marshalls preparatory to invasion.

In announcing the figures today, United States 7th Army Air Force headquarters said the bombardment was supplemented by cannonading with the new rapid-fire 75-mm. cannon mounted in medium bombers, and by frequent fighter-bomber and fighter strafing attacks.

The bombs ranged from 25-pound fragmentation bombs to one-ton explosive bombs.

Flying missions up to 2,400 miles, or four times the distance from London to Berlin, heavy bombers carried out more than 680 sorties between last November 12 and January 31.

Medium bombers flew 240 missions in an 80-day period, and more than 2,000 sorties were made by fighter-bombers and fighters.

Need More Buildings

TORONTO, Feb. 3 — (CP). — In his annual report for 1942-43, Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto, stated yesterday great achievements had been recorded in education and war research. He suggested a future program of building expansion, increased endowments and scholarships and possible reconsideration of academic salary schedules.

Finance Committee of School Board Recommends $357,813 Expenditure

A budget of estimated expenditures totalling $357,813.65 was approved by the Finance committee of the Board of Education on Wednesday night. While the estimated receipts total $74,323.25 these did not include the Board's share from the Wartime Housing Limited and until this is known the amount of the demand to be made on the city can not be determined.

The estimated expenditures are increased $6,207.65 made up principally by the opening of two new rooms, and additional increases to the salaries of night school teachers.

Without taking into account any revenue from Wartime Housing the Board will require from the city, $283,490 an increase of $9,784 or about the difference in surplus which the Board had in 1942 and 1943.

The largest increase in expenditures is shown in the Public School account where $206,344. will be required or $5,848 more than last year. The amount required for Collegiate Academic is $4,780 less than last year or $73,868. This is due to transfer of three Grade IX classes to the Vocational Department. In the Collegiate Vocational $5,140.24 additional will be needed or $77,601.65.

In the estimated receipts provincial grants will total $31,217 or about $773. less than received in 1943. Fees from the county of Peterborough are expected to total $32,500 while last year $26,045.39 was received. Fees from pupils attending the Vocational School from Victoria, Durham and Northumberland and Hastings counties are all expected to be less.

The Advisory Vocational Committee of which T. J. Carley is chairman will require $11,696 while the actual expenditure in 1943 was $10,075. There is $7,000 of this required for night class teachers' salaries. Home economic supplies total $500, machine shop supplies $610, motor mechanics supplies, $396, and new equipment amounts to almost $1,000.

The Property committee of which C. A. Sollitt is chairman will require $24,579.50 with last year's expenditure $25,585. The larger items are coal $8,000; light, water, power and gas $4,000; itemized repairs $4,245.50; furniture and fixtures, $1,534; miscellaneous repairs $2,500 and a new truck $1,000.

The Supervision Committee of which D. V. Canning is chairman has estimated for $5,850 with an expenditure of $3,794.80.

Increased cost of supplies plus a new piano for one of the public schools makes up for the difference. School supplies this year are estimated to cost $1,950, an increase of $900; manual training supplies $500; supplementary reading and library supplies, $1,280; kindergarten supplies, $250; and science supplies $350.

The Health committee, of which Dr. C. M. Scott is chairman will require $275 for medical and dental supplies.

The finance committee with Fred Reed chairman will need $314,352 which is an increase of $5,958. This is made up of $261,000 for teachers and salaries being an increase of $3,167 which is accounted for in two new teachers for part of the year and the natural increases to the maximum schedule.

Supply teachers are estimated to cost $2,200, a decrease of $1,278; fire insurance is $2,200; car allowances $1,126; caretakers' salaries, $30,500; salaries of officers and stenographers $12,070; medical and dental salaries $8,400; telephone and telegraph $815; miscellaneous wages $1,200 and work shop wages $2,000.

Workers Wish To Stay In Peterborough

Six members of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, four from Peterborough and two from Lindsay, are motoring to Ottawa Thursday, February 10 for an interview with the Cabinet Council with respect to continuation of production of war materials.

In the meantime members of the Union will circulate a petition throughout the city seeking support for their contention that present dislocation of workers should be reduced as far as possible by the reallocation of war contracts. It protests against "the series of lay-offs and transfers now taking place in the plant of Genelco Ltd. of this city. Through lack of work here in Peterborough many of our citizens are being forced to go elsewhere in search of a livelihood, thus dislocating the community and bringing extra expense to these workers.

"We respectfully call on the Federal Government either to re-allocate orders for munitions of war to this plant or, if these are no longer necessary, to take steps to turn the plant over to production of peace time needs, thus making it possible for our citizens to work here in Peterborough where they have made their homes and become part of the life of the community, and at the same time assuring work for our returning armed forces when they come back home."

Good Citizens

Neville Hamblin, business agent of the Union, commented to the Examiner today that most of the people who had moved into Peterborough during the war had proved themselves good citizens.

"Many of the merchants and others in business have told us that they are hoping Peterborough will be able to retain its wartime increase in population. Probably there are some of them the city would certainly not miss, but a great many of them are good folks who have fitted into the life of Peterborough. The government invested a large sum of money in the Genelco plant, and we feel that while war work remains to be done it is preferable to shift the work, if it is at all possible, rather than shift people and their families.

"If that was not a reasonable consideration we would not ask for it. We are asking the people of Peterborough generally to support this petition by signing it individually. Representatives of the Union will make two rounds. On the first they will deliver an explanation of what we are asking, and on the second trip we will submit the petition. We certainly don't want people to sign anything they do not understand. We want their sympathy and their active help."

Mr. Hamblin said the local representatives would join in Ottawa delegates from U.E. locals throughout the country and would join forces with the Canadian Congress of Labor in the conference with the Cabinet.

B'Nai B'rith Lodge Entertains Airmen

Peterborough B'Nai B'rith lodge presented fine vaudeville shows recently to the Air Station at Trenton.

The shows were presented to a combined audience of over 1,200, and due to the number of encores requested by the air force men, lasted for over 2½ hours.

Among the cast of the show were a dancing chorus of six pretty girls, solo dances by the popular dancer Zina. Rumba and novelty tap dances by Miss Bonnie Lynn. George Laidlaw was exceptionally good as a magician, and Jimmy Good one of the original members of the "Dumbells" was superb.

Bert Krugel, chairman of the committee concluded the shows with a short address in which he stated that B'nai B'rith a Jewish service organization, were directing most of their efforts toward war effort and presenting fine entertainment for the troops was only one phase of their many war efforts.

Man and Woman Sentenced For Drug Theft

LINDSAY, Feb. 3—(ENS)—John Connolly of Toronto was sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary Wednesday and fined $200. when he pleaded guilty to a charge of having illegal possession of drugs. In default of payment of the fine, Connolly will serve another six months consecutive sentences, the accused also pleaded guilty to four charges of theft of drugs from Dr. R. H. Carscadden and Dr. W. T. Rich of Lindsay, Dr. E. A. White of Fenelon Falls and Dr W. R. Thomas of Bobcaygeon. He was given six months sentence on each charge to run consecutively.

In Toronto police court last Monday, Connolly was also found guilty of three other charges of theft of drugs and was sentenced to two and a half years in penitentiary.

Doris Lilliford alias Joan Connolly, appearing in Lindsay court yesterday on similar charges yesterday pleaded not guilty. Following evidence by police officials and Dr. A. E. White she was found guilty of having drugs illegally and was sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary with a fine of $200. She was also found guilty of theft of drugs from Dr. White and Dr. Thomas and was sentenced to six months on each charge to run concurrently.

Before Magistrate E. A. Gee pronounced sentence, the accused woman startled the court by declaring that she would rather serve two years in Kingston Penitentiary than six montths in Mercer Reformatory. She made a statement that she had already served a term at Mercer and that when she had gone into the reformatory she had weighed 168 pounds and only weighed 130 pounds when she came out. L. Matthews of Toronto, acting for the Crown, told the court that the girl had admitted to him that she would prefer a longer sentence in penitentiary rather than go back to the reformatory. Doris Lilliford had previously appeared in Toronto on charges of the theft of drugs but the case was dismissed.

In giving evidence Dr. E. A. White stated that Connolly accompanied by Doris Lilliford had approached him in his office for medical treatment. He stated that he was absent a few minutes while they were there and later he had missed the drugs. Chief police R. H. Lawler stated that, accompanied by P.C. W. McBrien he had searched a room at the Benson Hotel, Lindsay, where both of the accused were staying and had found several bottles of drugs as well as apparatus for the administration of same. A note book containing the names of doctors in Lindsay and District was also found.

Parks Committee Reports $1,000 Surplus

The parks committee of the council turned back a surplus of $1,000 from their appropriation last year. Mayor Hamilton said he hardly felt like congratulating Alderman Curtis because he regarded that committee as being engaged in investing in civic improvement, and for that reason he would be satisfied if every cent of the requisition was spent.

"I rather feel satisfied about it myself," Alderman Curtis said. "We were able to jack up wages, plant extra trees, start another rink and then on top of the reuglar work we come through with $1,000 to the good."

Mayor Hamilton urged the chairman to order twenty-five oaks and plant them in Inverlea Park. "You'll probably have to baby them for a while, and they take a rather long time to show but I'd like to see some planted somewhere in the city, and I think they ought to grow up there."

One of the Curtis orders was 150 maples. Seven or eight of the the trees on Point St. Charles will have to be replaced this year, but the most of them have flourished.

Apply For Job

Eleven applications were received for the position of parks commissioner, but no action was taken Wednesday. Members of the committee had previously considered a local man to whom they have offered the position which has been generally designated parks foreman. He is a veteran of the last war, and the members of the council have every confidence that he would make a real success of the job. He has given years of ancillary service to the city through his activities in the Horticultural Society.

Alderman Glover said preference should be given to a war veteran, and he enquired whether that reservation was included in the advertisement announcing such vacancies.

Council Studies Garbage Work

The property committee of the City Council is going through the shuttling of prospect in their approach to the proposition that the municipality should take on the job of collecting garbage and no longer depend on contractual service.

This idea has been discussed at three or four meetings, but more purposefully at the last two, and it now seems likely that the Swanston committee will be ready to assume the collecting job when the present Cavanagh contract expires. At one of these meetings it was said that Mr. Cavanagh was "laid up" at that time, and was "just about a nervous wreck" from the worries of the job and help and all the rest of it.

The city owns five wagons and has suitable accommodation for the horses that would have to be bought, and Alderman Curtis stated that the price of horses had receded to such an extent that it should not deter the committee. A primary need is a manager of the garbage collecting and incinerating job, two regarded as one, a stable man to take charge of the horses, and eventually a blacksmith with the likelihood at that stage of setting up such shop for all municipal smithing needs.

Man Acquitted On Charge Drunken Driving

Without the defence being called upon a drunken driving charge against Gordon J. Fallen, Charlotte street, was dismissed in police court this morning.

After hearing the evidence of six crown witnesses Magistrate E. A. Gee granted a motion for dismissal made by T. J. Carley, K.C., defence counsel.

The charge against Fallen arose out of traffic accident near the intersection of Charlotte and Stewart streets on the night of January 6 in which cars driven by the accused and Leslie Would collided and both drivers were injured.

Herb Payne, first witness called by the crown said that he had been driving behind Fallen's car on the night of the accident and that near the corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets, the automobile driven by the accused had cut across to the other side of the road and collided head-on with another car coming in the opposite direction.

To Mr. Carley the witness said that the street was very slippery that night and that Fallen's car might easily have skidded across the road.

"For some unknown reason he cut across the street and hit me head-on," was the manner in which Leslie Would driver of the other car described the accident.

"I talked to the accused after the crash," said the witness. "He was very excited and dazed as though he were shocked. There was a smell of beer off him but he walked naturally."

Hugh Davis who lives near the scene of the accident said that he saw Fallen standing near his car when he arrived. "He had been drinking," said the witness. "I smelled beer on his breath and he refused to talk."

Davis said that he had not noticed Fallen walking very much.

The Police Evidence

"He was drunk," declared Constable John Stevenson who arrived at the scene shortly after the accident and was asked by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., this morning to describe Fallen's condition.

"He was very unsteady on his feet and his breath smelled strongly of liquor," the officer continued.

Defence counsel Carley and the witness had a passage at arms during the cross-examination.

"It was very slippery that night?" asked Mr. Carley.

"Yes."

"And the accused had no rubbers on?"

"I don't know."

"And if he hadn't rubbers he would naturally find it difficult to walk on that slippery road?"

"It would have been difficult either with or without rubbers."

Officer Stevenson was pressed to answer the questions as to whether or not rubbers were worn to prevent slipping.

"I wear rubbers myself to keep my feet dry," the witness replied.

"Don't you know that people generally wear rubbers to prevent slipping and that the courts have ruled that when they fail to do so they are negligent?"

Constable Stevenson replied that he did not know that.

Doctor Called

Witness said that Dr. D. W. Clark had been called at Fallen's request and saw the accused at the police station about half an hour after the accident.

"Do you know that Dr. Clark will swear that the accused was not drunk when he examined him."

"I would like to be able to put in evidence as to what Dr. Clark said when I called him."

"Well you can have your chance," said Mr. Carley. "Dr. Clark will be called and you can instruct the Crown Attorney as to what to ask him in cross-examination."

Constable Harold Mesley who saw Fallen at the scene of the accident said that the accused was drunk. He said that Fallen was very unsteady on his feet, that his speech was slurred and that his eyes looked as if he had been drinking.

To Mr. Carley witness said that he had not known until afterward that Fallen had sustained a broken rib in the accident. He did not know that he had hurt his knee nor that he had a bad foot. "If he had those injuries he would have difficulty in walking properly?" asked Mr. Carley and witness said that that was so.

Sergt. W. E. Wigg who drove to the police station in the car with Fallen after the accident swore that the accused had been drinking. "I didn't smell any liquor off him at the scene of the accident but I did later at the police station" said the witness. In reply to questions from Crown Attorney McElderry Sergt. Wigg said that Fallen's speech was natural and that he walked all right.

That concluded the crown's evidence and Mr. Carley moved for dismissal, arguing that the prosecution had failed to make out any case against the accused.

Magistrate Gee concurred with defence counsel and dismissed the charge.

Minerals Give Natives Good Teeth

TORONTO, Feb. 3—(CP)—A discovery by investigators of the Ontario Health Department that residents of the Ripley district near Kincardine have scarcely any tooth decay was announced today by Deputy Health Minister B. T. McGhie as a possible long step forward in dental medicine.

Dr. McGhie said the investigators first determined the presence of such elements as Fluorine and Phosphorus in drinking water and home-grown foods in the district, and probed their relations to prevalent dental conditions. He said Fluorine and Phosphorus is abundant in the Ripley area and "the teeth of the people were found to be exceptionally good."

Dr. McGhie said that the investigators in the Ripley district are almost finished and that the investigators have turned their attention to the Madoc district, north of Belleville, Ont., where Fluorine and Phosphorus is believed to exist.

Berlin's Idea

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(CP)—The Berlin radio in a broadcast recorded by NBC claimed last night that the new Soviet plan giving its 16-member republics the right to make their own foreign policy and have their own army formation was merely a means by which Russia hopes to get 16 separate delegations to sit in on future conferences.

GREATER LOVE

Proceedings were reversed a few days ago when instead of the dog saving its mistress, the mistress saved the dog. The owner of the animal was working inside her home, situated on Waterford street, when she heard a peculiar wailing sound and when she went outside, she found her dog had broken through the ice on the river and couldn't reach the shore. When the animal was unable to cling to a hockey stick which she thrust out, the woman eased her way across a section of the ice on her stomach and succeeded in drawing her pet out of the water without breaking through.—J.S.

Smith School Repeats Aid For War Victims

Very seldom can anyone be found to duplicate an unfavorable experience, while on the other hand, something that people found pleasure in, usually results in their trying it again, and this has on occasions without number applied in the case of those who set out to work, in order to give a helping hand to the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

Specially may this be said to be the case in the work that school children have done to help in some manner for this particular object, an instance of such bringing this to the forefront in today's report for the fund through a contribution from school section No. 10 in the Township of Smith, sometimes known as the Wesley School.

Miss Kleila Hopkins at this time presides over the scholastic destinies of this group, having transferred to this location at the beginning of this present school year, and it is interesting to note that their latest gift of $10.00 is a continuance of the same acts that were consummated by the school pupils under the direction of her predecessor, Miss Olga Wilson. All of which goes to show that once a group gets started on doing a work of good for others, there is usually an inspiration or incentive to continue while the need still exists.

St. David's Welsh Society

This same spirit may be fairly said to apply to the efforts put forth by the Peterborough St. David's Welsh Society, made up of people whose roots go back to the land of the Bards, many of whom probably have connections living in or close by to the much bombed cities of Cardiff and Bristol.

This group has given on quite a number of occasions to help the fund, in addition to which they have in various ways assisted their own kith and kin through agencies directly located in the part of the British Isles which represents to them the motherland.

They too are represented in today's receipts with another gift of $10.00, duplicating an amount often recorded in this column in their name.

In speaking of a mite box, ones mind immediately goes to the parable of the widow and the mite she gave which represented a wealth of giving far beyond many a much more substantial offering. Today a donation appears rom the mite box at Bensfort Sunday School, and coming under that name, is suggestive of an acme of giving.

Dance at Douro School No. 9

This Friday night, February 4, a Dance is being held in the Douro School, No. 9, to give assistance to the fund, thus giving the patrons the double satisfaction of having their own pleasure made the means of giving pleasure to others in need, and thus incidentally making their money do a double duty.

Pte. Doug Drew Suffers Burns In Italy Fight

HAVELOCK, Feb. 3 — (ENS) — After going through some of the heaviest fighting in Italy, Pte. Douglas Drew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Drew of Havelock, is in hospital in Italy, suffering from first and second degree burns of the left arm and hand, received when a petrol tin exploded.

Enlisting in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in 1939, Pte. Drew went overseas about a month afterward and has spent five Christmases there. Before going into the Army, he had a service station in Picton, and his work in Italy has been with transports.

He wrote home that one of the heaviest battles he had witnessed took place on Christmas Day at Ortona, and it was shortly after that that he was wounded. The battle of Assoro in Sicily was tough, and it was here that he lost a truck. The mountain fighting was terrific, he said, and most of their truck losses came from enemy fire there. He had one lucky escape in his truck when he had a large silver cup, 100 years old, sitting beside him, and a machine-gun bullet careened in and hit the cup, shattering it, but preventing him from a hit. When he had to abandon that truck, he brought up another one under fire and was able to bring out an English major and three of his own unit who had been wounded.

Lost Orphan.

His one regret when he went to the hospital was that he had to leave his dog behind. "Cognac" was an Italian orphan, whose mother was killed in action, and after that he took the animal into his custody.

"Don't believe we are having an easy time of it," he wrote. "We have been facing the crack German Goering Regiment, and they are no mean fighters. That plus the weather conditions, makes the going hard."

Pte. Drew told his mother that the Germans make much better prisoners than the Italians do, at least from the soldiers' point of view. The Germans take their rations and are thankful, but the Italians take their issue plus the army's too. It is a common sight too, as a unit passes through the town when it has fallen, to have adult Italians run out beside them screaming for biscuits for their bambinos, which are 50 per cent. for themselves.

To Help Remember.

A number of interesting souvenirs have found their way to Havelock from Italy. Among them is an Italian battle flag taken at the battle of Assoro, a slight compensation for the loss of his machine. He also had picked up a Fascist black shirt, and an informal snap of Mussolini, not too highly prized from a little Italian girl living in a bomb-wrecked house, near where they were staying.

He has also mentioned the beautiful scenery in some parts of the country, where he had a clear view of Mt. Vesuvius, with an unusual blue haze around it, caused by volcanic conditions. He commented on the orange, and almond and olive groves, seen everywhere, and the endless grape farms.

A brother, Gnr. Operator Teddy Drew, is with a Canadian armoured unit in England.

Red Cross Branch Works On 6 Quilts

NORWOOD, Feb. 2—(ENS)—Mrs. D. Drain and Miss Emily Drain entertained their Red Cross group recently when 15 ladies were present. During the afternoon four large quilts and two crib quilts were quilted.

Mrs. W. H. McMillan and Mrs. Drain each donated a quilt top lining and batt. Mrs. G. Andrews and Mrs. A. McMillan each gave a quilt top; Miss Willa Lobb, two quilt tops and linings; Mrs. J. Gardner a lining and batt and Mrs. E. Scott and Mrs. F. Chamberlain each gave a lining.

Two boxes were packed for the two boys from the group overseas, Wellington Lobb, R.C.A.F. and Arthur Andrews, R.C.O.C.

During the business, Mrs. F. Webster reported on the work done in the past year. A hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Webster was moved by Mrs. J. Gardner and seconded by Mrs. E. Scott in appreciation of her untiring efforts.

Mrs. J. Loughton extended an invitation to the ladies to meet at her home for the next meeting.

Shaw's Wife Leaves Estate Of $667,500

LONDON, Feb. 3 — (CP) — Mrs. George Bernard Shaw, wife of the playwright, left an estate of about £150,000 ($667,000)upon which Shaw paid more than £40,000 in death duties, the Evening Standard said to-day.

Income tax specialists, it added, estimated Shaw's income at present at about £24,000 on which he pays £20,000 annually in taxes. In a letter to the Times yesterday, Shaw urged abolition of the excess profits tax and exemption from surtax of all income above £20,000 annually and declared "windfalls' 'should not be taxed at the same rates as settled income. He complained he had been transformed from "a prosperous playwright" into a "tax collector" working for a commission of sixpence on every pound sterling.

Voters Ignore Pleas Elect Digby Mayor

DIGBY, N.S., Feb. 3—(CP)—Calvin Coolidge did not choose to run, and got away with it, but Frank L. Anderson isn't as lucky. Mr. Anderson, nominated as candidate for Mayor of Digby, declined because of ill health but his refusal was ignored.

He advertised in the Digby paper, telling his plight and begging people not to vote for him. When the ballots were counted after yesterday's election however, he found himself mayor with 190 votes against 163 for his opponent, Postmaster J. W. Merkel.

Willkie Seeks Second Shot At Presidency

By CLYDE BLACKBURN, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — (CP) — Wendell Willkie, the transplanted Hoosier boy who came from behind at the Philadelphia Republican Convention in 1940, won his chance at "the champ" and lost, is slugging away for a second chance to compete for the Presidency of the United States.

But the dopesters here say Wilkie will have to fight Governor Thomas Dewey of New York for the nomination when the Republicans hold their National Convention in Chicago in June to pick their candidate for the November Presidential election.

An the concensus seems to be that by convention time there will be such a preponderant Dewey trend among the Republicans that all opposition will be obliterated on the first ballot.

Of course Dewey has said he would not be a candidate for nomination but the convention could nominate him against his will and veteran opinion here is that the convention will do that.

Dewey a Threat.

Dewey has not, at this writing, said he would refuse to run if nominated.

It would be a sweet revenge for Dewey if he takes the nomination away from Willkie. Because that is what Willkie did to him at the 1940 convention.

Wilkie is credited with doing a great deal to purge his party of isolationism which handicapped Roosevelt's efforts to prepare for the international responsibilities America would have to adopt.

But there has been some pretty plain talking out loud among powerful Republicans. "Stop-Willkie" campaigns have been reported. It would seem his ideas about international co-operation and toward certain Roosevelt policies are too much like Roosevelt's.

Mark Sullivan, Washington's veteran and astute political commentator, says Willkie must win the confidence of the rank and file over the opposition of that group of isolationist Republican leaders who will oppose him.

If he enters a considerable number of state primaries and wins by a good margin that might be a signal to the leaders that they had better get behind Willkie.

The state primaries start in New Hampshire on March 14 and will all be ended before convention time.

Victory Recipes Tested By Experimental Kitchen

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief, Consumer Section,
Dominion Dept. of Agriculture.

Many a good cook earned her reputation through one or two dishes that she made extremely well. You've often heard...... "Mary Jones is a wonderful cook; her gingerbread is famous all over town." Or it may be Mrs. Smith's lemon pie or Mrs. Brown's strawberry shortcake that has earned her the reputation of being the best cook in town.

It is comparatively seldom that a Canadian woman is known as a good cook because of her meat dishes, though Mrs. Kornichuk may be famous for her goulash and Mrs. Aberso for the meat balls she learned to make in Norway. One well known chef built up his reputation on kidney stew, and kidneys, heart, liver, tongue, less frequently served than their fine flavor and exceptional nutritive value merit, have decided reputation-building possibilities. Moreover, these meats are coupon-thrifty and budget-wise ....points worthy of consideration.

Here are recipes from the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture that will help you make "specialty" meats your specialty.

Tongue Casserole.

7 cups finely shredded cabbage
1½ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons mild-flavored fat
3 tablespoons chopped onion
¾ cup top milk
2 teaspoons horseradish
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Sliced, cooked tongue — enough for six servings
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs.

Cook cabbage in ½ inch boiling salted water in a covered saucepan for 7 minutes; drain. Melt 1 tablespoon fat in saucepan, add onion (or a little garlic) and saute until golden brown. Add cabbage, milk, horseradish, and pepper; toss until well mixed. Line a baking dish with slices of tongue; pile cabbage in centre. Melt remaining 2 tablespoons fat in frying pan, add crumbs, and brown, stirring constantly. Sprinkle crumbs on top of cabbage Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahr., for 20 minutes. Six servings.

Kidney and Mushrooms.

¾ lb. kidney (lamb, veal, pork or beef)
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ lb. mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
3 tablespoons mild-flavored fat
2½ cups water or vegetable stock
1 bay leaf.

Wash kidneys and split in half lengthwise. Using scissors, remove white centres and tough membrane and cut in small pieces. Dredge in flour, seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown kidneys, mushrooms and parsley quickly in hot fat. Add water or stock and bay leaf, broken fine. Cover and simmer 25 minutes or until tender. Serve on toast, noodles or mashed potatoes. Six servings.

Boiled Heart (or Fresh Tongue)

Heart or tongue (see note below)
Water to cover
1½ teaspoons salt to each quart of water used
1 carrot
1 large sprig of parsley
1 bay leaf
3 black peppercorns
3 cloves.

Remove veins and arteries from heart, using scissors and wash out thoroughly. If tongue is used, scrub well. Simmer with seasonings for 2 to 3 hours, or until meat is tender. Serve hot with raisin sauce, or cold. (Tongue must be cooled slightly and skinned before serving.)

Note: Allow one lamb or small pork heart per person; one average beef heart to serve six. Two lamb or small pork tongues serve three; one average calf's or large pork tongue serves two; one average beef tongue serves six to eight.

Raisin Sauce

1½ cups seasoned stock from boiled heart or fresh tongue
2 tablespons vinegar
1 teaspon onion or a little onion salt
3 tablespoons flour
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup raisins

Add vinegar and onion juice to 1¼ cups stock and heat. Mix flour and sugar and blend in remaining ¼ cup stock. Add gradually to heated stock and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add raisins and simmer 5 minutes. Makes approximately 1¼ cups sauce.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore: My sister lives in Washington and when visiting me here at Christmas time thought we were so lucky to be able to buy calves brains—in Washington they sell at 50c per lb., and are in very short supply because they are not rationed. When she was here she showed me how a Washington hostess served them for a late lunch at a bridge party. Since we can get brains cheaply maybe you would like to print this for your readers.

Sonja's Calves Brains

One set of calfs brains will serve from eight to 10 people.

Wash brains in cold water, remove arteries and soak one hour in cold water to cover.

Parboil brains in boiling water to cover with 1 tablespoon vinegar—do not boil fast or they will break up. Boil about 12 to 15 minutes. Drain and pour cold water over them immediately.

Put in hot frying pan ¼ cup bacon drippings, the parboiled and chilled brains, 4 hard cooked eggs, chopped finely or minced, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. As soon as they are mixed and hot, add 2 well beaten eggs, and stir until eggs are set. Serve at once on hot buttered toast. This is very much of a delicacy—and I hope your readers will try it. ELSIE LARSEN.

I am glad you brought this to the attention of our readers—there many people who are prejudiced against eating brains—this delicious method may convert some of them to their discovery. Thanks.

Bean Sprouts

By MARY MOORE

We have had so many requests for method of sprouting soy beans I have asked my Chinese cook friend to give me his method. The method I gave you a few weeks ago is still good—but this one is slightly different.

Wash four or five pounds soy beans very well—clean enough to eat. Soak them overnight in plenty of cold water to cover.

The container for sprouting the beans should have a hole for drainage in the bottom so it is best if it is made of wood (however I told you in my last instructions I used my washing machine tub with the agitator removed because it contained a drain—this is still a good receptacle—for my Chinese friend passed on it.).

On bottom of vessel place broken crockery such as you would use in a flower pot or box) or smooth pebbles which have been well washed. On this put a very crowded layer of clean soaked soy beans. Over top stretch a clean wet cloth. Keep in a warm place at about 70 deg. Fahr.

Three times a day pour over them a gallon of water warmed to about 105 deg. Fahr.—this should feel a little bit warm to the hand—but if too hot will kill the sprouts.

In four or five days the sprouts will be long enough to use. Wash in cold water which will flush off the skins of the beans. The small portion of beans clinging to the sprouts is used with them.

To cook bean sprouts to use them straight as a vegetables to about ½ lb. add ¾ cup boiling water and ½ teaspoon salt. Cover tightly and bring to boil, then reduced heat and simmer 15 to 18 min. Delicious with butter or/and a little of the pan gravy from the roast.

New Ration Books To Be Issued Starting March 27

The new ration books will be issued during the week of March 27 to April 1, said the report of the Ration Committee of the Women's Voluntary Services, given at monthly executive meeting of the group, held in the new office, 397 George street, Wednesday evening. Monthly reports were given by committees in the group, with eight committees reporting.

The Red Cross committee report told of the work being done on medicated sox for the Navy League, and showed that almost half of the quota had been finished and turned in. "Miss Canada" girls, under the direction of the War Savings committee, had completed 26½ hours in the month, and were responsible for selling $74.50 in stamps during the month.

Twenty-one hours typing were done by the clerical committee for the citizens' committee, and ten hours were put in by W.V.S. members at the Armories. In connection with the Peterborough corvette, the chairman reported that the W.V.S. had been asked to type instructions for the sewing kits, and that it was in the hands of the clerical committee.

Two new members signed up in January, bringing the total of active members to 322, reported the enrolment committee, and the hospitality committee gave an account of the hostess course being given at the Y.W.C.A., and the total of hostesses who had entertained soldiers during the month. Fifty-six hostesses had entertained 154 men during January, either on Sunday or at evening parties.

A request for more girls for Monday and Wednesday evenings for the Servicemen's Recreation Centre was brought forth by the canteen committee, in addition to the announcement that 276 hours had been put in by members at the Centre. The first aid and home nursing committee reported on the classes in first aid which had just been completed, and that members of the W.V.S. who were interested, had been contacted in connection with the home nursing classes just started under the auspices of the St. John's Ambulance and the Red Cross.

A Little Chat About Spring Millinery

The tailored hat will, this spring, have to take second place among the millinery high lights, for with the dressmaker suits, and coats, a more dressy hat is required. We are coming back to the good old days of handmade hats, when we can really get something exclusive, and know that we will not see it in all store windows, or meet ourselves as the saying is.

When we get a becoming hat, one that does a lot for us, it is rather heart-breaking to go to an afternoon tea, or bridge party, and see exactly the same hat on one of the other guests.

The off-the-face hat will again find favor for spring, but a much larger hat than has been shown. It covers the back of the head completely, and is much wider from side to side, and is worn perfectly straight on the head, not at an angle.

I saw such a smart tricorn hat, in black lacquered straw, with a trimming of multi-colored flowers around edge, and a band of the same flowers to keep the hat in place. This with a smart black veil worn over the face completed a charming hat, that could be worn now, with your fur coat. Another one was a small sailor with a slight turn up at the back. This was covered in deep purple taffeta silk, with the edge made of matching straw. The only trimming was two lovely ornaments, with stones matching the silk, and a hair band, studded with the same stones, or in ornaments. The model wearing this hat wore a gray suit, of soft wool crepe, her gloves and bag matching the hat.

The small flower turbans again find favor with the younger set, and are made of very bright colors.

DOROTHY DIX

LAWS PROTECT UNWANTED BABY

Society Must Deal With Cruel Father, Mother, Who Resists Responsibility to Offspring.

DEAR MISS DIX—We have been married nearly two years and were very happy until our baby was born, but since that time we have quarreled continually and have almost separated. My husband hates the baby, wishes he would die, calls him bad names and does the most unbelieveable things to him. The reason he gives for disliking the child is because I almost died when he was born; because he wasn't a girl, and because he looks like my family. When he is home he won't let me feed the baby, makes him sleep cold, pulls his hair out and burns him at times.

I must admit that I am disgusted with the baby, too. In the first place, my husband and I didn't have enough time together to go places and have fun before the baby came. Now we can't go anywhere because we haven't anyone to care for him when we go out. I am worn out with taking care of him myself and he is always crying, so it gets on my nerves. He is also very stubborn.

Now, I don't know what to do. I have thought of trying to get some family to take the baby so I could get a job, but I don't know how to go about it. I have thought about leaving my husband, but I hate to do that because I love him in spite of the way he treats the baby. And my heart hurts for the baby. He is so little and treated so mean.

MRS. F. F. S.

Parents Not Fit to Have Child

ANSWER — Poor little baby, he is certainly to be pitied in having two parents neither of whom wants him or is willing to make the sacrifices that caring for a child involves. It takes a lot of love to make a man and woman find more pleasure in staying at home at night and watching the baby breathe than they do in stepping out to a night club; to think that when the baby cries it is sweeter music than to hear Lily Pons sing, and to be willing to deny themselves new clothes so that baby can have a fine perambulator.

But unless they have that sort of love they haven't any right to have

Two Good February Meals For Family's Banquet

By MARY MOORE

Making a banquet of your evening dinner every day is one of the steps to successful homemaking.

Don't let that one precious meal where you are all present and relaxed ever become a slipshod affair.

This can be accomplished absolutely regardless of cost. The manner in which you serve the meal can be glamorous or careless according to the standards of the cook.

Some of you may remember Maiska, the little Hungarian maid we had when the children were infants. When she was setting her table in the breakfast nook she would cover it with a hand embroidered grass linen cloth she had made in Hungary and brought to Canada as part of her "hope chest." I always wondered a little at the scrupulous care she used in washing, ironing and using it—but she was a gentlewoman at heart, and had to have that spotless white linen to keep her morale high.

Now I am not suggesting you have to be quite so elegant every day—for with certain of our table cloths on week days we use paper napkins, and many other shortcut devices. But it's the atmosphere you surround your table with that turns the trick.

Details of service should be observed; sauces should be appropriate; courses when finished should be completely removed; if you are maidless (as who isn't) only one person should be up from the table at one time (if there's a child in the house this certainly should not be mother if the child is over eight years); silver should be correct and polished; conversation should be of interest to everyone present—not just to Mary who wants to be out after her regular bedtime nor to John who needs more than his regular allowance this week. If you do not have a low plant for the table centre keep red apples and oranges in a good-looking bowl. These not only are bright, but tempt your diners to eat them—your slimmers will prefer them to a made dessert.

Family Banquet No. 1.

Oven Dinner:
Veal Loaf with Mushroom Sauce
Duchess Potatoes
Shredded Beets in Casserole
Head Lettuce with French Dressing or Crumbled Cheese Dressing or Hot Water Mayonnaise
Lemon Batter Pudding.

NOTES ON DINNER NO. 1.

The Veal Loaf: 1½ lbs. veal put through the butcher's grinder with ¼ lb. salt pork; add ½ cup of crumbs, ¼ cup hot water, 1 or 2 beaten eggs, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar, 1 tablespoon grated onion, ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning or sage, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons fat, a little Worcestershire Sauce is optional. Mix all ingredients except a little of the egg white and the fat. Brush top of loaf when it is formed with egg white and bake in oven of 350 degrees Fahr for about 1¾ hours—basting every 15 minutes with the fat—until the fat forms in pan then baste with it. This loaf serves 8 to 10, and is delicious sliced cold.

To make the Mushroom Sauce: Melt 3 tablespoon butter or dripping or use cooking oil in frying pan—add ½ cup chopped mushrooms and saute for 3 minutes, then add 2 tablespoons flour, blend then pour on 1 cup milk or top milk and stir until thick. Add salt and pepper to taste. (This is a very popular sauce so don't overlook it.)

Duchess Potatoes are made by adding 1 well beaten egg, 1 tablespoon fat or butter, ½ easpoon salt to 2 cups riced potatoes. This is beaten well and placed in baking dish—having top made attractive by scoring it with a fork and sprinkling with paprika. Brown until heated through in oven. This is usually piped through a pastry tube and made into "roses" which would make an attractive garnisn for the veal loaf. Make the roses and bake them on a buttered pan until lightly tinged with gold.

For the Shredded Beets, peel and shred raw beets on a wonder shredder into buttered casserole. Add salt, pepper, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter, cover and bake until tender — about 35 minutes—stirring them once.

The Lemon Batter Pudding is a pip: Mix 1 cup brown sugar with the grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, 1 tablespoon butter and 3 cups water. Boil together in shallow pan 10 minutes. Make a stiff batter of ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup milk, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 1 cup flour. Drop this when mixed by spoonfuls into syrup. Place in oven of 375 degrees Fahr. to bake 20 minutes. These amounts serve 6. One-half cup raisins may be added to the syrup.

FAMILY BANQUET NO. 2.

Top of Stove Meal.

Pork Chops and Glazed Sweet Potatoes
Chopped Spinach with Lemon Butter Balls
Tomato Jelly and-or Cottage Cheese Salads
Scandinavian Rice Pudding
Coffee.

Notes on Dinner No. 2.

Either pan broil chops or broil them—but if they are pan broiled you can keep them hot and have the fat for the potatoes. To fat from chops add ½ cup brown sugar and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Slice into this syrup 4 or 5 medium sized boiled and peeled sweet potatoes—cook basting often until potatoes are coated with glaze and light gold.

To make Lemon Butter Balls, cream butter very well — about ⅛ inch off the pound, and gradually drop into it while creaming 1 tablespoon lemon juice— if added too fast it will not blend. Add 1 teaspoon chopped parsley and form into balls with wet hands. Let chill before serving—1 ball on each serving of spinach.

The Scandinavian Rice Pudding: 1 cup uncooked rice, 2 cups water, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 cups milk, 3 tablespoons sugar. Put rice, water, cinnamon, salt and raisins in top of double boiler, cook until water is absorbed—about 30 minutes. Add remaining ingredients, and cook 45 minutes more in top of double boiler. The Swedish people serve this hot with cream and sugar, and a few shakes of cinnamon. The above amount will serve 10.

Note.—Watch next week for some notable fish recipes.

JUGO-SLAV NOTE—A high fez of black velvet is adapted from the male Turk's headgear, given treatment of pearl, turquoise and amber gem embroidery, amongst gilt threads. Mme. Zinka Milanov wears it. Like as not we've had plenty of fashion flashes which could claim Jugo-Slav inspiration, but this highly modish fez turban is the first to come this department's way labelled specifically such. It was designed for Zinka Milanov, a Jugo-Slav by birth, who is singing at the Metropolitan this season. Her great role is Norma, which will be revived for her, the first prima donna to sing it in New York since it was Rosa Ponselle's great role. The fez shows Turkish influence, that country being a Jugo-Slav next-door neighbor.—By Prunella Wood.

QUESTION: I have over 75 jars of my own home canned tomatoes but no chili sauce. I did this on purpose because when the canning season was here I had sickness in the house and someone has told me chili sauce could be made from canned tomatoes, and now that I am ready to do it I need directions. Do you have such a thing? If so you would make me very obliged to you if you would print instructions. It is impossible to buy chili sauce where I live—in a small town. Thanks for the letter giving instructions for cup cakes and frosting.—Made. E.

Chili Sauce From Canned Tomatoes

ANSWER: Seven cups tomatoes, 4 sweet red and 1 hot red pepper minced (if you can't buy hot peppers use 1 teaspoon extra cayenne), 8 medium-sized onions minced, 1 quart vinegar, 2 cups brown or white sugar, 1 teaspoon each allspice, clove, black pepper, cayenne, 2 tablespoons salt—4 cups finely chopped celery are optional. Mix all ingredients in preserving kettle—all spices are of course either ground (or if whole should be tied in cheesecloth bag). (Two teaspoons ginger are a good addition but not liked by some chili fanciers). Bring sauce to boiling point, boil slowly 15 minutes, then simmer 1½ hours. Seal in sterile glass jars while still boiling hot. These amounts will make you 6 pints.

QUESTION: I want to serve a chicken dinner—Maryland chicken with popovers and rice boiled in the Chinese method. Please describe again how to do the rice so it will remain in separate grains. You did this a year or so ago but I have mislaid the instructions. Also a recipe you use yourself for popovers. Thanking you past favors.—R. Elliott.

ANSWER: Thanks for reminding me of this delicious dish.

Boiled Rice—Chinese Method.

One cup rice, 2 cups cold water 1 teaspoon salt. Use a quart saucepan, round bottomed if possible, as there is less tendency for the rice to stick. Put washed rice, salt and water in the saucepan, cover close, and set over hot fire. Do not lift cover once until ready to serve. When water boils over a little (or if larger saucepan is used, when it boils hard)—ordinarily 10 minutes—reduce heat so that water boils slowly 10 minutes. Remove from fire, set in a warm place 10 minutes. Remember not to lift cover until end of that time. The water should be absorbed and each rice grain separate.

If necessary to keep hot for some time, lift cover, sprinkle a little hot water over the rice, lay folded cloth over top, put cover on. If set in a warm place it will keep for hours. The Chinese do not put salt in it as they use it with salty foods.

Popovers.

One cup flour, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, beaten, ⅛ teaspoon melted butter. Break eggs into bowl, add all remaining ingredients and beat with rotary beater 4 minutes. Hot iron pans or hot custard cups greased must be ready. Fill each half full of mixture and bake 30 to 35 minutes at 450 deg. Fahr.—during last half of baking reduce heat to 375 deg Fahr. Remove from oven only after oven has been turned off 5 minutes after you consider popovers done—they must be crisp crusty and hollow — and very hot oven is essential.

children, for children need love and cherishing just as much as they need food and warmth. It is their heritage to which they are entitled, and unless their parents give it to them they have been cheated out of their birthright.

In all the world there is nothing else more pathetic than a poor little unwanted baby, yet we see so many of them. So many neglected little tots whose parents resent them because they interfere with their good times, or their plans and ambitions; who are pushed aside by impatient hands to which they are trying to cling; who learn to fend for themselves before they leave the cradle, because nobody bothers to care for them, and who never know what it is to be cuddled on a mother's breast or rest in a father's arms.

But while neglectful parents are common, cruel parents are rare, for not many men are brutes enough to beat up a helpless little baby. Still there are such abnormal creatures, as is witnessed by the fact that it has been necessary to have societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children which mete out a severe punishment to those who mistreat their youngsters. And I would certainly advise you to turn your husband over to the law, if what you have written me about his torturing your nine-month-old son is true.

Also, as you do not seem to be a much more affectionate mother than your husband is a father, it will be better for the baby or you to give it to some child-hungry man and woman than to keep it, feeling that it is a bar to your running around and having good times. Any woman whose only reaction to the wailing of a little child, who must be sick or else it would not cry all the time, is that it gets on her nerves isn't fit to deal with it. Such a case calls for pity and patience and infinite tenderness, not resentment.

Being parents is a hard job, but God, Himself, holds those responsible who take it upon themselves and who flunk on it.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am 30 years old, have a lovely wife to whom I am devoted and two beautiful children. I guess a great many men would like to be in my place, but I am getting sort of disgusted with it all because my wife has her lodge meetings and her women's club meetings in the evenings and I am left alone to wash the dishes and take care of the children.

My wife says that she must step out in order to relax from doing housework and looking after the children, but that as I am out among people all day I don't need this and should be satisfied to stay at home with the youngsters. I have not had a day or evening off in seven years to do with as I please, and I am thoroughly fed up with working every day and then coming home to putter around the house like an old man. What shall I do?

RAYMOND.

Compromise or Join Wife Going Out

ANSWER—Why don't you and your wife compromise the night out business? She take one. You take another. Or else hire someone to take care of the kids and you go out together.

Of course, housework is monotonous work, but so is every other kind of work by which we earn our daily bread. It is no more monotonous to cook three meals a day and wash behind the children's ears and get them off to school every morning than it is to put up the same sales talk, or do the same bricklaying, or preach the same sermons, or go to see the same sick people with the same ills.

Every day laborer, and that means us all, deserves a break when evening comes, and that goes for both husbands and wives. Neither one has the right to monopolize the good times.

DEAR MISS DIX—My wife is becoming unmanageable. She yells at me at the loudest pitch possible if she does not get her way. A good friend of mine used to have similar trouble with his wife, but he cured her by giving her a few good spankings. Although I do not believe in beating women, I wonder if I should not follow his example and paddle her soundly the next time she yells at me?

A HUSBAND.

ANSWER—Well, wife-beating is not a custom that is recognized in the best society, which leaves a husband with a cantankerous wife out on a limb, with nothing he can do about it except endure her, or drag her into the divorce court, and this a fact of which wives take full advantage.

Not many women are afraid of their husbands divorcing them, but lots of wives would behave themselves better if they knew that when they yelled at their husbands or nagged them they would get a spanking instead of a decree absolute.

Red Wings

Brown's play so has Flash Hollett helped the Detroit defense. Hollett's steadiness, Adams declares, has brought a 40 per cent. improvement in the play of Defenseman Cully Simon. Flash's standing with the club is testified by his appointment as captain by Adams in place of the job-bound Mud Bruneteau.

Bill Jennings incidentally will take the place of Bruneteau against the Leafs in Toronto.

Detroit is giving little Dion plenty of protection, but he is taking care of himself in the clinches with the result he has the lowest goals-against average of any goalie in the club after 10 games. Not only is he turning in superior goal-tending but he has an advantage over Jimmy Franks and Normie Smith, the Wings other goalies, that Jack Adams hasn't overlooked. Dion is draft proof and gives Detroit an almost complete team of army rejects and discharged soldiers.

Star Class Honors Mrs. G. Gilmour

Mrs. Gertrude Gilmour, past president of the Star Class of George Street Sunday School, who is leaving the city, to live in Toronto, was presented with a hymnary by the members of the class as a token of esteem. The presentation was made at the February meeting of the class, held at the home of Marion Manning, and Mrs. H. Dulmage and Mrs. Eva McMillan, representing the Twilight Mission Circle, also made a presentation to Mrs. Gilmour, on behalf of the Mission Circle.

The installation of officers for 1944 was also held with the teacher, Mrs. P. Hetherington taking charge. Officers for the new year are as follows: president, Mrs. Evelyn Beatty; first vice-president, Marion Manning; secretary, Gladys Walker; assistant secretary, Mrs. Viola Allison; treasurer, Mrs. Beatrice Minion.

Group leaders are Mrs. Ruth Young and Violet Lowes and Lareta Sedgewick and Mildred Marshall are pianists. Sybil Harrison, Mrs. Mildred Marshall and Mrs. H. Nichols are the soical committee, while Mrs. Ruth Young, Mrs. Sorrie and Bertha Batten make up the program committee.

Mrs. P. Hetherington opened the meeting with a prayer, followed by the scripture reading, given by Mrs. Ruth Young. Mrs. Mildred Marshall was the soloist for the meeting, and sang "Have You Been in the Garden?" and Gladys Walker gave a reading entitled "A Boy of God's Brigade."

At the conclusion of the business meeting, games and contests were enjoyed by the group, and a lunch was served.

Older Women Set Pace In Red Cross Work

KEENE, Feb. 3—(ENS)— Three ladies, ranging in age from 78 to 90, despite their advancing years, have retained an active and patriotic interest in the work the Red Cross is endeavoring to do and set a record which women less than half their years would find difficult, if not impossible, to carry out.

Mrs. Thomas Shearer, past 89, enjoys knitting to such an extent that she has made 150 pairs of socks, 24 helmets, and 10 skull caps in addition to other articles for the Otonabee Red Cross. Developing another line, Mrs. Robert Davidson, who is 78, has pieced more than 60 quilts, representing many hours of intricate work.

The third member of the trio, Mrs. Sarah Wood, is 81, and until this winter she took care of all the cutting out for the eight branches of the Otonabee Red Cross. This is no mean job, considering that in the past year the branches made more than 22,000 articles.

Senator Wants Sex Equality

OTTAWA, Feb. 3 (CP)—Women should be given equal opportunities with men or postwar employment, Senator Iva C. Fallis (P.C., Ontario) said Wednesday in the Senate.

Senator Fallis spoke in the debate on the Address in reply to the Throne Speech and said the place of women would be one of the most serious postwar employment problems.

Senator Fallis said she favored much of the program outlined in the Throne Speech, but she would like to see more emphasis on remedying unfavorable conditions which made it possible for the individual to help himself.

"I don't like to see the Government playing the role of Santa Claus and saying to all and sundry: 'Hang up your stocking and you'll be surprised what you find in it in the morning'" she said.

Course for Best Results

While in some instances cash grants to individuals were essential, best results could be obtained by extending public services and supplementing them with cash grants.

In a private survey, between 60 and 80 per cent of women employees in a group of Ontario factories had said they wished to continue work after the war.

"You can't solve the problem by saying: 'Let them go back to the kitchen,'" she said.

"Returned men should have first priority on jobs, but after that there should be no sex discrimination."

Dr. J. H. King, Government Senate Leader, expressed criticism of persons whom he declined to name who were suggesting veterans' programs without crediting the Government with plans already under way.

Canadian Soldier Hanged In England

LEEDS, England, Feb. 3—(CP Cable)—Mervin Clare McEwen, 35-year-old soldier from Forest, Ont., was hanged early today for the murder a year ago of Mark Turner, 82, retired postman who had befriended him.

McEwen was convicted Dec. 3. At his trial, defence counsel argued that McEwen's mind was so confused by liquor at the time of the attack upon Turner that he was incapable of forming an intention to kill.

Turner, of Halifax, England, was killed by a blow from a hammer, defence counsel said a craving for liquor led McEwen to break into the old man's house last Feb. 2 to steal a bottle of liquor.

ALL OF THE same devices that help with high contracts are used by the fine player on the low ones Even greater skill is usually required then, as the cardsman must keep track of more different items. To try to confuse the issue. West violated standard practice not leading either the spade K from his honor combination or the fourth-best 8. picking. instead. the 5 East put on the J. and South began his figuring Sure that West would have led an honor if he held the A-K-10-9. he could be sure East had some one of those cards, probably the 10 or 9. likely now alone So he used his Q on the first trick and returned the 2. West played the 8. and sure enough East had the 9.

Obliged to lead up to something in dummy. East chose the club J as choice of evils The Q won. Now South reckoned East would not have made that lead unless he had four clubs headed by the J-10; if so. West now had a singleton K So he played the A in dummy and dropped it, then led the club 4, hoping East would duck He did, the 9 winning. whereupon the 7 put East in with the 10

Hating to lead a diamond, East now chose the heart 2. the J forcing the Q A diamond from dummy was now ducked by East, who wanted to save his A for the K That enabled the Q to win, making six tricks. and the needed seventh was scored with the heart A. to make 1-No Trump when defenders held the balance of power.

Council Passes Appointment Of Roy Dodge

COBOURG, Feb. 3 — (ENS) — More fireworks over the appointment of ex-Reeve Roy Dodge to the post of deputy Town clerk and treasurer, featured the meeting of the Town Council here at which it was decided to bring in a new by-law covering his appointment. Last year in December when the Council passed a by-law appointing Mr. Dodge, his appointment was disputed by the local Selective Service office on the grounds that he had not procured a permit from his employer to take on his new duties as deputy-town clerk and treasurer.
cil in January, it was decided to cil in Janutry, it was decided to get a ruling from the town solicitor as to whether or not the appointment by-law was still valid.

At this week's Council meeting, a letter from A. R. Willmott, town solicitor, was read in which Mr. Willmott quoted a ruling from R. M. W. Chitty of Toronto, which said that no ground could be found on which to quash the by-law appointing Mr. Dodge, and that a motion should be put through which would name the time at which his duties would commence. The effect of the clerk not taking up his new job on the date specified in the by-law made the contract voidable only at the option of the corporation.

Mayor Jack Burnet then presented legal advice received from the Municipal World, in which it was pointed out that as no action had been taken to quash the by-law, it was still valid, and it would be advisable to pass another by-law repealing the former one and bearing a proper date of appointment.

Disagree on Record.

"Mr. Dodge retired from the Council Chamber while the by-law was put through. Then he returned and thanked the Council, and after that his resignation was read and accepted," was Councillor Reuben Jackson's recollection of the procedure

Mr. Dodge, who was present when Councillor Jackson made the foregoing statement, rose to his feet and denied the declaration of Councillor Jackson. He declared that he had handed the Mayor his resignation when he left the room and before any vote was taken

The acting clerk, Miss Hattie Hawkey, consulted the minutes of that meeting and they revealed that the resignation had come after the appointment. Mr. Dodge challenged the accuracy of the minutes. He complained also that Miss Hawkey had been far from cordial when he was in the clerk's office.

"I am going to say that your acting clerk has acted very cold to me each time I have come up to the clerk's office. The other day I was used like an iceberg," declared Mr. Dodge.

Councillor Judson Kennedy pointed out that Miss Hawkey was a police court stenographer and he felt more inclined to rely on what she had recorded in the minutes as to the sequence of the by-law and the resignation, than on what somebody thought had transpired.

Grievance Gone.

"I haven't anything against Mr. Dodge," commented Councillor Kennedy, "but I have heard him make public statements before. During the time of Les Wilson, I heard Mr. Dodge say that there was something wrong in that office upstairs (clerk's office) and that if elected he would throw a monkey wrench into the machinery. Now he say he would be glad to serve with Mr. Young. How does he reconcile those two statements?"

"The condition I referred to has been straightened out since then. There were people in that office all the time, with their feet on the desk and they were cleared out. The clerk couldn't get his work done," replied Mr. Dodge.

Council finally decided to bring in a new by-law appointing Mr. Dodge.

Garbage Collection.

Dr. W. E. Wilkins had a letter before council outlining the proposed division of the town into five sections for the five-day-a-week garbage collection under the new collector, Lyle Hie. The matter was left to the Board of Health to advertise and arrange.

Council put through the by-law which provided for a yearly stipend of $200 for the mayor and $5 a meeting for each councillor. Councillor Reuben Jackson, who expressed his disapproval of remuneration when it was first proposed, told the council that he would donate his pay to some worthy charity.

Invasion Office Busiest Spot

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN LONDON, Feb. 3—(CP)—Busiest spot in this busy city is a building on a street that can't be named. It is Invasion H.Q. where "COSSAC" meets. It is the powerhouse of the second front.

"COSSAC" is a word heard frequently in military circles here. It stands for Chief of Staff Supreme Allied Command—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's head men who are planning the western attack in this building with its wide windows and swing doors that are never still.

All day long and into the evening blackout a flood of officers, other ranks and civilians pass through the main doors. The American guards on the door, smart in white gaiters, tell you they average a salute every 10 seconds.

You're liable to meet anyone from Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery to the painter who is finishing off a new staff office in the attic of this building which is bursting to overflowing already. Some of the departments are being forced to move to other quarters.

It was in this building that the Canadian planning staff prepared for the landing of the Canadian force in Sicily and linked the plan with the 8th Army preparations far off in Algiers and Tunis and Tripoli.

But the place has grown greatly since those days. Now you see masses of Americans going and coming, with intent and purpose in their eyes. There are many British officers there and Canadians make frequent calls. Netherlands, Norwegian, Polish, Fighting French uniforms are seen in the international Allied throng that crowds this building.

Iron-bound security precautions are taken with every visitor.

The planning goes on day and night. It is a round-the-clock job for the joint Allied staffs.

Afraid to Eat Because of Gas Pains, Bloat and Sour Acid-Risings; Had Backache and Dizzy Spells. Tells of Good Results Syntona Gave.

"It is a real pleasure to tell you how much Syntona has done for me, and I hope other sufferers will read this and benefit as I did," said Mr. Edward Wells, Sr., Hamilton, Ontario, who is the well-known founder of Wells Transport Co.

"I had flu and it left my whole system in a badly rundown condition," said Mr. Wells. "I had so much distress with gas and indigestion after meals I got so that I was afraid to eat. Hot, sour liquids would rise in my throat. The gas gave me a full, heavy, bloated feeling and bad pains at times. Light-headed, dizzy spells would come over me and spots darted before my eyes. I constantly had a dull, aching pain across my back and severe rheumatic pains in my arms and limbs. My nerves were so upset I couldn't sleep. I lost weight and felt tired and weak.

"I tried a lot of different things, but nothing helped me until I began taking Syntona. It wasn't long before I realized I had at last found a medicine that was helping me. My food began to digest without all that gas, indigestion, and belching of hot, sour liquids. Now I am free from those sick, dizzy feelings and spots coming before my eyes. The aches and pains went away. I sleep soundly at night and have improved so much generally that many people remark about how much better I am looking.

"I cannot recommend Syntona too highly and hope many people who suffer as I did will give it a chance to help them, too."

Go to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out from the Syntona man there, how Syntona can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Powerful Hun Counter Blows Blocking Invasion Forces

Nazis Facing Extermination

By EDDY GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Feb. —(AP).—Systematic extermination by the Red Army of 10 encircled German divisions in the Upper Dnieper Bend was well under way today, the army newspaper Red Star said, while the main Soviet forces continued to forge westward from the Ukraine to the Baltic. The midnight communique indicated nearly 10,000 of the trapped Germans already were killed. The situation west of Cherkasy, where nine infantry and one tank divisions have been trapped by a great five-day offensive, presented "the same picture as Stalingrad," Major Pavel Orender said in a Red Star dispatch.

Thousands of German units have become "groups of wanderers" within the ring which the troops of Generals Nikolai Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev are tightening around them, Orender asserted.

No dispatches estimated the number of surrounded Germans, but it seems safe to assume the total was in the neighborhood of 100,000.

Rivers within the encirclement include the Olshanka and Sukhoy Tashlik emptying into the Dneiper and various streams which pour into the unfrozen Irdyn swamps north of captured Smela.

Lives Come First

A dispatch to Izestia said the situation of the trapped Germans coul be gauged from some of their messages which had been intercepted.

"Conditions critical, what shall we do?" one asked.

The reply was "assemble near railway."

"What shall we do with guns?" then asked the commander.

"Abandon guns, save your lives," came the answer.

The dispatch said the Russians were capturing tremendous amounts of guns, tanks and machine-guns. Photographs from the front showed big artillery pieces apparently in perfect condition taken by perfect condition taken by Gen. Kenev's troops.

There were no Russian reports from the sector farthest west where

Murderous Bombardment Decided Fate Of Marshalls

By GEORGE E. JONES—Distributed by The Canadian Press

NAMUR ISLAND, Feb. 4.—Scattered snipers and unseen enemy wounded remain on this shattered, stinking island, but the actual end of sustained combat came at 1 p.m. Wednesday as the Marines pressed in for the kill.

Organized enemy resistance was ended, and even the toughened, battle-hardened Marines were, disgusted with the task of wiping out Japanese troops who hovered on the borderline of insanity as the result of the Allied bombardment and the ensuing hopeless retreat across the island.

Only a few score Japanese of the original force who garrisoned Namur and the adjoining island of Roi were left as a ring of Marine gunfire tightened about their defensive position, which probably was a command post.

Their fight was hopeless from the very beginning. It was a murderous bombardment, then an inevitable retreat in the face of superior Marine fire power. Light mobile artillery, flame throwers and bazookas thundered and rocked against the crumbling concrete pillboxes and then the Japanese were surrounded.

Most remained in hiding, waiting the end which came quickly in most cases. Only a few tried to break the engagement, and they could not make it.

It was on this battlefield when the staccato chatter of machineguns and the resonant thumps of Marine mortars died away. For more than four hours I had been dodging sniper bullets as I poked among the ruins, and the silence seemed unnatural.

In their two-day battle, the Japanese resorted to a few of their favorite tactics. During the night, some crawled back into wrecked pillboxes and had to be killed yesterday morning.

The most ambitious manoeuvre of this kind involved a half-dozen riflemen who sneaked into a dugout and harassed rear echelons until an unidentified sergeant walked inside with a garand and killed them all.

The Marines brought ashore a large assortment of heavy weapons past the wrecked beach defences.

70 Hun Planes Raid London

LONDON, Feb. 4—(CP)—Strong formations of American heavy bombers escorted by Allied fighters bombed Germany for the second straight day today, hitting at targets in the Western Reich, United States Army Headquarters here announced.

The United States attacks followed a night during which R.A.F. Mosquito bombers also attacked targets in Western Germany.

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Intruders ranged over Northern France last night, and minelayers invaded enemy waters, it was announced today.

Heavy bombers also streamed out across the Channel today toward France and great waves passed over Folkestone for an hour, some thundering toward the enemy coast and others returning from the attack.

R.A.F. Spitfire squadrons also took to the air over the Channel during the afternoon.

While the Allied offensive on Germany was continued, the Nazis staged a "pocket blitz" on London.

Striking in two waves for the first time since Jan. 21, the Germans sent about 70 planes in their attacks against London, but only about 20 reached the London area.

Chinese Troops Wipe Out Japs

NEW DELHI, Feb. 4— (AP) — Chinese infantry fanned out north and west of captured Taipha in northern Burma yesterday and exterminated nests of Japanese isolated in the dense jungle, an Allied communique said today.

Farther south in the Kabaw valley on the upper Chindwin, Ngapun, 20 miles southeast of Tamu, was occupied without opposition Feb. 2, with R. A. F. fighter-bomber formations co-operating by blasting enemy troop concentrations.

Yesterday R. A. F. bombers of the tactical air force attacked Japanese positions near Maungdaw. Single and twin-engined R. A. F. bombers ranged over the waterways of the Mayu peninsula and as far south as Rangoon, attacking land transport and river traffic. Five large troop-carrying Sampans were hit.

American fighter-bombers concentrated on Irrawaddy river bridges between Prome and Taungup in southern Burma yesterday.

Reds Refuse Plea From King Peter

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(CP).—A story that King Peter of Yugoslavia had been refused a mutual assistance pact in December by the Soviet Union was broadcast to the Russian press to-day by the Moscow radio, but an hour later it was eliminated without explanation.

Recorded by the Soviet Monitor here, the broadcast said the Soviet had refused "in view of the unclarity of the Yugoslav situation."

A Reuter's dispatch Jan. 30 from Cairo said Peter's government had requested such an agreement but that Premier Stalin had turned down the proposal with the statement "the time is not yet."

Labor Studies Food Policy

Permanent Commission Likely Result

LONDON, Feb. 4.— (CP).— The British Labor party has drawn up its post-war food policy and it urges distribution based on needs and suggested the continuation of food control.

The party has accepted as a statement of its own policy a memorandum on nutrition and food supplies prepared by Sir John Orr, the Scottish nutrition authority who is a neutral in politics and a member of no party.

It is recommended that a permanent food commission be appointed by the Minister of Food and the ministry should be charged with the task of seeing that the national larder contains sufficient basic foods to meet the national requirements. Distribution and prices should be arranged so that every family can obtain a diet adequate for health. The commission under the minister, according to the labor policy, would act as a food import board and national wholesale buyer and seller of basic foods. It would take over the main food depots and processing centres.

The statement said that cost should be no deterrent. Shareholders would be compensated and the community would take over paying concerns. The commission itself would be a non-profit making body and its dividend would be improved health and physique.

JapSurrender Of Marshalls Likely Soon

Bulk Of Islands Now In Hands Of Invasion Forces

By CHARLES M. McMURTRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 4—(AP)—Fighting men, tanks and guns, pouring ashore to annihilate the dwindling forces of Japanese defenders, appeared today to be on the verge of conquering all Kwajalein, largest atoll in the Marshalls and core of that enemy defence system. As the invasion moved through its fifth day, preliminary reports told of light American losses during the achievement of a strong entering wedge into mid-Pacific positions Japan has held for 25 years.

Rear-Admiral Richmond K. Turner, commander of the amphibious operations—as he was last November during the bloody investment of the Gilberts—said assault losses were far under what had been expected.

American casualties were placed at 27 dead, nine missing and 190 wounded.

The north end of the Atoll, with the airdrome at Roi and the adjacent repair and dispersal base of Namur, were entirely in the hands of the United States Marines. Roi was quickly overrun Tuesday and yesterday. Preliminary estimates of American losses at Roi and Namur were less than 100 killed and 400 wounded.

On this basis, it seemed unlikely that the full report would show Marine losses anything comparable with the casualties of approximately 3,000 suffered in capturing the air base of Tarawa in the Gilberts.

The bulk of Kwajalein's more than 32 islets now are in American hands.

The only remaining enemy opposition of consequence appeared to be on Kwajalein Island at the southern end of the Atoll. There, where an airfield and a deep anchorage are the prizes, army troops which landed Tuesday pushed the Japanese against the northeastern end of the island.

The surprisingly light losses among the invaders were accounted for in large part of devastation of the intensive, preparatory naval and air assaults.

New York Paper Denies Moscow Charge That Pope Pius Has Pro-Fascist Leanings

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (CP)—The New York Times today took to task the Moscow paper Izvestia for its charge that the Vatican is pro-Fascist.

Noting that Izvestia "ought to be well enough informed" to know that the Vatican is neutral state with which Britain and the United States have "friendly and confident relations," the Times editorial said:

"Izvestia's attack is damaging to the unity on which victory depends. It is all the more disconcerting because it comes at the very moment when an Allied army stands at the gates of Rome and when an Allied commission, in which Russia is a full partner, must soon accept new responsibilities for salvaging what can be saved in Italy."

Canada To Have Full Share In Shaping World Peace

TORONTO, Feb. 4—(AP).—Canada must have a full share in shaping the peace, because "it is a right we are earning by the service of our fighting men, by the magnitude of our material contribution, and by our spirit of mutual aid," Brooke Claxton, parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said today.

"The Canadian people expect our country to have a share in world responsibility which is in proportion to our share in fighting the war," Mr. Claxton said in an address prepared for delivery to a service (Rotary) club luncheon.

"Two wars in a general have convinced all but the blindest among us that Canada, that the United States, that the new world, cannot live in isolation from the rest of mankind.

"Since we cannot keep out of wars, we are filled with a growing resolve so to shape the peace that wars will not happen."

Canada's part in the First Great War raised her to the status of a nation, Mr. Claxton said. Canada's part in this war has given her the opportunities and responsibilities of world-wide interests. Today Canada stands in the shadow of no other land.

So far, the major strategy of the war has been in the hands of Britain, Russia, China and the United States, and no one questions the necessity for the close association of the three or four supreme powers as the foundation of lasting peace, he said.

Have No Monopoly.

"But they are not enough. They do not represent the world. They cannot speak for the world. They have no monopoly of intelligence, experience, or good will. The beauty and strength of France have not been finally destroyed. The international record of Czecho-Slovakia is equal to that of any country.

"Lasting peace must rest on the widest foundations. Those foundations must be planned and built now. Now is the time when steps must be taken to begin work on this organization."

Canada's prosperity depends in part on trade. There should be no ceilings on trade; there cannot be too much trade.

"That requires a world in which nations feel secure and in which they have agreed to work together to make the most of their resources. We should aim at multilateral arrangements to remove restrictions on trade, as well as working for the establishment of conditions of confidence and security in which trade can alone be sucessfully carried on.

"The nations of the world have had to come together to stop aggression. Our hope and our aim is that they will come together to create the machinery and the will to prevent aggression by working together to keep the peace and make it prosperous."

Fighting Grows In Yugoslavia Nazis Blocked

LONDON, Feb. 4 — (AP). — Sharp battles are mushrooming all along Yugoslavia's many fighting fronts, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced to-day as the Germans were reported massing reinforcements from Bulgaria and Greece for their seventh effort to smash Partisan resistance in that war-torn country.

The Yugoslav Partisans scored decisive triumphs on two fronts. Tito's far bulletin broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio said, routing the German Prince Eugen Division at Hercegovia and smashing Nazi and Chetnik attacks in Montenegro.

It was a battle for communications, Tito reported, and the Germans were throwing in everything they had to prevent the Partisans from gaining control of their vital road and rail supply lines.

The Germans fought desperately to gain possession of the strategic Prijedor-Bosanski Nova railway line in Western Bosnia, bringing up tank battalions to crush the Partisan forces, the Yugoslav communique said, "but all attacks were held and the railway line was cut at six more points."

Roosevelt Signs Soldier Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 —(AP)— President Roosevelt signed today legislation providing mustering-out pay of $100 to $300 for members of the United States armed services.

At the same time, he called for action on additional portions of his program to "ease the period of transition from military to civilian life."

Mr. Roosevelt mentioned specifically measures to let servicemen continue their education, to provide social security credits for the period of military service, and to set up machinery for unemployment allowances.

The mustering-out pay law limits the maximum sum of $300 to service men and women who have served overseas or in Alaska. Payments of $200 are provided for those serving 60 days or more in the United States and $100 for those serving less than 60 days in this country.

All receiving no more than $200 a month base pay are eligible to the mustering-out benefits.

This allows payments to captains of less than 17 years service, and excludes majors and higher officers from the benefits.

Hitler's World Shrinking Dangerously

Defeat In Russia Means Annihilation To German Armies

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler's world is shrinking so dangerously that the time isn't far distant when he no longer will be able to find a place in which to hide from the vengeance which is closing in on him.

The Red armies—striking fiercely and unceasingly in order to make every hour count before spring arrives to turn the Steppes into seas of mud—have placed the German front in fresh jeopardy in three sectors:—

1. Most sensational is the operation in the far south, within the Dneiper bend, where two Red armies have pinched off the Semela salient and trapped 10 Nazi divisions—probably more than 100,000 men. It's a great feat of generalship and valor. Fierce fighting continues as the surrounded Germans battle to escape and Moscow reports that 10,000 already have been slain. That's what the Russian front means these days —annihilation.

Drive Into Poland

2. In the south-central zone the Muscovites have continued their thrust into pre-war Poland, threatening a disastrous severance of the Nazi line. The Germans say they've abandoned that important railway cities of Lutsk and Rovno. If that's true, it brings the Reds still closer to the great railway junction of Lwow (Lemberg) which lies on Hitler's sole remaining railway communication with Odessa and his big army in the Dneiper bend.

3. On the northern end of the line the Russians have driven still further into Estonia and are menacing the strategic city of Narva, which Berlin says is being evacuated. Thus the German left flank is being swung back,, and the Red advance casts its shadow clear across the Baltic States.

Enigma Of War

All three operations may be expected to produce far-reaching results, but I invite your attention specially to the Dneiper bend battle. It looks very much as though here is approaching a denouement of one of the great dramas of the entire war.

Probably you often have wondered why Field Marshal Von Mannstein has persisted in hanging onto that great bulge along the lower Dneiper. So have military experts. The tip of that sharp salient is some 400 miles from the apex of the Red advance into Poland, far to the west. There hasn't been a day for months when Von Mannstein wasn't in danger of being trapped in that vast bend—and within it he has perhaps 500,000 men.

I ventured the view in this column some weeks ago that the Nazi commander probably was bent on protecting the Bessarabian gateway to the Balkans. Veritas, the sound British commentator, is among those leaning to that view, although characterizing Von Mannstein's campaign as one of the enigmas of the war, which it certainly is.

Nazis Trying To Trap Allies Along Nettuno Area While Cassino Battle Rages

6 Allied Divisions Now Ashore In Drive To Cut Off German Army Fortunes Of Battle See-Sawing

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK—Associated Press Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, Feb. 4 — (AP). — Marshal Erwin Rommel was reported back in Italy directing Nazi strategy today and Allied headquarters disclosed that the Germans have launched their expetced big offensive against the Anzio landing head below Rome, supporting their assaults with heavy fire power and tank charges.

On the main 5th Army front Americans were fighting fiercely in the outskirts of Cassino, using tanks against Germans who had to be cleaned out of dugouts and cellars in methodical fashion.

The offensive aimed at driving the British and American troops back into the sea from their beachhead and the tough house-to-house resistance offered at Cassino appeared to be the twin parts of a German strategy to fight off the Allied threat aimed at trapping a large part of the German 10th Army.

LONDON, Feb. 4 — (CP).—The German High Command claimed today that Allied forces have been circled in the Nettuno bridgehead of Italy. "On the enemy landing beaches of Nettuno major enemy forces were encircled by counterattacks," the communique broadcast by Berlin said. "Relief attacks were repulsed."

On the 8th Army front there was vigorous patrolling and British troops occupied Torricella, south of Orsogna and 20 miles inland, where the Germans withdrew from a mountain wedge and left the Allied line running almost straight south from Casolini to Saint' Angelo.

The Germans, reinforced along the perimeter of the Anzio bridgehead, struck four times against British and American troops who are reported to have more than six divisions ashore. The German air force, almost absent from Italian skies for several days, returned to support the thursts.

Losses Are Heavy.

In each case, Allied Headquarters said, the Germans were repulsed with heavy losses and the Allies improved their positions slightly.

The enemy opened his offensive with three successive thrusts north of Padiglione, eight miles northwest of Anzio. They also lunged out at the Americans who, in the area west of Cisternia, had driven to the

3 Enemy Ships Sunk By U.S. Fleet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 — (AP)— Three German blockade runners laden with war materials from Japanese-held Pacific ports have been sunk by American destroyers in the South Atlantic.

United States navy, announcing this to-day, said that the holds of the enemy ships were filled to capacity with thousands of tons of rubber, tins, fats and strategic ores. Some of those materials, particularly hundreds of tons of baled rubber, were salvaged and many prisoners were taken.

Seeking to sneak through the Allied blockade, the three ships—The Burgenland, Rio Grand and Weserland—were sighted and sunk within a 48-hour period "early in January," the navy reported.

The blockade runners were chased down by the cruiser Omaha, which already had one blockade runner to its credit; the destroyer Jouett, which bagged a German submarine in the Atlantic several months ago, and the destroyer Somers.

First surface contact was made by the Somers, which ran down the Weserland in the darkness of early morning, identifying the vessel as an enemy. The Somers immediately

U-Boat Losses Drop Steadily

TORONTO, Feb. 4 —(CP)—Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of Naval Services, said in an interview here today that "every ship in an Allied convoy in the Atlantic now has an almost 100 per cent chance of getting through safely; compared to even a year ago the drop in the effectiveness of U-boats is startling."

Here for the opening of an exhibition of paintings in aid of Allied merchant seamen, the minister added: "Due to complete co-operation between the naval and air forces of Britain, the United States and Canada, the Germans are pretty well whipped on the Atlantic."

He also remarked that nobody can predict when the war will end, "but I believe there is a good possibility that the war against Germany will end this year."

The Royal Canadian Navy is not recruiting at the moment because its quota is full, he said, but by the end of March it will be recruiting at full speed again. "We are having no trouble getting recruits except for a few mechanical trades," he added. "Canadian youths are still anxious to serve in the navy."

Finns Must Act Fast To Avoid Red Might

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 4—(AP)—There is good reason to believe here that unless the Finns act soon to abandon their German alliance and get out of the war they must feel the might of a Red Army offensive again shortly.

With Leningrad freed and far northern communications improving daily, the Russians are known to be in a position to hurl large army, navy and air units against the Finnish mainland.

It is difficult to say just what the Russians would expect from Finland, but it would retain the far northern republic would have to agree to drop Germany and pull out of the war quickly.

Japs Find Fijians Superior

Jungle-Wise Fighters Boon To Allies

BOUGAINVILLE, Feb. 4.—(AP). —Fijian troops, commanded by New Zealand officers, are fighting the Japanese for the first time and the battle-hardened United States marines have developed a profound respect for their Allies' jungle fighting skill.

To these Fijians, with 3½ years of intensive training behind them, the Japanese are mere amateurs in the ways of the jungle. Whenever they have met a Jap, the Fijians have caught the enemy off balance.

The first time the Fijians went out on patrol they met seven Japs, three the second time. The score: Ten Japanese were killed and not one Fijian injured.

Captain J. W. Gosling, one of their Fiji-born white officers, is proud of his men, who can ghost through the jungle with the silence of lizards, and who have been known to set out on a two-week patrol with food for only four days.

Even the Jap is known to prefer trails, but these men shun trails as the devil. The marines know what a slow, tortuous job it is to cover distance in the vine-barbed, swampy jungle. Yet the Fijians have been known to make 35 miles through the brush in three days.

S. Staples, Ida President Horse Breeders

TORONTO, Feb. 4—Britain has shown a colossal advance in farm mechanization, with tractors increased from about 40,000 to 150,000—but there still is a place for the farm horse, Lord De La Warr, chairman of the British Agricultural Research Council, gave that word to the Ontario Horse Breeders Association convention Thursday night.

"There are a great number of farms in England, averaging from 75 to 100 acres, which would be better off without tractors," he said. "Many are not really economical units, cannot afford tractors and would be much better off to go back to a team of horses and have contractors come to do the heavy work."

Tribute to Canadians

If the Allied Nations were to feed Europe for a long time after the war, it was important to realize "while we are having good times now and hope they will be better in the future we are not going to be in position as food producers if our methods are wasteful. In difficult times, the horse which eats the produce of the farm is better than the tractor for which gasoline must be bought."

He congratulated this country for its increased agricultural production. "When I look over your figures of production, an increase of 45 per cent, and then consider you have done it with much of your farm labor gone, I marvel," he said. "We have done a fairly good job in England, but we reserved a considerable number of farm laborers because we realized we might lose the war through lack of food."

Seek Higher Premiums

The association endorsed a resolution which seeks to have the Provincial Government pay breeders' rates of premium "at least to the level of that paid in Quebec and other provinces," and also will send a delegation to meet Ontario Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy to obtain the grant. Present premiums paid "do not sufficiently encourage the use of good breeding sires," it was stated.

Spain Remains Strictly Neutral

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ

Associated Press War Analyst

MADRID, Feb. 4— (AP). — The Spanish cabinet, its way prepared by a host of editorials accusing the British of trying to high-pressure Spain into abandoning her neutrality, re-affirmed "a position of strict neutrality" last night after a special meeting at which it reviewed the International situation.

The cabinet, meeting at the urgent call of General Franco, also announced it had studied means of making this neutrality respected and planned to make all foreigners in Spain as well as Spanish Nationalists conform.

"The government is prepared to submit to no pressure under any circumstances whatever its right to maintain firmly such a position of neutrality," the communique said. "Every country is obliged to respect this attitude as an act of indisputable sovereignty."

Must Get Oil

(The Spanish reaffirmation of neutrality provoked speculation in London as to whether Franco had made a deal with Germany to obtain oil which the Allies now are withholding.

In the flood of editorials in the Spanish press in the past week in connection with Spain's position not one attacked the United States. All criticized Britain.

The communique mentioned no names, but coming on top of the press comments there was no doubt what inspired it and to what it referred.

Gen. Vatutin's 1st Army of the Ukraine was last reported closing in on Rowne from three sides, but there was reason to believe that this front was active again.

Spanish Casualties

At the Baltic end of the 1,200-mile front the Red army commanded by Gen. Leonid A. Govorov bypassed Narva on both the north and south and indications were that the Germans had waited too long to evacuate the city. There may be another large loss in lives and equipment, since the Soviets held at least five villages in the Estonia republic and that number should be increased by nightfall.

German resistance was fierce in places, but the commanders appeared unable to execute any clear plan of defence.

A Red Star dispatch from the Volkhov front said units of Spanish battalions had suffered another heavy defeat and that one captive testified his battalion of the 'Blue' division had lost about 850 men killed and captured. Stores and equipment had been abandoned.

Besides these Russian gains, an Associated Press Moscow dispatch reported the Soviet Leningrad Red army had crossed the Estonian frontier to take four villages inside the republic.

Forces of Vatutin and Konev sprang the trap as they captured 300 towns and villages in a five-day 100-mile break-through to join forces along the Zvenigorodka-Shpola line, 45 miles south of the Middle Dnieper. Possibly between 120,000 and 160,000 Germans were caught.

outskirts of that Appian Way town 14 miles northeast of Anzio.

Padiglione is about six miles south of Campoleone, farthest advance of British units which had approached to within 16 miles of Rome. Allied Headquarters announcements that the German attacks had been repulsed perhaps indicated that the German attack was aimed at the British flank.

In repulsing the attacks the Allies captured 140 prisoners.

Some of the fiercest fighting ever seen in the Mediterranean theatre was taking place at Cassino where the Germans held on grimly in the face of a heavy attack and a storm of artillery shells. American patrols once penetrated toward the centre of the town but were forced to fall back to the outskirts when they encountered anti-tank guns and strong posts.

The Germans also put in two unsuccessful counter-attacks in the Mount Castellone area three miles northwest of Cassino. Farther north the Americans found the Germans had been reinforced in the Terelle area and were buried in strong concrete pillboxes.

Desperate Thrust

The Germans obviously were making a most desperate effort to prevent the Allies from breaking through into the Liri Valley and the Via Casilina leading to Rome while the Germans' northern forces make the attempt to crack the beachhead.

Again Allied naval power, this time French and Netherlands warships, supported British troops near the Tyrrhenian coast south of Cassino with heavy shelling of the area around Formia. In this sector British units of the 5th Army made some local advances and took prisoners.

Dive-bombers strafed German motor transport on all the main and secondary roads from the 5th Army front to Rome, destroying 41 vehicles, damaging at least 58 more, and shooting up a locomotive and 11 railroad cars.

Although adverse weather again restricted flights yesterday, Allied bombers hit enemy rail facilities at Sulmona and Manopello in advance of the 8th Army front and at Stimigliano, north of Rome. Fighters and fighter-bombers attacked motor and rail traffic between Sulmona and Rome. Two Allied craft were missing.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4 —(CP)— Opposition from Quebec members to the admission of refugees or other immigrants until all members of the forces are re-established in civilian life yesterday drew the support of one Ontario Progressive Conservative, but he said he was speaking for himself and not for his Party.

The initial salvo hit the German ship and the crew hastened to abandon ship, but first they carried out their orders to scuttle the ship.

Internal explosions blasted the Weserland but she remained afloat. Shells from the Somers' guns completed the job of sending the blockade runner to the bottom. Many of her crew were picked up when daylight came.

The cruiser Omaha and the destroyer Jouett accounted for the second of the three enemy craft.

A lookout in the Omaha's foretop and the pilot of her scouting plane sighted the 6,062-ton Rio Grande almost simultaneously.

Racing in, the Omaha and Jouett were drawing near to the stranger when she burst into smoke and flames. Demolition charges, the navy said, had been placed and fired by the crew of the Rio Grande. Again the American warships turned their guns on the vessel and she soon sank.

The Omaha-Jouett team joined in sinking the 7,320-ton Burgenland. As they sped in for attack, internal explosion of demolition charges rocked that enemy ship and again destruction was completed by shell fire.

Transfer Soldiers

TORONTO, Feb. 4 (CP) — Col. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, said last night he had been advised by the Department of National Defence, Ottawa, that all men training as Army Administrative Officers at Kemptville Agricultural School will have been transferred from there by next May 1 and the buildings will then be again available for teaching Agriculture. He added a similar statement is expected shortly in connection with buildings of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, now used in R.C.A.F. training.

Suggest Gordon For City Trust

G. N. Gordon, K.C., as a City Trust Commissioner. Some members of the City Council are understood to be willing to nominate and support their aldermanic associate of last year for that position if any opposition to the retention of A. A. McIntyre arises at the Council meeting on Monday night.

In an informal (off the record) discussion at the conclusion of their committee affairs Thursday night this subject was briefly mentioned, and some opposition was expressed. On the other hand three or four of the members contended that Mr. McIntyre was delegated by the Commission to look after property matters, and there was no reason why he should be singled out as the first of the old guard to go in view of the fact that the Council had continued reappointments from year to year.

Since that discussion it is understood that some of the aldermen were talking over the idea of naming Mr. Gordon for the term that is now expiring. It was recalled that it was Mr. Gordon who conducted a one-man "blitz" on the City Trust Commission accumulated reserve, as a result of which certain annual reductions of the Commission's demand from the Council, through the tax rate, have been made, thereby effecting some lowering of the tax rate.

Mr. Gordon also advocated that the whole business of the Commission should be conducted through the office of the City Treasurer. Another point mentioned was that the Commission's existence might terminate in another four or five years, but Mayor Hamilton said that was not altogether likely because circumstances might arise in the meantime which would recommend its continuation in the municipal service.

Members of the Council generally know Mr. Gordon's strong views in regard to the City Trust, and presumably they have been mulling over the possibilities in reaction which might flow from a Gordon appointment.

"They might all resign," said one of the aldermen.

Lady Curlers Battle In Great Battle

By HERB MARTIN

As play proceeded throughout Thursday for the Ontario Ladies' Tankard it was rather difficult to point out any one game as the outstanding game of the day. Considering the condition of the ice, they were all good. But after walking across the rink from one side to the other the game that did appeal to us was the Mrs. A. McIntosh, Bobcaygeon, last year's winner and Mrs. C. H. Brereton, Toronto Granites game, and why it was outstanding was because it went an extra end. Any extra end game always attracts attention. During the 10 ends, first one was ahead and then the other, but not by much. Going into the last end Mr. Brereton was one up but by clever curling Mrs. McIntosh tied it up, forcing an overtime period.

Mrs. Brereton was lying shot right on the button. There was a port about two feet wide out in the front ring, but kind of guarding the shot. Mrs. R. Battum, playing vice for Mrs. Mac. played her stone perfectly, drew the port and removed the shot and stayed shot herself. And then Mrs. H. French playing vice for Mrs. Brereton did the very same thing. Then it was up to Mrs. Battum, she again came through that port and removed her opponent's stone and her own stone lay shot. Now it was up to Mrs. French and believe us or not she did it once more and her stone was shot.

By now the crowd of one hundred spectators were up on their toes—what a game! What curling! Talk about your McDonald Brier. Talk about your finishes in the big provincial bonspiel—they were not in it. The crowd began to come out on the ice to see the kill. Number eight was packed to capacity. They were standing five deep. Standing up on the backs of chair. There was not room to breathe, let alone stand. And now came Mrs. Mac's. turn to play and with the shot against her she took steady aim and sailed down ice No. 6, passed those two guards and removed her opponent's stone and lay shot. So in five successive plays the winning stone had come through the same port and changed the set up of the whole game. Mrs. Brereton played her stone but got wrecked on the guards and the game was over.

It was real curling by two grand teams and we doubt if we will ever see the like again. It certainly was the high light of the bonspiel, so far. Play is continuing today in both the primary and consolation events.

TORONTO POULTRY

TORONTO, Feb. 4 —(CP)— The fresh dressed poultry market had a quietly steady tone during the current week.

Receipts of chicken were reported showing a slight decline and this caused dealers in some cases to raise quotations for this kind of poultry. The quality was not quite so good and top grades A. milk-fed were on the short side.

Fowl arrivals were approximately the same as last week. A few broileds arrived from specialized farms.

Receipts of turkeys, ducks and geese were practically nil.

The demand locally and out-of-town held fairly well.

Dealers are quoting producers and country shippers:

Nazis Decide To Defend City Of Rome

Pope Pius Refuses Hun Plea That He Move Out

LONDON, Feb. 4—(CP). — A thinly-veiled warning that the Germans intend to defend Rome step by step, whatever the destruction entailed, is reported to have been conveyed to Pope Pius XII by the Nazis, who apparently have been trying for some time to persuade His Holiness to go to Germany.

The Ankara radio said the warning had been handed the Pope by Baron Ernst von Wiessaecker, German Ambassador to the Vatican, in the form of a statement from Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, saying the ultimate fate of Rome necessarily will be "subject to military considerations."

At the same time the Vatican radio made it plain the Pope has no intention of leaving Rome. In a broadcast recorded here last night by The Associated Press the Vatican said:

"Pius XII, since the very beginning of the war, has refused to abandon Rome, always wishing to be present and partake in all the moral and material sufferings of the world, bleeding from the great torture.

"The Pope has always wanted Rome to be in the front line of spiritual resurrection. He has given the most tangible proof of his profound pastoral charity during the raids on Rome, bringing to the stricken inhabitants words of faith and of resignation as well as material aid profuse with sovereign generosity."

Hitler's Idea

Whether this broadcast was intended as a response to the message said to have been given the Pope by Von Weizsaecker was not clear. The

The first wave came in from the south about 9 p.m. and fanned out over three counties. Eight hours later a slightly larger force concentrated on the Thames Estuary district, touched off a thunderous anti-aircraft barrage and dropped bombs haphazardly in some districts, causing an undisclosed number of casualties.

This second group scattered hundreds of incendiaries in a path across shops and streets in one London district and started several fires. All but one of these was extinguished by fire guards, however, before the first engines arrived.

British ground defenders shot down three Dornier 217's and Junkers 188.

Sparks Is Fined $75 And Costs In Cobourg Court

COBOURG, Feb. 4.— (ENS.) — Trial of Charles Robert Sparks, Jehovah's Witness of 330 Donlands avenue, Toronto, occupied most of the afternoon here yesterday in popolice court. Magistrate R. B. Baxter found him guilty on a charge of failing to answer truthfully a question put to him by Corporal Karl Lockwood of Cobourg on Jan. 3 and also with failing to submit himself to medical examination when ordered to do so by the Board. On the first charge he was fined $50 and costs or 30 days and on the second charge, $25 and costs or 30 days. In the event the fine were not paid, terms are to run consecutively. He will then be turned over to the military authorities.

Born in 1914.

Corporal Lockwood testified that certain questions were directed to the accused with the view of determining his standing under Selective Service. The answers revealed that Sparks was born in England in 1914 and his latest address was 330 Donlands avenue, Toronto. He was married with two children and had been steadily employed every day since November of 1939 by a firm engaged in making paper boxes. At the present time it was an essential industry.

"I asked him if he had ever receieved a military call-up and he said, 'do I have to answer that?' I told him in reply that it was proper that he should but that he was not obliged to answer it and that I couldn't force him to do so. He then replied that he didn't care to answer any more questions as he was a minister of the Gospel and not subject to military service. I asked him no further questions," testified Corporal Lockwood.

Sparks testified that at first he evaded answering that question but later decided to answer it and his reply had been that he had received a military call-up.

"You said in one of your answers that you had worked steadily at the same occupation in Toronto and yet you told the magistrate here on January 17 that you were a minister of the Gospel," stated Corporal Lockwood.

"I am not employed as a minister. I work for the firm and in addition I put in about twenty hours a week as a minister of the Gospel.. I have been preaching for about two or three years in Toronto," replied Sparks, going on to explain that he received his ordination through the Bible.

In reply to a question from the magistrate, Sparks said he was not employed every day in the week by the firm in Toronto.

"I worked every day that I was amployed," Sparks said.

The magistrate shrugged helplessly at that answer.

Status as Minister.

Considerable testimony was given by the accused in regard to his status as a minister and as a secular employee, after which the magistrate declared that he was not satisfied with the evidence of the accused. There was no ban on the Jehovah's Witnesses now and when their members came into court they should tell the truth and not hedge. If they were ministers of the Gospel, very well, but claim an exemptios on that score, the magistrate urged.

"Both you and Sproat before you, have cast a discredit on the Jehovah's Witnesses by your behaviour in court. You have the same rights as anyone elske, so why hedge about and evade," stated the magistrate, in finding Sparks guilty.

In connection with the charge against Sparks of not submitting to a medical examination while a designated man under the Selective Service regulations, Constable Ken Bridges, R.C.M.P., Cobourg, produced a certificate from the Division- Registrar which stated that Sparks received a call-up notice in September of 1943 and had not reported. Each time that Sparks received a notice that he was to appear before the Board, he wrote to point out that he was a minister of the Gospel of the Jehovah's Witness and not subject to service, Constable Bridges stated.

Had to Support Family.

Sparks testifned that he was employed in an essential industry and that his firm had written away to get him a deferment. The magistrate observed that it was not clear to him how Sparks could claim exemption as being in an essential industry, from which he was able to get off work to pursue his work as a minister. The magistrate questioned him as to his qualifications as a minister and Sparks replied that he was ordained through the words of the Bible and that he had taken part in Bible study classes to fit himself for his work as a minister. He was unable to devote full time service to his ministerial work as he was a married man with two children and had to work to support his family.

Sparks stated that the Jehovah's Witness denomination was a recognized group and that he was registered as a minister with their office in Toronto. He said that his grandfather had been an Anglican minister but that he, Sparks, could not agree with his teachings on religion and accordingly had sought another denomination.

"I can't find that the accused has established his status as a minister. If he had someone higher up in his denomination who could come here and say whether he was a minister or not, it might be different. I can't understand why they do not attempt to produce sufficient proof as to the status as ministers," declared Magistrate Baxter in finding him guilty.

Action Promised To Clean Up Public School

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 4 (ENS). —Quick action to correct unhealthy conditions existing in the Public School was assured by Mayor Frank Long at a meeting of the Town Council here last night when he told members the Board of Health had been summoned to go into the question on Friday afternoon. Mayor Long raised the subject, when the clerk had completed reading of the town milk by-law passed in 1933 in answer to some questions asked by Councillor Anderson at the January meeting. Councillor Anderson said he and other local dairies had been paying inspection fees of $2 per supplier but actually got no report on the condition of barns and herds from one year to the next.

By-law Outdated.

According to Councillor Anderson the milk by-law had been outdated by the Provincial pasteurization laws but he felt the town should have some report on the condition of farms from which milk was being sent to Campbellford for distribution in homes by dairies.

"If you are paying a $2 fee for inspection in these farms and getting no report you certainly have something to complain about," said Reeve MacMillan.

"I would like to recommend that the Corporation engage a veterinary to inspect the barns and herds of these milk producers and that a report on their condition be made," continued Councillor Anderson.

"I don't believe there is one pro-

Reserve Army Going To Stick

COBOURG, Feb. 4 — (ENS) — Members of the 14—2nd, R.C.A. (R) held a banquet at the Baltimore Hotel on Wednesday evening with about 100 present. Members of reserve units from Peterborough, Port Hope and Lindsay were also on hand for the event. At the head table were Col. L. W. Slack of Kingston, brigade commander of the 33rd Brigade group; Capt. J. Jocelyn, Kingston, adjutant of the 33rd Brigade group; Lieut. H. O. Taylor, chairman; Major Claude Fowler, C.O. 2nd Coy. Midlands (R); Major G. Dundas, commander of the 14—22nd; Mayor Jack Burnet of Cobourg; Capt. W. A. Perry of Lindsay; Flying Officer A. Willmott, Cobourg; Captain W. Wade and Major J. Edwards of Lindsay, commanding officer of the 43rd Battery.

A very interesting two reel sound picture was shown by C.S.M. L. T. Cottan of Kingston. As it has not been released for civilian exhibition, its title and any particulars cannot be made public. However it was an unusually fine picture and one that held the rapt attention of the audience.

The guests of the evening were introduced by Major Dundas.

Colonel Slack spoke very briefly. He cautioned his listeners against rumors that the reserve army might be broken up. The reserve army was going to stick and it was essential after the war that its organization would be maintained. He declared that the reserves would be going to Petawawa again this year. The reserve army, he declared in conclusion, was a well trained group, fit to take their places at any time they were called upon.

Mayor Jack Burnet urged an alert attitude so that the "old mess after 1916" might not follow after this war was over. Those who would criticize the reserve army, let them remember the time when the question was whether it would be the west coast or east would be invaded. The Dept. of National Defence had not built up its army at that time and the reserve army was all the bulwark that was at hand.

He suggested that the training army should go active and those who would not go active, should be returned to civil life and put into the reserve army. If they would not go active, then go reserve, Mayor Burnet said.

Major Edwards spoke briefly on reserve army matters. The song leader of the evening was Lieut. Hap Harrison. Lieut. Gordon Garnet said grace.

Police Fear Woman Drowned In Lake

COBOURG, Feb. 4. — (ENS).—Police dragged the harbour yesterday, near the T pier after the fur coat of Mrs. William Boulton of Cobourg, had been found on the pier near the old life saving station. She had been missing since the night before and Chief W. J. Carey found her coat yesterday after he had looked around the harbour front. However, dragging operations did not reveal a body but it is thought that the wash of the car ferry when it came into the harbour yesterday, moved the body from where it was believed to have gone in.

Mrs. Boulton's husband died last December and she later took up residence with a friend, Mrs. James Haaig. Mrs. Boulton has a son in college and a daughter in the Women's Division of the air force at Victoria, B.C.

GORE'S LANDING, Feb. 4 (ENS) —On Tuesday the W.A. of St. George's-on-the-hill met at the home of Mrs. Melville Harris with all members present. A discussion was held regarding quilts. Mrs. Thackeray took the study book and outlined the activities of missionaries in Central America. Mrs. Melville Harris read an article on the Nascopie and the life in the Arctic with Bishop Fleming.

The meeting was closed with the benediction and the hostess served refreshments.

Getting On With The Job

At the earliest opportunity during the present session Mr. King told Parliament that the Government would concentrate on the job of winning the war and preparing the country for peace, and would not permit itself to be distracted from its task. This dealt firmly with the large body of opinion which had insisted that an election was coming this summer, and offered the many reforms contained in the Speech From The Throne as evidence. The Premier made it clear that his Government means to stay in office until its time is up. This is good news for the Canadian people, who would certainly be impatient of an election at the present time.

Mr. King refused to give much time to the proposals contained in Lord Halifax's recent speech in Toronto. He made it clear, however, that he was not in sympathy with its proposals. Several newspapers have praised him on this score, and have insisted that Canada will not permit any dictation of her foreign policy from outside. We believe that they have mistaken the import of Lord Halifax's speech, and developments arising from the recent Russian move to create sixteen republics where there was but one before may throw an entirely different light on what the British Ambassador to the U.S. said. However, the matter is not one which demands immediate discussion in the Canadian Parliament. The time for that will be after the Imperial Conference in London this summer, when the matter has been thoroughly thrashed out by the heads of all the countries concerned.

Clearly the Government means to stick closely to business this session, without any flights into election politics. As this certainly is going to be the most arduous year of the war, no policy could be better.

The Victorian Order Report

The local branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses deserves congratulation on its excellent report for the past year. This organization has been going forward steadily since it was established here, increasing the scope of its service to the public and enlarging its staff. As Alderman Dutton put it in his presidential address, the Order in Peterborough can now look forward to a period of substantial growth.

There are still many people who do not fully understand the nature of the Order, and are apt to consider it as a group of nurses committed to work among the very poor and the destitute. This is not the case. The nurses of the V.O.N. are ready to go to any home where their services are needed; they make their visits daily, staying in each home long enough to do their necessary work. Understandably they cannot undertake full-time nursing of a single patient, but they are quite able to care for people who need a limited amount of attention each day. They ask a modest fee of those who can pay; those who cannot pay are attended without charge. Clearly there is no reason why anyone in the city who is confined to bed with a minor illness should not take advantage of the excellent service of the V.O.N.

The service which the Order is able to give to the city is of inestimable value, and we hope to see it grow rapidly during the coming year. The foundation has been laid.

New Anthem For Australia

Imitation is said to be the sincerest form of flattery; many of the United Nations are taking leaves from the Russian book at present. Australia, for instance, has decided to have a new national anthem, and has followed the Russian example in offering a substantial prize for the winning composition. Australia has not gone so far as the Russians, however, in offering prizes to all the contestants.

In Australian movie houses at present the British National Anthem, the American National Anthem, and a patriotic song called "Advance, Australia Fair" are played at every performance. Local critics protest that the Australian song is not a national anthem and does not deserve to be classed as one. It is generally regarded as a commonplace production, both in words and music. The competition for a new and better national song is confined to Australian composers. The British Australian and New Zealander, a paper published in London, thinks that the contest should be open to all British composers, "which would mean a much better prospect of securing for Australia a national anthem worthy of the Commonwealth". Apparently this paper takes a dim view of Australian musical talent.

It is at least as hard to write a great national anthem as it is to write a great symphony. For years the U.S. has sought a successor to The Star Spangled Banner, which has a fine tune and suitable words, but which is very hard to sing; it has not found one as yet, although many attempts have been made to supply the want. A national anthem needs a simplicity and dignity which very few composers have ever been able to supply. We wish Australia luck in its search.

Hoist With His Own Petard

Those of us whose thoughts are frequently illogical and inconsistent take a simple pleasure in seeing a man caught in the toils of a system which he has logically and consistently advocated for many years. " 'Tis sport to have the engineer hoist with his own petard", as Hamlet puts it. Certainly 'tis sport to learn that George Bernard Shaw is complaining about the high taxes imposed on the rich in Great Britain.

By the comparatively simple method of writing the finest plays of our time, Mr. Shaw has acquired a large fortune. He is reputed to be a millionaire, in sterling currency, which means that he would be a multimillionaire in this country. He has paid surtax for many years; recently Mrs. Shaw, who was a wealthy woman in her own right, died, and we presume that Mr. Shaw has had acute personal experience of succession duties. He is beefing about his taxes with all the acerbity of a lifelong capitalist. In a letter to the London Times he complains that he has been transformed from a prosperous playwright into a tax collector, forced to work for the Government for a commission of sixpence in every pound sterling.

Mr. Shaw knows what he wants. He wants the excess profits tax abolished and exemption from surtax of all incomes above £20,000 yearly; it must be pointed out that even if this were done the taxes on such incomes would still be very heavy. Mr. Shaw also thinks that it would be a good idea to figure income tax on a three-year average, and to make allowance for people whose income is variable.

This last suggestion is a very sound one. There are many men whose income varies greatly from year to year. Consider a musician as an example: in one year he may have many engagements, may make a number of remunerative recordings and may in consequence have quite a large income; the following year he may have bad luck, and his income may drop by two-thirds. Is it fair to tax him in a bad year on the money he earned in a good year? The same applies to authors. A man may spend three years writing a book, and in the first year of its publication he may make a lot of money. But the book represents three years of work; why tax him as though he had worked for one year only? All artists and literary people suffer severely under the present system of reckoning income tax; they make their money at intervals, not regularly, and they have to provide for their families and their children when they have cash in hand. Under the present system of taxation people in these unsalaried pursuits are always worried about the future, for if they have a windfall they will be taxed as though they were rich men. A system averaging incomes over a period of years would be a godsend to them.

What Shaw says is reasonable and just. But that such a complaint should have come from a lifelong Socialist is a first-rate joke. Much as he would like to have means of production socialized for the benefit of the state he balks when that astounding means of production—his own brain—is virtually treated as Big Business.

They Tax You Twice

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
(In the Winnipeg Free Press)

IT IS not true, as many people imagine, that the income tax law of Canada "just growed," like Topsy, without any basic plan or philosophy. Its philosophy is clear and very simple. It is designed to raise as much money as possible for war purposes. To this over-riding necessity other principles have been sacrificed, with serious injustices to some classes of taxpayers. During the war it has been considered impractical to reform the law, lest changes involve a loss of war revenue, and the Canadian taxpayer has made little complaint. But as soon as the war is over, or perhaps as soon as it is seen to be near its end, Canada will have to reconsider its income tax system from top to bottom.

Some of the main defects of the law have been noted in this series of articles already—its discouragement to enterprise; its extraordinary concentration of power in officials; its lack of any adequate opportunity of appeals for taxpayers against the decisions of officials; its system of charging penalties to the taxpayer if he underpays his taxes, and its refusal to allow the taxpayer interest if he overpays; its complication, which prevents many taxpayers from knowing what they owe; and its long delay in collections.

These defects largely hit the business firm and the individual with a substantial income. Another defect, little appreciated in this country, hits the small man and hits him hard. This is Canada's system of double taxation, which is far more drastic than the British system.

A SIMPLE example will illustrate the Canadian and British laws covering income from investments. Assume that a British citizen and a Canadian citizen each receives $250 a year as a dividend on an investment and has no other income.

In Britain the $250 paid to the investor represents a profit of $500 earned by the company of which he is a shareholder. Of this $500 profit, $250 is paid by the company to the government as taxes, leaving an equal amount for the investor. The government does not tax the profits twice, first through the company and then through the investor, as we do in Canada.

But the effect of the Canadian law is more onerous, in comparison with the British law, than appears on the surface. In Britain the poor man, with an investment income of only $250 a year, is not taxable at all. However, as he has already paid, through the company, a tax of $250 on his dividend, he is entitled to reclaim it from the government. He receives a total of $500 from his investment. But in Canada the investor has no such claim. He has paid $250 tax on a $500 dividend, or 50 per cent of his income, even though he is a very poor man. In theory he is not taxable, because he pays nothing on an income of $250 a year. In practice, he is taxed at a higher rate than the man with a $10,000 income from salary.

This, of course, is admittedly ridiculous. It results solely from the fact that the income of corporations is taxed twice in Canada—once in the hands of the corporation earning the income, and again in the hands of the recipient when that income is distributed. In the case mentioned above the little investor does not pay a second time, though he has already lost half his dividend.

But if the total income of the investor is large enough to be taxable, then he not only loses the amount already paid in taxes by the company, but must pay another tax on his diminished dividend. Thousands of Canadians are paying these double imposts without realizing it, and most of them imagine that the British investor is suffering more than they are.

THE position of the Canadian purchaser of an annuity is also remarkable. The payments received by a citizen in return for the purchase of an annuity are largely a return of his capital. Yet in most classifications these payments are taxed as income, even though the investor is doing little more than withdraw his capital from a bank.

The following hypothetical case shows how the Canadian law affects a citizen with a modest estate. This citizen's incomes arises entirely from company dividends. He invests his savings in a life insurance policy with the provision that the proceeds are to be used to purchase an annuity for his widow. Apart from some revenue earned on the money paid into the insurance company, the citizen's whole estate arose from the profits earned on his original investments.

By the time the citizen has died and his wife after him, taxes will have been paid on the original investment through four separate channels:

First, by the original company in which the citizen invested, through taxes on its profits.

Second, by the citizen himself when he received his share of the profits as dividends.

Third, by the citizen's estate in the form of succession duties on the life insurance policy.

Fourth, by the widow, on the annuity.

Fantastic? Not at all. It is the law of Canada.

The Changed Barbers

One of the great unmourned casualties of our time is the close personal relationship that once flourished between the barber and his client. It is gone, we shall never see its like again, and nothing has followed after to take its place or heal the hurt.

It is possible to go into the austerely correct barber shops of American cities today, be attended and take leave without a single word of conversation in either direction.

This is stating the case extremely, but we must admit that what was once a profession of fluency and cordiality has flattened out into undistinguished decorum. The personality has gone out of barbering; garrulity has been displaced by polite reticence if not taciturnity, and the man beside the chair has become a stranger.—New York Times.

Anti-Strike Legislation

The proof of the pudding is in the eating and the effectiveness of any legislation is determined by the success with which it is applied. And in nothing is this more true than the anti-strike measures which have been tabled in the Quebec Legislature. The measures in themselves appear to be splendid pieces of legislation, but they will only prove of value if the Government shows a strong desire to enforce them, particularly those clauses dealing with illegal strikes. On frequent occasions in the past, a strike has been declared illegal by the Government authorities, only to result in the strikers achieving their ends a few days—or sometimes hours—later.—Sherbrooke Record.

Prevalence Of Perjury

(CHATHAM NEWS)

IT is not an uncommon thing for Magistrates to bluntly tell certain witnesses in police court cases, that they "do not believe a word they are saying." False witness in our courts is becoming almost a daily occurrence. It is one of the most alarming evils of our day.

Our whole structure of democracy and civilization is based upon the administration of justice. Judges and juries are influenced in their decisions by the character of testimony delivered in the witness box. If that evidence is not truthful, then the administration of justice becomes a mere farce.

Fortunately there are times when it is clearly evident to the presiding officers, and others concerned in the prosecution and defence of the accused, that a witness is not telling the truth. There are other times when the deception is not so apparent. It is for this reason, no doubt, that legal counsel are required to provide corroborative evidence, to substantiate the cases they present. Even under such conditions it is quite possible for a group of witnesses to connive in such a manner as to defeat the ends of justice.

We are informed by lawyers that contempt for the truth in court testimony seems to be increasing instead of diminishing. We have even been told that certain clients, considering legal suits, even ask their counsel what they must swear to, in order to win their cases; the inference being that they would stop at nothing to be successful in court.

On top of this, it is surprising, and disappointing to note the small number of prosecutions for perjury which are instituted by the courts. It is quite apparent that Judges and Magistrates should be more careful in fulfilling their duties by ordering charges of perjury to be laid when they find a witness is deliberately giving false evidence. A few stern examples would probably make the practice less popular. Perjury is a serious criminal offense, carrying stiff punishment. If witnesses knew that they were facing terms of imprisonment by stating things they know to be untrue, they would be more apt to respect the oath they take before they are called upon to give testimony.

Hitler As Crusader

(NEW YORK TIMES)

WHEN Adolf Hitler poses as the defender of "European culture" against "the Russian Colossus," as he did on Sunday, he is, of course, making one more desperate attempt to drive a wedge into the unity of the Allied nations. He is appealing to the old fears and suspicions of Russia. He is asking Englishmen and Americans to accept the logic of "a strong Germany" and "a bulwark against bolshevism." And he is inviting us, with his usual audacity, to forget the whole history of the beginnings of this war.

Who is it—Russia or Hitler—who has made war on "European culture?" Where has a Russian soldier set foot on foreign soil except on the eastern border of a pre-war Poland that has become a battlefield? Where in all Europe, save in a few isolated neutral countries, have not the hobnailed boots of the German Nazis trampled on freedom and dignity and decency and "culture?"

There is one record to which we cannot turn back too often, and that is the record of Hitler's broken promises to the very European states whose rights and interests he now pretends to champion against the Russians. On September 26, 1938, he solemnly promised the Dutch that "the new Reich" would respect the neutrality of Holland—and before dawn on the morning of May 10, 1940, the German Army invaded Holland. On October 6, 1939, he solemnly told the Belgians "we have given guarantees to the states in the west"—and on the same morning that he attacked Holland he sent the German war machine rolling into Belgium. On October 6, 1939, he told the Danes and the Norwegians that Germany would respect the non-aggression pacts which it had concluded with them—and before dawn on April 9, 1940, German troops marched across Denmark's frontier and German warships attacked Norway. The same bloody trail of broken promises and ruthless conquest leads through Poland, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Greece and France.

This is the record of the man who dares to pose as the defender of "European culture."

If you have ever had the experience—and no doubt you have—maybe this is the answer, as gleaned from a western paper: A visiting golfer stepped up to the first tee, took a wild swing at the ball—and missed. How Much Is Left?

It was apparently not necessary to call in the Atlantic Charter to ensure the freedom of the law courts. In his will a London, Ontario, man set forth: "I give my truck to my two sons." Then the highways branch stepped in and the law was invoked to ascertain if the licence to operate the truck went with the bequest or formed part of the estate. Three lawyers mulled over the matter and reached a settlement whereby the licence is to pass with the truck. The two boys are serving in the R.C.A.C. It would be interesting to know how much equity is left in the truck now that the law has settled the burning question respecting the licence.—Renfrew Mercury.

Whisky Profit

If a grocer sold a pound of sugar at a profit of 100 per cent. he would come into a serious conflict with the Price Board, possibly might lose his licence. If he made a profit of 200 per cent., he would not only be guilty of gross profiteering, he might find himself in jail. If, in addition, he substituted an adulterant for 20 per cent. of the sugar, he would find himself faced with a list of charges sufficient to keep him in jail for a long time. But when governments make a profit of at least 200 per cent. on liquors and "cut the product by 20 per cent., they are not only within the law but regard the whole thing as a legitimate and worthy practice."—Calgary Herald.

A Bible Message

For thus saith the Lord unto the house of Israel, Seek ye me, and ye shall live.... Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the Lord, the God of hosts, shall be with you, as ye have spoken. (Amos 5: 4, 14.)

These Penalties Were Deserved

Three men found guilty of conspiring to obtain deferments from military service have been sentenced at Toronto to penitentiary terms. Into their confinement they will take the general approval of Canadians of the sentence they received. There are many reasons for granting deferments—but none of them should lie in the ability or willingness of certain people to purchase that preference.

From its smallest unit to its greatest possible union as a nation, this country is at war. That stern fact has made necessary certain rulings with regard to national manpower. Where these exist, they should apply to all, and no circumstance should be allowed to influence national service. The men who have been sentenced to confinement apparently allowed their conduct to be governed by the thought that money could buy everything. They will now have a little time to mediate upon the fallacy of their belief.—Ottawa Citizen.

In Dublin City

I know a town where there is neither coal nor oil. That town is Dublin, the capital of that part of Ireland which is neutral and which, owing to its neutrality, has neither friends nor enemies, nor fuel. Strange, the first thing that strikes me about Dublin is most pleasant and surprising; my ears and eyes seem improved beyond belief. I can hardly believe my eyes, and my ears are supersensitive. I was about to attribute my improved vision to some virtue, or failing that, to some vitamin in myself, until I found that my keener sight was due to the crystal air. Where there is no coal, the atmosphere can not be polluted. My acuter hearing was due to the fact that my ears were convalescing from the barbaric and debasing noises of the century of Speed. — Oliver St. John Gogarty in Vogue.

YWCA Board Reports Year Of Increasing Activity

Excellent annual reports covering all phases of Y.W.C.A. activities were given at the annual meeting of the Association, held Thursday evening in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. This meeting marked the 53rd anniversary of the Peterborough branch, and the 89th anniversary of the Association as a whole, the first "Y" being started in London, in 1653.

Mrs. H. C. Sootheran, the president, was in the chair for this meeting, and, in her opening remarks, reviewed the changes which had taken place in Y.W.C.A. work since its beginning in Peterborough. She said that there was not only a change in the dress, and the number of girls attending classes, but that there was a change in the attitude of the girls. "They are beginning to think things out for themselves," she said.

Mrs. Sootheran spoke of the broadened program of "Y" activities, to keep abreast of the times, and paid tribute to Miss L. Brownscombe and the staff of the Y.W.C.A., and the girls and leaders of committees who stood behind every attempt to meet and beat the challenge of a constantly changing world.

Dr. J. D. Smart was in charge of the devotional period of the evening, and took as his text a few verses from Philippians, which he thought were particularly appropriate at an annual meeting. He stressed concentration as an essential part of the success of any project, and said that the goal should always be kept in sight, and never allowed to sink into the background. Concluding his address with a prayer, Dr. Smart asked Divine guidance for the men and women whose duty it would be to plan the work and activities of the Y.W.C.A. for the coming year.

The report of the nominating committee was read to the meeting, and approved as follows: Mrs. H. A. Mitchell and Mrs. H. T. Rehill were named to the Board for a period of two years; ten nominations to fill the vacancies left by the retiring of ten members of the Board of Directors were: Mrs. H. C. Sootheran; Mrs. H. Wightman; Mrs. C. B. Waite; Mrs. F. E. Johnston; Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner; Mrs. T. N. Greer; Miss A. Wood; Mrs. T. J. Carley; Mrs. C. Collins; Miss O. Johnston. The Board of Directors is composed of 30 members, each of whom is appointed for a three year period, and retires at the end of that time. Ten members are appointed each year, and ten retire each year, keeping the membership always at 30.

Annual reports from each department of the Y.W.C.A. were presented. The treasurer's report showed a fine financial year, and a great deal of necessary work done for the "Y". A balance of $368.98 was reported for the "Y" itself, because the residence profit was sufficient to cover the Health deficit. Receipt of bequests was gratefully acknowledged, and a favorable balance was reported in the repair account.

The residence report showed that the "Y" had been filled to capacity during the past year, and that in spite of the difficulties in obtaining domestic help, and procuring food and planning balanced menus, a successful 12-month period had been completed. Tribute was paid to Mrs. E. Morrison for her untiring effort, and to the Girls' Council, for assisting in solving the difficulties.

The Health Education report reviewed the activities of that department during the year, and gave aggregate number of swim and gym girls enrolled. This review showed that the health department had had one of its best years in every way. The report of the Girls' Work Committee also reviewed the activities of the year, taking each club of the "Y" in turn, and telling of the work done in all fields. Miss Roberta Kiefer was welcomed as Girls' Work Secretary in 1943, and her work with the girls was given high praise.

The report of the Camp Committee also showed a successful year financially as well as in activities, with 145 girls registered during the season, and a special meeting of Y.W.C.A. secretaries held after the regular camp, which was well attended. Miss Leta Brownscombe, as General Secretary, summed up the various reports, and said that the problems which had to be met had really helped, because they knit the groups together to make them an Association, and link them into closer membership.

Two musical interludes were presented during the evening. Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, accompanied by Miss Kiefer, sang two lovely solos, "Life's Lovely Things," by Bertha Louise Tamblyn, and "If My Little Girl Were a Tiny Star." Miss Kiefer also presented three piano solos, two by Chopin, and the third by Frank Bridge. At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served, and a social hour was spent.

Adeline K. Cupoli Weds Frank Racz

Rev. Francis Grant officiated at the ceremony in Sacred Heart Church Thursday morning, when Adeline Kay Cupoli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. DeNoble, Parnell Street, became the bride of Mr. Frank Racz, of Peterborough.

The bride looked charming in a two-piece dress of heaven blue, with black accessories and a corsage of Bettertime roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Nick Damario, who wore a two-piece dress of dusty rose, black accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mr. Nick Damario was best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received, in a black Magic Hour crepe dress and wearing a corsage of Rapture roses. Shortly after, Mr. and Mrs. Racz left on a trip to Toronto, and on their return will live at 472 Parnell Street.

R.C.A.F. Auxiliary Holds Tea

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Air Force, held in the Y.W.C.A. Thursday afternoon, took the form of a social afternoon, and over 100 ladies were present. Seventy-four new members were welcomed to the group during the meeting. Over 200 letters of thanks from boys who had received boxes were on display, and as many as time permitted were read.

During the business period, arrangements were made for a card party which will take place at the Y.M.C.A. on March 6, and prizes will be given and refreshments served. Plans for salvage collection were also outlined to the group, and their co-operation was solicited.

Mrs. Prindible, accompanied by Mrs. F. Gray, was soloist for the afternoon.

Navy League Film Shown Trinity Club

Through the kindness of the Navy League and the Canadian General Electric Company, an evening's entertainment of moving pictures was presented at the regular meeting of Trinity Club. The Navy League film was taken at Georgian Bay last summer at the Sea Cadet Camp, and the occasion was the inspection of the camp by H.R.H. Princess Alice. Mr. Charles Huffman commented on the film as it was shown.

The second feature was on the subject, "The Future of Television," and showed how television programs are produced. They were made at WRGB, Schenectedy, N.Y., and were shown by Mr. Barney Scarlett.

The devotional section of the meeting was based on the question, "Is the Christian Ideal Practicable?" Grace Johnson and Ruth Holmes were in charge of refreshments and Bill Donaldson provided the games, with Helen Gray at the piano.

The highlight of the next meeting will be a fashion parade, in which the male members of the club will give their interpretation of the manner in which ladies' clothes should be worn and modeled.

Toronto Woman Heads Ontario Curlers

Mrs. J. A. Taylor of Toronto High Park rink, was unanimously elected president of the Ontario Women's Curling Association at the 31st annual meeting held Thursday night. Ten Ontario curling clubs were represented, having come for the Ontario tankard, held here for the first time in ten years.

Mrs. C. Gooch of Hamilton, took the chair for the nominations and the other officers named for the two-year term are: vice-president, Mrs. E. Northey of Lakefield, and secretary-treasurer Mrs. T. G. Bosworth of High Park, Toronto Club. The choosing of a vice president aroused a good deal of opposition as several nominees refused the position. Mrs. Stanley Hall of Kingston declined, as did Mrs. T. Agar of Toronto Granites and Mrs. J. Humphrey of Toronto Granites.

Chairman for the evening was Mrs. R. Turner, president of the Peterborough Curling Association, who welcomed the guests, expressing regret that the ice was not too good. She commented on the fact that both Kingston and Lakefield rinks were making their first appearance here since the last tankark ten years ago, and expressed the hope that they would return oftener. The younger members were asked to keep up their enthusiasm for the game, since they are to be the mainstay of the curlers in the future.

Hear Reports

The 1943-1944 president, Mrs. C. Weir of Sarnia, presided for the business meeting and Mrs. Turner read the reports of the secretary-treasurer in her absence. The financial report showed a balance on hand of $46.82 at the end of the year, January 31, 1944. Curling has been taken up by the women in Oshawa and the secretary was instructed to write them and ask them to become members of the Association next year. Following the election, Mrs. Taylor presided.

An invitation was extended by Mrs. J. P. McIntosh on behalf of the Bobcaygeon club, to hold the tankard there in 1945, and the Association accepted.

During the evening Mrs. C. Westbrook acted as master of ceremonies for a lively sing song, with Miss Florence Gladman of Peterborough at the piano. The guests sang popular songs with words arranged for the curlers. Mrs. L. Wood of Peterborough and Mrs. C. Code of Toronto did impromptu stunts.

Representatives of the rinks present thanked the Peterborough Club for their kindness and Mrs. Agar, one of the older members of the Association, welcomed the Kingston club into active membership again. Mrs. W. Pepall of Toronto Granites, moved a vote of thanks to the retiring officers.

The ten clubs represented at the dinner were: Peterborough, Bobcaygeon, Lakefield, Kingston, Hamilton, Sarnia, Toronto Granites, Toronto High Park, Toronto Royal Canadians and Toronto Royal Victoria.

Mrs. J. P. McIntosh of Bobcaygeon delighted the gathering with her singing of "The White Cliffs of Dover." There were 80 women at the meeting, 60 of whom were guests.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Friday, Feb. 4, 1944

We may live without poetry, music, and art,
We may live without conscience, and live without heart,
We may live without friends, we may live without books,
But civilized man cannot live without cooks.

Cheese Fondu

Two cups scalded milk, one cup soft bread crumbs, ½ cup grated cheese, 1 tablespoon melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, three egg yolks. Mix all together, and last pour in the well beaten egg white. Bake in a pan of hot water, in moderate oven. This makes a lovely supper dish.

Corn Meal Muffins

½ cup corn meal, ½ cup flour, four teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, three tablespoons shortening, one cup milk, one egg. Sift together corn meal, flour, salt, sugar and baking powder, add melted butter, mix one well beaten egg into one cup of milk, mix well, and bake in a hot oven.

BECOMES A SCOURGE

GLASGOW —(CP)— Gastric illnesses and duodenal ulcers have become a scourge ranking with T. B. and rheumatic fever, Robert Mailer, surgeon at Victoria Infirmary here, believes. These complaints were the results of worry, economic problems, restless living, snack meals, and the use of tobacco, he said.

FURS FOR SPRING — Come spring and a girl really starts to think about furs. For a new fur jacket has become part of the Spring ritual and many a girl goes blithely through the Winter dressed in a neat woollen reefer because she wants a fur jacket in Spring. In other words she saves up to buy furs for Spring and Summer wear. This lovely jacket is of natural Norwegian blue fox, a nice change from the ubiquitous silver fox and much nicer for a 'teen-age beauty.—By Alice Alden.

Not Interested

HACKENSACK, N.J., Feb. 4 (AP).—A woman summoned for jury duty in Bergen county wrote Jury Commissioner Covert L. Goodlove: "Dear Sir: In answer to your letter, I am not interested in your offer. I have a good paying job now."

WILSON CHIEF — Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, who is Allied commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean.

MARINES DO "THE IMPOSSIBLE" — Working in the rough surf, U.S. Marines are shown laying a sandbag road through the shallows off the beach at New Britain Island to permit fast unloading of equipment from landing craft. The big LST's were unable to get close enough to the beach to unload their cargo of bulldozers, trucks, etc., so the Marines brought the beach to the LST's, making it possible to drive the rolling stock from ship to shore.

MOVIES GUIDING GIRL'S LIVES

Could Emphasize Beauty in Righteousness and Old Standards Appeal to Men.

THE most potent influence in the world today over young girls is the moving picture. It is their Bible, their Emily Post; it is the laws and the commandments about their morals and their manners and their general conduct and appearance.

Of course, every teen-ager is necessarily a copycat. She has no knowledge of life or experience to guide her, so she has to form herself upon someone whom she sets up as an ideal. In former days this paragon was Mother, or Joan of Arc, or Florence Nightingale, or Frances Willard, and Sweet Sixteen dreamed about being like them and having a houseful of beautiful, blue-eyed, golden-haired children, or being a ministering angel, or working great reforms, and generally uplifting the world.

But not now. There isn't a little sub-deb who doesn't turn up her nose at Mother's opinions, nor is there any girl-child who craves to emulate the great women who adorn the pages of history, but who, she thinks, must have been awful frumps and had a slow time of it, having just one husband, or maybe no husband at all, and doing things in which there was no pep.

The women at whose shrine these youngsters worship are the cinema stars. They are the ones they want to be like. They are the ones who set the pattern of life for them, and if you doubt this for a moment, just consider the slavish obedience with which they follow their screen idols.

Does a star have her hair bobbed? Every mother's daughter of them makes a rush for the barber shop. Does one appear in public with her coat hanging over her shoulders? Every cutie is suddenly metamorphosed in Sloppy Josie. Does another starlet appear in a picture in a sweater? The whole bunch of them would rather be dead than not be a Sweater Girl.

Now, inasmuch as the silver screen is forming the characters of our girls, it seems a pity that it does not oftener hold up for their imitation the kind of women we wish them to be when they are grown-up—the woman who is beautiful and glamorous and admired, yet who wears about her a cloak of reserve and dignity and modesty that she never drops.

It would do more than all of our prayers and preachings to make our darling little nitwits see that decency isn't necessarily stodgy; that vulgarity is not wit; that a drunken girl isn't funny, she is just disgusting; that stripping off her clothes doesn't make a homely girl attractive, it just calls attention to her defects, and that while loose morals may get a girl dates, they do not take her to the altar.

Movies Should Teach Beauty In Righteousness

In a word, we would like to have it brought home to our girls, through the all-potent power of the cinema, that there is a beauty in righteousness that transcends that of the flesh, and that all of the old standardized feminine virtues are still the charms that are the most appealing to men.

Customs have changed, but not the things that make women attractive to men. Femininity has always been women's chief lure, and it always will be. Men will always want to see women in fluffy ruffles instead of breeches. Gentleness, sympathy and kindness are the qualities men admire more in women than wisecracking, and every man wants a woman who says her prayers and believes in God and has standards of right living that no one can shake. And when men come to marry, the flower they want to pin in their buttonholes is a bud with the dew on it, not one that has been trampled in the mire of the street.

Perhaps if our little Jills could be taught, what they are too young to figure out for themselves, how much more glamorous modesty and reserve and purity are in a girl than hoodlumism, we would have more good little girls and fewer bar flies.

And not so many mothers would have to lie awake at night wondering where their daughters are.

Police Crack Down

MONTREAL, Feb. 4 — (CP). — All known disorderly houses here have been closed for an "undetermined" period by the municipal police morality squad, it was announced last night. The measure, it was explained, was taken in keeping with the nation-wide social hygiene campaign which holds disorderly houses as chief factor in the incidence of venereal disease in Canada's armed forces.

Action Promised

vision in that milk by-law that has been carried out," declared the Mayor.

Following a communication from the Bank of Montreal pointing out that interest rates on money borrowed by the town after March 1st would be reduced from 5 to 4½ per cent., Finance Chairman Fowlds raised the question of reducing prepayment discounts to taxpayers. He was of the opinion that the discount could be substantially lowered from its 6 per cent. rate and still attract money to the town treasury ahead of time. The existing discounts of 3 per cent. on the first half and 6 per cent. on the second half of taxes if paid before January 15 was too far out of line with current 1 per cent. bank interest rates.

Under the present system it was costing the town nearly twice as much to get the money in advance from taxpayers as it would cost to borrow outright from the bank, in the opinion of Councillor Anderson. The matter of revision was left for further discussion without any action being taken.

Police Chairman McMillan announced his committee had met with the Police Chief to discuss among other things, the proposal to license bicycles. He said the committee was unanimously in favor of the plan, which according to Police Chief Hardy would effect between 500 and 600 bicycles. Councillor Brady was opposed to the plan as a purely local undertaking, but felt it would be effective if adopted on a province-wide scale as was recently recommended by the Ontario Police Association. To the suggestion that licensing would cut down on thefts he declared, "If a bicycle is worth keeping it's worth buying a lock for."

Mayor Long voiced a similar view. One result of the discussion was agreement of members that there was need for some facility for parking bicycles in various parts of the town, and on motion of Deputy-Reeve Fowlds and Reeve MacMillan the Road and Bridge Committee was authorized to have six bicycle parking racks constructed.

Taxes Collected.

The report of Tax Collector J. C. Birmingham underscored the suggestion previously made by Finance Chairman Fowlds. His statement for January showed $1,014.99 in 1943 taxes collected that month and a total of $10,913.83 in prepayments of 1944 taxes. Arrears totalling $208.31 were paid. In his capacity of school attendance officer, Mr. Birmingham reported 370 on the roll at the Public School with the aggregate attendance for 1943, 61,594; irregular attendance, 65; employment permits issued, 8; home help permits, 4; percentage of attendance, 87.40. At the High School there were 192 on the roll with an average attendance of 150; home permits, 2; employment permits, 3. Separate School: 50 on the roll; average attendance, 43.15. This made a total of 612 pupils in all three schools.

Assist Men Overseas.

Councillor Brady felt that little had been done by the Corporation for those in the armed forces overseas, and he recommended that council assist the local branch of the Legion with their cigarette fund campaign. His suggestion that council send a letter of sympathy to the next-of-kin of all soldiers from this town killed in action was approved. It was felt that a direct grant to the cigarette fund by council might lessen the incentive of people to give through ordinary channels and he recommended an effort be made by council to have the individual assume the responsibility of making regular monthly contributions to the fund. Regular contributions of $1 or $2 per month would readily put the cigarette fund over and assure smokes for the boys from this community.

Concluding item of business was the passage of a by-law fixing payment to Water and Light Commissioners at $5 for each of thirteen regular meetings and $100 to the chairman each year. The money for this will be taken from Utilities revenues.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. will wind up its regular schedule and set the stage for the playoffs tonight when the final double-header will be played. St. John's, the second-place team in the loop have the bye tonight and the other four teams will make their final appearance before entering the final series. In the opening game the Normal girls will clash with the league-leading Transports who have seven straight wins to their credit and should end with an unbeaten record of eight victories in a row. The Normalities will play out the string and battle until the final whistle but the experience and scoring power of the Transports are too big a handicap for the future school teachers to handle. In the second game on the card C.G.E. Generals meet the Y Cadets and should wind up their regular season with a victory to give them a total of four wins and four losses in the regular schedule and third place in the league standing. The first game of the double-header is billed for 7.45 o'clock and the second fixture should start an hour later.

Peterborough is not the only hockey centre without ice accommodation this winter. In Kitchener, long the home of good teams, there is no hockey cushion available as the situation there is the same as here with the former hockey arena used for other purposes. The sports commentator of the Kitchener News-Record was in attendance at the St. Mike's-Galt game the other night and was impressed by the fine showing made by three young Kitchener boys with the Collegians, forwards Dave Bauer and Bobbie Schnurr and goalie Pat Boehmer. All three of them are headed for the hockey major loop, he opines and then he adds mournfully: "Watching three local boys star for an out-of-town team is another good argument for an auditorium in the city. With players of this calibre as a nucleus, Kitchener could have a strong junior "A" entry if they had some place to play their games here. The sooner plans are completed to put up a rink the sooner it will be possible to keep our own boys at home to pick up the tradition of the old green and white where it was broken when the old arena folded."

Did Much For Sport

Peterborough sportsmen who have met Flight Lieut. Buff Horton since he took over the sports' officer duties with the Trenton R.C.A.F. will be sorry to learn that he is leaving this district. Here is what Ken Colling says about it in his sports column in the Belleville sheet: "F-L. F. E. "Buff" Horton, who has been chief sports' officer at the Trenton R.C.A.F. main station for the past two years, has been promoted to head the physical training program for the No. 2 Training Command of the R.C.A.F. and is to be stationed at Winnipeg. A native of Toronto F-L. Horton took an active interest in playground and city sporting activities in the Queen City prior to enlisting as a sports' officer with the R.C.A.F. His many friends in the Eastern Ontario area will be glad to hear of his splendid promotion, although sorry to see such a competent sports organizer leave the district. A few of the many features brought to this district by F-L. Horton included the 1942 senior Ontario Basketball Association finals and later a Dominion semi-final series. "Buff" Horton has always featured a strong cage quintette at the Trenton station, which is still a feature today, as his present Flyers high-hoop star aggregation has played 12 games this season without sustaining a loss."

A warning to all and sundry to beware of the Brantford junior team has been issued by Oshawa's sport scribe, George Soup Campbell, who pictures the Telephone City's club as a distinct menace, pointing out that injuries sustained by Port Colborne players may be fatal to that team's chances. He adds: "Away back in December we picked Brantford as the team to watch in the Western group, stating they were just as "likely to succeed" as either Galt Kists or St. Kitts. We were pooh-poohed by many hockey "experts" at the time but after Brantford's overtime victory right on Galt ice Saturday night, some of the boys are beginning to sit up and take notice. The Brants are still on the bottom but they are only 9 points away from Port Colborne and they have played 4 less games, which means that 4 wins (and they are playing good hockey right now) will put them within one point of third place. Not only that, Brantford is finished with both St. Mike's and Oshawa, so they have a good chance to make a real showing from here in. We still think they have the player material, big, fast skaters of real ability with a real strong defense and fair goalie. If Crone starts kicking out pucks like other goalies in the league are doing, Brantford will just manage to catch 3rd place, the final playoff berth—and IF THEY DO, watch out!"

Time To Retire

There are a couple of well-known fighters whom Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star believes should give up the racket before they are damaged too much. One is Fritzie Zivic who has taken quite a pounding in his long career in the ring and according to the Windsor writer should get out before it is too late. And then he has the following to say about another famous figure in ring circles: "Henry Armstrong is another fighter whom we'd like to see call it a day. Only fighter in ring history ever to hold three world titles at the same time, Armstrong hasn't been as fortunate as Zivic. He quit the ring once because of failing eyesight. That was three years ago. The skin around his eyes was a mass of scar tissue. Several doctors told him that if he ever fought again he would be doing so at the risk of spending the rest of his days in darkness. Hammering Henry took the advice of those doctors and his manager. He quit—but only for a time. Many of the investments he had made turned out badly and he needed money. So against the advice of many of his friends, he decided to try a comeback."

* * * * * *

"In his comeback Armstrong travelled quite a long way," continues the Vaughan story. "He wasn't as good as he had been, but he was still good enough to fight his way back into the big dough. In the course of his comeback, Hammering Henry got himself another nest egg. His real friends kept begging him to remember what those doctors had told—kept asking him now that he had money once again, to quit. For a second time, Armstrong said that he was through. But the glare of the big lights, the smell of resin, the thud of gloves smacking skin, the roar of the crowd, proved too much for him to resist. He's back fighting again. Maybe the thoughts of being blinded for life holds no terror for Armstrong. We wouldn't know. But if it does happen we are sure that he will be sorry as long as he lives. That's why we wish he would quit."

Bowling Lead Is Cut To Two Points

The race for first place in the Men's City Bowling League narrowed down to a mere 2-point margin for Jay's last night when they received a startling 2 to 1 upset from Harold Freeman's team while Cleanrites, the second placers and heavy favorites for weeks to finish around the top, hit a smashing 3658 score against the C.G.E. Machine Shop for a clean sweep of 3 points. Their 1306 first game was tops for the evening.

Mel Anthony of the K. of C. and Chief Gimblett rolling against each other staged a battle royal for the evening's high individual scores. A beautiful 358 single gave Mel the honors as he totalled 871 while the veteran fire chief went out on a scoring rampage to hit 325, 256 and 263 for a total count of 844.

The competition for high average cooled off tempoarily but the figures show Dyer still ahead with 247 and Abraham a fraction of a point behind. Weese, Martin and Playford, the other 240 or better men, lost ground in the more pressing worries of their battle with Freeman's team.

Good singles included Anthony's 358, Bert McCarroll's 351, George Gimblett's 325 Ray Clifford's 315, Irvin Haines 307, Ab Evans 307, Walter Crary 307 and Jack Playford 307.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Feb. 4 — (CP). — Death of Carroll Boucher in Ottawa this week recalls one of the most prolonged family sport feuds on record — the friendly war between those two Ottawa sport clans the Bouchers and the Lowreys.

Bill Gladish, a CP editor in Toronto and long-time sports observer, recalls that although the Boucher-Lowrey challenges were frequent, bursting out at irregular intervals for no apparent reason, the families never met in hockey combat and confined themselves to verbal arguments as to their respective merits.

There were six Bouchers including Tom, the father, who won renown principally for rugged play with the famous old Roubgh Rider football teams. The sons are Frank still coaching and playing a bit with N. York Rangers although he is 41, George (Buck) of the Ottawa Senators, whose hips tossed many a forward into the boards; Billy, whose scraps with Sprague Cleghorn were a show in themselves until the two played together with Canadiens Joseph, who had little or no interest in hockey; and Carroll.

Of Carroll, Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal says: "He'd enjoyed a varied career, one that had carried him around the race tracks across the border, with some of the bigger circuses and a turn on the dog tracks down south.....An unfailing sense of humor, the knack of telling a story and the ability to always see the lighter side of life won him hundreds of friends."

There are seven Lowery brothers —Tommy of Ottawa munitions hockey fame and now an Ottawa newspaperman; Jerry, who played for many professional teams; Fred (Frock), formerly of the N.H.L.; Eddie, for many years coach of the University of Michigan hockey team; Rev. Robert, who started in hockey before entering the priesthood; Frank, a pre-war puckchaser; and Bill, the youngest, who did his hockey chores mostly for Ottawa Valley teams. Incidentally, Fred, Frank, and Father Robert now are overseas.

Al the Bouchers and Lowreys on the ice together would have set a modern N.H.L. manager's eyes popping. They had color, talent, and that old Ottawa fighting spirit that meant sport drama.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—(AP)—In spite of Commissioner Landis "stay-out-of-Washington" order, baseball men would like to get an official ruling that would permit players to leave war jobs without becoming draft bait...It would help the game's manpower situation a lot to have a few of those guys mingle with the 4-F's...Pro football, you recall, asked the question last fall and received word that the players' real business was football so they didn't have to be "unfrozen."

One-Minute Sports Page

The International League will consider adopting Warren Giles' plan of having the decision on all doubtful baseball plays announced over the loud speakers...Southwestern grid experts are plugging Norvell (Red) Smith, New Mexico halfback, for a National Football League job and promise he'll be a sensation by the end of his first season...If he's 4-F he's in...Did you know that the original purpose of the basketball backboard wasn't to provide bank shots or rebounds but to keep spectators on the balcony from knocking the ball away from the basket...That was before they had players who could reach up and do the same thing.

Syd Howe Gets Six Goals To Set Record

By The Canadian Press

Syd Howe seems determined to prove that the first 200 goals are the hardest.

He made it look that way last night, scoring six goals to establish a National Hockey League record as Detroit Red Wings routed New York Rangers 12-2 before 8,147 spectators. The result shunted the rehabilitated Red Wings into sole possession of second place, two points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Howe scored his goals in pairs, connecting 18 seconds apart in the first period, 62 seconds apart in the second and within 57 seconds in the final. This rapid work was in sharp contrast with the plodding fashion in which he reached the 200-goal mark through 10 seasons with three N.H.L. clubs.

Over 200

The 32-year-old Perth, Ont., centre who now works in a Detroit war plant thus stands in the hallowed company of a dozen or so N.H.L. greats headed by Nels (Old Poison) Stewart, who is generally estimated to have scored 323 goals. Howe's total of 207 goals is exceeded among players still active only by Harvey (Busher) Jackson of Boston Bruins, now edging toward 250.

In accomplishing the double hat trick, Howe smashed a League record of five goals established in 1917 by Harry Hyland of Montreal Wanderers and equalled eight times by such notables as Howie Morenz, Charley Conacher, Pit Lepine and Ray Getliffe of Montreal Canadiens, who did it last year.

It was a smashing victory for Detroit, who less than a month ago floundered in fifth place. They scored three goals in each of the first periods and ran the count to 9-0 before Bucko McDonald beat Conny Dion for the first Ranger score against Detroit in three games. The scoring jag, following Detroit's 15-0 triumph over New York a fortnight ago, gave the Wings a total of 50 goals in seven games against the Blueshirts this season.

Carl Liscombe with two goals and Don Grosso, Cully Simon, Mud Bruneteau and Flash Hollett with one apiece padded their averages, Grosso compiling six assists as well. Bruneteau's goal was his 26th of the season, setting a club record for goals in one season. Fernand Gauthier got the other New York tally late in the third period.

Ken McCauley handled 39 chances in the Ranger nets compared with 21 by Dion, who has lost only once in nine starts since obtaining a medical discharge from the Canadian Army.

AS PLAYER — MANAGER

CASEY STENGEL QUITS—Charles Dillon Stengel, "Casey" to baseball folk, has resigned his job as manager of the Boston Braves, which job he took in 1938 after managing the Brooklyn Dodgers. Stengel was an outfielder in his playing career, breaking in with Kankakee in 1910. He broke into the majors in 1912 with Brooklyn and later played with Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The hot stove league season reaches its zenith to-morrow at New York when baseball's leaders will gather for the first meeting of the post-war planning committee and also to be guests at the annual dinner of the New York Baseball Writers' Association where plans and policies are likely to be unfolded to exterminate talk of breakers ahead for both major and minor leagues.

The prediction was made last night that consideration of the post-war program for the diamond sport would be subordinated to more immediate difficulties when the committee opens its discussions Saturday. The player situation is rapidly becoming acute and it was suggested the club owners would modify the June 15 deadline for player trades and adopted measures for quick transfer of ball-tossers to meet unexpected developments anytime during the 1944 season. The International League will meet over the week-end for pre-season business while the National League schedule meeting has been arranged for Tuesday.

Just a Gag.

President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians last night qualified his previous statement of intention to close his ball park if high-class baseball could not be offered the public by saying "if we ever reached the point where we'd have to put catchers in the outfield, I'd be in favour of suspending."

Emery Hresko, 17-year-old pitcher of a Flint, Mich., junior team, yesterday signed a contract with the Detroit Tigers of the American League and was ordered to report to the team's spring camp at Evansville, Ind., March 10. He won 12 straight games last summer with the junior outfit.

Bolingbroke, Eurasian and Sun Again yesterday was established as favorites for the $25,000 Widener Handicap at one mile and one quarter at Hilaleah Park track March 4. Second choices included Princequillo, Alsab and Marriage.

Count War Record.

Dominick DiMaggio, Boston Red Sox outfielder now with the U. S. Navy, said last night time spent in the armed services by big league players should count as part of their baseball careers to enable them to reach the 10-year classification after which they cannot be returned to the minors.

Returning to Winnipeg after winning the Quebec bonspiel with the rink which was originally skipped by John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, Gordon Hudson declared eastern curlers were improving but had much to learn from the westerners. Even Quebec curlers were forgetting about irons and taking up granites, he said.

After learning President Branch Rickey had made arrangements for Coach Chuck Dressen to handle the Brooklyn Dodgers until he returned from a camp tour overseas, Manager Leo Durocher made it known at Tampa, Fla., yesterday he would be on hand at Bear Mountain, N.Y., when the team opened its spring training March 12.

By The Canadian Press

Although 14 goals were scored last night when Detroit Red Wings thrashed New York Rangers 12-2, only one position—seventh place — changed ownership in the high-scoring list. Detroit winger Joe Carveth got two assists to make a total of 47 points and force Elmer Lach, Canadiens, out of seventh place. Lach has 46 points. Other scoring leaders were idle.

English Papers Comment On Premier's Speech

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 4—(CP Cable)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King's speech in the House of Commons at Ottawa Monday, rejecting suggestions for seeking a balance of power among great nations after the war and urging instead close co-operation, has produced studied comment and reflections on Commonwealth policy in influential British provincial newspapers and those in South Africa.

(The Prime Minister told the House Canada would not suppost suggestions of Viscount Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, and Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts of South Africa that balance of power among great nations be sought after the war. He said, "what we must strive for is close co-operation among these great states themselves and all other like-minded countries.")

"Canada is a loyal member of the Commonwealth which has made immense sacrifices for the war but a proposal to take away her right to decide her foreign policy would produce a dangerous disunity and inflame racial feeling which it has been the triumph of British statesmanship to subdue," commented the Manchester Guardian.

Agree With King

"No wonder that Mr. Mackenzie King, her experienced Prime Minister, thinks the Halifax proposals inopportune. A policy of trying to iron out the varieties of the Commonwealth and form a solid body of opinion offends the fundamental instinct of the Dominions."

The Yorkshire Post said "there will be wide agreement with Mr. Mackenzie King's main thesis which is that the best way of preserving peace is not to seek a balance of strength among three or four great powers but to create an effective international system inside which co-operation of all peace-loving countries is freely sought and given."

"Any durable scheme of security must rest in the first place upon collaboration and mutual trust between the British Commonwealth, the Soviet Union and the United States. . . . But is the Canadian Prime Minister justified in assuming that behind the idea recently put forward by Lord Halifax there lurks some conception antagonistic to these basic principles of international organization the Yorkshire Post asked.

Raises Question

The newspaper wondered why the Halifax proposal for a Commonwealth common voice on foreign policy would stand in the way of building up the general world system the nations desire.

Reuters News Agency reported from Cape Town that the Orange Free State newspaper "Friend" of Bloemfontein said "we believe that when the issues are narrowed down and the problem of Commonwealth unity examined in the light of larger unity it will be found that no unbridgeable gulf divided Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Smuts and Lord Halifax. Dominion freedom and Commonwealth unity and world co-operation are not irreconcilable and the task of the next Empire conference will be to prove they can and will be reconciled."

South African Paper

The Cape Times of Cape Town doubted whether the Canadian prime minister was right in reading power politics into the Halifax and Smuts speeches.

"For a span of years after the destruction of Hitler, military power undoubtedly will have to be used to restore order and re-establish law," the newspaper said, adding "it will be after the aftermath that Mackenzie King's ideals will come true."

"Nowhere more than in South Africa could he find readier support for the eventual creation of an influential system within which all peoples would freely co-operate with full responsibilities and specifically avoid formation of exclusive and mutually antagonistic groups," the Times said.

SIXTEEN INDIVIDUAL SOVIET REPUBLICS CREATED—Sixteen republics within the U.S.R. have been empowered to deal directly with other countries and raise their own army units under a plan adopted unanimously by the supreme Soviet. The plan was placed before the Soviet by Foreign Commissar V. Molotov, with Premier Josef Stalin present. In the new constitution the 11 original "union republics" and five other "union republics" become a Russian commonwealth of 16 nations similar to the British commonwealth. The five new republics are Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia along the Baltic sea south of Leningrad but not shown on this map, the former Karelian autonomous republic, now Karelo-Finnish, and Moldavia, the shaded area shown to the west of the Ukraine, but unnamed on this map. Eleven original union republics now given dominion status are Russian, the largest state on the map, with Moscow its capital, Ukraine, White Russia, Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan, Uzbekistan, Turkmenia, Tadjikistan Kazakhstan and Kirghizia. These are all found on the left half of the above map. The sparsely settled and largely undeveloped Asiatic areas, consisting of nine autonomous provinces, five territories and 34 provinces, roughly grouped into the administrative districts shown here, now become "colonies" of the Russian republic.

St. James Church Has Good Year

EAST EMILY, Feb. 4.—(ENS).—The annual vestry meeting of St. James church was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Franks, with the Rev. Mr. Pooley presiding as chairman and Herman Franks the vestry clerk for the evening. Reports of the various organizations showed that the past year had been a very successful one, and committee reports given by Mrs. Wilbert Clark, Arnott Boate, John Franks and Herman Franks all exhibited a substantial balance on hand.

After holding the post of people's warden for nine years, during which time he has served the members capably, Mr. Boate announced his retirement, thanking all for their co-operation and support in the past. His place will be taken by George Tirnen for the present year, while Alton Clark is to replace Mr. Vincent Franks as minister's warden.

Mr. Wilbert Clark was chosen lay representative, and other appointments included those of sidesmen, bell-ringer and grounds committee. A vote of thanks was extended to Richard Davis for his donation of fuel for the coming year, and on behalf of the congregation Rev. Mr. Pooley and Mr. Boate expressed thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Franks for the use of their home for the meeting.

After conclusion of the evening's business a pot luck supper was served.

civilian life and has secured a job," said Mr. Fraser.

Expects Criticism

"I do not think these people should come in now and be given the advantage of jobs over our men who are overseas fighting for you and me, and I will fight the entrance of these people to Canada to the last ditch."

Mr. Fraser said immigration should be stopped until members of the forces are back and workers in war factories obtained other jobs

"I shall be criticized throughout Canada for saying this but it is my belief and I know there are thousands of others who feel as I do." he said.

He also suggested the most rigid physical and mental examination for intending immigrants, including x-ray examihation. They should be examined by two doctors and at two different points. Those admitted should be "morally and mentally well."

Private members occupied the floor throughout yesterday. So far no Cabinet Minister has spoken. Members, however, look for a statement from Defence Minister Ralston on Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton's relinquishing the overseas army command and other army matters, perhaps today.

Opposes C.B.C.

A demand for an end of Government monopoly in radio came from Douglas Ross (PC—Toronto St. Paul's,) who was critical of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

He said the "absolutism of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is becoming intolerable and it is becoming more dangerous all the time."

The CBC was no longer controlled by its Board of Governors but by the Government and the Liberal Party. There were two vacancies on the Board of Governors and there was no general manager. The acting general manager now acted as a referee to determine what public men should speak on the radio.

At the same time certain forum discussions were carried on which were "most misleading" and "often very inaccurate." On the new CBO chain an American speaker was heard discussing Indian politics to the effect there was persecution of Nationalist leaders. If that sort of thing were broadcast there should be an opportunity for other speakers to state the other side of the case.

John Bracken had been refused the air "simply because he was the Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party." Yet ministers were allowed to speak over the air.

Mr. Ross said there should be an independent commission like the Board of Transport Commissioners to act as a referee in radio matters, to decide questions as to use of the air by public men, and to decide issues between private stations and the CBC.

There was plenty of room in Canada for two competing systems, and an all-powerful radio monopoly should not be allowed, Mr. Ross said.

Charge 18 American Selectees Took Drug To Boost Blood Pressure And Get Rejected

WASHINGTON Feb. 4 —(AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today the arrest of 18 Washington men, including an orchestra leader and two postal employees, in what it described as "widespread attempts" to violate the Selective Service Act through use of drugs producing high blood pressure.

Director J. Edgar Hoover of the F.B.I. said the selectees took a drug, in tablet or liquid form, shortly before reporting to the induction centre at Fort Myer, Va., and the drug produced abnormally high blood pressure for several hours, causing the men to be rejected for military service.

Albert Stewart, 36, a mail carrier, has been charged with aiding and abetting evasion of military service. Everett M. "Washie" Bratcher, orchestra leader at a Washington hotel, another of the group, admitted to F.B.I. agents, Hoover said, that he had taken the drug before his examination.

Czechs Seeking Slavic Alliance

LONDON, Feb. 4 (CP)—President Eduard Benes told the Czechoslovak State Council today that Russia and the Czechs were working for a Slav alliance including Poland to ensure peace in Central and Eastern Europe.

He said the treaty he signed recently with Russia not only was a Soviet-Czechoslovak affair but was "part of a great political entity and one of the links in a post-war security system of which the Anglo-Soviet agreement is another particularly important part."

"The treaty means for us a permanent assurance against the recurrence of Pan-Germanism," he continued.

"It is a guarantee of our frontiers and of the independence of our Republic."

tone of the statement, however, seemed to confirm recurring reports that the Germans have been trying to prevail upon the Pope to come to Germany.

German propagandists, who have pictured Hitler as Europe's great bulwark against Communism, presumably would relish an opportunity to represent him to the world as the defender of the Pope's person.

Dispatches from Berne quoted the newspaper La Suisse of Geneva as saying that Vatican City is following closely the campaign of the Soviet press accusing it of Fascist leanings. In reply to this accusation, La Suisse said, Vatican circles cite the fact that the Fascist press is continually attacking the holy see on the grounds that it opposes the new Fascist government of Benito Mussolini.

These opposing accusations, it was argued, demonstrate that the Vatican has actually kept aloof from politics.

Deputy Reeve Robert Gray reported to York Township Council this week that residents fear the rodents may spread disease.

Must Maintain Cheese Quality

SASKATOON, Feb. 4 —(CP) — The importance of Canada's dairy industry maintaining high standards for its products was outlined to-day by W. C. Cameron, of Ottawa, acting chief of dairy products, Department of Agriculture, in an address prepared for delivery to the Inter-Provincial Daiy conference here.

"It would seem that whatever the pattern of future developments in the industry may be, it will be closely woven around the demand for products of high quality at a price within the means of all," he said.

Every one of the United Nations emphasizes quality as well as quantity in the production of dairy products, and by no means the least of these is the United Kingdom. It is of vital importance not only to the present welfare of the cheese industry, but also to the future status of the entire Canadian dairy industry, that the quality of Canadian cheese be not only maintained, but improved."

Curb Buying Spree

OAKVILLE, Feb. 4 (CP).—"The future of every Canadian is being crippled by the spread of the buying fever," said Mrs. Ryland H. She warned Canada's buying spree is letting the nation in for "a depression much blacker and more terrible than that of the 30's."

More Soldiers Swell Invasion Force

By SHOLTO WATT
Montreal Star Correspondent Representing the Combined Canadian Press Distributed by The Canadian Press.

NETTUNO, Italy Feb. 2.—(Delayed.)—Reinforcements are constantly arriving in this sector of the Allied invasion beachhead south of Rome.

Tuesday a convoy arrived which was of surprising size when it is realized the landing place and the whole bridgehead are within range of enemy shells.

For the first time in four trips the landing craft in which I travelled did not use its anti-aircraft guns. Supplies for the forces here are well ahead of schedule.

The most extraordinary feature in this area is the towns consisting principally of substantial villas of the wealthy are virtually empty of civilians. The people were all evacuated by the Germans to centres in the country and had taken their valuables. Every house since had been systematically ransacked by the Germans.

Road Under Fire.

Extra strength piles up daily behind the forward lines. Air cover is giving great satisfaction.

Hardest fighting Tuesday and Wednesday was around the Cisterna junction on the road between Rome and Littoria. The road itself is under Allied fire and very little German movement has been observed on it.

The Germans were ordered to hold Cisterna to the last man but their troops to the south are already in a difficult position as the only alternative route of supply or withdrawal is by a roundabout mountain road.

Information which I believe reliable is that Rome is greatly overcrowded with perhaps double its normal population of 1,000,000, and is under strict German military law. Even bicycle travel is prohibited. Civilians are not allowed to move from one quarter to another. There is no electricity and food supplies are dangerously low, probably a fortnight's supply being available.

Rome's principal art treasures and those of many other Italians are still in Rome, the most precious being deposited in the Vatican. It is thought unlikely the Germans will be able to move much away due to scarcity of petrol.

Daisy Mission Band Wins Recognition Star

HAVELOCK, Feb. 4 (ENS)—The "Road to Friendship" was the theme of the study lesson told to the members of Daisy Mission Band, at their meeting on Tuesday afternoon, by the leader, Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson.

Band president, Betty Post, opened the meeting. A suitable children's hymn on Missions was sung and Mrs. J. Kinnaird led in prayer. Helen Anderson read the Scripture lesson. A temperance story "What the Fairy Told the Queen" was read by Bobbie Hill. Jackie Southward gave a piano solo "The Fairy Harp." The Band received a star of recognition, being one of five out of 15 Bands in the Presbyterial to receive this honor. The report of the Mission Band from Presbytery on the "Children of Africa" was told by Mrs. Wilkinson. Twenty-three members were present at this meeting, and enjoyed the birthday cake. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Kinnaird.

Cows, Bulls Gain 25 to 50; Veal Calves Up

TORONTO, Feb. 4 — (CP). — Cows and bulls gained 25 to 50 cents cwt. in cattle trade on the Livestock Market here this week. Steers and heifers were unchanged. Veal calves were 50 cents to $1 cwt. higher. Hogs, lambs, and sheep were steady.

In cattle trade, with the exception of cows and bulls which recovered most of previous week's decline, trading was slow on a small supply. Beef continued to move slowly to consumers. Weighty steers sold at $11 to $12.75, strictly choice steers at $13. Butcher steers were $10.50 to $12, and heifers $10 to $11.75. Fed yearlings were weak at $11.75 to $13. Butcher cows closed at $7 to $8.75, with canners downward to $5. Bulls closed at $7.50 to $8.75. A few lots of medium to good stockers sold at $8 to $10.50 cwt. Milkers and springers were steady from $85 to $160 each according to quality.

The calf run was very light and prices advanced on all grades. Tops closed at $16.50 to $17, with common downward to $10 and bulk of sales between $14 and $16.50.

Sheep and lambs receipts were mostly from Western Canada. Good Western lambs were $13, with one load making $13.25. Local feed-lot lambs of plain to medium quality sold $6 to $12.50 cwt. Sheep were slow sellers at $2.50 to $6 cwt. according to quality.

Hogs were $17.15 dressed for the basic grade, with sows at $13 dressed. Several loads of Western sows were unsold.

WHITBY Feb. 4 — (CP) — Isamu Tamai, 23, Canadian-born Japanese, electing trial by jury, was committed for trial in police court here yesterday on two charges to which he pleaded not guilty.

He was charged with being in possession of an explosive substance for an unlawful purpose and with throwing or placing an explosive into or near a building with intent to damage the building. Request by Tamai's counsel for a reduction in bail of $3,000 was refused by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs.

Ministers Seek All-Out Disease Fight

OTTAWA, Feb. 4—(CP)—Ministers of Health in the Maritime provinces have joined Health Minister Mackenzie in urging an all-out campaign against veneral diseases, termed by Mr. Mackenzie "the greatest public health problem in Canada today."

The spread of veneral diseases was dependent in very large measure upon ignorance, Mr. Mackenzie said in an address prepared for delivery over the Trans-Canada network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Wednesday as part of a "National Hygiene Day" campaign by the Health League of Canada to educate the public of the seriousness of these diseases.

Dr. C. W. MacMillan, Chief Medical Health Officer for New Brunswick, said in a radio address following Mr. Mackenzie that some 300,000 persons in Canada suffer from syphilis and of this number 200,000 are unaware they have the disease.

Dr. Henri Groulx, Quebec Minister of Health and Public Welfare said at Montreal that Quebec intends through a carefully studied social hygiene program to prevent venereal diseases and to furnish appropriate information on their cause, nature and seriousness.

At Toronto, Dr. Gordon Bates, chairman of the Health League of Canada, last night said there has been a serious increase in syphilis cases in Toronto over the last six years.

He told a meeting sponsored by the League in connection with Social Hygiene Day that 995 cases of early syphilis and 3,752 cases of late syphilis were reported in Toronto in 1943 compared with 373 and 3,266 shown in a 1937 survey. Total cases of syphilis and gonorrhea in the city during 1943 were 6,342, a rate of 8.7 cases per 1,000 citizens.

At Halifax, Dr. F. R. Davis, Nova Scotia Minister of Health, said the Defence Department and health authorities have launched the greatest campaign against venereal diseases ever attempted in Canada.

Dance At Zion Brings $28 To War Victims

This is the open season for indoor recreations and pleasures, among which dances take a prominent part, particularly being favored by the young folk as a type of pleasure consistent with the light heartedness that is symbolic of a freedom from care, and the more heavier responsibilities which usually keep adding up as one journeys on through life.

Of late, this type of pleasure seems to have been made the opportunity for doing good for other people far removed from this vicinity through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, a number of such instances having beeen reported in this column, prominent among which has been the efforts reported from Cavan.

From every standpoint this is really to be much commended, it gives all those who delight in tripping the light fantastic, the double of pleasure of knowing that their own entertainment is being made the opportunity of giving assistance to others who are in unfortunate circumstances, which immediately enhances the value of the money they thus expend on their own enjoyment.

The latest of these to be reported comes from a dance held at Zion situated some 5 miles or so from the city in Otonabee township, which realized the nice sum of $28.50 received through John Thompson and credited in their name today.

Another event of a similar nature with the service of a lunch is being held in school section No. 9, Douro, this Friday evening, from which the proceeds will also come to help the fund along.

All those who have contributed through the penny boxes should feel they have taken part in a very worth-while activity, for the total from this feature continues to mount, and should be very close now to the $2,000 mark. The latest collection from the source of revenue has yielded another $2.75 from a visit which the secretary of the fund made to the box located under the eyes of Miss Royea, the cashier at Buehler's meat market on George street on Thursday.

Song Recital Next Tuesday

Next Tuesday, February 8, the Recreation Room at the Y.W.C.A. will be the scene of a recital of vocal music by the pupils of Mrs. R. Williamson, which will commence at 8.30 p.m. The admission fee to this will be 25 cents, and the net proceeds will all come to the fund, providing another opportunity for patrons to get an added value for the money thus spent, in knowing that it also is helping people in their trouble occasioned through the hazards of war.

Previously acknowledged	$73,216.38
Proceeds of dance held at Zion, per John Thompson	28.50
Penny box at Buehler's Meat Shop	2.75

Oscar Weiss, president and organizer of the Peterborough Figure Skating Club, has resigned his post as head of the club in order to accept a position in the X-ray department of Christie Street Military Hospital at Toronto. Mr. Weiss was formerly employed at the Lucky Strike Bait Company.

His departure means the loss of the club's guiding spirit who has been largely responsible for the success it has had to date. It was Mr. Weiss who bought the property which is used for members' practising and the instruction in figure skating which is a vital part of the club's activities, and who had it surveyed and levelled. Before leaving Tuesday night to take up his new job, he consulted other members of the club in regard to the appointment of a person to take over for him, but up to the present time it has not been decided who would assume the vacant post.

In view of the fact that the current position of the club and wartime controls impeding construction stand in the way of undertaking any ambitious projects that would assist in promoting the interests of the club, it is felt that Mr. Weiss' position as president and organizer might be left unfilled for the time being. The figure skaters are principally anxious to built a clubhouse for the comfort of members at the rink, and to instal lights for night skating.

Soldier Fined $25 For Loose Coupons

Possession of loose gasoline coupons cost Pte. Donald LaFonte a fine of $25 and $1.75 costs when he entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning to a charge laid under the gas regulations.

"This boy as you see has enlisted in the army" said W. J. Arthur Fair who defended the accused and made a plea for leniency."

"Did he enlist voluntarily or was he drafted?" asked Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

"My understanding is" said defense counsel "that he tried to enlist in the Canadian Navy but before he could get in his army call came."

W. F. Huycke, K.C., who prosecuted, pointed out that the Wartime Industries Control Board took a serious view of cases laid under the gasoline regulations.

"In the only other case of the kind that has been heard here," he said, "there was a fine of $25 imposed. I could not conscientiously ask Your Worship to make the penalty any less than that. At the same time I have considerable sympathy for this young man who has enlisted. His father was a veteran of the First Great War and was wounded."

Mr. Huycke said that when the police were searching LaFonte's room in connection with another matter they had found six loose coupons, three of them of the ardinary kind and the other three commercial coupons."

Magistrate Langley made the fine the same as that imposed in an earlier case—$25 and $1.75 costs.

A vagrancy charge against LaFonte was dismissed when Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., announced no evidence would be offered.

Board Of Education Seeks Part Of Revenue From Wartime Housing

Application by the Board of Education Thursday night for approximately half the lump sum grant paid by Wartime Housing Limited into the city treasury in December "in lieu of taxes" was referred by the council's finance committee to three of its officials, M. E. Shaver, treasurer, W. F. Huycke, K.C., solicitor, and Edward Humpage, auditor, for their advisory report Monday night.

G. W. Craw, chairman, T. J. Carley, K.C., and J. E. Huggins, secretary-treasurer, presented the Board's case including information of attendance from three of the Wartime Housing areas.

As for the Board's claim both parties agreed that it was largely a civic accounting matter which would enable the Board to reduce their requisition to the council for this year by the amount which their deputies contended should be credited for the services in education which the Board had rendered since the fall of 1941 to the children from Wartime houses attending the Public schools. If the council assented to the application it was agreed that a proportionate allowance of the amount should be allowed to the Separate School Board on the basis of respective tenancies.

While the deputation was present Alderman Ovens moved, seconded by Alderman Glover, that the 50 per cent of the amount received by the city treasury be paid to the Board of Education, but an amendment by Mayor Hamilton, seconded by Alderman Dutton, that the grant be restricted to the Board's claim for this year, received the support of the majority of the committee. "We'll forget the three other years," Mayor Hamilton suggested. To that Mr. Craw remarked: "There's nothing to prevent us from putting it in our expected revenue."

"We'll talk it over again before we adjourn tonight," His Worship said, and for the sake of enhancing the improving relations between the two bodies, the committee decided to canvass the council's exact position through the agency of its three officials as a prospective guidance for next Monday night's meeting.

Within that outline of discussion was a somewhat involved debate on what Mayor Hamilton described as nothing more than a point of principle. Mr. Craw submitted a statement showing that on the basis of additional expenditure and not on the "per pupil-day" cost basis, the education in the Public schools of the city of the children from Wartime houses, including an estimate for 1944, was approximately $14,672. Omitting from the reckoning the cost of education of the children from the Hatton property, the amount was still $11,672.

258 Attending

Mr. Craw told the committee there were now 258 children from Wartime Housing families attending the Public schools; 52 from Burnham's Point; 129 from Park Hill Road and 77 from the Hatton community.

Estimates of the costs each year were: $390 in 1941; $1,620 in 1942; $5,174 in 1943; and $7,488 this year. Total $14,672.

"The Board had hopes of remuneration from the time we received the first children from Burnham's Point in the fall of 1941," Mr. Craw said, "but no agreement was reached. However, Wartime Housing did eventually offer us for the educational service 50 per cent of the lump sum grant they paid the Council in lieu of taxes, but we preferred to have it come through the Council."

"We receive around $70,000 in fees and provincial grant, and the rest of our funds is collected through the city council. As the province pays its grants to us on the basis of estimates at the first of the year, the Board felt that we should get an estimate from the Council as to what we could expect to receive from the amount paid into the city treasury by Wartime Housing Limited, and also what we might expect to derive from Wartime Housing this year."

Mr. Craw suggested an appropriation of actual cost to the Board of the Wartime Housing children. Their total number is 258 of the total Public School population of 2,900, or about one-eleventh. In round figures the total cost of Public School education on the "pupil-day" basis is $180,000. Mr. Craw left the completion of this comparison to the member of the committee to compute it if they wished, but obviously the amount assessible on that basis against the Wartime Housing pupils was substantially more than $11,672. "The Board would be satisfied to accept half the amount paid by Wartime Housing to the city treasury."

Actually, it was said, the Board wished to know how much of the Wartime Housing payment they would be credited with in their appropriation to the council.

"If they get what they ask it will help them to make a better showing in the Board's tax rate for this year," Alderman Swanston said.

The committee's reply to the delegation, in a general sense, was to the effect that the Board had submitted their requisition to the Council each year, and had received the full amount they needed. And that is where the accounting factor was emphasized. To the aldermanic argument that the Board "had got the money," Mr. Carley replied, "If the Board were themselves collecting their own tax monies they would have been overcharging their ratepayers because nothing was received from Wartime Housing until last December. We would be entitled now to a direct payment from Wartime Housing for the education service that was rendered. Instead, the money has come through the city council and we claim 50 per cent of it instead of having the whole amount go into the city's general funds."

The Board's position was that, if they had been receiving grants "in lieu of taxes" each year from Wartime Housing, the amount they required from the council would have been much less, however small it might have been, indicated by the figures quoted by Mr. Craw. Now, when Wartime Housing had made a lump sum payment the Board was entitled at least to credit from the council, and if allowed that amount, the Board's appropriation for this year would be that much less than it would be otherwise.

"I think they ought to get their money, or credit to it," Alderman Glover said.

Mr. Carley remarked that the accounting worked both ways. If the council was left with the entire amount paid by Wartime Housing it would mean "that you people would be able to keep your tax rate that much lower."

A comment by City Treasurer Shaver was that "you'd have to get a microscope to see the difference either way."

No Canadians Lost

HALIFAX, Feb. 4 —(CP) — No Canadians were aboard a coal-laden steamer lost on a voyage from Halifax to Saint John, N. B., last week authorities here said to-day.

The vessel, carrying 26 men, was believed to have struck a ledge and foundered near the mouth of the Bay of Fundy with all hands. Nine bodies have drifted ashore in the area about Digby, N. S.

Social Reforms On Agenda Bloc Populaire

By GUY BEAUDRY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4 — (CP). — The Canadian Government's foreign policy, inter-racial relations, and Federal-Provincial relations are problems which will come up for study here to-day at the convention of the Bloc Populaire Party.

The three-day convention of Canada's newest political party formed under the leadership of Maxime Raymond, member of Parliament for Beauharnois-Laprairie, started last night and was addressed by youthful Bloc general secretary Andre Laurendeau.

Mr. Raymond was unable to attend the opening meeting of the convention last night but in a message to the 500 party delegates from all parts of the Province of Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and New Brunswick, he said he would be with them to-day. He is scheduled to address a meeting of the plenary committee of the convention to-night.

The meeting will be a closed one and newsmen will be given copies of resolutions adopted only at the end of the meeting.

Last night, Mr. Laurendeau called for endorsation by the delegates of a "truly" Canadian program, including provincial autonomy and "daring" social reforms. A program which, 'without being anti-British, would be first of all Canadian."

He attacked the old parties which had given nothing to Canada and had for 40 years accumulated "mostly ruins."

Calling for a program of "equality of races," Mr Laurendeau pictured instances where he said the French-Canadians had not received justice.

$5,000 Received For Utilities

A cheque for $5,000 was received from the Utilities Commission by the Finance Committee of the City Council.

This money was paid by the Commission out of the surplus of the Waterworks Department.

The Commissions letter through its manager, R. L. Dobbin, informed the Council that the charge for water service would be $18,000, the same as last year.

Cities Favor Plan

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 4—(CP). — City Hall officials said today that 40 per cent. of the city councils of Ontario have voted support to a proposal originating in London, that municipal advance polls be extended to include all voters with a legitimate reason for being absent from the city on voting day. Provincial legislation is necessary to make the proposal law.

No Change In Taxes

OTTAWA, Feb. 4—(CP).—Merging of the cost-of-living bonus with basic wage rates, effective on the first payroll period on or after Feb. 15 under the new wage control order, will make no change in taxation.

Cost-of-living bonuses have always been subject to tax which has been computed on the total earnings.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

Feb. 4, 1940—Ottawa announced that 1,400 aircrew graduates each month was the goal of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Russian planes raided Abo and left that Finnish port in flames. Balkan Entente nations pledged common action to safeguard their "rights, independence and national territory."

Naval Women Are In Debt For Yule Gifts

A grant of $250 to the local Women's Navy Auxiliary was recommended by the Finance Committee of the Council Thursday night in a resolution by Aldermen Curtis and Sullivan, after Alderman Mark suggested that it might be well to "let them sweat awhile."

"Alderman Mark is getting tough," said Alderman Swanston, as the other members laughingly recovered from the slight shock of the Mark metaphor and its forthright expression.

At Christmas time the Naval ladies were standing on their own legs. Both the Army and the Air Force Auxiliaries received grants from the Council to help defray the cost of Christmas parcels, amounting altogether to $1,200, and the word from the Naval Aid was they believed they had sufficient funds on hand. But, as one of the members reported last night, one or two of the members went out on a buying splurge, and the present financial condition of the group is: $623.37 bills payable, $250 cash on hand, and $373.37 overspent.

The Naval ladies distributed 426 parcels among the Peterborough men in the sea service, "and we're all glad they made a good job of it, but we don't like the way it was done."

"I'd let them make up some of the money themselves," said Mayor Hamilton. Alderman Curtis was sympathetic to the Naval women, and proposed $300, substantially less than each of the other groups received (but that was in the glow of the Christmastide spirit); someone else mentioned $200, and the committee compromised on $250.

Prize Is Offered For Best Answer

The Sergeants' Mess of the Prince of Wales Rangers provided the $50 which is going to be apportioned as prizes for the best replies to the question "What I would do with Hitler?" a publicity feature of the Food Industry's campaign to sell $26,000 in War Savings Stamps this month.

Then there is the truism about the different kinds of people "it takes to make a world" and so on in various other phrasing, all meaning the same thing.

Roy Taylor of the publicity division of the campaign directors told the Examiner of the surprise Mendell Braund, Chamberlain street grocer, received one day this week when one of his customers was paying a small bill, and he suggested to this woman that maybe she could take a War Savings Stamp or two. In fact he asked her to buy two, and her reply was that she might as well do something better than that and she counted out $21 in change, quite a lot of it in coppers, but it all added up to five War Savings Certificates. Mr. Taylor was reflecting the Braund beams when he relayed that story.

And so a reporter quoted an uptown incident of a vastly different flavor in which a girl in a big George street store suggested purchase of a stamp to a woman who sharply replied that she had no intention of buying one, now or any other time. That subversive citing probably should not be reported, but it was related by a woman who said she heard it, and was simply regarded as a noisy display of sheer invincible ignorance rather than of any sentiment.

Girls In Banks

At any rate Mendell Braund felt like nominating his customer for some kind of decoration or other, but after all it was just another helpful woman doing her bit, and doing it cheerfully.

The committee has a group of girls who in costumed "Miss Canada" will be on War Stamp duty in the banks Saturday morning.

Mr. Taylor reports that the first week of the Food Industry's effort has been bright and encouraging; the public is interested and responsive, and already it seems certain that the $26,000 objective for Peterborough will be exceeded.

Veterans Get Ready

CORNWALL, Feb. 4—(CP).—Lt.-Col. G. Neil Phillips last night was appointed chairman of a civil committee on soldier rehabilitation to co-operate with the Dominion Government in the re-establishment of veterans in the post-war period. J. R. Laframboise was appointed secretry and W. E. Wilson assistant secretary. Other members of the executive committee are W. T. Kiegler and Archie Jeffery.

Suspend License Of Truck Driver

Arrested Thursday night after the truck he was driving had crashed into a parked car on Charlotte street, driving it up against a tree, Stephen Smale, 86 Larchmount avenue, Toronto, faced two charges in Police court today.

The 45-year-old Toronto truck driver pleaded guilty to having been drunk in charge of a motor vehicle and on that count was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to ten days' imprisonment in the county jail.

The court also suspended the accused's chauffeur's license for a period of three months. Smale also pleaded guilty to a second charge of having failed to report the accident.

"I was drunk; I don't remember what occurred," he told the magistrate.

On the second count Smale was fined $20 and $2.50 costs or an additional ten days in jail.

The truck-driver was arrested near the entrance to the Kawartha Golf and Country Club after G. W. Zieborth, 581 Charlotte, owner of the parked car that was hit and Albert Ross, 568 Charlotte street had chased and overhauled the hit-and-run truck, forcing it to stop.

Sergt. John Thompson and Officer John Naples arrived on the scene shortly afterward and Smale was taken into custody.

The front of the truck he was driving was damaged and considerable damage was done to the parked car. The rear of the body was badly dented, two doors were sprung and the radiator grill considerably damaged.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 5

DESPITE SOME setbacks, delays, tenacious obstacles or other hints of frustration a well-organized and concentrated attack upon ambitious objectives should be maintained. Bold strokes, or new ways and means, in which the endorsement or substantial assistance of associates or influence and capital may be counted upon. Social, cultural of professional qualifications may be favorable factors for furthering cherished desires. Domestic, affectional or romantic festivities may assist meritorious and happy denouements. Be tactful also serene.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should continue to concentrate their talents, creative abilities as well as personal or social assets on a clever endeavor to attain their most cherished hopes and wishes. This may be in the line of financial, business, professional or social ambitions, with personal prestige and popularity an element of reaching high goals. Originality, initiative and romantic qualities should be successfully applied to meritorious projects.

A child born on this day may have many excellent abilities, with personal and social background to warrant an ambitous desire to attain high position and influence in life.

Junk-Collecting Is Glorified By Various Women's Societies

By The Canadian Press.

This war has glorified, among many other things, the common cellar or attic variety of junk.

The junk-man's calling has dropped its cloak of anonymity, has progressed from tired carts and spavined nags to heavy trucks. All over Canada women of such respectable organizations as the Red Cross, the I.O.D.E., and various citizens' committees have glorified the profession by becoming part-time junk-ladies. And a survey of all this emergency effort, conducted across Canada to-day by The Canadian Press, shows that junk—in its new go-to-meeting name, Salvage—has been of considerable use in the Canadian war effort.

From Ottawa, the National Salvage Committee of the War Services Department reported that in the 32 months up to last December 31 about 229,169 tons of salvage had been reported collected with proceeds reported at $2,834,961. The emphasis should go on that word "reported," the committee said, as some of the voluntary committees don't bother sending in their returns.

A recent drive in Sudbury netted about 30 tons of paper, and municipally-organized collections in Sault Ste. Marie have been successful, with important help from service clubs. In Cornwall, a salvage truck tours the city daily—a different district each day— and the proceeds support a serviceman's club, the Cornwall Beaver Club. Kingston collected 909 tons of salvage to the end of 1943, including nearly 10 tons of fats—a remarkable record—with the proceeds to war work. There has been no salvage organization in Peterborough for several months. The I.O.D.E. looks after Brockville salvage, and has raised $7,000 for use to send comforts to servicemen and the city's adopted warship H.M.C.S. Brockville.

Get 5,000 Tons.

Salvage collection in Toronto, under the Citizens' Committee for Troops in Training, collects only paper at present and has held five paper drives in the last few months for a total of almost 5,000 tons. An excellent system of regular salvage pickups has been in effect in Galt for more than three years, and a similar regular system is used in Chatham, London, St. Thomas, Sarnia, Guelph and Stratford. Salvage collection in the Welland-Crowland area has been organized since late in 1941. In Kitchener, a new system of monthly collection recently is being planned to replace a system under which the organization answered only calls from house to house.

In Brantford, a recent move by the City Council to lease a building used by Brantford women for salvage collection, to the Cockshutt Plow Company brought a protest from Ottawa and the project was dropped. The building is the only one available with an adequate fire-fighting system, necessary for salvage work. Coincidentally, the head of the Women's Council is Mrs. George Cockshutt.

In Quebec, almost every city, town and village has its own salvage organization.

Church Association Names Committees

MILLBROOK, Feb. 4.—(ENS). — Mrs. J. McKnight extended the hospitality of her home, Tupper street, for the February meeting of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's church, held on Wednesday afternoon and followed by an afternoon tea from 4 to 6 o'clock, for which a number of outside guests came by special invitation.

The president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, was in the chair, and "the breastplate of righteousness" was the devotional theme, Mrs. L. Wilson offering the closing prayer. The secretary read a list of the committees appointed at a recent executive meeting, as follows: Devotional, 1st quarter, Mrs. Edmund Ball; 2nd quarter, Mrs. Franklin Bannister; 3rd quarter, Mrs. A. L. Siscoo (4 months each); Visiting: King street west, Mrs. Sisco and Mrs. Stinson; King street east, Mrs. John Rowland and Mrs. William West; Tupper street, Mrs. Weston Fallis and Mrs. J. A. WHEN YOU can't see any way to make your contract except by finding several suits divided in unlikely ways in the hands of your opponents, the only thing for the plucky declarer to do is "shoot the works." Go after exactly the break you need. If you don't get it, at least you have the satisfaction of having tried. And if it does work out as you hoped—oh, boy, isn't that a grand and glorious feeling?

You have shared laughs with us at "Saro" cartoons, but have you ever seen the artistry of their creator, Don Komisarow, exemplified at the bridge table? It was really pretty to see him do his stuff and make his contract with that doubtful trump suit.

After West led the diamond K and switched to the club 8, he could find only one hopeful way to bring in the bacon. That necessitated getting an even break of the outstanding cards in two suits, spades and diamonds. None dismayed, he went for it.

Taking the second trick with the club A, he began work to set up three diamonds, ruffing the 4 with the spade 5. To the dummy he went with the spade 7 to the J and ruffed the diamond 6 with the spade Q. The desired three diamonds were now established, so he was ready to try to dispose of the remaining four hostile spades. The K removed two of them. To dummy he went then with the club Q to the K and played the spade A. When both defenders had to follow suit, he knew he was safely home. On that trick he put one heart, and the three diamonds accounted for the others. He finished the hand by leading the club 3 to the J and 10.

HUN COUNTER ATTACKS FAIL IN ITALY

Estonian Escape Gap Sealed Nazis Lose 84 Transports 13,000 Huns Killed in Trap

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 5—(AP).—Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's victorious Leningrad army, in a sweeping advance along the coast of the Gulf of Finland, has reached the mouth of the Narova River nine miles inside the Estonian Soviet Republic and has sealed off the 35-mile-wide Estonian land strip extending from the gulf south to Lake Peipus.

While Govorov's forces and others under Gen. K. A. Meretskov were squeezing enemy armies against Lake Peipus and the Latvian frontier, Red Army groups to the south in the Ukraine drew the noose tighter around 10 Nazi divisions trapped on the west bank of the Dnieper River between Cherkasy and Kanev.

German attempts to relieve these encircled troops, believed to total more than 100,000, were decisively beaten back. The Russian communique reported destruction of 84 big Junkers-52 transport planes and 58 tanks. Nearly 13,000 German troops were killed trying to fight their way out of the cordon, which now has held them for 48 hours.

North of Zvenigorodka and Shpola where the 1st and 2nd Ukrainian Armies under Gen. Nikolai Vatutin and Gen. Ivan S. Konev closed their pincers around the enemy, the Russians rolled the Germans back to the shores of the Dnieper, where they faced either death or surrender.

Squeezing Huns.

Govorov's army, in conjunction with the Baltic army of Gen. K. A. Meretskov, was squeezing the Germans tighter against Lake Peipus and the Latvian border.

The German air force sought to extricate Hitler's best generals and officers as extermination of the Nazis within the encirclement mounted.

This hope of escape by air explained why the Germans were not surrendering in mass. The same attempt to evacuate their forces by air was attempted by the Germans at Stalingrad.

But the Red air force held supremacy in the Ukraine and it appeared likely that the only result would be the sacrifice of thousands of lives.

The Paris radio quoted German military quarters as saying 250,000 Russian troops were attacking the German hedgehog position at Vitebsk in another sector of the front to the north.

The German communique reported that Russian pressure had slackened in the north, from Nevel to the Gulf of Finland, but said the Soviet attacks had been intensified against the Nikopol bridgehead on the lower Dnieper.

Nazis Explain Away Reverses In Russia By Saying Atlantic Wall Must Be Strong

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 5.—(AP) — The German press has begun to use what is described as the imminence of an Allied invasion of Western Europe to explain continued reverses in the east to the German people, Swedish dispatches from Berlin said last night.

Defence of the west is "Germany's main task in 1944 because it not only guarantees a defence with prospects of a favorable outcome but also provides a chance to gain a decision in the war," the newspaper Nachtausgabe said.

Therefore operations in the east must be limited, the newspaper added, with the aim of inflicting the heaviest losses possible on the Russians and hindering a decisive Russian break-through while Germany is preparing for the attack in the west.

Strike Irks Navy Secretary 25,000 Skilled Men Out

DETROIT, Feb. 5—(AP). — Reproaches from spokesmen for the armed forces and government agencies today confronted more than 20,000 war plant strikers in Michigan and Ohio as well as a United States War Labor Board threat of "full sanctions and penalties."

The strike, begun yesterday, was by members of the Independent Mechanics' Educational Society of America who walked out in Cleveland, Detroit and elsewhere protesting the National Labor Relations Board's handling of a jurisdictional issue.

A demand that the men return to work "as a condition of loyalty to their country" was voiced by Ralph A. Bard, acting Secretary of the Navy. Referring to necessary equipment for "invasion forces," Bard said the strike was "greatly increasing the hazards of our war effort."

He telegraphed his demand to Matthew Smith, national secretary of the M.E.S.A., as the War Labor Board threatened sanctions and ordered a hearing in Washington on Monday.

Smith tacitly defied the board to apply sanctions, asserting the strike would continue. He said it was "impossible" to have union officers at the hearing because there would be insufficient time for delegates to the M.E.S.A.'s executive board to get together for formal action.

"I don't know what the sanctions or penalties are, but we'll find that out. We are prepared to meet them,"

Berlin Explains Why Reds Taken

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 —(AP)—The Berlin radio dipped back today to the time of Catherine the Great, some 200 years ago, for an explanation of why Germany has just moved 140,000 persons from the Black Sea region of Russia into the Reich.

Describing those shifted as "German settlers," the broadcast asserted they were "descendants of those German peasants" whom Catherine "had called to Russia."

Moscow has charged repeatedly that Russian subjects in German-occupied territory have been impressed and sent to Germany to work as slaves in Nazi war factories, but this Berlin broadcast asserted the 140,000 would be given land so they could continue as farmers.

Berlin said the 140,000 "covered 1,600 kilometres (about 1,000 miles) on their great trek towards the west before they reached that part of the Reich called Wartheland which is to be their new home."

Allied Troops Drive Deeper Into Burma

NEW DELHI, Feb. 5 (CP)—Allied troops, mopping up enemy positions in the upper Chindwin valley of northern Burma occupied a village 20 miles southeast of Tamu without opposition Thursday, an Allied communique said today.

Other Allied forces, operating south and southeast of Tamu, uncovered a wide belt of Japanese snipers and killed several.

R.A.F. and U.S. bombers carried out widespread raids over northern and central Burma Thursday and yesterday, ranging from the Hukwang valley in the north down through the Chindwin hills and the Mayu peninsula to the vicinity of Mandalay.

These operations were carried out without loss.

Jet Plane Fleet To Be Used Against Japs

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 5 —(CP)—British aeronautical experts have put a damper on the enthusiastic wishful thinking that the newly-developed jet-propelled airplane will take the place of all propeller-equipped machines in the near future.

The use of the new machine in the war against Germany has been pretty well ruled out. That war is expected to be finished by the time sufficient jet-propelled planes are in production.

But the statement of an American officer that the new plane will be a "priceless asset for the American navy's carrier - based operations against Japan" is echoed here in somewhat more cautious estimates that will be a factor in the far eastern war.

Commercially, the jet-propelled plane is said here to be between five and 10 years from existence.

However, there has been no attempt by aviation interests and experts to minimize the importance of Group Capt. Whittle's invention toward the science of flight. One estimate was that it had advanced aeronautical thinking 50 years.

"The greatest invention of the air age," was the description of Prof. D. S. Sinnart of the R. A. F. Cadet College under whom Whittle studied

Spain Releases 9 Italian Ships

By CHARLES FOLTZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, Feb. 5.— (AP).— Sir Samuel Hoare, British ambassador to Spain, said yesterday "there is no cause of conflict between the Allied and Spanish governments" if Spain "is really neutral," as the Franco cabinet affirmed two days ago.

In a Spanish-language statement in a British Embassy information bulletin, Sir Samuel added:

"That (full neutrality) is all we desire and that Germany not use Spain to attack the Alies. On that basis I consider that differences now existing can be setted satisfactorily."

The British ambassador also denounced what he called "fantastic rumors" circulating abroad as Axis-inspired.

"It is said abroad for example that the Allies have the intention of invading Spanish territory soon to force Spain to enter the war," the statement said. "It also is said that we have asked the use of Spanish bases for the coming campaign. Pay no attention to rumors of this kind, especially when it is evident Axis agents are spreading them."

The statement added to optimism already evident on both sides that British-American negotiations in progress with the Spanish government would result soon in agreements on subjects being discussed, including the matter of oil shipments which the United States and Britain have cut off.

The status of several Italian warships which entered Spanish ports at the tme of the armistice still is being discussed.

Yanks Expand Hold On Marshalls

Leaders Satisfied Clean-Up Won't Take Long

By WILLIAM HIPPLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 5 (AP)—Invading three more islands in big Kwajalein Atoll, United States forces have overwhelmed the Japanese on two, pushed the resisting enemy back on a third which has seaplane bases, and brought two additional fortified bases under warship and plane attack.

Other developments listed by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, were:—

1. Leaders of the mid-Pacific offensive, foreseeing capture of all the mandated Marshalls, have proclaimed a U.S. Military Government to supplant the 25-year-long power of Emperor Hirohito in the areas as each is occupied.

2. There is no indication the huge naval force supporting the six-day-old invasion has been challenged or suffered losses.

3. Air Forces have kept all Japanese planes out of the Marshalls' skies for four successive days.

Tokyo's Story

(This picture was in sharp contrast with that presented yesterday in a Japanese Imperial headquarters communique and recorded in New York by the United States foreign broadcast intelligence. Tokyo claimed two destroyers had been sunk, a cruiser and a destroyer set on fire, 52 planes shot down and 24 damaged, and said Japanese garrisons on Roi and Kwajalein Islands were "firmly holding the defence sector.")

Capture within less than a day of Roi and its airfield on the north end of Kwajalein atoll Tuesday was announced by Admiral Nimitz and he said yesterday progress was being made in putting down enemy resistance at Kwajalein Island, on the south end of the atoll.

Latest invasion moves were intended to give complete control of the atoll's south end. While fighting continued on Kwajalein Island, troops landed to the north of it on Ebeye Island, where there are two seaplane bases, ramps, hangars, shops, a pier and a radio station. Already half of that important island has been won.

German Tanks Attack During Night

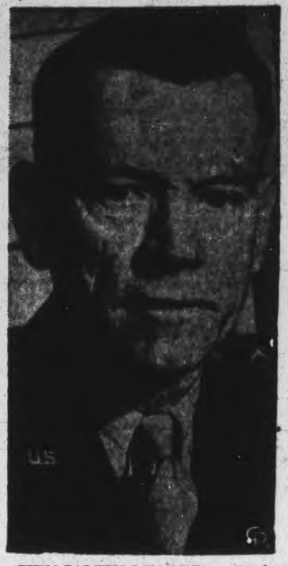
By HOMER BIGART
New York Herald-Tribune Correspondent
Districted by The Canadian Press

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Feb. 5. — The Germans launched at 11 o'clock Thursday night the first series of counter-attacks against this salient of the Allied line.

Very grim fighting continues. This fighting ranks in violence with the struggle for Cisterna di Littoria. The enemy, after several days of aggressive patrolling in this sector, struck heavily with infantry and armor.

In the darkness the Germans brought up tanks. The lines became fluid and dawn found German and Allied units engaged in most confused fighting. The Germans took 100 British prisoners, then marched them straight into friendly lines. The British not only regained their lost unit, but captured 40 men of the German guard.

Soon after dawn Allied tanks engaged the German armor. A massive enemy tank smashed its way into a farmhouse and was utilizing the concrete walls as a protective outer shell when it was finally silenced by tank destroyers and another was disabled or destroyed. Medium Allied tanks were hit before the German armor withdrew. Mopping-up operations netted more than 100 prisoners.



KWAJALEIN LEADER — Maj.-Gen. Charles H. Corlett, U.S. army (above), commands the Seventh Infantry Division that has landed and is fighting the Japs near Kwajalein Islet in the Marshalls. Gen. Corlett's force is composed mainly of veterans of the Attu campaign.

Europe Rocked By Heavy Bomber Assault

LONDON, Feb. 5 (CP) — Strong forces of American heavy bombers, smashing at Nazi targets for the eighth time in nine days, attacked German airfields in Central France today, United States army headquarters here announced.

They were supported by R.C.A.F. Spitfires and U.S. fighters.

This fourth straight daylight assault by the American giant bombers, at airfields unspecified in the preliminary announcement, appeared to be on an even greater scale than those which left great fires raging in Nazi U-boat bases and war industries at Wilhelmshaven and Frankfurt during the past two days. Wilhelmshaven was hit by 1,100 bombers and fighters Thursday.

The Paris radio announced later the French capital was among targets of the daylight raiders.

Most recent Allied aerial blows at Paris have been made at war industries in the city's outskirts.

Today's attack followed a night in which R.A.F. Mosquito bombers ranged over Western Germany to dump 500-pound bombs on unannounced objectives.

The Air Ministry said no planes were missing from last night's blow, the second in as many nights by Mosquitos against western Germany. Other night bombers laid mines in enemy waters.

Hundreds of escorted U.S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators hit Frankfurt and other targets in western Germany yesterday.

It was the third attack by American bombers against Frankfurt, important German industrial and communications centre, which they jolted with 1,800 tons of explosives Jan. 29 in a record daylight raid in which more than 800 heavy bombers participated. One of the great sky battles of the war took place on that raid, with 102 enemy planes shot down against a loss of 21 big bombers and 13 fighters.

The other targets in western Germany were not specified in yesterday's communique.

Battles Reach Fierce Pitch Along Italian Front; Nazis Retain Cassino Town

Total Prisoner Bag In Two Weeks Estimated At 1,500
Huns Use 6-Barrelled Mortars

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK—Associated Press Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, Feb. 5—(AP).— The Germans have launched a new attack in their determined offensive to smash the Allied beachhead, this time striking at British troops in the area north of Aprilia (Carroceto), 20 miles southeast of Rome, but have been repulsed with heavy losses, it was announced today.

On the main 5th Army front desperate fighting raged unabated in the streets of Cassino and in the mountains north of the town, with the Germans holding on despite heavy attacks by American infantry, artillery and armor.

The Germans still were in possession of the main part of Cassino and were holding the Americans to the outskirts. Positions changed hands several times. The Germans managed to get more six-barrelled mortars, tanks and big self-propelled guns into Cassino for their almost suicidal defence of the city where they had turned almost every house into a fortress from which they fired on the attackers.

Just to the north of Cassino American troops pushed farther west, dislodging the Germans from most of Mount Maiola, but fierce fighting was continuing.

The Nazis threw into the beachhead attack the 26th Division, one of their best armoured outfits in Italy, which has fought on both the 5th and 8th army fronts.

All along the northern part of the beachhead the Germans probed the Allied line in apparent search for weak spots.

A dispatch from the 5th Army's beachhead front by Reynolds Packard, representing the combined American Press, said some German prisoners reported Hitler had sent a special message ordering them to fight their hardest until the Allied wedge was obliterated.

1,500 Prisoners.

The Allies yesterday took 90 prisoners in the beachhead fighting, bringing the total captured there since the landings two weeks ago to 1,500. The total number of Germans captured in Italy since the invasion of the Continent started in Calabria last Sept. 3 and is more than 10,000, headquarters announced.

Bloc Populaire Enters Provincial Field

MONTREAL, Feb. 5 —(CP) — The Bloc Populaire party's entry in the Provincial political field was made official last night with the announcement by Federal leader Maxime Raymond of the appointment of 31-year-old Andre Laurendeau, Bloc general secretary, as Quebec Provincial leader.

The appointment was made upon a resolution presented to the first Bloc Populaire Convention held here and enthusiastically endorsed by the delegates who have come from ridings in Quebec, from Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and New Brunswick.

Mr. Laurendeau's appointment was the main feature of the first day of the three-day convention which will wind up Sunday. It preceded adoption of resolutions by the convention on a series of Federal problems which different committees dealt with during the day.

Last night's meeting was held in camera and it was only through officials that newsmen were able to learn about Mr. Laurendeau's appointment. Texts of adopted resolutions were also made public by officials.

3 Sailors Die As Ships Collide

SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 5—(CP). — A Canadian Navy minesweeper has collided with a passenger vessel off Cape Breton with the loss of three lives aboard the warship, it was learned here today.

Ten men aboard the minesweeper were injured in the accident, which occurred off Scatarie Island, on the east side of Cape Breton on the Atlantic side of Cabot Strait.

No one aboard the merchant ship was injured, it was understood here.

Both the passenger vessel and the navy ship were damaged. The merchantman was holed in the bow. The warship's damage was not known here, but she had to be laid up for repairs.

Next-of-kin of the navy casualties have been notified, and it was expected their names would be announced shortly.

Refugee Stream Worries Nazis

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP) — A dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Demokraten, reported today to the United States Office of War Information, said Nazi authorities in East Prussia anticipated having to handle at least 1,500,000 evacuees from the Baltic countries and northern Poland as the Russian army advanced.

"Tens of thousands of Germans and Estonians are in flight from Reval (Tallinn), the Swedish dispatch said, and trains can be seen moving westward with passengers even clinging precariously to the roofs of the coaches and freight-cars.

In Riga, "thousands of German civilians" are competing for berths on ships bound to Germany, the newspaper also reported.

Mobilization of certain age classes has been proclaimed in Lithuania along with a warning that the country must protect itself from the advancing Russians, the German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau reported today.

A dispatch to the Helsinki newspaper Uusi Suomi said the German order for evacuation of Narva, in Estonia near the Russian frontier, was given too late to permit the population to take away belongings and most of the refugees had to leave by foot.

Rome Objective In Allied Campaign

Difficult Task Faces Allies If Hitler Persists In Defending City

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler's reported warning to the Pope that the Nazis intend to defend Rome step by step, irrespective of the destruction involved, tends to substantiate the idea that the fuehrer may be preparing another of his colossal gambles—that the Allies won't go so far as to turn their guns on the city in order to oust the invaders.

The question is, what happens if Hitler installs suicide divisions in Rome and invites the Allies to oust them? Obviously it can't be done without the use of force, unless we blockade the city and starve them out, and that means starving the civilian population as well.

That certainly would hand the Allies a tactical hot potato. Undoubtedly the Allied high command has the problem figured out, for it has been dealing with a lot of hot potatoes successfully. However, the only official word we've had thus far is that the capture of Rome is the objective of the present offensive on the Italian peninsula.

There is no apparent way of clearing Rome of the Nazis without causing damage to some of the world's most cherished monuments. Such a battle also would result in the death of many civilians. Presumably by exercising extreme care Vatican City could be spared, but it would be a most unhappy position for the Pope and the other residents.

Plans New Deviltry

There's small doubt that the Nazi is counting on all this to help him hold the Eternal City if he should decide it's worth while. What deviltry he's up to in urging the Pope to leave Rome for Germany isn't apparent. In any event his holiness has declined to desert his post, come what may.

There are excellent reasons why Hitler should want to retain his hold on Rome. Foremost undoubtedly is the moral effect on the outside world. Nazi possession of this great city is calculated to give the impression that the Germans have vast powers of resistance.

From the military standpoint, Rome is a strategic plum because it is hub of all the main railways of Italy, and the Allies must possess it if they wish to establish communications between north and south Italy. Into this strategic picture also enters the fact that Hitler's delaying action in Italy is providing a safe-guard for his Balkan flank on the Adriatic.

Stalin Baffles Partners

Prefers To Keep Allies Guessing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—(AP).—Official Washington, always inspired and elated by reports of Russian successes over the German invaders, is not so happy about the occasional diplomatic bomb shells Moscow drops on the international arena.

The latest baffler, this week's announcement that the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics would be divided into 16 presumably sovereign states, has sent commentators running in circles and left officials speechless.

Even President Roosevelt admitted, at his press conference yesterday, that he did not know what the announcement meant, and said that he had the courage to admit that fact and remain silent until he could comment with authority.

This was taken by some observers here as proof of what has often been claimed—that Premier Stalin does not tell his war Allies what is in his mind, but prefers to keep them guessing.

Such an important change in Russia's domestic set-up must have been known to Stalin when he met President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in Teheran, observers argue.

But the announcement obviously came with the unexpectedness of a bolt of lightning from a clear sky. And there seems no inclination on the part of the Russian authorities to clarify the situation.

Would Complete Waterway

Senator Claims More Power Essential

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 5 —(AP)—State action for completion of the St. Lawrence seaway-power project was urged to-day to avert what was termed "a tremendous employment problem" after the war and to attract new industries to the State.

The request was contained in a joint statement by Senator Rhoda Fox Graves, and Assemblyman Grant F. Daniels both Republicans and George S. Reed, Democractic member of the State Power authority.

Asserting that failure of the Federal Government to provide for development of the power resources in the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers "will bring untold economic dislocations" to the State, the statement said lack of cheap hydro electric power has sent "countless" industries elsewhere.

'Unless we act soon to develop these unused resources," it continued, 'the State will have tremendous unemployment problem on its hands following this war."

Urging Congressional passage of a bill providing for development of St. Lawrence and Niagara resources, the three said that, if Congress fails to pass the 'much-needed" legislation, the State should take immediate steps to develop those resources.

The United States Senate failed to ratify the St. Lawrence agreement with Canada in 1941. A bill now is before Congress aimed at development of the waterway.

British Probe Defences On French Coast

LONDON, Feb. 5—(CP)—By German account, preliminaries for the Allied invasion of western Europe already are under way including "reconnaissance attacks by English units along various points of the Atlantic wall."

A spokesman for the German general staff was quoted in a Budapest broadcast recorded today by the Ministry of Information as declaring:

"The English have begun their attack from the air first of all against sectors of the west wall. In these air attacks American Flying Fortresses also are frequently employed.

"English units have attempted attacks against various points along the Atlantic wall, but these never have been more than reconnaissance operations.

"Early spring will be the most favorable time for an attempt at invasion and it will probably be then that the British reconnaissance activity will reach its climax."

Rival Nazi Rings In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 5.—(AP).—A government spokesman, promising a full report soon on Axis spy activities in Argentina, announced last night two rival Nazi rings had operated in this country, one headed by Adolf Hitler's personal representative and the other by the German Embassy.

The two German operations were so competitive, said Col. Enrique Gonzales, secretary to President Pedro Ramirez, that resulting antagonism often produced incidents leading to leaks that gave both away.

The man described as Hitler's representative, a manufacturer named Harnisch who is married to an Argentine, now is under arrest, Gonzales said.

These disclosures came simultaneously with Argentine action in severing diplomatic relations with four Axis satellites—Vichy France, Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary. The Ramirez government broke with Germany and Japan Jan. 26.

Gonzales said all evidence concerning German and Japanese spy activity in the country would be made public as soon as fully documented. He promised a report on Japanese activity next week and another on the German rings in the near future.

Japanese operations, the secretary said, were conducted in a clumsy manner and there was no difficulty in obtaining evidence that it was directed by the Japanese Embassy

A foreign office announcement yesterday classified all American nations at war with the Axis as non-belligerents, thus giving vessels flying any American flag full port privileges in Argentina.

General Applauds Negro Squadron

ALGIERS, Feb. 5 (AP) — Praise for the exploits of a negro fighter squadron during recent operations over the invasion beachhead in Italy has been expressed by Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the United States Army Air Forces.

Noting that the squadron had shot down eight enemy planes in a single day and four on another day, Gen. Arnold wrote in a letter to Lt.-Gen. Ira C. Eaker, Allied Air Commander in the Mediterranean, "The results of the 99th Fighter's Squadron during the past weeks. Particularly since the Nettuno landing, are very commendable. My best wishes for their continued success."

Believed to be driven by the violent expansion of air taken in through a duct in the nose, compressed and heated as it passes through the machine and ejected through a duct in the tail, the new machine eliminates the highly-complicated and expensive aero motor and propellor, substituting by comparison what is a simple and cheap mechanism.

"While the power-output of the normal internal combustion engine appears for various merchanical reasons to be limited, the jet system appears to offer an unlimited source of power," wrote Ronald Walker, the News Chronicle's air correspondent.

The authoritative magazine Aeroplane saw the introduction of jet propulsion as revolutionizing the design of flying-boats. The height of a flying-boat hull hitherto has been governed by the necessity of keeping the air-screws clear of waves and spray.

Lots Of Meat

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—(CP).—J. S. CHATHAM, Feb. 5.—(CP).—D. A. Jubenville, chairman of the Kent Corn Growers' Association, said yesterday 80,000 bushels of white corn were imported recently from the United States as prices above the Canadian ceiling. He said the American corn price was $1.70 a bushel compared with the Canadian ceiling of $1.30 and that the difference was made up by Canadian government subsidy.

Adopt Canadian Flag

One resolution called for Canada's "absolute independence" at the cessation of hostilities. The bloc wants the abolition of the right of appeal to the Privy Council, severance of all links with the London parliament, suppression in all official documents of the words "British subject" replacing them by "Canadian citizen" when nationality is involved, and adoption of a Canadian flag.

Other resolutions called for "really" equal treatment for Canada's two main racial groups, "integral" respect of provincial autonomy, adhesion of Canada to the Pan-American Union and avoidance of an immigration policy that would favor exclusively British interests.

In his speech to the delegates last night, Mr. Raymond was officially reported to have said that his presence was required at Ottawa in view of the smallness of the number of Federal members "fighting the kind of thing which has been going on since 1939."

That was the reason for his consenting to appoint a provincial leader, he said.

Strike Irks

Smith said.

Sanction might include reclassification of the strikers under Selective Service or withholding of union benefits.

Affects Toolmakers.

The strike was condemned both by the regional W. L. B. in Cleveland, and by chairman Edwin E. White of the Detroit board.

Dispute precipitating the strike hinged on action of the N. L. R. B. in calling a hearing on a pettition from the United Automobile Workers (C. I. D.) for a bargaining election in the tool room of the Willys-Overland Motor Company at Toledo. The strike there affected 4,700 employees.

The larger plants involved and the estimated number of workers off their jobs included: Cleveland Graphite Bronze Co., 100; National Acme Co., 1,500; Easton Manufacturing Co., 3,000; S. K. Wellman Co., 1,400, all in Cleveland and the following Detroit plants; Nash-Velvinator Corp., 2,500; Michigan Tool Co., 1,000; Detroit Tap and Tool Co., 1,000; and Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co., 1,000.

Smith said walkouts at a number of small plants to-day increased the total on strike now to about 25,000. He estimated about 30 plants in all were effected, 16 of which are in the Detroit area.

Miners Ignore Plea Of Ickes

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP) —Representatives of about 28,000 Pennsylvania anthracite miners—nearly one third of the total employed in the shafts—have voted to ignore the urgings of United States Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and their own National Union leaders to work Sundays during February to ease a coal shortage in the Eastern States.

Thousands of miners voted to go into the mines for seven days but some local unions deferred their voting until tonight or left it to the individuals whether they would report.

But delegations representing 18,000 workers voted last night against working seven days even though Seth Reese of the Department of the Interior, asked the men "to break down criticism unjustly heaped upon miners and work the four Sundays in February." An earlier meeting, representing 10,000 miners also voted to rest on Sunday.

Churchill Left $89,000 Legacy

LONDON, Feb. 5 (CP) — Sir Henry Strakosch, banker and economist who died last October, left Prime Minister Churchill £20,000 ($89,000) from an estate of £2,454,500, one of the largest disclosed by death records recently in Britain.

The bequest to the Prime Minister was described in the will as a "token of friendship and gratitude for his and his wife's great kindness and hospitality." Brendan Bracken, Minister of Information, was bequeathed £2,500.

Sir Henry, a delegate for India to the Ottawa Imperial Conference in 1932, was a director of many South African and other companies, a delegate for South Africa to the League of Nations and an adviser to the India Office for some years. He was widely known as a writer on economic matters.

Another bequest was £10,000 to Field Marshal Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa and a close friend of Sir Henry.

Reporters Keen To Hear McNaughton Tale

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 4—(CP)—Principal topic of conversation on Parliament Hill is Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton's return to Canada and his intriguing remarks during a brief Thursday interview with reporters at Seigniory Club, Que.

Members of Parliament are agog to hear more from him—and from Defence Minister Ralston who is expected to make a statement in the House of Commons—about the reasons which led to relinquishing by Gen. McNaughton of the overseas army command.

Parliamentary correspondents are eagerly looking forward to a press conference the general is expected to hold after he comes to Ottawa to report at defence headquarters. They look to a conference as replete with news stories as two others held in Ottawa by Gen. McNaughton, one following his appointment to command the 1st Division back in 1939 when he gave his views on the role the Canadian Army should play, and another on his visit to Canada in 1942 when he gave personal attention to a closer tie-up of Canadian war industry to the needs of the army.

Gen. McNaughton's statement that he is fit and that it will be up to those who gave reasons of health for his retirement to explain them gave sufficient hint of a conflict of view with the Defence Department to make Members of Parliament eager for more information.

Rules Revised

When the special House committee submits its final report, the Commons probably will experience its most important rule changes in many years.

The most important change in several decades was the decision years ago to limit speakers to 40 minutes and to set a specific hour—11 p.m.—for the House to end night sittings. Later Wednesday was made a half day and since the present war began sittings also have ended at 6 p.m.

Now the proposal is to have no sitting on Wednesday, with that day designed for committee work.

One of the problems which may be studied by the special committee is avoiding, as much as possible "waste time" in the members' day. Between the end of lunch and the opening of the afternoon sitting at 3 p.m. little work can be accomplished Similarly the 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. supper recess is a waste as far as work is concerned, although eating doesn't take the full two hours.

One suggestion which may be considered by the committee, to have only one sitting a day, as in the case at Washington. There Congress convenes generally about noon and works on without interruption until adjournment for the day is called.

Press Members To Mark Anniversary

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (P)—To mark the 35th anniversary of the founding of the Empire Press Union, the Canadian section will hold a dinner in Toronto on March 29 during "Newspaper Week" when the annual meetings of The Canadian Press and the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association also are being held.

At the gathering the Canadian section, of which Senator W. Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston-Whig-Standard, is chairman, will honor the three surviving charter members of the Union—J. E. Atkinson of the Toronto Daily Star, M. E. Nichols, of the Vancouver Province and P. D. Ross of the Ottawa Journal.

The Union was founded in 1909 to form a connecting link between the parts of the Empire. Sections were established in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India and conferences were held at five-year intervals. The first took place in Canada and another was to have been held here in 1940 when war forced postponement.

It is understood Senator Davies is seeking an outstanding Empire newspaperman as guest speaker.

By FRANK FLAHERTY.

Board To Visit Public School

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5—(ENS) —The local Board of Health is going to visit the Public School here for the purpose of making an overall inspection. This was announced following the initial meeting of that body called by the Mayor Friday afternoon. The meeting was convened as the result of disclosures made at the Board of Education meeting early in the week and following the reading of a communication on the subject from that body, members were unanimously of the opinion that some action was required.

Following the election of Roy Barnum as chairman, the clerk read the communication from the Board of Education quoting the resolution passed by that body calling on the Board of Health to look into the matter. In reply to a question from Mayor Long the M.O.H. Dr. F. de F. Free stated that he had made his regular inspection of the school building last October but this was done after school hours and no examination had been made of pupils since this was only required in the case of contagious disease or when pupils were sent to his office by the teachers.

"If there is some contagious disease, we have power to act, but otherwise there is nothing we can do, since the Act calls only for the inspection of the school buildings". Dr. Free went on to explain that the Board of Education could, if they thought it necessary, enter into an agreement with the M.O.H. or someone satisfactory to him, for the inspection of pupils. With regard to the itch or "scavies" which was said to be infecting some pupils, Dr. Free stated this was contagious by direct contact and was a form of parasite which laid its eggs beneath the skin of the body.

As to what could actually be done regarding the situation, Dr. Free said the Board of Education could engage a nurse to make periodic examinations, "but", he added, "she must be a full time school nurse". Such a nurse could visit the school every morning and if she found anything wrong with any pupil she could send him home. Though the chairman expressed the opinion than an inspection already having been made, little could be done by a visit to the school, it was decided the Board would nevertheless make an inspection on February 16. In the meantime the Board would make a study of departmental health regulations that might cover the situation.

A discussion of the Milk by-law followed and members were of the opinion it should be sent to Toronto to have the latest amendments added it it. With regard to the suggestion made at Thursday's council meeting that the condition of some stables from which milk was being supplied "was not right" Dr. Free stated that if specific charges were made they would be promptly investigated.

In Primitive Days the Jew Was Specialist in Religion

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Jacob said unto his household: Put away the strange gods that are among you and purify yourselves and change your garments. —Gen. 35:2.

This is an age of specialists. It is good for us to remember that in those primitive days the Jew was a specialist in religion. He had a genius for making contact with God. Jacob was a man of many faults. He had deceived his brother Esau. By his cleverness he had become a wealthy man. Yet behind it all there lay hidden in his character the spiritual sense for the things of God.

He had left his father's home as a fugitive. That night at Bethel he had a dream and made the great discovery that his father's God had not left him. In studying such a scripture it is important to remember that Jacob's idea of God was that of his age. Jehovah was the God of Abrahma and Isaac; a family, household God. At Bethel he made a vow to give a tenth of his wealth to Jehovah. More than twenty years later he is preparing to fulfill that vow.

In the days of your youth; in the days of sickness and poverty you made a vow to the God of your father and mother. Can you truly say "I have paid my vows in the midst of the congregation?"

It is an underlying truth of the Old Testament that God reveals Himself to His ancient people gradually, progressively, according as they were able to bear it. Our Lord saidly remarked to His own Apostles: "I have many things to say unto you but ye cannot bear them now."

Jacob speaks to us across the centuries laying down a rule of spiritual culture.

"Put away the strange gods that are among you." Jacob could not forget that his family had brought with them many ideas of worship from their home land. The had brought their strange gods, their idols. Rachel had stolen the images from her father's house to bring her good luck. Very primitive, you will exclaim. Yet very modern. Have you ever heard of a mascot? Of tea cup reading and of crystal gazing? Above all, of astrology, which claims that the stars have an influence over your future? This is very ancient yet extremely modern. Can you afford to throw stones at these people of Jacob's household?

Have you any strange gods you must put away before you draw near to God? Have you any idols—not necessarily carved—but graven ideas of your own importance; your own pleasure, which must come first. Jacob calls to you that before you can develop the culture of your soul you must take away these idols, which you worship in private. What steps are you taking to advance in spiritual life? An ancient prophet has cried: "The Lord God hath opened mine ear; and I was not rebellious." Do you answer in the quietness of your heart: "Lo, I come to do Thy will, O my God."

"Purify yourselves." In those far off days religious people practiced certain outward forms of purification. They instinctively felt they must before they draw near to God. We are apt to look down upon them; but the idea is not only natural, primitive but true.

If you desire to realize the Presence of God you must make the effort to purify your self by confession and amendment of life. Pray the Holy Spirit to open your eyes to see yourself. Then you will cry with Isaiah: "Woe, is me; I am a man of unclean lips." The Lord Christ says: "The pure in heart shall see God."

"Change your garments." There must be an outward and visible sign that you are preparing to enter into the Presence of God. It is not enough to put away the strange gods and purify yourself. These are seen by God. There must be the outward sign that othe s may see and bear witness that you are preparing to enter into the Presence Chamber of God. Your garments are the outward and visible signs. In going regularly to church you are bearing testimony to your neighbors. This strikes at the popular idea: "I can stay at home and worship God." True; if you are unable to go. You must cultivate the habit of worship, which is very different from "hearing the preacher"—the popular reason for going to church.

Hearken to a New Testament Teacher: "Having therefore brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the Blood of Jesus; let us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of faith."

O WORSHIP WITH THE LORD IN THE BEAUTY OF HOLINESS.

Jesus Feeds the Multitudes

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

(The International Uniform Lesson for February 6 is Mark 6:30-52, 8:1-10, the Golden Text being John 6:35, "I am the bread of life. he that cometh to Me shall not hunger, and he that believeth on Me shall never thirst.")

JOHN THE BAPTIST, you probably remember, was beheaded by Herod at the request of his stepdaughter, who had pleased him by her dancing Herodias, her mother, was responsible for this cruel request. The mother was angry with John for his outspoken disapproval of her marriage to Herod, her first husband's brother.

When the disciples heard about John's death, they came to Jesus to tell Him about it. Jesus saw that His disciples were tired and overwrought, and He suggested that they find a desert place in which to rest.

They took ship from this place, but crowds of people saw them go and as many knew Him, they ran on foot and came to where Jesus and the disciples disembarked When Jesus saw these people and how much they needed a leader, he was sorry for them "because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and He began to teach them many things."

Question of Food.

As evening came, the disciples came to Jesus and asked if they should send the multitude away, to buy themselves food in the villages, for they had nothing to eat. Jesus said, "Give ye them to eat." The disciples could not see how this could be done. "Shall we go buy two hundred pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat"? they asked, knowing that they had not that much money.

Then Jesus asked how many loaves they had, five, they said, and two fishes. Jesus commanded them to make all the people sit down by companies upon the grass, and He took the loaves and fishes, looked up to heaven, and blessed and brake the loaves and gave them to the disciples, and all that multitude of 5,000 souls was filled and there were 12 basketfuls.

After this miracle Jesus directed the disciples to get into a ship to go to the opposite shore, and He sent the people away and departed to a mountain to pray. Coming to the shore some time later. He beheld His disciples rowing hard against a strong wind and worn out with the labor.

"About the fourth watch of the night He cometh unto them, walking upon the sea, and would have passed them." When they saw Him they thought He was a spirit, and cried out, but He said to them, "Be of good cheer, it is I, be not afraid."

He then went into the ship and the wind stopped blowing, and they were "sore amazed in themselves beyond measure, and wondered." After seeing the Lord do so many wonderful things, wasn't it peculiar that they wondered so much and didn't rely upon His great power? Mark says "their heart was hardened," and truly it must have been.

Feeds 4,000.

In the eighth chapter of Mark we are told of another similar miracle to the feeding of the 5.000. In this case the multitude of people had been with Jesus and His followers in the desert for three days, with nothing to eat. Jesus called His disciples to Him and said "I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now been with Me three days and have nothing to eat. And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they will faint by the way for divers of them have come from far." The disciples answered "From whence can a man satisfy these men with bread here in the wilderness?" Again Jesus asked them how much bread they had, and this time the answer was seven loaves.

"And He commanded the people to sit down on the ground, and He took the seven loaves, and gave thanks, and brake, and gave to his disciples to set them before the and they did set them before the people.

"And they that had eaten were about 4,000, and He sent them away." We are informed that the first baskets used to hold the left-over food were small lunch baskets, those used after the 4,000 were fed were large ones.

Always Jesus had compassion for people because His great heart saw their problems and knew their woes. Should we not try to be real followers of Him in this troubled world where there is so much hatred and cruelty? Surely we, too, should have compassion on the multitudes, not on only those we know and love, but on all the peoples, of every race and creed. We have not the power of the Lord, but we can, in our humble way, "go about doing good" by merely being kind, friendly and understanding.

Archbishop Says Church Must Give Strong Lead

LONDON, Feb. 5.— (CP).—Five "decisions" or affirmations on which Christian fellowship should be based have been outlined by Dr. William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, in a statement in the Christian News-Letter.

The article was written in response to a request that the archbishop should take the initiative in trying to find out to what extent there existed a real and effective common Christian mind on fundamental decisions, which should govern the attitude and action of Christians in the secular world.

"Our problem," Dr. Temple wrote, "is to envisage the task of the church in a largely alien world.... standing firm on its own ground it can and must address the world."

The five "decisions" are:

For God has spoken; for neighbor; for man rooted in nature; for history; and for the gospel and the church.

Dr. Temple wrote:

"A vague theism is futile.... Faith in God should not be a substitute for scientific study, but a stimulus to it.

"If we are to save freedom we must proceed from democracy of the individual to democracy of the person, and recollect that personality achieves itself in the lesser groupings within the state—in the family, the school, the guild, the trade union, the village, the city, the county.

Democracy Of the Person.

"We can to-day only regret the timidity which led Christians in the past to oppose the advance of science. No enlightened Christian to-day would question the right of science to investigate everything that it is capable of investigating.

"The first grave error characteristic of our time is a too exclusive occupation with politics to the neglect of other equally important spheres of human life and activity.

"But far-reaching decisions in the political sphere may be the only means of creating the conditions in

Four Churches Planning Famine Relief Fund

Members of four leading Protestant Churches in Canada, Anglican, United, Paptist and Presbyterian, will shortly be asked to contribute toward a unified church fund to provide famine relief and medical aid in India and China. In the Church of England in Canada an offering was taken up on January 30th. The other three churches will make appeals from their pulpits in February and March. So urgent is the need that the Foreign Missions Conference of North America has cabled $25,000 to the National Christian Council of India, to help in providing famine relief.

Locusts, drought, Japanese pillaging and a plague of grasshoppers have all caused great distress in the province of Honan, China, and in some parts of two adjoining territories, according to word just received in Canada from Canadian missionaries. One missionary writes:

"In an abandoned baby centre we had 30 children, all babes in arms. We also helped over 100 other children and mothers. Many of the babies were ill and so thin and suffering from exposure when received that they just couldn't pull through. Homes have been found for many. We are giving money help for six months to many of these. After that the help ceases and the child is theirs. So many lost their children during the winter that even in China now babies are at a premium.

"I began making gruel in my own kitchen for the extremely needy ones. The number increased until one morning I gave to 168 before breakfast. To prevent the teen-age firls who were attending our classes from being sold to the harlot life I gave 24 of them gruel each morning at 10 o'clock and in the afternoon gave to 20 country women. To do this I sold almost everything of any value that I possessed, and ate two meals a day. Later, I told our Father in Heaven, with tears, that my money was about gone and unless He would answer my prayer and send me $1,000 soon I couldn't continue to give gruel. That night I received a letter that the Canadian Church had sent $4,000 gold for relief and I might have $9,000 Chinese currency. I received a great deal more than that later but the important thing was that the Father had heard and answered prayer and set His seal on the work.

One day a little girl, exceedingly thin (her eyes almost frightened one, she was so nearly starved) came to me and begged to be taken into my house as a slave. I told her I didn't need a slave but I needed a little sister just her size and would like her to be my sister. She was quite thrilled, received food every day, sometimes money and later I arranged for her to go to a refugee camp."

JESUS FEEDS THE MULTITUDES

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 6:30-52; 8:1-10

When the disciples of Jesus heard that John the Baptist had been beheaded by Herod, they gathered around Jesus and told Him about it.

Jesus suggested that they go by ship to a desert place to rest, but when the people saw them going they ran ahead and arrived first.

When Jesus saw the many people who had come to listen to Him. He was moved with compassion, as they were without a leader, so He taught them.

Jesus retired to pray and later saw the apostles tossing in a boat, so He walked on the water to them.

Severe Check On Donations

An Order-In-Council has been passed, at the instigation of the Minister of Finance, which makes it impossible for business firms in Canada to make donations to educational and charitable institutions out of excess profits and exempt from excess profits tax; under the new order only 40 per cent. of the contribution will be exempt from taxation. This is going to strike a severe blow at the many universities, hospitals, orphanages and similar institutions which have depended on such contributions for revenue; it will completely ruin a number of money-raising campaigns which universities and hospitals have in progress at this moment.

The Minister of Finance has hinted that these contributions were made at the expense of the Government, and not at the expense of the shareholders in the firms concerned. This is not quite true. Twenty per cent. of the excess profits tax is supposed to be returnable after the war, and therefore a firm making a donation from that source is actually giving at least twenty per cent. of the full sum. And base profits have been so reckoned that unless firms can make donations out of excess profits and be exempted from tax on these sums, they cannot afford to give at all, or only in greatly reduced amounts.

The habit of giving to charity is not one which has sprung up in the business world since the outbreak of war. There is not an educational or charitable institution in this country which does not include on its list of benefactors and regular supporters a number of business firms, which have always giver largely to them. Hospitals and universities in particular lean heavily on business for financial backing. If that backing is cut off by Order-In-Council these institutions will suffer. The Ministry of Finance has advanced to the point where heavy taxation becomes confused with jealous rapacity.

Speaking on this matter in the Senate, the Hon. William Duff of Nova Scotia said these words: "We hear a great deal today about social service and social security, and in a few weeks we are going to be asked to decide whether we shall pay a certain sum per head for every child in every family. Many of the people who today support colleges and schools were in their youth unable to get much higher education, yet through their brawn and brain built up successful business enterprises which are a credit to this country. Out of the profits received from their businesses they have made and are making contributions to colleges and schools in order that poor children of today may find it easier to acquire education. Surely, honourable senators, this is much better than giving poor families a hand-out of $7 or $9 a week for every one of their children".

The Government, we think, would be well advised to mitigate their order relating to these donations. They are getting more money for their own purposes, but they are taking it out of the tills of hospitals and universities which must be kept up. If many of these institutions decline for lack of money, will the Government be willing to take on the burden of building them up again? Or will it leave the job to the business firms and private persons who gave generously to them in the first place, and would gladly continue to do so?

Mairzy Doats And Dozy Doats

As a humble member of the great and gullible public we can swallow a great deal of the hooey foisted on us by press agents, public relations brigands and other promotion banditti. We utterly refuse, however, to have anything to do with the story which has been circulated to account for the genesis of a juke-box ditty called Mairzy Doats. The tale is this: Milton Drake, a composer of songs of this type, was sitting one day at the organ; he was weary and ill at ease; and his fingers wandered idly over the noisy keys. Then he heard his little daughter, Niella Bonni Drake, rushing about the house singing—

Mairzy doats and dozy doats,
And liddle lamzy divey;
A kiddley divey, too—

It is explained in the press agent's falsehood that the tot was singing, "Mares eat oats and does eat oats, and little lambs eat ivy; a kid will eat ivy too—" but that faulty enunciation made the words sound like the mess which we have transcribed above. We greet this tale with a scream of derision and contumelious gestures.

Why? Because that wheeze is at least a century old. We had it tried on us by aunts, who, in turn, had had it tried on them, by aunts who, in the dark backward and abysm of time, had suffered it from even more remote aunts. Their version was—

Hareseatay, mareseatay

which the acute reader will at once recognize as "Hares eat hay, mares eat hay, sheep eat ivy", but the basic idea is the same.

Milton Drake is selling 25,000 copies a day of his piece; 45,000 juke boxes play it; Lily Pons, Irene Dunn and Herbert Marshall have sung it on the radio. He stole it from our family, in which it has been handed down from aunt to aunt since the days of Merrie England. Not that we liked it, even in its original form.

How Free Is Free Speech?

Parliament has begun what may well be the busiest session in its history. If it is to complete the program which was given to it for discussion in the Speech From The Throne it will have to attend unswervingly to business for the next five months. There is no need for rush; there is time to discuss everything adequately if no time is wasted; it is against waste of time that some guard must be raised.

It has been agreed for many years that hours and days of parliamentary time are wasted in the rambling, repetitious debate on the Throne Speech. Traditionally the private members have a field-day in that debate, giving their personal views on the state of the nation, the grandeur of the Empire, and the necessity for some special favours toward their home constituencies. If Parliament is to do an efficient job in these crowded days that particular sort of self-indulgence must be curtailed. But how? Whenever it is suggested that debate be limited in time, someone in the House trots out the old free-speech nag, and flogs the beast into a gallop.

How free should free speech be? Should it be so free as to permit a member who is merely repeating what has been said before or what is obvious to waste the time of the House and the country? Does freedom of speech include freedom to be a windbag? It will be a long time before the members of Parliament allow any restriction of speech to be placed on them, and their instinct in this matter is right. A Parliament where there is no time for the private member, and where a man dare not raise his voice unless he is invited, is a travesty. But is there no other way of saving time on speeches?

There is one, but it is so hard and implies so much self-restraint that we do not think it will work. It is simply this: the members must limit their own speeches. They must cut and prune their speeches in preparation so that they can be delivered in the House with as little wasted time as possible. And by their example they must shame their windy colleagues who can expand a single threadbare platitude into a half-hour address. They must say their say, and sit down.

Perhaps this is a Utopian dream. To ask a parliamentarian to cut his speech to the bare bone, when it obviously has no bone and is composed entirely of fat, is to expect a miracle. But unless some of our representatives learn to talk about a subject, and not all round it, the session's program will never be finished.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Hollywood stars are reported to be much heavier today than their forbears were ten years ago. After this war, and particularly in starved Europe, fat will be a mark of beauty.

The value of leading a full life is thus expressed in the London Opinion:

If Adolf

he wouldn't now, I feel,

At the Pulp and Paper convention in Montreal a delegate is quoted as saying: "Let us tackle the possibilities...with our full quota of business guts". An army merely marches on its stomach; apparently industry uses its stomach as a weapon.

Diary Of A Happy Gourmet

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: A great event happened today: Euthanase came to visit me, and I have hopes that he will stay for some weeks. Euthanase is my brother Morgan's French-Canadian chef. Morgan phoned me from Montreal on Friday to say that he was going to Florida for a time, and that he wanted to park Euthanase with me; of course I was delighted, and the cook arrived on the early train today. I have never been able to afford a first-rate cook, but Nature has given me the disposition of a gourmet. I look to the future with greedy eyes....I see that Danielle Darrieux, the French film actress, has been sentenced to death by the French underground movement, because she has "collaborated" with the Nazis; how, it does not say. Not long before the war she made a film, "The Rage of Paris" in Hollywood, and it was enormously successful; she possessed the maturity of body, combined with an immature charm, which knocks the devotees of the shadow-drama out of their seats. When she said, in that film, "I can took it," a thousand voices could be heard whispering, "Aw, she's sweet." Well, well, beauty is but a flower which wrinkles will devour—but not for Danielle, if the underground gets her.... Tonight Euthanase made a superb steak-and-kidney pie; when a kidney enters a pie-shell with a piece of steak, a base organ is ennobled.

MONDAY: Tonight Euthanase confronted me with a 'poulet au riz,' a superb dish in which pieces of chicken are stewed for some hours with a 'bouquet garni,' and are at last served on boiled rice, with a sauce of egg-yolks and chicken broth; after eating it I found myself full of sublime thought, and so composed a little poetry; the poetry was not as good as the chicken, however, so I threw it away....I see that the body of Lenin, who died 20 years ago today, is in excellent condition, and that thousands of people visit it every week. What an age we live in! On one side of the world people stream to look at the mummified body of a revolutionist, and on the other day they write hundreds of fan-letters to a ventriloquist's doll. The human race has not advanced an inch since the days of Tiglath Pileser....Euthanase has gone to the movies; he tells me he likes sad films. They stir his artist's heart, I suppose.

TUESDAY: I hear on the radio that someone in the Government has declared rabbit meat fit for sale and human consumption. Whoever he is, he is a little late with his discovery. Rabbit pie is a delicacy for kings. But the rabbits must be young—mere babies—if the pie is to be just right. Sentimental people have called me a brute for insisting on the youngest and juiciest rabbits in the pie; such people have never known what a plague these same snuggly bunnies can be when they get among the crops and vegetables. A rabbit should be allowed just enough lettuce to permit him to grow to pie-stature, and not a leaf more....Went to the kitchen this evening to see that Euthanase was comfortable, and found him reading "The Police Gazette," which deals with all sorts of horrors and crimes; he had a copy of "Nature Magazine," also, which specializes in pictures of people sunbathing, artistically naked. These artists have remarkable tastes; I borrowed both magazines and spent quite an enlightening evening. Apparently there is a lot of crime which I never hear about, and the benefits of complete nakedness are phenomenal.

WEDNESDAY: Today I was brought low by a cold. Not low enough, unfortunately, to stay away from my work, but low enough to find work a great burden. I have been trying to combat the miserable thing by steaming my head with balsam; as a result I have a boiled face but my cold is worse, if anything....Tonight Euthanese produced an excellent blueberry shortcake made from preserved berries; he used cream off the top of a milk bottle, with good effect. He says it is thicker than the cream now available.

THURSDAY: Peeping into a book on fashion, I learn that it is just a century ago that men began to wear black clothes in the evening. Apparently the idea was to make themselves look interestingly melancholy. The habit of wearing dingy shades of business suits, it seems, came with the industrial revolution, for smoke and grime from factories soiled the bright-coloured cloths which had been popular before. It is high time we invented a smoke control system, and went back to bright colours....Euthanase had a day out, and I made my own dinner. It was a melancholy business. The omelette exploded—I don't know how or why—and I had to get a ladder and wash it off the ceiling.

FRIDAY: A splendid picture of the King appeared in all the papers today, taken by Karsh, the gifted Ottawa photographer. And in some papers there also appeared a picture of Princess Elizabeth as 'Aladdin' in a Christmas pantomime. It showed a good deal of royal leg. No gam-champ she, as 'Time' might express it. The Queen of Spain, as I recall it, had no legs; wise monarch!...A press dispatch from London begins, "Netherlands children now have a perfect alibi for not washing behind the ears; the Nazi authorities have cancelled all extra soap rations for children under seven." That sort of journalism makes me sick! Because Netherlanders are to be pinched for the necessities of life, someone rakes up the old stupid joke about children washing their ears, and uses the word 'alibi' in a completely wrong sense while doing so. I'd like to wash that reporter's ears with a steel file!

SATURDAY: My cold rages unchecked; I can do nothing but suffer and blow, and cough and suffer. Listened to "The Marriage of Figaro" on the radio this afternoon; it almost cheered me up, but the effect was not lasting. Euthanase has made me some fish for my miserable meal. He is a heartbroken because I have no sense of taste. I must recover at once, so that I shall not waste one precious day of his art. I should not have written that Euthanase made the fish; God made it, just as he made the sunlight, and Hitler, and my cold.

Unkempt Heroes At Work

Beside and in front of the Red Army an outraged people is still at war. Though with the Army's victories we have been told less of those unkempt heroes of the early months, the partisans, they are still hard at work, even as far west as the Russians now are. When it came to take Cherkassy the Army had the help of some who had been fighting for two years in the marshes west of the town. In such stories the spirit of Russian national resistance stands out in full majesty.—Manchester Guardian.

DOVES OF NAZI PEACE —By Thomas

Banker Urges Unhobbled Trade

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

SIGNIFICANT emphasis on the need for action now to free the channels of world trade for a full and unhampered flow of commerce after the war was voiced by Mr. J. A. McLeod, president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, at the bank's annual meeting in Halifax. This is a forward-looking and encouraging declaration. It is particularly enlightening as a reflection of the real view of a spokesman for the so-called "big interests", whom demogogues delight to picture as committed irrevocably to a gospel of high protective tariffs on which, of course, they are supposed to prosper at the expense of the down-trodden masses.

Mr. McLeod quite rightly pointed out that the freer exchange of war supplies and other goods between Allied nations during the war had been made possible by emergency, temporary lifting or ordinary trade barriers. But these barriers have been lifted rather than removed entirely, and "the whole machinery of restrictions remains." They will again become fully operative and clog the international movement of trade when the war ends, Mr. McLeod warned, unless plans are made—and soon—to reduce and eliminate these hobbles on the interchange of commerce between nations.

Seeing prospects of agreement on such matters better now than they will be after the war, Mr. McLeod believed that announcement now or before the war ends of plans to reduce trade impediments would be "a positive aid to reconversion." It is certainly a question of vital interest to Canadians, to whom foreign trade is essential and who will have to find markets across the world after the war for substantial surpluses of capacity for both primary and industrial products. Along with removal of trade barriers, Mr. McLeod ranked as of equal importance the establishment of a workable world plan to stabilize international monetary exchange and provide a flexible system of pooling and clearing international credits, as well as fiscal obligations arising out of trade.

Another important phase of the banker's address was a warning against complacency and relaxation in either the battle to achieve victory in the war or the battle against inflation after, as well as during, the war. While controls of production, distribution and prices may be able to be lifted from time to time after and even before the end of the war, he felt it would be dangerous to relax efforts to curb inflation or to demand sweeping away of all controls immediately the war is over.

Canada and Commonwealth

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

THE "explosive" speech which Premier Smuts of South Africa delivered privately in London some time ago is now producing repercussions throughout the British Commonwealth. A few days ago Lord Halifax embodied in a speech at Toronto some of the same proposals that were made by Premier Smuts in London. These have in effect been rejected by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who believes them to be "counter to the establishment of effective world security."

This response by the Canadian Prime Minister was not unexpected among people well acquainted with the trend of official thought in Canada. But it is to be questioned whether this reluctance to strengthen formal ties among the members of the Commonwealth will be shared by other dominions. Already an agreement has been signed between the Australian and New Zealand Governments which looks in the direction of closer co-operation within the Commonwealth. Moreover, Prime Minister Fraser of New Zealand has indicated his support for the principle of Empire unity, a principle already advocated by Prime Mininster Curtin of Australia.

The position of Australia and New Zealand is, of course, in some respects different from that of Canada. Canada, as Prime Minister Mackenzie King points out, is a neighbour of both the United States and Soviet Russia. But it would seem that the Canadian Prime Minister is over-concerned about American and Russian complications.

To present the dominions, as both Premier Smuts and Lord Halifax would do, with an opportunity to share in the formulation of British foreign policy need not be regarded solely as a balance-of-power measure. The elements most important to future world organization will be concreteness of organization and availability of power to enforce peace. The proposal to strengthen the British Commonwealth of Nations by closer ties among its members would seem a distinct contribution to postwar security.

Help For Farmers

Farmers have been working under great difficulties and have done a splendid job in production. Now, however, with the situation easing in munitions and arms plants, the farmers feel that something very positive should be done to help their situation. Many of those working in war plants have had years of experience at farming. With foodstuffs as important as munitions production, Selective Service could make a great contribution to the war effort by taking at least some of these ex-farmers out of the war plants and placing them on the farms. It would have to be done under a definite government plan.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

National Debt

Canada's national debt at the end of the present fiscal year will be about $9,000,000,000, in spite of the fact that the people in the past four years have handed to the Treasury over $5,000,000,000 in tax revenue. The service charges on the $9,000,000,000 will be not less than $270,000,000 a year, which is at least half the pre-war total budget. So the people have to meet this bill before a cent can be expended on a single item for current use.—Charlottetown Guardian.

Not "Comfortable" War

The basic trouble is that workers still nuture the notion that this war can be waged comfortably. Neither their union leaders nor their Government leaders have made them see that the winning of the war inevitably entails restricted living standards, that it exacts even the deferment of legitimate aspirations. In an ideal society the burden would be distributed proportionately with precise equity upon all. But since we have not yet achieved the ideal sacrifices must sometimes be borne disproportionately—just as they are borne disproportionately by men in battle.—Washington Post

A Bible Message

Am I a God at hand, saith the Lord, and not a God afar off? Can any hide himself in secret places that I shall not see him? saith the Lord. Do not I fill heaven and earth? saith the Lord. (Jer. 23: 23, 24.)

He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty.... He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday. A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee....

Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. (Ps. 91: 1, 4-7, 9, 10.)

Unwanted Change Status

An example of how bureaucracy can be utterly wrong without even half trying is found in a recent story from Washington. It seems that Mr. Lawrence D. Bell, who manufactures the Airacobra plane, wanted to send field men to Russia to check up on his craft's performance with the Red Army. Washington officials informed him coldly that the Soviet neither needed nor wanted any American civilians cluttering up their war efforts.

Somewhat annoyed at the brusque reply, Mr. Bell wrote directly to Premier Stalin. In a remarkably short time he received a telephone call from the Russian Embassy in Washington. Stalin, said the Embassy, thought Mr. Bell's idea was magnificent, and when could the technicians start for Russia? Shortly after, a five-man delegation left for Moscow. They were wined and dined at one of Premier Stalin's state banquets, and from all accounts were accorded the status of visiting dignitaries.

There's a moral in that for those people who feel that state control is an inherently good thing. It points to one of state control's greatest dangers— a measure of government by self-sufficient officialdom.

Pity Mr. Morgenthau

Morgenthau has sold over thirty billion dollars' worth of Government bonds, which means that he has borrowed more money than any other man in the history of the world. For all this, finance is not Morgenthau's favorite subject.

To his extreme annoyance, he does not own a single War Bond or Stamp. The United States Code not only says that the Secretary of the Treasury may not own a sea vessel but it prohibits him from owning any Government securities. Morgenthau has asked Congress to have this law repealed and he has had several legal opinions on it, including that of Randolph Paul, general counsel to the Treasury Department. The unanimous theory is that neither he nor his wife can legally buy Government bonds.—New Yorker.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, February 6

SUNDAY'S horoscope encourages a reasonable and well thought out plan to reach high places, particularly if competent equipment has attracted the attention and approbation of those superiors or employers in suitable places to further high objectives. But merit, skill, and logic should be the groundwork for this prestige. Big ideas and aims could gain by social or congenial factors. Entertain wisely.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to forge ahead to high objectives if they feel secure in the merit and soundness of their lofty ambitions. Reason and good judgment, with amiability, good feeling and social or romantic prestige may all combine to attract such forces. Use tact as well as certain reserves and poise for best results. Hospitality and grace also count.

A child born on this day may have many social, intellectual and worthy talents to attract the interest and rewards of those able to give valuable assistance in achieving a cherished career. There should be domestic joys as well.

For Monday, February 7

Monday's horoscope holding lunar aspects in the sign of service it would be well to cultivate this element of attention, especially where advancement and objectives depend upon the appreciation and good will of those in influential positions. There may be moderate success in either business, increased credit, promotion or other fair accomplishments, with shrewd and intuitive moves centred on the idea of reasonable and practical expansion. Be astute but ambitious.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be justified in counting on the support of those in influential positions in furthering their ambitious ends. But these should be moderate and efficiently developed if either public or private gain are hoped for. Policy, finesse, or cautious intrigues or well-laid strategies may be lucrative and enhance confidence, good will and personal gratifications.

A child born on this day may have many desirable traits of character and sound skills and efficiency to win assistance in a worthy career, from those in power or standing. Social and cultural assets may count for much.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Saturday, Feb. 5, 1944

A word about the new flowered prints for spring. The purple tones are shown either in plain materials, or flowered. This shade can be worn equally well, by blondes, brunettes, or the more mature, gray haired matron. A dress of this shade is very striking worn right now, under your fur coat, with a matching hat and gloves.

Prints with all shades of flowers, showing no decided shade as a background, are good. Take for instance a smart two-piece suit dress, with the skirt of flowered print, and the coat of plain material. Another smart print, made in coat dress style, buttoned from the collar to the bottom of the skirt, its only trimming being narrow pleatings of the same material, lovely for wearing now under your fur coat, and later with your spring casual, or semi-fitted chesterfield coat, of fleeced wool with velvet collar. Wear with this a small hat, tipped well forward.

Next week will bring more news about the new spring ensemble.

COAT AND DRESS MATE—This imported blanket cloth top coat, and the fitted weskit of matching fabric, are made in aqua blue, white, gold, rose. If you are going to wear mantailored fashions lifted directly from men's wardrobes, wear them right, say we. Especially if you are going to wear them off the reservation. Pyjamas of all sorts are house garments; you can write your own styles for them. But slacks should be cut to hang like pants, and be of the proper width. Coats or jackets, et cetera, worn with them should possess the same style of feeling; zoot coats and latticed sandals aren't their running mates. Here is a feminine appearing girl, definitely, whose coat and vest, shoes and skirt, are right for her bifurcations. The vest and coat, of course, will look equally well with a severely tailored suit skirt.

MARRIED MEN NEED SOME FUN

Wife Unwise to Object to Husband's Part in Office Entertainment Before Holidays.

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I have been married not quite two years. We have been very happy and he is a good husband in every way, but this is my trouble: He works for a large company and has recently been made supervisor of his department. This company has a great habit of having parties at halls, especially if some one leaves for the army, or at Thanksgiving and Christmas, etc. There are both men and women at these affairs and they have dancing and drinks, each employee contributing his share of the expenses.

I greatly object to my husband going to these affairs, but he claims he has to in his position, and says that when he doesn't go the fellows rib him about his wife not letting him out. It isn't that I don't trust my husband, because I do, but he is 25 years old and very good-looking and I am sure when he goes to these parties he doesn't sit in a corner, because he likes to dance and join in the fun, although he isn't one who cares for women.

All of this upsets me very much and we have big arguments over it, and he says if I don't trust him it is just too bad. Am I wrong in the position I take on the subject?
A WIFE.

Men Need Some Women To Play With

ANSWER—I think you are wrong. Absolutely. And that you are taking the best possible course of losing a perfectly good husband. For men have to have some woman to play with and if their wives won't do it, there is always some accommodating lady around who will help them make whoopee.

One of the main reasons why so many men get so fed up with marriage that they jump the bars in search of greener fields and pastures newer is because their wives make domesticity all work and no play. They think that after a hard day's work a man should ask no livelier diversion than painting the kitchen floor, or putting up new shelves in the pantry. So they throw cold water on all the plans of Friend Husband to amuse himself, and he has to either sneak his good times, or have a fight to get them. And when any man comes to look upon his wife as a killjoy, it is all over but the divorce decree.

It seems to me that is what you are doing in objecting to your husband going to the parties his firm throws, and that if you were wise, you would get a fresh hairdo and put on your prettiest frock and go along with him and pretend to enjoy it whether you do so or not.

He is right in saying that it is good policy for him to cooperate with those with whom he works, for employees will put their hearts and their backs into working for a boss they like that they never will for one who they think highhats them.

It is a pity that wives cannot realize that when men and women work together, day after day, year after year, they establish a relationship to each other that did not exist in the old days when the sexes were segregated and only thrown together on formal occasions. All of the old gallantries, the picking up of a lady's handkerchief, the helping her over a gutter, the flowery compliments and the distant reserve, go into the discard when a man and woman work together at the same machine, or when he bawls her out for her bad spelling, or she calls him down for loafing on his job.

Working together washes out all sense of difference in sex. They are neither man nor woman to each other. They are just two toilers on the same job, and they come to treat each other with a familiarity that makes wives green-eyed, but that, in reality, seldom has any sentimental significance.

Other times, other manners. Perhaps the wife is a rare bird who doesn't labor under the delusion that every woman her husband is thrown with is trying to steal him. But wives in general would save themselves a lot of grief if they would only realize that nowhere, outside of a monastery, is a man so safe from feminine wiles as he is in a factory or business office. The men and women who are working together to make a living are thinking about money, not love.

DEAR MISS DIX—My sympathy goes out to that 18-year-old girl who wrote you the other day about receiving unwelcome attentions from an elderly boss. Having spent twenty years defanging wolves, I have acquired a pretty fair technique, and this is my advice to her:

By no means try to talk over the situation with such a man, for undoubtedly his vanity would be wounded and he would make the position impossible for you to stay on. Then check on yourself and be sure that you are keeping your distance and that there is no touching of hands or shoulders. Be sure that your skirts are always in place; that your clothing is not suggestive of the boudoir, but that it screams aloud of the office and the honest working girl; brassieres always worn, sweaters taboo; eyes on your work and no personalities.

Keep in mind that it is the first duty of a good secretary to keep a man's mind on his work, not on her. If he has children or grandchildren, drag them into the conversation. It is pretty difficult to make love to a girl and talk about your progeny at the same time.

It is a good play to pretend to be engaged. Talk about John or Jim, who is off fighting for his country, even if there is no such person. The old-fashioned girl always had a brother or father just around the corner with a shotgun or a buggy whip to avenge her honor, and it is a good policy to gently bring such a male relative into the conversation, just in case.

Try these suggestions out on your typewriter and see if they don't work.

A GIRL WHO KNOWS

ANSWER — I commend these words of wisdom from a lady Solomon to my correspondent and to all young and inexperienced girls who do not know how to handle the wolves who are bent on devouring them. Theirs is a cruel situation. They cannot give up their jobs and flee from danger because they must work, or starve, and there are also at home, perhaps, old and sick people and little children who are dependent on their meager salaries for a livelihood.

And the poor little creatures are defenseless because they lack the knowledge and the worldly wisdom of how to laugh off attentions that revolt them, and have not the skill to tame a wild beast and turn it into a watch dog. Yet it can be done, and the letter quoted above shows how to turn the trick. For it is a curious thing that many a man who starts out by trying to tempt a girl to wander off of the straight and narrow path helps her to keep on it when he finds out that she is really good and means to stay that way.

MORE WOMEN WORK

The number of women employed in Canadian war plants has increased to 419,000 from 144,000 in 1939.

GINGHAM GLAMOR GIRL — Red and white colorfast checked gingham is here made into a flatter-frock. Note the slim skirt with four gores, the ante-bellum neckline with its ruffled bertha flange. Cotton is one fabric of which there is plenty to be had, and one which performs surely, its sturdy good nature undimmed by wartime compromises. That's why this pretty frock, apt choice for hot night wear at home, for small galas outside the home, for cabana and patio wear all day in the warm winter resorts, is good fashion news. For it is cotton with a glamor touch, and the touch is supplied in a way to make upkeep easy. Though dressy, the model is a laundry tub item.—By Prunella Wood.

Couple Honored Golden Wedding

Between 175 and 200 friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Dobbin, North Monaghan, gathered at their home on Monday evening to honor them on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. A program was given and presentations were made. Mr. Reginald Hunter acted as chairman for the evening. The program consisted of solos by Mr. Henry Batten, Kae Agnew, and Mr. Bernard Preston. Mrs. Nelson Parrington gave two delightful readings. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Martin sang two selections in Norwegian. An address was read by Mr. Ira Robson and Mrs Dobbin was presented with a rocking chair by Mrs. Stanley Jackson, and a gold watch by Miss Lillie Robson. Mr. George Hunter and Mr. John Clark, two school companions of Mr. Dobbin, presented him with a lazy-boy chair and ottoman. The grandchildren presented Mr. Dobbin with a gold pencil and Mrs. Dobbin with a gold cup and saucer. Mrs. Dobbin was also presented with a beautiful bouquet of yellow 'mums.

Speeches were given by Rev. William McDonald, Capt. Harold Scott, M.P.P., Mr. G. A. Gillespie, Reeve Melville Johnston, Mr. Charles Moore, Mr. F. E. Kerr, and Mr. Bruce Johnston. Pilot Officer Dean Kelly was also asked to say a few words.

An interesting event of the evening was the christening of three of Mr and Mrs. Dobbin's grandchildren. Owing to the illness of Rev. Dr. Easton, the Rev Mr. McDonald performed the baptismal ceremony from a bowl which had been brought from Scotland by Mrs. Dobbin's great-great-grandmother, as part of wedding dishes.

Mr. Dobbin has been an active member of North Monaghan Council and Reeveship for 33 years, following the footsteps of his father who also served the township.

Mr. and Mrs. Dobbin were married in the parsonage of Charlotte Street Church in 1894 by the Rev. J. J. Rae. Their groomsman was the late Harry Webber, and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Dobbin's sister, Mrs. C. C. Lawrason of Toronto, who was unable to attend on account of illness in the family.

Mr. Dobbin is the son of the late John Dobbin and Margaret Fowler, old pioneers of North Monaghan. He was born on his farm, which is the old Dobbin homestead. Mrs. Dobbin, daughter of the late Joseph Elmhirst and Jane West, was born in the Village of Keene in Otonabee.

There are 5 children, Mrs. S. E. Moncrief, Miss Clara Dobbin, Mrs. Hector Clark, Miss Annie Dobbin, and Mrs. Clarence Hancock, and twelve grandchildren, all of whom were present. Dainty refreshments were served, Mrs. Dobbin cutting the three-storey cake. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat

Very Easy to Make. No Cooking. Saves Big Money.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, is hard to beat, for real results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—anyone can do it. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really excellent cough relief—about 4 times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

IN $250,000 TURF DEAL—In one of the biggest deals in the history of the American turf, Henry Knight, wealthy Kentucky sportsman, purchased the entire racing stables of Valdina Farms, Uvalde, Tex., for a reported $250,000. A total of 149 horses were involved in the sale. Knight, in turn, sold three of the horses, including Rounders, a stakes performer, to William G. Helis, the millionaire, who paid $66,000 for a yearling last year. Valdina interests recently turned down $50,000 for Rounders. Valdina Farms were owned by Emerson W. Woodward, who was killed in an automobile accident.

Four Ladies From Bobcaygeon Capture Ontario Tankard

For the second time in as many years, four ladies from Bobcaygeon captured the cup of the Ladies' Ontario Curling Association in the finals held Friday afternoon at the Peterborough Curling Rink. Presentation of the cup to the winning rink was made by Mr. G. J. Harkness, the umpire for the two-day tankard, and Mrs. J. R. MacIntosh, skip of the winners, accepted on behalf of the members of her rink.

Mrs. MacIntosh expressed her pleasure at being present at such an important and exciting event, and thanked the Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club for a most enjoyable time. Each member on the winning rink, Mrs. MacIntosh, the skip, Mrs. R. Bottum, Mrs. R. Scott and Mrs. R. Gordon, received a lovely silver deposit sandwich plate.

The Sarnia rink was runner-up in the competition, and was composed of four sister, Mrs. L. Wooley, the skip, Mrs. R. Smith, Miss F. Clarke and Mrs. C. Weir, each of whom received sterling silver spoons.

Consolation prizes of blankets were given to the Toronto Granite Club rink, with Mrs. N. Pepall as skip, and Mrs. P. Agar, Mrs. Hallezell and Mrs. H. Grane as the other member. A Peterborough rink won the runner-up to the consolation prize, and each lady received a lovely plate. Mrs. Don Clarke was the skip of the rink, and Mrs. Gerald Wood, Miss Hazel Fanning, and Mrs. R. Metcalfe were the other members.

Mayor James Hamilton spoke briefly to the group before the presentations were made, and welcomed the visitors to Peterborough. Mrs. R. Turner, president of the Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club introduced Mayor Hamilton to the gathering, and also said a few words on behalf of the Peterborough Club, expressing their pleasure at being able to entertain and be hostess to the Ontario ladies.

A lunch was served in the Club rooms at the conclusion of play, and Mrs. Ray Best, wife of the president of the Ontario Curling Association and Mrs. J. W. E. Thomas, vice-president of Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club, poured tea, at a table tastefully set with silver, and centred with a bouquet of snap-dragons, daffodils, and carnations. Ladies of the Peterborough club assisted in serving.

Just before the meeting adjourned, Mr. Harkness, who as umpire, had the privilege of worrying the most about the weather, was given a barometer, as a symbol of his efforts on behalf of getting fine weather for the tankard.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

Putting up a brand of curling that was not to be denied, Mrs. J. R. McIntosh, Bobaygeon, piloted her rink to win the Ontario Ladies' Tankard, here yesterday afternoon when she defeated Mrs. L. Woolley's rink from Sarnia. This is the second year in succession that this same rink has won the coveted honors.

Starting off at a pace that looked as if the game might be a runaway Mrs. Mac took a commanding lead of 7-0 in the first four ends. Then Mrs. Woolley then came back with a big four and from then on it was a real battle. Coming home Mrs. Mac was two up but by some real smart curling Mrs. Woolley's quartette manged to get three in and it was up to the Bobcaygeon skip to get the shot or else. But Mrs. Mac took steady aim and made sure and drew up to Mrs. Woolley's shot stone and by so doing won the single rink championship of the Province of Ontario.

In the finals of the Consolation event, Mrs. Peppual Toronto Granites and Mrs. D. Clark, Peterborough staged another game that was chucked full of thrills. It was close all the way and Mrs. Peppal made an ice shot on the 10th end to square the match. On the extra-end first one and then the other was shot and when Mrs. Peppall came to play her last stone the shot was against her, but the Toronto veteran skip rose to great heights and made one of the outstanding shots of the series when she played well up, past all the guards and landed right on the tee. Mrs. Clark made a gallant attempt to raise one of her own stones but was just a trifle heavy. And so the 1944 games for the Ontario Ladies' Tankard ended up with the spectators witnessing two real bang up games, a credit to any curler.

And just while we're on this curling story. There were many incidents that took place that if we had the space we could go at great length, but there was one we wish to refer to. It was in yesterday morning's game between Mrs. Gooch, Hamilton Victorias and Mrs. D. Clark, Peterborough. It was the last end and Mrs. E. Metcalfe in playing her second stone picked up a hair pin which immediately threw the stone away off its course. According to rules the stone has to be removed from the ice and play continues. But Mrs. Gooch, being the good sportsman that she is refused this advantage and allowed Mrs.

St. Mike's Creep Closer To Top

(By The Canadian Press)

The second-place Toronto St. Michaels crept two points closer to the leading Oshawa Generals in group 1 of the Junior "A" O.H.A. series last night in riddling the Kroehlers 10-2 at Stratford. In the junior engagement at Brantford, the Lions overcame an early Hamilton lead and went on to win 4-3 with Jeffreys getting the pay-off goal on a pass from Day Powell with five minutes to go before the final whistle.

St. Mikes registered the only tally of period one at Stratford but stretched their lead to 7-0 in the second frame and it was not until the third that Tindall hit the twine for Kroehlers, bagging the two goals for the losers in that chapter. Two-goal scorers for the students were Bob Schnurr and Frankie Dunlap, ex-Leaf. The remainder were collected by Bauer, Melong, Lindsay, Sadler, McCormack and Mortson, one apiece.

At Brantford, Powell, the Sudbury import, was the big shot for Lions, collecting three of four counters and giving the assist for Jeffrey's winning goal. Brown was the leading scorer for Whizzers with two to his credit and Comfort secured the other.

Baseball Planners Get Busy Saturday

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 — (AP). — Baseball gropes into its post-war future to-day and nobody knows what Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis and the major-minor planning committee are going to find.

While peacetime problems of absorbing servicemen and shuffling league boundaries are high on the list of "musts," diamond figures here for a series of meetings running through Tuesday appear more interested in the immediate future of the game.

Although the "planners" are slated to do their job to-day, a series of committee meetings is likely before any solutions are found. This work, for the most part, will involve some legal hocus pocus of baseball's own code which always has been a mystery to Mr. Average Fan. After much talk about farm system-independent showdown, the boys have called off their dogs and no open hostilities are expected.

Lakefield Defeats Ashburnham Team

In a one-sided game with Lakefield Thursday night the Ashburnham Shamrocks were defeated 7 to 1, the win making Lakefield the victors of the best-of-three series.

Lakefield's superior passing and persistent back-checking represented the difference between the two outfits.

Henry led the winners' scoring parade with three goals and an assist, Montgomery fired two goals, Twist had a goal and two assists, Miller a goal, Loyst four assists and Jewell 1.

The lone Peterborough goal was scored by Thirnbeck with only two minutes left to play thereby robbing Edgar of a well-earned shutout.

Lakefield: Goal, Edgar; defence, Northey, Wasson; centre, Twist; wings, Henry, Loyst; alternates, Montgomery, Trude, Carveth, Millage, Jewell, Hopkins.

Shamrocks: Goal, Healey; defence, O'Heron, B. Sullivan; centre, Thirnbeck; wings, Crebar, Spencer; subs, G. Sullivan, Plumpton.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The feud between Whipper Billy Watson and Karl Krippler Davis the Texan battler will be resumed at Brock Street Rink Tuesday night when the two rivals will be tossed in against each other in the main bout of the Frank Tunney weekly wrestling show. This time the time limit has been extended by an extra half hour; in other words the two will have ninety minutes in which to decide a winner. That should be satisfactory both to the British Empire champion and to the Texan bad man. They battled an hour to a draw the last time they met here and would have been matched for a return bout last week had it not been for the fact that Promoter Tunney had a chance to give Peterborough enthusiasts a look at the world champion Wild Bill Longson and accordingly postponed the Watson-Davis duel for another week. They are two big, powerful men and the extra half hour in which to fight it out should be welcomed by both adversaries. Last time they clashed a little more time would have undoubtedly given the Whipper the win for he had Davis out on his feet when the timer's gong brought the tussle to a close in time to save the Texan from being dropped for the decisive fall.

* * * * * *

Davis is one of the toughest battlers who has shown here and in his looks, movements and roughness resembles Champion Longson. When he decides to toss in a rabbit punch or an eblow slam the Texan really lets it go and he snaps on his favorite stepover toe hold as if he really enjoyed handing out punishment to his opponent. On the other hand the British Empire champion is faster and has a wealth of wrestling lore at his command that makes him a tough adversary for anybody He has invented a number of holds that are feared by the wrestling world, including his own version of the whip, his Canadian avalanche which is a combination stepover toe hold followed by a cartwheel and his newest and most devastating grip the Commando unconscious hold that takes the fight out of the toughest adversary, once the Whipper gets it applied right. There is no love lost between the two men. Davis has been calling the handsome Canadian a Fancy Dan and Watson on the other hand resents the sounding off the Texan has been doing about the quality of Canadian wrestling and the courage or rather lack of it shown by Canadian exponents of the art. It should all add up to an exciting battle when the two lock horns here next Tuesday night.

It Shows The Spirit

A story from Welland telling how Trooper Douglas H. Reid of that city has turned over his entire January pay as a soldier overseas to the Welland-Crowland arena fund tells its own story of how much Canadian youth appreciates proper facilities for sport. When a boy who is serving overseas is so anxious to help ensure an arena for the days to come that he will donate one-twelfth of his meagre year's pay to assist in financing the project the incident illustrate effectively the trend of public opinion as to the necessity of adequate sport facilities. Trooper Reid's donation helps to bring to the front the fact that in Welland and Peterborough and everywhere else where there is no modern sport arena the public generally appreciates the need of doing something about it and is just waiting for the nebessary leadership to put the thing across. In that connection this column has received an interesting letter from a local sport fan who has enclosed his name and address as a guarantee of good faith.

* * * * * *

He sets forth his views on the subject as follows: "I have been asked by several of our Tuesday Night Fight Gang to drop you a line to see whether we couldn't obtain a little more information from your column on the individual wrestlers. It seems to us that a few more particulars as to the wrestler's age, height, previous bouts etc., would tend to create more interest in the bouts. We know that the wrestlers put on a great deal of show but the customers seem to eat it and further more where can we see any other sport in this beautiful Sport Cemetery we call Peterborough. The great (?) activity in the promotion of sport as shown by the collection of Morgue Attendants we call the City Council is really laughable. It seems to us that the council's chief concern is to see whether another mill can be cupped off the tax rate and this regardless of whether juvenile delinquency is on the increase or whether our fair city fades and dies. We feel sure that a great deal of this fast growing juvenile delinquency could be erased if a decent arena was established by our city. Not an arena that would only operate about 4 months of the year for hockey but one large enough to house bowling alleys, built also for roller skating, public speaking, concerts, etc., and not out at the edge of our city but in the centre so that stores would line the front to bring in year round revenue. We know that this cannot be done at the present time but at least plans could be considered for building as soon as possible after the war. It is a pity that nothing is left for the younger generation but pool halls and the streets."

Congratulations, Bobcaygeon

Congratulations are in order to Mrs. A. McIntosh and the members of her Bobcaygeon rink who for the second year in succession have carried off the highest honors offered to women curlers in Ontario by winning the Ontario Women's Tankard. Facing the strongest women rinks in the province in the competition held here on Thursday and Friday Mrs. McIntosh and her capable rink rose to the occasion. With the other members of the organization curling splendidly and Mrs. McIntosh giving inspired leadership the Bobcaygeon rink met every challenge successfully. They swept through the preliminary and first rounds on Thursday, handed a decisive beating to a strong Kingston rink in the semi-final round Friday morning and had enough punch left to meet the redoubtable Sarnia Wooley quartette in the final and emerge with a three-shot lead for their second Ontario triumph in two years. It takes a real bunch of curlers to win an Ontario title twice in succession and the Bobcaygeon women have proven themselves to be just that. Incidentally the Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club is to be congratulated upon the success of the Tankard competition and the smoothness with which the affair was run off.

George Soup Campbell has been devoting a paragraph in his Oshawa sport column on the subject of Sunday sports and whatever your views may be on the subject you should find this paragraph interesting: "Now, regarding how "Sunday sports" effects Canada, Ontario or any other territory outside the immediate circulation of The Times-Gazette, is not of prime interest to us at the moment. Just permit us to point out that we have 'Sunday sports" right here in Oshawa today and when we have finished enumerating our list, we will have already eliminated the possibility of criticism from about half of the population of our fair community while most of the others are perhaps no longer young enough to participate. We all know they play golf on Sunday here in Oshawa, but then that is the popular, oft-offered "excuse." We have a few more. Various recognized and respected sports organizations such as the Oshawa Ski Club, Oshawa Figure Skating Club, Oshawa Tennis Club, Oshawa Yacht Club, Oshawa Archery Club, these all carry on their activities on Sunday quite openly. It's no secret to people in Oshawa but they use dark glasses when looking, that's all. Fishing and hunting trips are usually made on a week-end, Sunday included. In summer, softball, swimming and even races can frequently be observed at picnics held on Sunday, canoeing, boating and even boat-races are held on Sunday. In the winter season, you can go skating if you don't ski and they even have the odd "shinny" game on a nearby pond, curling is not unknown—oh, we could even add more. But just to finish it off, there are certain others who go to church and hear a rousing sermon, sometimes on how to cast your next vote, and then they rush home to enjoy a game of bridge, at so much per point. NOW, go ahead! Let who will, cast the first stone!"

MILERS IN SPOTLIGHT IN ANNUAL MILLROSE GAMES—First big indoor track event of the season, the 37th annual Millrose Games in New York, is on the sports docket tonight (Saturday). As usual the Wanamaker mile will feature the program. It will bring together outstanding milers including Gil Dodds, Bill Hulse and Don Burnham. Another featured race is the Sheppard 600 in which Jimmy Herbert, former New York U. star now running for Grand St. Boys' Association, is favorite.

Transports Win 8th Straight, Defeat Normal 56-21

Transports and Generals had no trouble in picking up victories last night in the final double-header in the regular schedule of the Ladies' Basketball League. The league-leading Transports won their eighth straight win, defeating the Normalites 56 to 21 in first game, while Generals overpowered Y Cadets 62 to 15 in the second half of the twin bill.

As a result the Transports finish in first place with eight wins and no losses, St. John's are second with 6 and 2, Generals third with four wins and four losses and Cadets and Normalites tied for fourth with one win and seven defeats.

Transports won their fixture with the Normalites in decisive fashion, outscoring the school team 24 to 13 in the first half and adding to their margin in the second session when they registered 32 more points as against 8 for the Normalites.

Beryl Dobbin with 16 points and Jean Castle with 14 were the scoring leaders for the winners while E. Frits with six points sparked the losers.

Transports (56)—Beryl Dobbin 16, Isobel Crary 6, Helen Miller 4, Detty Flynn 2, Dot Bestard 4, Fran. Bestard 6, Jean Castle 14, R. Fleming 4.

Normal (21)—M. Vanderwater, E. Fritz 6, R. Chapelle 4, F. Sexsmith, M. Howes 2, P. O'Donnell 4, Helen Baird 4, R. Heffernan, A. Nelson 1.

Referee, J. Cooper; umpire, Mary McPherson.

In the second game Generals had too much power for the young Y Cadets and with Mary McPherson finding her scoring touch to the extent of 24 points ran up a score without much difficulty. In fact they led by 44 to 5 at the half.

Cadets kept on battling and had the satisfaction of making a much better showing in the second half when they managed to put together ten points as against 18 for the Fran. Merrett with 12 points and Dot Allen with 10 helped swell the winners total while M. Barrett did most of the scoring for the Cadets by registering a total of 11 points.

The teams:

Generals (62)—Shirley Mortimer 4, Isobel Bullock 4, Dot Allen 10, J. Hickey 4, Monica Lawless 4, Mary McPherson 24, Fran Merrett 12.

Y Cadets (15)—L. Petersiel, L. Edwards, N. Ackerman, M. Barrett 11, N. Young 1 Betty Lou Braund 2, P. Martyn 1.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Ninety-six of the 128 rinks to compete in the 17th annual bonspiel in Toronto February 14-19 will come from outside Toronto, it was announced last night by the Bonspiel Committee, the largest contingents being five rinks each from Chatham, Detroit and Kirkland Lake. Four rinks will be sent by Kingston and Orillia while three will represent Barrie, Oshawa, Orangeville, Thornbury, Brampton, London and Hamilton Victorias.

The Northern Ontario delegation will comprise 17 rinks from Sault Ste. Marie to Kinkland Lake and intervening points. Entries from the United States include St. Paul, Minn., Glencoe, Ill., and Wauwatosa, Wis., as well as Detroit. One or two rinks have been entered from other cities and towns throughout Ontario, including two each from Kitchener, Sarnia, Lindsay, Forest, Parry Sound, Elmvale and Bracebrdge.

Tinker Improved.

Joe Tinker, former star infielder of the Chicago Cubs, was so far improved in health that physicians yesterday permitted his removal from the oxygen tent at the Orlando, Fla., hospital where he is battling a complication of ailments aggravated by influenza.

The State's four tracks, Pimlico, Laurel, Bowie and Havre de Grace, yesterday received permission from the Maryland Racing Commission to stage a joint 28-day meeting at Pimlico, from April 12 to May 13.

Gil Dodds and Bill Hulse, middle-distance stars who chased Gunder Haegg of Sweden around the United States last summer, are featured for the Wanamaker mile of the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden, New York, to-night... Hulse holds the record of 4:06 for the mile outdoors in the U. S. performance book.

Manager Tommy Gorman of the Canadian Arena Company, Montreal, announced yesterday the cancellation of an exhibition hockey game between Montreal Canadiens and the Quebec Aces scheduled for February 13 at Quebec because of the refusal of the Quebec League club to accept suggested referee.

Good Putting.

Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., flashed to the fore in the opening round of the Phoenix, Ariz., open golf tournament yesterday in carding a 66 for the par-71 course after sinking 20-foot putts on the sixth and 17th holes.

The New York Yankees yesterday purchased outfielder Ed. Levy from the Newark Bears of the International League for an undisclosed sum. Levy hit .322 last year and made twelve home runs, including three in one game against Baltimore. He was recently discharged from the U. S. Army.

Nineteen thoroughbreds are scheduled to go to the post at Hialeah Park today in the season's featured 5,000 race on the grass course in two heats of 1 1-16 miles, the favorite being W. W. Crenshaw's Grasshopper 2nd, a seven-year-old gelding.

City Carpetball

The results came in a little better this week but we have reason to believe that some of the result cards are being carried around by some members of the teams. We have received only one report from the St. James' team and yet undestand that they have played more.

Anyone having result cards should leave them in the fire hall, where we will get them.

The result this week show the Old Sweats taking the top with 4 points ahead of the L.O.L. This was caused by the complete collapse of the Orangemen when they tried out some old Antiques. The wood worms got in the orange crop in no mean way. Results:

P.F.D. No. 8, 2-13 vs. L.O.L. No. 2, 21-11.

St. James' No. 7, 7-4 vs. S.O.E. No. 3, 7-17

B.E.S.L. No. 9, 9-10 vs. S.O.E. No. 3, 12-9

Wardens No. 6, 7-14 vs. S.O.E. No 3, 15-4

Wardens No. 6, 10-8 vs Brintons No. 4, 7-16

The standings show the Old Sweats in first place with the Orangemen and the Fighting Parsons tied for second. East City Wardens hold fourth with 6 points behind.

Games as schduled for next week:
B.E.S.L. No. 1 vs. S.O.E. No. 3
L.O.L. No. 2 vs. St. James' No. 7
B.E.S.L. No. 9 vs. Brintons No. 4
All Saints' No. 7 vs. P.F.D. No. 8
St. James' No. 7 vs. P.F.D. No. 8
L.O.L. No. 2 vs. Wardens No. 6

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 — (AP). — Sidelight on the popularity of indoor tracks here: Former Mayor Jimmy Walker, who knows almost everybody in town, had to call on Jimmy Johnston, the fight manager who also knows everybody else, to help him buy a couple of tickets for to-night's Millrose meet.

Toronto Curlers Capture Ontario Tankard

TORONTO, Feb. 5 — (CP). — For the first time in the 69-year history of the Ontario Tankard, rinks from Toronto High Park Club to-day held the honor of winning the blue-ribbon event of provincial dual rinks competition.

Gerve Meech and veteran Ken Miles skipped the High Park rinks to victory yesterday, defeating Bert and Perry Hall of Kitchener 32-20 in a final which High Park gained by defeating Barrie. Meech disposed of Bert Hall 13-8 and Miles recorded a 19-12 count against Perry Hall.

The Governor-General's Trophy went to Stan Sargent and Andy Anderson of Orillia, who swept to a 36-23 victory over R. S. Fleming and W Govenlock of Forest. Two other High Park fours won the Globe and Mail Trophy 26-24. J. A. Taylor defeated L. E. Ross 15-13, while Gordon Jones held R. Shadlock to an 11-11 draw. Jones and Shadlock skipped Agincourt rinks.

In the Burden Trophy final, Gordon Campbell and Ross Tarlton of Hamilton Thistles rained a 35-20 triumph over C. Peacock and E. Parsons of Oshawa.

TORONTO, Feb. 5 — (CP). — One of the strongest hockey teams in the country at the moment is the almost unheralded Navy team at Deep Brook, N.S. It includes Bob Goldham, Ab Welsh, Jack Fritz, Red Garrett, Vic Lofvendahl, Bill Heindl, Ben Juzda, Paul Pidcock, Ritchie Nicol, Wally Stefaniw, Scotty Mair, Joey Johns, George Gee. Six are former professionals and the others outstanding amateurs....Someone caused a sensation for 5,000 at a Vancouver hockey game the other night by tossing a "mickey" on to the ice. It was empty and the excitement died quickly.

Patrick breathes again:

Despite reports that Bryan Hextall and Ott Heller of New York Rangers have received their United States draft call, publicity man Jim Hendy says neither has yet received his call-up. Both are registered with U.S. Selective Service and may receive call-up notices later. In that case they may elect to join the Canadian armed forces as Dit Clapper of Boston did.

Memory Lane:

This season's service hockey difficulties were not new. In 1917 the Toronto 228th Battalion entered the National Hockey Association, forerunner of the N.H.L., and the squawks about who was in the Army and who wasn't reverberated throughout Quebec and Ontario. In the middle of the squabble, the Soldiers withdrew from the league and a few days later were en route overseas. The 228th lineup included Glen Lockhart, Goldie Prodgers, Howard McNamara, George McNamara, Butch Arbour, Duke Keats, Eddie Oatman, Gordon Meeking, Roxy Beaudro.

Incidentally:

Tom Longboat, the famous old Indian Marathoner, has quit his job with the City of Toronto Works Department and is looking for other employment. 19 Horses Race For Miami Prize

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5—(AP)—The winter's top grass course horse race will be run as a double-header over Hialeah Park's flower-lined turf track today, with 19 thoroughbreds competing.

The luck of the draw put most of the higher-regarded thoroughbreds in the first division of 1 1-16 miles dash around the shores of the infield lake for a $5,000 added purse.

V. L. Shea's chestnut 5-year-old horse, Rascal, a winner over the turf only last Saturday, seemed to be a low-priced favorite to take most of the $5,000 pot in the second division. He must carry 114 pounds.

Millbrook Stable's top-weighted Poacher, in at 116 pounds, and Walter P. Chrysler's Coronal, assigned 114, stacked up as the principal opponents in the rather mediocre field.

On the basis of an impressive victory on the grass Tuesday, W. W. Crenshaw's Grasshopper 2nd won the favor of the handicappers in the first division, against tough competition. The 7-year-old gelding is in at 114.

The greatest burden, 120 pounds, was laid upon Greentree Stable's Four Freedoms, winner of one division of the Palm Beach Handicap two weeks ago.

Along with C. W. Anderson's Kanlast, Four Freedoms was rated a close second choice.

Others given a better-than-fair chance in the second division are W. Gullat's Navy, A. T. Simmons' Air Current, O. S. Jennings' Blue Sash and May and Christopher's Doubt Not.

Pittsburgh Team Better Than In 1943

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5 — (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates' management today looked over prospects for the coming baseball season and, in the words of President William E. Benswanger, decided that:

"We're no worse off than any of the rest of the National League teams and a lot better off than some of them."

In fact, Benswanger seemed confident he has a first-division team again this year, and was even hopeful that the Buccaneers, with a veteran pitching staff, might better last season's accomplishment when they finished fourth.

"All the players I've talked to so far seem to have more confidence than they ever had, and if we can get some hitting to go along with the defensive play I know we'll have, we should be right up there in the fight all season," he said.

Benswanger has seven veteran pitchers, headed by Truett (Rip) Sewell, a good defensive outfield and a good infield, but on the record lacks the power at bat to threaten last year's flag-winner, St. Louis, or the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Lee Handley's arm is back in shape, and with the addition of Babe Dahlgren, whom we bought from Philadelphia, we should have a good infield, despite the loss of Elbie Fletcher at first base," Benswanger continued. "With Jim Russell, Vince DiMaggio and either Frank Colman or John Barrett in the outfield, we have one of the league's best defensive trios—but we do need more hitting."

Heavy Program For NHL Teams

By The Canadian Press

A heavy week-end program promises to shed light on the struggle for second place in the National Hockey League, a three-way conflict which now finds Toronto Maple Leafs caught in a "squeeze" between Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks.

While Leafs have descended to an almost unprecedented level by losing three straight Saturday night home games, Detroit and Chicago have climbed from the basement with solid winning streaks. Detroit, now in second place two points ahead of Leafs, has been beaten only once in its last 10 games; Chicago has five straight victories to its credit.

All three clubs swing into action twice during the week-end, Leafs and Wings playing a double date which opens in Toronto Saturday and switches to Detroit Sunday. Chicago plays the league-leading Canadiens at Montreal Saturday and tail-end Rangers at New York Sunday. The Hawks now trail Leafs by two points.

The only other week-end game sends Rangers to Boston, whose crippled Bruins have dropped from second to fifth place after losing seven straight games.

CHEX Will Carry "L For Lankey"

Commencing Sunday, February 6, "L for Lanky" popular radio story of an R. C. A. F. bomber and its all-Canadian crew, will be sponsored by Canadian Marconi Company through arrangement with Honourable C. G. Power, Minister of National Defence for Air. Broadasts will continue at the same hour weekly over a Dominion-wide network of forty-five radio stations.

Peterborough listeners will hear "L for Lanky at the usual time on Sunday evening from 7.30 to 8.00 over station CHEX.

The story of "L for Lanky" follows an exciting pattern of life in the R. C. A. F. overseas and is told in the interesting jargon of the Air Force.

The Canadian Marconi Company feels it is fitting that they assume sponsorship of this outstanding radio programme —since so much of the radio equipment used by Bomber Command is manufactured in Canada by the men and women of Marconi.

Reporter Died Trying To Report News

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE,
Associated Press Staff Writers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 —(AP)— Raymond Clapper, who died in a plane crash while covering the invasion of the Marshall Islands for the Scripps-Howard newspaper, was respected in a number of ways.

Other newsmen were always sure he was calling his shots exactly as he saw them. He wrote and he fought for the things he thought were right. He was bitter, too, against the people and things he thought were wrong.

He made $100,000 a year. He had a wife and two children. He wrote for the Scripps-Howard newspaper alliance his daily column which was nationally famous.

Why then did he leave Washington for the South Pacific war? Why did he go up the bomber that crashed him to his death in a lagoon in the Marshalls? He didn't need to.

He had seen what war is. He had covered part of the Mediterranean campaign. He had flown in a bomber on the first American bombing of Rome. He had seen how ground troops react to battle and how bomber crews act on a mission.

The column he wrote from San Francisco on New Year's Day can explain some of it. He wrote, just before his departure for the South Pacific:

"Some people in Washington feel that there is not sufficient awareness at home of how much our men are doing (in the South Pacific) and in what a living hell they must sometimes do it. So somebody says why don't I go out and get a taste of it, and so here I go, dragging these aging bones."

He was 51, and so he went. And he was killed, just as 15 other American correspondents had been killed or died abroad since the European war started.

Two Canadian newspaper men—Sam Robertson of The Canadian Press and Edward Baudry of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation—also have died on war-assignments.

Why did they die? For the same reason Raymond Clapper gave his life. They were trying to report the news.

They thought it was the honest thing to tell the story as they saw it happen, close up, giving the feel of the thing, making it as true as words can make anything true for their countrymen back home the adventure called war and the sting and smell of death and what danger felt like and what it meant.

CHEESE FACTORY FOUNDED

The first Canadian cheese factory was established in Oxford Dounty, Ontario, in 1864.

Child—No Horse

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5—(AP).—Mary Ann Sheridan, born September 12, 1941, and listed as a dependent by 28-year-old Edward Merlin Sheridan, turns out to be a horse. Sheridan was arrested yesterday on a grand jury indictment charging him with making false statements to his draft board and failure to report for induction.

UNIFORM IS TOPS—In a U.S. nation-wide poll, the WAVE uniform was voted tops among the various branches of the military services. Ensign Miriam Murray of Boston, Mass., certainly wears hers to advantage, don't you agree?

S. S. Breckon Re-elected Red Cross Head

NORWOOD, Feb. 5 (ENS) — The annual meeting of the Norwood branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held recently in the High school. The president, S. S. Breckon, was in charge. The treasurer's report showed the total cash receipts $1,943.98; expenditures $1,552.25. Balance $391.73. Material on hand was valued at $55.00. A total of 988 articles have been shipped to headquarters. This was made up of the following: Knitted articles 169, civilian clothing 215, hospital supplies 211, quilts, blankets and afghans, 205 large and 88 small. Material on hand 6 lb. service wool, 5 lb. baby wool, 5 yards wool jersey for baby vests, 3 yards pillow cotton, 5½ yards of feather ticking and 75 pounds absorbent cotton for hospital supplies. Reports of the work done were as follows:

Mrs. A. Metcalfe's group met every two weeks with an average attendance of 10, donated 24 large quilts and 19 small quilts and assisted with the sewing and knitting.

Mrs. F. Webster's group held 16 quiltings, an average attendance of 11. The ladies donated 61 large quilts and 11 small ones. Several members assisted with sewing and knitting.

Mrs. G. Brown's group held 20 quiltings, with an average attendance of 14. The ladies donated 51 large and 15 small quilts to the local Red Cross. They assisted with sewing and knitting.

Mrs. H. Fords' group held 12 meetings with an average attendance of 6. They donated 9 large and 14 small quilts to the local Red Cross. The ladies assisted with sewing and knitting.

Miss M. Webster's group of Cottesloe donated 17 large quilts and 5 small ones and the ladies assisted with sewing and knitting.

Mrs. W. Girven's South Dummer group donated 10 large quilts and 5 small ones to the branch.

The United Church Bible class donated 11 large quilts.

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church donated 5 large quilts and 4 small ones.

The Catholic Women's League assisted with sewing.

The Women's Institute donated two large quilts.

The Willing Workers donated 2 large quilts and 2 small and several articles of cothing.

Several donations of knitted articles and quilts were received from individuals.

Mrs. E. Patterson, sewing convener, reported 215 articles of clothing shipped during the year. Included in this were 56 girls' dresses and panties for Greek relief. Hospital supplies consisted of 9 dressing gowns and 262 air force handkerchiefs. Two large blankets and 88 crib quilts and blankets were also sent to headquarters.

Miss P. Weir, wool convener, reported 169 knitted articles sent to headquarters. This included 13 for the army and the air force, 94 for the seamen and 62 for civilians. The decrease in knitting was due to the shortage of wool in the early part of the year.

Mr. Breckon reported 203 large quilts sent to headquarters.

Previous to the election of officers the president spoke briefly on the work done during the year, which he said was made possible by the splendid co-operation of all concerned. He emphasized the work of the blood donors' clinic and said while there were between 35 and 40 from the district who were already registered, many more were needed.

The result of the election of officers was as follows: Honorory president, Mr. M. Bailey; president, Mr. S. S. Breckon; vice-president, Mrs. C. Coughlin; secretary, Miss P. Weir; treasurer, Mr. H. Goden.

The executive consists of a representative from each group, the conveners of the work committees and a representative from each of the following: Village Council, Board of Education, I.O.D.E., Women's Institute, and the Catholic Women's League.

The work conveners for the year: Sewing, Mrs. E. Patterson; knitting, Miss P. Weir; surgical supplies, Mrs. A. R. Atkinson and Mrs. R. Rathwell.

Maj. Murray Flays Rhodes Scholars

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 5 — (CP) — Maj. Gladstone Murray, Toronto policy counsel, addressing London Kiwanis Club today devoted some time to discussing "the crop of Rhodes Scholars that adorn the front ranks of the C.C.F."

He said they were of a generation of Oxford univergraduates who accepted a resolution against bearing arms in any cause whatever. In his own day, a generation earlier, "it was believed that acceptance of the largesse of Rhodes carried with it the moral obligation to serve the empire." Maj. Murray was Rhodes Scholar from Quebec in 1913-14.

"The British and American contemporaries of our Canadian socialist Rhodes Scholars mellowed and recovered their poise with the impact of affairs, and it is a curious commentary that there is no trace of anti-British attitude on the part of the Americans," he said, drawing attention to what he termed "the eccentricity of a pronounced anti-British bias among the Canadian Rhodes Scholars now so prominent in the C.C.F."

Estonian Capital Being Evacuated

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 5 (AP) —The Estonian capital of Reval (Tallinn) expects a declaration of a state of emergency momentarily as a result of the Russian advance and citizens have been ordered to evacuate the city as soon as possible, dispatches to the newspaper Allehanda said today.

In Helsinki the Finnish air chief told residents they must prepare for an imminent aerial bombardment, the report said.

All civilian rail travel out of Reval has been forbidden by military authorities and some highways leading out of the capital have been closed to all except troop traffic.

Numerous Russian partisans are reported to be operating against German communications in the dense forests outside Reval.

Female Battler

WINDSOR, Feb. 5 — (CP). — Two hours in jail was a contempt of court sentence imposed by Judge J. J. Coughlin here yesterday upon Mrs. Sylvia Boydan, who sought revenge against a $5.80 Divisional Court decision awarded Mrs. J. Birau of Tecumseh. No sooner outside the court room were the two principals when Mrs. Boydan tackled Mrs. Birau, pulling her hair in a wild affray.

Allied Foothold In Grave Danger

By DANIEL DELUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 5TH ARMY ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD IN ITALY, Feb. 2—(Delayed)—(AP). — Is the fateful pattern of Salerno being repeated on this wide but shallow bridgehead within sight of Rome's radio towers?

The tempo of Anglo-American operations at the southern coastal approaches to the Eternal City has been slower than the 5th Army's invasion south of Naples last September.

Although in 12 days ashore seaborne forces have entrenched themselves strongly in the flat farmlands, on a beachhead officially more than 14 miles wide and extending eight miles from the sea, the enemy retains control of the dominant high ground and the main Rome highway through Cisterna.

What the situation is here boils down to this:

At Cisterna, where heavy Allied air and naval support helped break a German counter-offensive within one week, the Germans have had 12 days to mass their troops for what, according to officially-released information, will turn into a furious effort to wipe out the entire Allied foothold around Anzio.

Until the beachhead has passed this critical test, it can not be described as a military success.

Strong Resistance.

German resistance is strong at every point of the bridgehead Perimeter, and increasing counter-attacks obviously indicate it is the enemy's ambition to wrest, and exploit the initiative.

The German air force has not been strong enough effectively to challenge the Allies' air superiority but it has inflicted some damage and now is harrying the forward Allied troops.

Weather permitting, however, the Allied air forces can deal out 10 or 20-fold the punishment inflicted by German aircraft. This massive Allied strength in the air, together with Allied warships close offshore, are among the factors which have convinced the ground troops here that the beahhead not only will be held, but also will be strategically expanded.

Fighting men here are acutely aware that the public in Britain and the United States may be expressing chagrin that 12 days have not been enough for them to march some 35 miles from Anzio to Rome.

But the payoff on this campaign will be whether the Allies capture Rome. The chance was taken and the divisions were risked. Some of the most experienced elements of the German army bar the way.

POST-WAR ROAD WARDENS

CREWE, England—(CP)—Cheshire air raid wardens are being asked by the country's chief constable to consider keeping up their organization after the war and that the members enrol as road wardens.

Javanese Tells Of Jap Cruelty

LONDON, Feb. 5 (CP) —New details of Japanese atrocities appeared today in Vrij Neredland, a Dutch newspaper published in London, which related the story of a Javanese who escaped from a Japanese concentration camp.

The Javanese said he and many other prisoners were transported in a dark, airless Japanese troopship to Guadalcanal to load ammunition before American forces occupied the island. From Guadalcanal they were shipped to another Pacific isle where they were forced to walk day and night for two weeks over nearly-impassable jungle trails, and those who lagged on the way were "kicked and beaten and prodded with bayonets."

The only food the prisoners were given while on this trek was two handfulls of rice a day, the Javanese said.

"Two Dutch officers and an Indonesian who tried to escape were tied to a stake, bayoneted and then shot," the Javanese added. He carried a three-inch bayonet scar on his own back, the paper said.

Too Lenient—Perhaps

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 —(AP)—The Tokyo domestic radio said today Kumaichi Yamamoto, vice-minister for occupied areas in Asia, had made a statement to the Japanese diet yesterday saying Allied nationals interned in China are being treated properly "according to moral principles."

"However, in some circles I believe there are instances in which our treatment is too lenient in comparison to the treatment given by the enemy nations," Yamamoto was quoted as saying.

The broadcast, reported by United States government monitors, said Yamamoto's statement was made in response to a question from the floor.

Main Street Topics

C.N.R. ACTIVITY

Four engines under steam in the C.N.R. yard around 12:15 a.m. this morning seemed an unusual quartette of power with the four stacks heaving in a rather compact group near King street. It seemed out of the ordinary to a passerby, but D. E. Bell, the local agent, deflated the notion. Two of the engines were hauling the east and west bound freights that passed each other in Peterborough and the two others were yard engines snoozing until morning. There is an eastbound midnight freight that seems to reach Peterborough on schedule, and usually keeps on going, but the extra yard engine and the westbounder were not on the layman's list.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, will deal with the subject "Juvenile Delinquency" when she addresses members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon on Monday.

A FATHER'S PLEA.

A well known transport driver who picked the battered body of a little child off an Oshawa street Friday night after the child had been run over by the car in front of the transpor is so upset by the tragedy that he could not work today. This man urges that parents keep their children off the roads. These drivers are engaged in a vital wartime job getting shipments through, and with icy roads their job becomes much more difficult.

WOMAN IS INJURED

When automobiles driven by Roland McFadden, 336 Braidwood avenue and A. N. Clinnert collided at George and Perry streets last night considerable damage was done to both vehicles and Mrs. McFadden sustained a bruised right hip.

CHIMNEY FIRES

A trio of chimney fires comprises the report of the Fire Department during the past 24-hour period. The first, occuring at 1:50 p.m. Friday, was at 141 London street, home of A. Cherney; three hours later, at 4:50 p.m. the second took place at 301 Louis street, residence of T. Brooks; and in the evening, at 10:15, an alarm was sounded at 470 Stewart street, home of Mrs. T. Herlihey. No damage was caused.

ON A DRUNK CHARGE

Max. Redmond entered a plea of guilty to a charge of having been drunk when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning, and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

AIRMEN GRADUATE.

Peterborough and district men who received their wings at graduation ceremonies in different parts of Canada on Friday: At Centralia, Sgt. K. R. Elliott, of Peterborough, Sgt. E. H. Metcalf, of Bancroft, and Sgt. P. W. Winstanley, of Campbellford; at Air Observer School at London, navigators' wings to Sgt W. M. Howey, 167 Antrim street, Peterborough.

COMMISSIONED OVERSEAS.

Royal Canadian Air Force No. 1 Training Command reports the commissioning overseas as navigation officer "B" of WO. J. C. Grover, whose wife resides at Birdsall.

WITH AMERICAN NAVY

A Peterborough boy, Bluejacket Bernard Edward Covert, 487 Albert street, has just completed his basic recruit training at the United States Naval Training Station at Sampson, N.Y., on the shore of Seneca Lake and has been granted leave. Upon his return to Sampson he will be eligible for further assignment which may qualify him for a petty officer rating.

National Rehabilitation Program Is Explained To Kiwanis Club

"Citizens Committees can do a power of good in guiding the national program of rehabilitation along the right road and seeing to it that the announced aims of the Department of Pensions and National Health are seriously carried out in the spirit of their intention," David G. H. Melton, manager of the Dominion Woollens, told a meeting of the Kiwanis Club here Friday.

Mr. Melton, who is chairman of the Citizens Rehabilitation Committee established several months ago for the city of Peterborough, told his audience that in his opinion the department and its head, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, had "really and seriously attempted to set up an adequate framework for fulfilling the pledges of the Canadian Government to its men and women now wearing the uniform of the King's service. But he added a frank note in saying that "whether there is any window-dressing remains to be seen. If there is, these citizens committees will find out about it."

"This is a momentous and the most important problem facing us in the period immediately following the termination of hostilities," Mr. Melton said. "You are going to hear more and more about it and the work of the citizens committees as time goes along. Already the Kiwanis Club of Toronto is associated with the enterprise, and it is expected that your club, as well as service clubs in general, will be invited to participate."

Still in Embryo Stage

Mentioning that the work he and his committee were embarked upon was the reason for his staying out of the Board of Education this year after eight years of service with that organization, Mr. Melton stated that formation of the Peterborough committee was still in the embryo stage. A number of members representing industry, professions and a broad cross-section of community life had already been selected, but the committee was to be further enlarged, the speaker said, emphasizing with pointed vigor the need for "men seized with the importance of the work. This will be no place for seat-warmers," he said.

The task of the committees in each city, Mr. Melton explained, would be that of helping to get men back on their feet and squared away. By so doing natural tendencies toward unrest and agitation that would otherwise arise in men who returned to find their fellow countrymen ungrateful and themselves unfairly neglected could be successfully averted. The Citizens Rehabilitation Committees would inject the personal touch into Governmental plans and would fit the provisions of the law to the necessities and circumstances of the individual case.

Met With Gov't Heads

Mr. Melton recounted some of the details of the meeting between Government heads of the Pensions Department and the chairmen of some 30 of the local committees which took place last November at the Seignory Club, and at which he himself was present as the representative for the city. The purpose of that meeting had been to lay before committee chairmen the government's plan for rehabilitation and to discuss any suggestions and criticisms which might arise out of it. "There were criticisms, plenty of them," Mr. Melton stated plainly, adding, "many things we urged at that get-together have met with approval and been adopted."

A challenge that all schemes for bringing about rehabilitation on a national scale would prove ineffective or even come to nothing if an equally well-considered reconstruction program were not adopted, was voiced by Mr. Melton at the November meeting and found many supporters who were strongly of the same opinion. As a result a resolution had been passed by conference members urging on the Government the formation of a national plan for reconstruction fully prepared and publicly announced to all industries and others whom it would concern.

Slackening Off In Industry

The problem to be met here, Mr. Melton indicated, was that of the slackening of industrial production which, he felt sure, was bound to ensue after the immediate needs of Canadians deprived of many normal goods through the operation of a war economy had been satisfied in the early years following the war's end. Re-employment, the habilitation of those not formerly employed, and an ample program embracing a sound policy on the sources of employment—the production of goods and services—were the points to be brought under review. "We must find means to keep the system going," Mr. Melton said, and he emphasized the value of increased public services as a possible solution to the need.

The speaker outlined to the Kiwanis Club various particulars of the Government's program of rehabilitation, concise information on which is being forwarded to all members of the armed forces in circular form. These included clothing allowances, rehabilitation grants, free treatment for disabilities in hospitals of the Pensions Department, not only for sickness arising out of war service but for illness that might strike while a man was attempting to re-establish himself in civilian life; compulsory re-employment, paid-up employment insurance and aid to those engaged in farming or business the nature of whose work entailed a wait before they could expect their initial returns; educational benefits, both in vocational and university training; and settlement of veterans on the land.

He revealed that the efforts of the citizens committees had been instrumental in obtaining an increase in the original grant of $35 for clothing allowance, and told how men with years of experience were already being drawn from selected industries to staff the future vocational schools. Practical men, they were being prepared for the job by being "taught how to teach."

Mr. Melton was introduced by Milf Hardill, and the vote of thanks was moved by Charles Huffman.

MANSLAUGHTER—Mrs. Evelyn McDonald of Toronto, who has been pronounced "guilty of manslaughter" in connection with the murder of Thomas McLaughlin, November 26 last, and was sentenced to ten years.

Woman Injured In Car Mishap

Following a collision at Park and McDonnel Streets late Friday night in which a car driven by her husband was involved, Mrs. W. H. Girven, 577 Waterford Street, was take to Nicholls Hospital, suffering from shock and a fractured collar-bone.

Charles Herrington, 233 Lake Street, was driving his automobile south on Park Street and Girven was driving east on McDonnel Street. The two vehicles collided at the intersection, and the Girven car was driven sideways 49 feet over the southeast curb and came to rest against the brace cable of a Hydro pole. The whole left side was badly damaged.

Herrington's car suffered around the front from the impact. The two drivers escaped unhurt, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Killen, Wolsley Street, who were passengers in Herrington's car were not injured.

Council Restricts Housing Mediation

The city council will not extend beyond the wives of men overseas their interest in housing accommodation which may be available from Wartime Housing Limited.

"The council remembers some considerable time ago in the shortage of houses some of the families of men on service could not find a place," Mayor Hamilton said. "They appealed to us and we requested Wartime Housing to put some of their houses at the disposal of these soldiers' wives and dependents. It meant that the city placed itself in a position of responsibility for the rent if the payments were not kept up by the tenants. Recently I have been asked by several of the men at the training centre whether this accommodation could be extended to them, and I am asking for your opinion because I did not wish to take all the responsibility on myself."

Alderman Dutton expressed the opinion of the members in his words: "I think that is a question which should be left entirely to Wartime Housing."

Presbyterian Church Returns Old Officers

HAVELOCK, Feb. 5 — (ENS) — Reports from all departments of Knox Presbyterian Church were given at the annual meeting on Thursday night. H. W. Krantz was appointed chairman and Miss E. Chase secretary. The report of the Sunday School was given by A. E. Wilson, showing receipts of $74.56. Mrs. Stanley Barlow gave a full report of the work of the Ladies' Aid, with total receipts of $168.85. The report of the Women's Missionary Society was given by Miss E. Chase, in which a total of $40.50 was raised and a $3.00 donation was made to the Chinese War Relief Fund. The report of the Cemetery and Manse Fund was given by Albert Wilson, which showed a balance of $339.22. Chase, reported a balance on hand of $187.42, with all obligations met. Following the reports, the election of the Board of Managers was held with all members being returned, with the exception of J. W. Ketchen who resigned and Angus Graham was elected to fill this vacancy. Other members on the Board for 1944 are F. L. McKenzie, William Martin, A. E. Wilson and H. W. Krantz. Miss E. Chase was re-elected as envelope secretary and treasurer.

$8,000 In Stamps Flow In Food Channels

Peterborough's food industry has received a most acceptable but rather unusual reinforcement from Frank Tunney who has all the worries of trying to arrange interesting wrestling engagements for Peterborough sport fans.

"Isn't that encouraging to get help from such unexpected sources," said J. A. Jebson. "The wrestling lads are actually going to reduce the admission fee. Prices have been 60 and 90 cents. For this coming Tuesday they are going to be 50 and 75 cents, and each person attending is expected to buy a War Savings Stamp. The sports people know that they are only lending the money that buys War Stamps, and we are hoping they turn out in a bumper crowd for Tuesday. In the news this week we read that the Huns are still bombing English towns. That means no let down for any of us. So, here's a chance for the fans to do just a little extr in meeting war costs and also to help the food industry of Peterborough reach its objective."

Mr. Jebson said today that $8,000 in stamps have been distributed among all branches of the local food industry.

"That's what we have done in our first week, and I think it is pretty good, but we have a long way to go to $26,000. Any way we're all trying and the people are helping."

2 Large Homes Change Hands

Two of the city's largest residences have been recently sold. H. W. Tranter of this city has bought the London street house, owned by George A. Macdonald of Chicago and occupied by him during the time he was general manager of the local plant of Quaker Oats Company. Mr. Tranter intends to convert it into apartments. The transfer was made at between nine and 10 thousand dollars.

Dr. H. M. Yelland has sold his house at 539 George street to Harold J. Woods of Oshawa who will remodel it into three apartments. This sale was for a sum said to be between seven and eight thousand dollars. A. E. Thompson, realtor, was the agent in both transactions.

Euchre Party Funds For Overseas Gifts

FRASERVILLE, Feb. 5—(ENS)—Fraserville community recently held a dance in the Orange Hall, which proved to be one of the most successful held in some time. Community interest was aroused because the proceeds are to send small gifts to local boys overseas. Music was supplied by Sod Busters and others. A number of stepdancers performed, the youngest of whom was 10-year-old Ronald Coombes, whose brother is one of the boys overseas. The sum of $21.50 was realized, which will all be used for gifts, as the Fraserville Community Service Club donated all the expenses of the evening. The local Service Club is holding a Valentine euchre and dance on February 11. At this, tickets will be sold on an occasional chair, the proceeds from which will go to help some war charity.

Reappoint Officers For Percy Telephone

WARKWORTH, Feb. 5—(ENS). The annual meeting of the Percy Municipal Telephone System was held on Saturday afternoon. Following the business the following officers were re-appointed: D. H. Evans, chairman; James O'Reilly, commissioner; and J. A. Sykes, secretary-treasurer. A gratifying financial report shows an increase in pole mileage, wire mileage, telephones, and a surplus for the year of $419.84, making a total surplus of $3,810.76.

PRIZE-WINNER—A. C. Northover, Jr.E.I.C., of Peterborough, is the winner of the John Galbraith 1943 prize of the Engineering Institute of Canada. He is a graduate in 1937 in civil engineering from the University of Toronto. He is at present structural mechanical engineer in the plant engineering department of the Canadian General Electric Company Limited, Peterborough works. Announcement of awards and prizes and the presentation of them will be made at the annual dinner of the Institute, to be held this year at Quebec City on the evening of Friday, February 11.

Eight Prisoners In Jail Break

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 5—(AP).—Five of eight prisoners who fled last night from Erie county jail were captured early today in one of the greatest manhunts in Buffalo's history. The three at large included two youths charged with first degree murder.

Two guards were overpowered, one of them thrown into a solitary confinement cell, and a charwoman forced to unlock the front door leading to freedom. The daring escape, first to take place from the six-year-old building in downtown Buffalo, was initiated by four trusties in the second-floor cell block.

Sheriff Arthur D. Britt temporarily suspended Jailer Jacob P. Obenauer and two guards, Arthur Wofford, 50, a Nego, and William Stephen, 60.

Capt. MacCorquodale To Conduct Services

Capt. A. MacCorquodale, Uxbridge, young Salvation Army officer, will be conducting meetings for three nights, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Nazarene Gospel service, 213 Charlotte street.

Capt. MacCorquodale is a very energetic officer that has done a unique work in Uxbdrige. He is a stirring preacher and an able musician. He uses some motion pictures to illustrate his messages.

He has been stationed in Port Hope and Cobourg and has made a lot of friends around here. He has a message for young people that is miraculous and thrilling.

C.C.F. Gives Support To Genelco Petition

All the members of the C. C. F. who were present at their meeting Thursday night signed the petition of Genelco Local 524 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America which is to be submitted to the Federal Cabinet Council, next Thursday asking for transfer to the Peterborough plant of war work which could be manufactured here. They endorsed the appeal by a motion, and decided to write their Federal leader, M. J. Coldwell, to give his assistance to the delegation going to Ottawa.

Neville Hamblin, business agent of the local union, write to G. K. Fraser, M. P., for his co-operation and received a telegram from him arranging to meet the Peterborough men an hour prior to the Cabinet Council's hearing.

Mr. Hamblin reported to-day that the petition is being largely signed by citizens, and that retail business men are also endorsing the petition with their signatures.

"I don't know one business man who has declined to sign it," Mr. Hamblin said.

Savings Clubs Total $1,180 For War Effort

This day's story on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund largely concerns the dual effort of the Stamp Out Hitler Clubs, which centralize around Bob Everett, who in this respect has done much to promote the sale of war savings certifictates which are so necessary to a successful prosecution of the war.

This can best be visualized when on realizes that it takes thousands of quarters to make up the sum of $1,180.00 which these clubs have now raised to date, of which $944.00 has been put into certificates of the $5.00 par value, and the balance of $236.00 has been contributed to the fund, when one counts the $11.00 recorded in their name today.

Most prominent among these clubs, the one at the Canada Packers plant under Nurse Yelland takes a foremost position, for it has been at work from the very outset when they were first started, and today's report tells how well they have kept up the good work with four winners in the persons of C. Gardner, O. Watson, W. Pilling and R. Butchart, the latter of whom has been reported a winner on no less than five different occasions.

This same steady work is also perceived in the part the Kiwanis Club have been playing since they commenced some few months ago, for ever since that time they too have been responsible for one each week, this time the winners being their president, Charles Saunders, and W. Garner, who also were winners on two successive occasions.

Then a club at Ackerman's led by Roy Everett reported H. Slaughter as their winner, and a new club in the tool room at the C.G.E. Co. Ltd. under G. H. Cuthbert started off with a win for R. Vass, while Vern Selkirk won in the Selkirks Men's Shop club, and another new club led by A. Cockerill at the Sandwich Bar on George street started off with a win for Bob Everett himself.

Work Must Go On

Coming at a time when successes by the armed forces has perhaps lulled some people into a state of complacency, these groups are to commended for the manner in which they keep up the work, which surely must be born of a realization that the home front must play its full part and supply the forces with all the tools they need, if the final day of victory is to be won in as short a time as possible.

When the clubs first commenced under Bob Everett, part of the inspiration grew from a desire to assist the work of the penny box at the Empress Hotel, although the returns from the clubs were always noted separately, so it has very often happened that a report from the box itself has appeared at the same time as from the clubs, today being no exception to the rule, for another $7.60 is recorded to its credit herewith.

Dance at Norwood

Next Wednesday, February 9, a dance is being held in the Town Hall at Norwood, under the sponsorship of the Women's Institute, in which the Get Together Girls' Club is to share in the proceeds, from which they intend giving a share to the fund, following up a contribution they made a short while ago, which was raised in a similar manner.

MARKET PRICES

Potatoes were $2 a bag on the market this morning with a moderate demand. Butter was 40 cents; chickens 35 to 38 cents a pound and broilers 40 cents. Eggs were 30 cents a dozen for the small size and 35 to 38 cents for the larger grades. Attendance by both buyers and sellers seemed to be lighter than at recent week ends.

Public Spirited Citizens To Give Support To City's Post-War Projects Needed

Down town folks know that Mayor Hamilton has been angling for some public-spirited citizen willing to take on the chairmanship of a committee to assume the preliminaries and probably the secondary stages of organization to give Peterborough an ice hockey arena.

From all accounts, so far, he hasn't had a nibble of acceptance.

"That is just what I was thinking about last night," said a citizen this morning. "I was thinking before I fell asleep about a situation years ago at the University and how they solved by appointment of a commission, and so on. I think some of our men should be willing to help the community to that extent by giving their services for a while and helping us get started on several of the projects which should not be delayed much longer. Provide them with some expense money and let them get plans in shape. I am thinking of city hall site, arena and its site and method of financing, possibly a new market location. In fact it would help a lot if we had a civic planning commission. I see they have one in Brantford.

We all realize the city council has a lot of things to attend to in the months ahead, and that is why I think Mayor Hamilton should try to persuade three or four men to take hold of things, lads like Dave Melton, Ross Dobbin, Ian McRae, Gordon Matthews and so on. Commission them to prepare a report on some matters, and they might also set up an organization with the worthwhile purpose of putting Peterborough where it belongs on the sports map.

We know there is a war not yet won, but that should not blind us entirely to purposes of peace and also to forward looking for the benefit of our community."

That is the substance of a telephone call this morning, and it suggests that there may be many other citizens, than the council, who do think of local matters and how they might be developed.

Utilties Electrical Department Shows Profit Of $33,223 On Year

Somewhere else in this edition is printed the annual financial statement of the Electrical Department of the Utilities Commission, for the year ending December 31, 1943.

The statement shows a profit of $33,223.92 for the year, after setting up the usual reserves. Revenue from domestic consumers increased by $6,500 over 1942, but commercial lighting consumers paid $13,000 less. Commercial power revenue was $5,200 more than in 1942.

The drop in commercial lighting revenue can be attributed to the restrictions in window and show case lighting, and the use of electric signs.

Total revenues were about the same as last year.

Cost of power purchased was $301,153.24 as against $305,883.91 in 1942. For most of the year the peak load on the system was a little lower than in 1942.

There was very little construction work done on the system, and the same comment applies to the rural district. Restrictions enforced by the Metals Controller and the Power Controller have prevented the extension of power lines.

The number of domestic consumers is 6,683, an increase of 143 over 1942. The average monthly consumption was 230 kilowatt hours per consumer, which is 12 kilowatt hours less than the previous year. This shows that while the number of consumers increased, the average consumption dropped.

The average price paid by the domestic consumers was 1.1 cents per kilowatt hour, which was the same as last year.

The average commercial lighting consumer used 470 kilowatt hours per month, as against 533 kilowatt hours used per month in 1942. We have explained above the probable reason for this decline. The average price paid per kilowatt hour was 1.65 cents as compared with 1.7 cents paid in 1942.

The power consumers used one-half million kilowatt hours more in 1943 than they did in 1942 and paid an average price of 0.9 cents per kilowat hour, which was practically the same as in 1942.

During the year a total of $284,000.00 of debentures matured and were paid off. The total of debentures outstanding against the system is now $239,920.00, for which there is a sinking fund of $165,877.42.

Metcalfe to play the stone over again, which eventually counted as one that tied up the game. In the extra end that followed, Mrs. Clark won the game, but that is not the point. The gesture of Mrs. Gooch in allowing her opponent a "second" chance is real sportsmanship. It shows that there is something in this game other than winning.

During the presentation of the prizes many nice compliments were paid to our club by the visitors. They said how they enjoyed their visit here and also the competitions. They hoped to come back again some time and try their luck all over.

Too much praise cannot be given to the ladies of Peterborough Club, they worked hard and long and certainly did their share to make this event one of the most outstanding.

We understand that the ladies at their annual meeting on Thursday evening, held at the Empress Hotel, have accepted the invitation of the Bobcaygeon Curling Club to hold the Tankard play-offs in Bobcaygeon next season.

And incidentally we offered our congratulations to Mrs. E. H. Northey of Lakefield on being chosen as vice-president on being chosen Ladies Curling Association.

Cost Of Living Index Shows Drop

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 — (CP). — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Friday the official cost-of-living index declined from 119.3 at December 1 to 119.0 at January 3, making the total wartime increase 18.1 per cent.

The index was at 117.1 on the corresponding date last year.

"Group indexes for foods and home-furnishings and services were lower than in the previous month, while those for fuel and lighting and miscellaneous items advanced," the bureau said.

"The food index fell from 132.7 for December to 131.5 for January as sharp declines in egg prices outweighed scattered increases for butter, meats and fresh vegetables. The home-furnishings and services index dropped from 118.8 to 118.4 due to a decrease in the furniture section.

"Higher coal prices advanced the fuel and lighting index from 111.9 to 112.7, while increase in health costs raised the miscellaneous index from 108.6 to 108.9. Other groups remained unchanged, rents at 111.9 and clothing at 121.1."

Cobb Retired Likes Golfing

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5 (AP).— Somewhat bald and going on 58, the man who was once the equivalent of spiked lightning in baseball and a mean hombre on or off the field, lives in mellow life of a country squire at suburban Atherton, Cal., now. You'll remember him as Tyrus Raymond Cobb of Detroit Tigers fame, one of the immortals of the game.

It is a far cry from the old time Georgia Peach who contributed amazing chapters to the record books during a stretch of 24 years to the bulky gent who putters in the garden, hunts, fishes, plays golf and appraises his greatest love, baseball, from the outlook of a spectator.

Ty Cobb still is the hotspur but to a far lesser degree than when he was fighting with rival players, umpires, his own team mates and the fans. He'll play as hard to-day for a dollar stake on the links as when he was batting over .300 for 23 years and putting together the greatest number of Major League records ever held by an individual.

What is baseball's future in these war times? Necessarily Cobb has no more knowledge than the next man. Frankly, he is a bit worried but is optimistic to believe the sport will endure.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Frank Tunney, wrestling impressario has added another star to his next Tuesday night show by bringing in the Pacific coast heavyweight Frank Sexton who recently defeated Earl McCready in Toronto....Sexton will meet Dick Hogan in the semi-final bout....Chick Appel wouldn't have much fun last night. St. Mike's invaded the Classic City last night and defeated the Stratford juniors 10 to 2....And the Brantford team about which George Soup Campbell was sounding a warning the other night proved the Oshawa sports commentator might have had something on the ball by handing the strong Hamilton Whizzers a trimming....A Toronto sports writer complains that the scorers must have been generous in giving Don Grosso six assists in the Ranger game the other night....At least he will have to admit that Syd Howe really fired the half dozen goal he was credited with....There is hope for the Peterborough Curling Club yet in regard to the Tankard....Like Peterborough Toronto High Park had never won the classic event—until yesterday when the Toronto club came through to lift the famous trophy....The Lakefield hockey team will play an exhibition game with Grove School on Friday of next week with the entire proceeds going to the Red Cross.

PRELUDE TO DRIVE—American bombers based in the Aleutians, recently raided Paramushiro, big Jap base in the Kurile Islands. These blows, the eighth and ninth against the island bastion, prompt speculation that the enemy stronghold is being softened up for invasion. In the meantime the drive toward Tokyo from the South Pacific gains ground.

46 People Made First Donations Of Plasma For Fighting Men

Attendance at the Blood Donors Clinic improved this week, although more are needed so that the "originals" need not be called upon so frequently. There were 181 present on Monday and Wednesday and a small group came Friday night.

An indication of the realization of the importance of blood plasma is seen in the fact that there were 46 people on the first two days of the week gave first donations; 22 made their sixth, seven made their seventh, one gave the eighth and Allen George Gribble of Bethany made his sixteenth.

Roseneath Institute Meets In Town Hall

ROSENEATH, Feb. 5 — (ENS). —Miss Ruby Blodgett was hostess when the W.I. meeting was held on Thursday afternoon in the Town Hall, the president, Mrs. Earl Waldie, presiding. The monthly financial statement read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. S. Thackeray showed net receipts from banquet $245, card party $10. Disbursements included $10 to Milk for Britain Fund, and $9.95 for district and federation fees. A balance of $36.06 remains in the treasury.

Five quilts have been completed during the past month, making a total of nine completed for the Red Shield of the Salvation Army. Mrs. F. Adams and Mrs. C. Thackeray were named a quilt committee for February. A letter of thanks for socks was received and read from Gordon Pacey. The response to the roll call was a display of valentines. Plans were completed for a Valentine dance and progressive euchre to be held on February 11 in the Orange Hall. It was decided the March meeting would be an open one, with progressive euchre and refreshments. Mrs. Frank Brown and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe were appointed the committee in charge.

A nominating committee was named to bring in a slate of officers for the annual meeting in April, as follows: Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. Frank Adams, and Mrs. James L. Timlin. A short course was announced on "Short Cuts to Kitchen Aids" February 16-17, in the Town Hall. In a paper on "Women in War," Miss Velma Down declared: The woman who runs her house successfully with ration points makes a great contribution to war work.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess, and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

HARD JOB A CHALLENGE

MERELY because a job is hard to do—that is no reason for giving up. To the real fighter and worker, a tough assignment is merely a challenge, and puts him on his mettle to deliver his best goods. It is then he has a chance to justify his standing in the group in which he operates. Anybody can do an easy job, so there is no particular kick in performing one. Only the good performer succeeds with the difficult task.

It was certainly not easy to count up 12 trick takers on that deal after West led the diamond 5 But just a little help from the opposition and some careful reading of the cards by himself enabled South to do the trick. The help came on the second trick, after the diamond A won the opener and the spade J was led, when West unwisely covered with his K, which the A felled.

The diamond K and Q were scored and the club Q, whereupon the heart 3 was led and the 10 finessed to the J, only trick the defenders got. Back came the spade 3 to the Q, the spade 10 followed and then the heart 5 was led, the K dropping under the A. East was now marked as having held only two cards each in the majors, so West had the rest. This then prescribed the pattern for a squeeze on him.

The club A was scored, then the K, which squeezed West. Holding the spade 9, higher than dummy's 5, he also had the heart 9-7 and dummy the heart Q-6. Had he tossed a heart, the dummy's two hearts would have scored the last two tricks. But he threw off his spade, whereupon dummy discarded the heart 6, the heart 8 was led to the Q, and the spade 5 took the final trick, for a squeeze pretty low down in the deck.

Norwood Fair Board Honors Colonel Birdsall

At their annual meeting a week ago the directors of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society, the Norwood Fair, remembered in his illness their old associate and stalwart supporter, Colonel Richard E. Birdsall.

They prepared a letter of sympathy and hope and extended into chatty report of their limited interests since their September fair was suspended for the duration of the war.

Signed by G. Arthur Brethen, president, and William Heffernan, secretary, the letter is quoted from the Norwood Register because many of Colonel Birdsall's friends in the city and west Peterborough generally would like to subscribe to its sentiment.

"Dear Friend:

Today we held the annual meeting of the East Peterborough Agriculture society. Measured by the number present, the meeting was but a shadow of those of olden days, but judged by the spirit of those present it was splendid.

Financially we are able to meet all present and anticipated obligations for another year and plans were laid to try and perform some useful service to the district this society serves, particularly among the young.

We had a good meeting but withal there were none present but could sense there was something vitally lacking.

The absence of so many of the familiar faces through death, sickness or just lack of interest could not fail to introduce a note of sadness and regret that to some extent dampened the ardor of an otherwise good meeting.

To the friends of those of our old members who have passed on, our hearts still go out in sympathetic understanding as we have also missed them. To those upon whom, like yourself, sickness and old age has laid the restraining hand and removed you from the activities of home, the community and the larger sphere of life you so intensely enjoyed, we offer our sincere sympathy and hope that you may be spared as far as humanly possible, much of the physical suffering that sooner or later seems to be the lot of each of us.

With these thoughts in mind and the knowledge of the important place the Birdsall family has filled in the life of this society, the East Peterborough Agricultural Society have this day in annual meeting assembled, asked it's president and secretary to draught and forward a letter of sympathy to you, the oldest and one of the most active of its members over a long period of useful and happy years."

BACK HOME—Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, back in Canada, is pictured at the Seigniory Club, Que., playing soldier with his grandson, John McDougall. The "toy" is a model 18-pound field-gun of rhodium-plated sterling silver presented Gen. McNaughton by all ranks of his old regiment, the Royal Canadian Artillery. When interviewed, the general said "There is nothing wrong with my health."

quoting Gen. McNaughton at Seignory club, Que., as saying there was nothing wrong with his health.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the Government wanted to give the whole picture and that could best done when army matters were before the house on the war appropriation bill.

Mr. Graydon said he was "amazed" at the position taken by the Prime Minister. The whole question of Gen. McNaughton's resignation and his statment to the press on Thursday had thrown into bold relief the original Government statement that Gen. McNaughton had resigned because of ill-health.

The matter should be cleared up immediately, not next week. The public was "agitated" over the matter, and, Mr. Graydon said, he would not be pressing for any explanation if he did not feel it necessary.

Ralston Stalled.

Gen. McNaughton had told the press his health was all right.

The public morale could not help but be affected if no explanation were given.

Defence Minister Ralston rose as if to reply but Speaker J. A. Glen said there could be no general debate during orders of the day.

Mr. King said he did not wish to review the rights and wrongs of Mr. Graydon's statements, but the Opposition leader had made clear there were many matters on which the House would desire information, so as to have a clear view of the situation. It was not the intention to begin a debate on matters as important as the army on a question asked on orders of the day.

If the Throne speech debate continued for some time the government would consider setting aside a day during which army matters could be discussed.

Otherwise, when the debate was concluded, the war appropriations—including those covering the army—would come under discussion at once, Mr. King said.

Mr. Graydon replied that the Prime Minister had assumed a heavy responsibility.

Mr. Coldwell asked: "Since the Prime Minister said he would set a day aside, will he set aside Monday for this discussion?"

Why the Keenness

Mr. King said he could not understand why the opposition was "so keen on this matter." The war effort was not being impeded in any way because of the matters the opposition wished to discuss. If matters were urgent the government would be the first to agree to discussion. The discussion should come when the whole army picture was under review.

John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Center), first speaker of the day in the continued throne speech debate, said Gen. McNaughton's statement to the press on his health indicated the government's previous statement on his resignation was "far removed from the facts."

Gen. McNaughton should be called before the House, if necessary in secret session, to say whether ideas "bandied about the country" had any basis in fact.

The Prime Minister, in denying an immediate opportunity for House Members to know the facts, was taking a step not in accordance with good parliamentary procedure.

Mr. Noseworthy had not finished his speech when the House adjourned and will continue Monday.

The Profit Question

He said there was no way of determining whether munitions manufacturers were making excessive profits, since government accountants had no engineering experience and had to rely on figures submitted by the firms concerned. The House had been told last year that the excess profits tax would take care of any over-high profits but the British government had found the tax did not prevent the use of profits to build up reserves.

He quoted the London Economist to the effect that Canadian companies had built reserves of 700 as against 100 at the beginning of the war while 2,000 British companies had been forced to reduce reserves from 100 to 80.

Firms represented by 2157 "dollar-a-year" men in the Munitions Department had received contracts totalling more than $800,000,000, and the Prices Board employed another 216 "dollar-a-year" men representing firms about whose business with the government there was no information, Mr. Noseworthy said.

An advertising agency had received two government contracts for $50,000 each to advertise canned lobster shortly before all supplies went off the shelves. The same firm had a "dollar-a-year" man in the Fisheries Department.

More adequate means of safeguarding the public interest in these things was required than a war expenditures committee meeting behind closer doors and overloaded with government supporters, said Mr. Noseworthy.

Other speakers in the House debate yesterday were Dr. M. E. McGarry (L—Inverness - Richmond) and Robert Fair (N.D.—Battle River).

Mr. Diefenbaker was critical of Selective Service which, he said, had failed to improve the manpower situation despite the creation of a large organization.

Men were still being called from the farms for service in a home-defence army. This force cost from $150,000,000 to $175,000,000 a year. There was no equalization of the call-ups as between military districts. Districts which had "the lowest percentage of volunteer enlistments had also the lowest percentages of call-ups."

Kiska Veteran Guest Of Honor

ROSENEATH, Feb. 5 — (ENS) — Gnr. Kenneth Sherwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Sherwin, and recently arrived from Kiska was honored by the community when a party was held in the Orange Hall on Wednesday night and a purse of money, $27, presented to him.

Reeve Harold Davidson read an address conveying the admiration of the community and its desire to honor him as the first soldier to arrive home from active service overseas, with a wish for his speedy return, and a return to peace again. Ivan Thackeray made the presentation and Kenneth spoke briefly of his appreciation for the honor done him.

Dancing was enjoyed by many to the music of Minifie's orchestra, and others played cards. Refreshments were served at midnight.

The hall was attractive with gay valentine colors and symbols.

Kenneth left on Thursday morning to report for the West coast.

Duffus, Davies Heard In Senate Debate

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP) Debate on the Throne Speech was concluded in the Senate late yesterday and the upper House adopted without a recorded vote the Address in Reply.

Adjournment then was taken to March 7, with the provision that Senators may be summoned earlier if important measurers are received from the Commons.

In Friday's debate the Senate heard recommendations from Senator W. Rupert Davies (L. Ontario) for the easing or early removal of excess profits taxes to aid small business.

Senator Norman Lambert (L. Ontario), chairman of the Senate Reconstruction Committee at the last session, urged prompt action in preparing a basis for conversion from war to peace economy.

Senator F. B. Black (P.C., New Brunswick) expressed concern over the cost of the proposed social security program outlined in the Throne Speech, while Senator J. J. Duffus (L. Ontario) endorsed the program as an important forward step.

Faith in Chartered Banks.

Senator Davies said he was unable to understand the necessity of the Government's proposal to establish an industrial bank to aid industry in converting to peacetime conditions. He said he was suspicious of Government banks and loan companies where political influence might be exerted, and felt the chartered banks were well able to take care of business.

"If small businesses are to survive, there has got to be a very definite reduction of the excess profits tax—if it is not taken off altogether," Senator Davies said.

The excess profits tax should certainly be removed immediately after the war, and necessary money levied through corporation taxes which would provide a fairer basis.

Senator Davies said he endorsed a proposal of the Parliamentary Library Committee for a national library, but the Government should also provide grants for Provincial libraries and art galleries, which would lead to general cultural development.

Public Behind Program.

Senator Duffus said public opinion had swung strongly behind the Government's social security program. Human security and welfare should be the primary concern of Parliament. The Throne Speech was a document which marked a forward step in Canada.

Senator Lambert said the proposed new reconstruction department should be headed by a man with practical experience, a "ways-and-means" type of man.

Difficulties in the work of reconstruction would in many respects be similar to those of the war period and methods of control, rationing and priorities would have to be continued for some time.

Senator Black estimated the cost of the Government's proposals for social security at between $750,000,000 and $1,600,000,000 a year. Expenditure of that amount would end any hope of immediate reduction in heavy taxation.

In place of direct grants under a family-allowance scheme, increased assistance could be given for education, health and housing, he said.

Senator Davies, speaking of the Government's social security program, urged care to prevent the Government becoming a "Santa Claus." He said he supported the principle of family allowances but felt they should be introduced on a modest scale.

"We are suffering from bureaucracy," Senator Davies said, referring to wartime regulations. "I think it is a good thing because it is giving the people a taste of what Government control and State Control mean, and a small taste of what would occur if we ever had a C. C. F. Government."

Cost Of Living In Britain Remains Stable

LONDON, Feb. 5 — (CP) —Great Britain's cost of living remained stable last year, wage increases were given 6,200,000 workers and the number of working days lost through strikes and stoppages set a wartime record, said a Ministry of Labor summary to-day.

The cost of living index, the summary said, remained unchanged throughout the year at 99. At the start of the war it was 55.

Economic commentators pointed to the 1943 wage boosts as an indication average wage rates have risen more than the cost of living.

The Ministry of Labor estimated that at the end of 1943 the average fulltime weekly rates—exclusive of overtime—of all industries were between four and five per cent higher than at the start of the war.

Industries in which there was no general change in wage rates included coal mining, which contributed nearly half of the 1943 stoppages and lost work days. The Ministry announced there were 1,775 labor disputes involving 559,000 workers at a cost of 1,810,000 working days. During the previous year (1942) there were 1,303 stoppages which cost 1,530,000 lost days.

Smash 32 Tanks

One attempt by Nazi units outside the trap to break the Russian cordon cost them 32 tanks, destroyed by Soviet artillery and tank destroyers. A second attack resulted in 26 German tanks being wiped out.

In the sky Russian dive bombers and fighters denied all attempts at rescue or relief by air. Twenty-four big tri-motored Junkers transports and 10 escorting fighters were shot down. Sixty other transports were destroyed on the ground.

Towns captured by Russian ground forces in the south during yesterday's fighting included Voronovka, 13 miles north of Shpola, Moshni, 16 miles northwest of Cherkasy and Mikhailovka, nine miles south of Kanev.

In the north Govorov's drive into Estonia was supported by other Soviet forces which pushed south from Leningrad and swept to within 19 miles of Luga on the Leningrad-Luga-Pskov railway, capturing the town of Mshinskaya on the way.

Meretskov's Volkhov army, pounding west from the Lake Ilmen sector after clearing the Leningrad-Moscow Trunk Railway, wiped out the last Germans on the line from Leningrad to Novogord, the second north-south railway freed since the northern offensive began.

Working To Keep Spain Neutral Nation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—(AP) — President Roosevelt told a press conference to-day that Britain and the United States are working together to see that Spain remains neutral in the true sense of the word.

"Is that effort working?" a reporter asked.

The President said he did not know and could only say he hoped so.

Asked whether there has been any change in relations with Spain, or any new developments, the President said nothing had come to him but that inquiries might be made at the State Department. He said the situation provides a good many headaches.

WITH THE 8th ARMY IN ITALY, Feb. 5 —(CP Reuters — Canadian and German frontline troops in Italy fought a battle for a pig and the 8th Army men brought home the bacon.

All day there had been desultory small-arms fire on the front where a Canadian Corps is fighting on the right flank of the British 8th Army and toward evening the pig, scared by the noise, broke out of its enclosure in no-man's-land.

The battle for possession began with a short burst by a German sniper. The pig squealed louder and tracked toward the Canadian position.

A well-placed shot stopped the porker in its tracks but the problem of bringing home the prize remained. This was solved by artillery fire which caused the enemy to withdraw.

A few hours later the Canadians were eating roast pork.

Aprilia is one of the model towns of the Fascist Pontine Agricultural developments. Its original name, still used by many, was Carroceto.

Along the west bank of the Garigliano, British troops seized 2,300-foot Mount Ornito, three miles northeast of Castel Forte, and took 45 prisoners.

On the 8th Army front, a German patrol was ambushed and shot up north of Crecchio, about five miles northeast of Orsogna. A German sabotage patrol consisting of an officer and five men who entered Allied territory to blow up a bridge near Casoli was captured intact.

Put Jail Staffs On 8 Hr. Day Need More Men

TORONTO, Feb. 5— Staffs of all jails, reformatories and Provincial training schools and the Burwash Industrial Farm will go on an eight-day work basis, instead of 10 to 12 hours, beginning April 1, for the first time in the history of these institutions. Provincial Secretary George H. Dunbar, announced yesterday.

The change, which the Minister regards as one of the most forward steps of his administration will involve additional expenditure approximating $1,000 a day, to be shared in varying percentages by Province and municipalities. But the additional expenditure, due to increased personnel required to implement the shorter hour program will provide employment for 288 extra staff, Mr. Dunbar estimates, bringing present staff from 660 to 948.

Preference in new appointments will be given to veterans of this and the last war and non-veterans appointed will hold office only temporarily, the Minister emphasized.

Mr. Dunbar also announced that plans are under way to se up a superannuation arrangement such as is now in force only in district jails. "We are making the position of guards and other jail and institutional personnel attractive enough to allure the very best type of persons and to offer them a lifetime vocation," he said. "We feel this move will be in the interests of the inmates and the community as well."

The change, Mr. Dunbar said, is the result of a three-month survey and will involve an additional $366,420.84 expenditure yearly above the 12-hour day figure. The Province will pay approximately $232,365.17 of the increase and municipalities $134,055.67. Total cost on the eight-hour day basis will be $1,239,818.63. Municipalities pay for city, county or district jails only.

Allies Regain Lost Ground On Anzio Beachhead; Cassino Fight Still Rages

Biggest Counter Blow Still To Come From Gen. Kesselring
Huns Move Up More Armored Units

By DANIEL DE LUCE—Associated Press War Correspondent

ON THE 5TH ARMY BEACHHEAD IN ITALY, Feb. 7 —(AP).—Enemy siege artillery ranging on Anzio harbor spewed harassing fire across vital links in the communication and supply system of the Allied beachhead yesterday.

A handful of war correspondents shuttling between Anzio and forward command posts agreed "it is hotter in the rear than at the front today."

Apparently untouched by counter-battery shelling, one or more heavy enemy guns fired at regular intervals most of the day into the harbor area as German observation posts on the slopes of 3,000-foot Colli Laziali benefitted from the crystal clear visibility.

This hill is 16 miles inland from Anzio.

I talked with American infantry veterans who were temporarily driven back about 500 yards in one section of the beachhead front last night but regained all this lost ground before daylight.

American gunners were given credit for a heavy barrage which compelled an enemy unit to relinquish their major gain.

Events of the past week appeared to have persuaded the command of General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Allied commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean, to present a sombre picture of the Anzio operation to the world press, for troops heard a BBC broadcast saying Marshal Albert Kesselring was trying to split the beachhead.

The Bar Facts

The bare facts are these:—

The latest Allied effort by the Allied force to expand the beachhead in an important strategic direction took place six or seven days ago and did not reach Cisterna.

Operating with overland communications that are shorter and faster than the Allied amphibious route regardless of sporadic bomb damage, the Germans have had 15 days to prepare a counter-offensive.

The enemy failed to annihilate a British unit which was cut off for a short time north of Carroceto Thursday night and fought its way back safely.

Since last Monday's thrust toward Cisterna Allied troops have been engaged in patrol fighting.

Increasing quantities of tanks and guns have been committed to this front in recent days by the German

Quebec Group Will Oppose New Legislation

MONTREAL, Feb. 7 — (CP) — Andre Laurendeau, youthful appointed Provincial leader of Le Bloc Populaire, said at a press conference here yesterday that his party would fight not only the present government at the next Quebec general election, but "all old parties."

He said he did not believe their entry in the Provincial field would favor Premier Adelard Godbout's Liberal government by splitting the opposition. He did not believe the C. C. F. would be an important factor in a Quebec Provincal election.

If elected Quebec Premier, he would hold for the absolute respect of Provincial autonomy as provided by the British North America Act.

As Quebec Premier, he would oppose any amendment to the Canadian constitution to allow adoption of a Federal Social Security and Health-Insurance plan. He contended a "much-needed" Social Security plan for the people should be en-

Green Opposes Wartime Strikes

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 7 —(AP)— With the lives of fighting men at stake and victory hanging in the balance, there cannot be any justification or excuse for any strike or stoppage of work, William Green, American Federation of Labor president, today told delegates to the International Boilermakers' Union convention.

"At this moment," Green said, "vast military movements are in progress and even greater drives are in preparation. Millions of American boys will be called upon to risk their lives in action against the enemy. Our soldiers, sailors and marines will fight courageously, unyielding and incessantly.

"The workers of America must work in the same spirit. When the lives of our sons and brothers and loved ones are at stake, when victory in this war against hated tyranny hangs in the balance, there cannot be any justification or excuse for any strike or stoppage of work.

"No matter how unjust conditions may become, no matter how sharp an aggravation may be, the members of the American Federation of Labor should realize that they must stay on the job and keep production to the limit of their ability until final victory is won."

The labor leader said the national and international unions affiliated with the A.F.L. have made a 100 per cent perfect record in fulfilling the no-strike pledge to the government. He called upon local unions to match that record.

McNaughton Sees Mackenzie King

OTTAWA, Feb. 7 —(CP) — Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian Army Overseas, arrived in Ottawa late this morning by car and drove immediately to Laurier House to see Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Mrs. McNaughton accompanied him on the drive from the Seigniory Club, Montebello, Que., where he had been resting after his trip back from England.

Gen. McNaughton immediately made a report to the Prime Minister. After completion of their discussions Mrs. McNaughton was to join them for luncheon.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive House Leader, and M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. Leader, made demands in the House of Commons Friday for an immediate statement on Gen. McNaughton.

The demand was made in the light of a newspaper report quoting Gen. McNaughton as saying there was nothing wrong with his health.

Liberals Need New Slogan

Urges Revival Of Party Principles

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—(CP).— One of the essential things to bring the Liberal party to victory in Ontario and Canada is a "cause, a crusade, something worth fighting for," Harry S. Hamilton, Sault Ste. Marie, president of the Ontario Liberal party, declared Saturday night.

Addressing members of the Toronto Central Liberal Association, Mr. Hamilton declared: "We must call upon leaders of organization and party to put at the masthead the old potent, powerful, meaningful policies to bring a fairer, better break for the average people of Canada."

Liberalism, he said, was not a word, a phrase, or a party. but a spirit. It had a great future and "nothing can stop it if we only bring its principles into action."

One of the weaknesses of the Liberal party in Ontario, he said, was its lack of manpower, but this could be remedied, he believed, "by asking the party in Ontario and Canada to give us something to fight for and strive for."

Mr. Hamilton substituted for Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell, who was unable to attend because of illness.

Japanese Claim Americans Murdered Many Prisoners

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP).—Sadao Iguchi, spokesman for the Japanese Board of Information, sought today to reply to British and United States charges of wholesale atrocities committed by Japan against captive civilians and prisoners of war—by citing what he said was the record of "numerous outrages" against Japanese.

In a statement broadcast by the Berlin radio, he charged that "many of the 2,400 Japanese women who were confined at the Japanese primary school in Davao (in the Philippines) were raped."

He added that "on January 20 (1942) as Japanese forces were about to land at Davao Americans resorted to the most bestial treatment of 10 Japanese who were preparing food for their fellow internees. These men were bound with ropes, boiling water was poured upon them, their ears were cut off, their eyes gouged, their noses slashed and the arms and legs amputated — a sadistic torture that defies description. Enemy troops fled as Japanese forces advanced, but before that they left as many as 56 Japanese murdered."

This was a more detailed version of a charge which the Japanese made soon after they launched their attack on the Philippines but which never has been verified by Allied or neutral sources.

Iguchi cited what he said were some of the attacks "resulting in murder" and other acts of mistreatment against Japanese in the United States.

Iguchi charged Japanese internees were confined in dilapidated tents under adverse weather conditions at Fort Bliss, Texas, "in utter disregard of their suffering."

He declared Hatsuki Wakahp, suffering from tuberculosis, and Nota Isomura, suffering from a

Americans Mopping Up Marshalls

PEARL HARBOR, Feb 7 (AP)— While mopping-up operations were being continued by United States marines and soldiers on certain sections of Kwajalein Atoll, U.S. Navy technicians were already busy clearing former Japanese air installations on Roi and Namur islands in preparation for turning them against their builders.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced in a communique yesterday that three more islands—Gugegwe, Bigej and Ebler—had been captured, and several others of the Marshalls group which had not been defended by the Japanese had been occupied, and that the conquest of Kwajalein was complete.

Meanwhile huge bulldozers rumbled over the rubble of what was left of Japanese air bases at Roi and Namur after they had been subjected to the heavy aerial and naval bombardment which preceded invasion. A powerful Allied air and naval base was taking shape here at the northeast tip of the atoll.

Capture of Gugegwe, Bigej and Ebler islands gave the Americans control of two more channels in the huge lagoon, which already is the anchorage for units of the United States fleet.

The Americans now have overrun 21 of the 32 principal islands of the atoll, and in addition have overrun numerous other islets which are unnamed.

Tokyo radio was not in agreement with Admiral Nimitz' announcement that the conquest of Kwajalein atoll was practically complete. An enemy broadcast heard by NBC in New York said intense fighting was "still in progress on Kwajalein island." The Japanese also said, without confirmation, that two American destroyers had been sunk and another destroyer and a cruiser set afire.

First Attack On Jap Home Bases

5 Miles Offshore U.S. Fleet Surprises Enemy

Aboard a U.S. Destroyer in the North Pacific, Feb. 4 —(delayed)—(AP)—United States warships bombarded Japan at home for the first time today and caught the enemy by surprise.

A bombardment lasting about 20 minutes battered the harbor and land installations of Kurabu Point on the southern tip of Paramushiro Island.

Enemy gunners, either surprised or attempting to put out star shells which preceded the heavy blasting, fired into the air when the attack first started. Then they fired along their own beaches and at the Pacific Ocean and Sea of Ohkotsk.

No ship of the attacking force, which steamed under bright moonlight within five miles of the shore batteries, was hit.

The force was commanded by Rear - Admiral Wilder D. Baker.

The U.S. Army was represented aboard Admiral Baker's flagship by Maj.-Gen. Davenport Johnson of the Air Force, Brig.-Gen. E. D. Post, chief of staff to Lt.-Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, commander of the Alaskan department. The presence of General Post came while troops of the Alaskan department engaged in assault manoeuvres which possibly will be aimed at Paramushiro.

The wild nature of the Japanese gunnery indicated they feared an invasion was underway. Tracer bullets from some of their guns spurted along the shoreline, apparently aimed at shadows or imaginary landing barges.

This destroyer on which I rode as the only war correspondent accompanying the task force was skippered by Cmdr. Harry Smith.

Two weeks ago I became the first war correspondent over Japanese home soil when I made a bombing mission with navy planes over the same part of Paramushiro.

Saint Benedict Monastery Hit By Shells

By LYN HEINZERLING

WITH THE 5TH ARMY AT CASSINO, Feb. 7.—(AP).—A lone church bell tolled out the hours in Cassino while this old town writhed in batte. Nestled up in a junction of mountain peaks just south of the centuries-old abbey of Monte Cassina, a Roman Catholic shrine, Cassino was going through the final hours so many other towns and cities have experienced in this war.

United States troops clinging to precipitous heights north of Cassino under intense artillery and mortar fire have climbed within 500 yards of the famous Abbey of Mt. Cassino.

Founded by St. Benedict in 529, the monastery was the cradle of the Benedictine Order, and had a collection of some 12,000 old manuscripts and records. The Germans recently said their troops had taken these books away.

Tough American tankmen who fought in the city were struck by the weird tolling of bells amid explosions and gun flashes, some of them in the neighborhood of the old Church of Santa Maria with its eight towers, built by the Abbot Theodinard centuries ago.

Nazis Hand On

Six weeks ago, I saw the City of Ortona on the Adriatic coast tramped to death in an almost identical struggle between Canadians and Germans. Like Ortona, whose death agonies lasted nine days, Cassino will be only a pile of black and gray rubble when the last German there retreats or dies.

Cassino, a larger town with more material for the German talent for destruction, now is in the fifth day of its final trial. Already much of the city is a common grave with blackened walls as markers.

Yugoslavs Sever Two Railway Lines

LONDON, Feb. 7—(CP).—Yugoslav Partisans have cut two strategic railway lines running east and west of the Bosnian capital of Sarajevo, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced today, as the Germans rushed more reinforcements into eastern Bosnia.

The Sarajevo - Visegrad line, which serves southeastern Bosnia and which recently had been repaired by the Germans, again was destroyed at several points, Tito's bulletin said, while the line running west to Mostar from Sarajevo was severed at the town of Garvin and an enemy troops train destroyed.

75,000 Germans Trapped Near Nikopol
Manganese Supply Cut Off
100-Mile Gap Cut Near Lower Dnieper

MOSCOW, Feb. 7—(AP).—The Russian Army is less than 45 miles at some points from the lines where Adolf Hitler launched his invasion of the Soviet Union in 1941 and all along the 1,200-mile-long eastern front the German Army is suffering some of the war's worst defeats, field dispatches said today.

Gaining the upper hand along the lower reaches of the Dnieper River with advances up to 40 miles through a 100-mile-wide gap, General Rodion Y. Maolinovsky's rd Ukrainian Army ruthlessly went about the job of destroying five trapped German divisions (normally 75,000 men) in the Nikopol sector. Meanwhile, 150 miles to the north, more Nazi corpses littered the thawing Ukrainian earth as the armies of General Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev drew ever tighter a ring of death around the remnants of 10 divisions near Cherkasy.

Loss of Nikopol, which is said to have been furnishing German industries the major amount of manganese used in the Reich's production of war equipment, probably would be the hardest industrial blow to be suffered by the Germans during the entire Russian offensive.

A Pravda dispatch said the point where Malinovsky cut off the five enemy divisions was on the Dneiper river near the mouth of the Buzuluk River, which flows into the Dnieper three miles from Nikopol.

The Nazis appeared to have lost Krivoi Rog along with Nikopol.

Hitler placed such value on the two mining cities that, said Pravda, orders were ready to every company in each battalion to hold and officers gave oaths to fight to the last on their sectors.

Many days of continous rain have melted the Ukraine's snows, and roads are almost unuseable. Every stream, creek and river is in flood, and airfields are soft with clinging mud.

A Pravda report from the encirclement ring in the Cherkasy-Kanev area said the Germans were trying to break out north of the Zvenigorodka area on a good gravel road leading westward. But the Russian ring is holding "firm, strong, and dense."

Guerillas were reported to have risen within the "death ring," seizing forests and ravines and every night making life hell for the trapped Nazis. Pravda declared the ring "is blockaded from the air now," although some German planes were getting out with officers while others were dropping food and ammunition.

A year after the Stalingrad disaster, which cost the Germans 330,000 men of the 6th Army killed or captured, the Russians in the

Helsinki Fires Still Burning; Raid Kills 38

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 7— (AP).— Fires still were burning in Helsinki at noon to-day from two Russian bombings Sunday which hit 200 buildings and killed 38 persons, the Finnish Legation in Stockholm said.

The attacking bombers dropped mine bombs and incendiaries, it was officially announced at the Finnish capital. The announcement listed 232 persons as wounded.

(Advices reaching London said telephone communications between Helsinki and Stockholm had been cut again to-day, suggesting the possibility of a third raid n what apparently is a concentrated effort to drive Finland out of the war.)

A Moscow radio announcement said the Estonian capital of Reval (Tallinn) also had been bombed, adding to the growing uneasiness in Sweden.

Swedish aircraft roared over Stockholm in extensive manoeuvres early to-day despite generally poor weather.

Helsinki traffic was reported disrupted as the Russians dropped many high explosives and incendiaries starting fires which were difficult to control. The sky above the Finnish capital was red with the glow.

French Patriots Urged To Rebel

LONDON, Feb. 7—(CP). — The BBC broadcast an appeal from the leader of the Haute Savoie Patriots today urging all Frenchmen to rise against their German oppressors.

The appeal, repeated at intervals throughout the day, outlined a four-point program to be followed by French citizens. It urged those possessing arms to join French guerilla bands, appealed to all French workers to strike, encouraged nation-wide sabotage "without undue risks and asked that records be made of the names and descriptions of members of the German-controlled militia and leading Vichy police figures.

Jews Seeking Palestine Entry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP).—A formal effort to dissuade Great Britain from closing the door to further immigration of Jews to Palestine will be started in the United States House of Representatives Foreign Affair committee this week.

The committee, which begins hearings to-morrow, will be asked to approve a resolution under which the United States would use its good offices "to the end that the doors of Palestine be opened for free entry of Jews into that country and that there shall be full opportunity for colonization so that the Jewish people may ultimately reconstitute Palestine as a free and democratic Jewish commonwealth."

Under terms of a British white paper issued in 1939, immigration of Jews into Palestine would be banned after March 31, 1944.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress, urged last night that Jews appeal to Prime Minister Churchill to rescind the British white paper of 1939 which curtails Jewish immigration to Palestine beginning March 31.

Wise said these would be no place for thousands of European Jewish refugees to go if the British continue with their plan to create an Arab-dominated state of Palestine

Political Moves Overshadow Red Gains

Latest Move Indicates Poland May Become Russian State

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Stalin's Red armies continue to carve their way into the Hitlerite front—further consolidation of their position about the strategic fortified centre of Narva up north in the Baltic state of Estonia, another great thrust into pre-war Poland, and down in the Dnieper Bend the encirclement of five Nazi divisions to add to the 10 divisions surrounded last week.

Militarily the situation on the whole in the European theatre looks good for the Allies. Still, it seems to me that, taking the long view, the political developments which are flooding out of Moscow are even more important than the fresh gains on the battle fields. Actually, of course, it's because of the victories that we are getting the surge of political developments.

The European conflict is rapidly becoming a politico-military affair. And the whole trend seems to be in the direction of extending Russian influence westward across the continent—eastward into Asia also for that matter.

The big break came last week when we had Moscow's startling announcement extending the sovereignty of the 16 states of the Soviet Union to include the right to establish independent diplomatic relations abroad and maintain armies. The world is still trying to figure that out. However, one thing seems clear and this is that Moscow has created a flexible commonwealth of nations which can absorb as many foreign countries as decide to join.

New Follow-Up.

To-day we get a follow-up. Russia intimates strongly she plans to give the stamp of approval to the establishment of a Polish State independent of the Polish government in London as a basis for settling the Russo-Polish territorial dispute.

But that's only half the story. Moscow radio says the first move of the new foreign office in the Ukraine—one of republics of the Soviet Union—will be to make a treaty with the "new" Polish Government. Then, says the radio, "a new democratic Poland will raise." The broadcast didn't suggest that this new Polish Government might apply for admission to the Soviet Commonwealth of Nations, but who says it won't? —We should know the answer before long, if the Red army continue their westward rush into Poland.

Coincident with these significant developments, Moscow landed with both feet on the Bulgarian Government.

This Soviet move would seem calculated to unhorse the Bulgarian Government and bring the country into the Red camp. And of course, the winning over of Bulgaria would be a gain for the Allies. It might be the thing which would blow the Nazis out of the Balkan peninsula and place their right wing in Russia in still further jeopardy. However, I think we are entitled to interpret Moscow's manoeuvre as fitting perfectly into the picture of Soviet extension of influence.

Japan Builds Fighters Only

Bombers Not Needed In Defensive Fight

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Feb. 7.—(AP). — Japan may have turned her aviation production almost entirely to the manufacture of fighter planes for one purpose: defence.

Japan's bombers in the Southwest and South Pacific are becoming fewer and fewer. Bombing raids on American, Australian and New Zealand positions are diminishing in size and number.

While Japan's bombers become more scarce in the southwest theatre her fighter strength seems to be inexhaustible. Swarms of fighters rise to meet Allied bombers and fighters in daily sweeps over numerous enemy-held airdromes. They are knocked down in swarms by the Allies—sometimes two squadrons at a time.

Despite heavy losses, more enemy fighters are coming down from Truk, their big base in the Carolines, and even from Japan to meet the next Allied attack. Many Japanese fighters are flown in stages from the factories in Japan direct to Rabaul and Wewak.

Japan has been experimenting with new fighter planes, introducing the fast, manoeuvrable "Tojo" plane only recently. Maybe she hopes to stave off defeat by putting up an umbrella of fighter planes over her entire empire.

Reds to Create Polish State Ignoring Exiled Government; Bulgaria Warned Drop Nazis

LONDON, Feb. 7—(CP).—Russian intimations yesterday created belief here that the U.S.S.R. is planning to give official blessing to the establishment of a new Polish state, independent of the Polish government in London, as a basis for settling Polish territorial problems. This development coincided with a bitter Soviet verbal attack on Bulgaria and a sharp air raid on the Finnish capital of Helsinki—events which were generally interpreted here as warnings to those two countries to sever their connections with Germany.

The tipoff on Russia's intentions toward Poland came in a Moscow broadcast, recorded by the Soviet Monitor here, saying that as Red Army troops drive out the German invaders "a new democratic Poland will arise and all conditions for friendly co-operation of the Ukrainian and Polish peoples will be created."

The broadcast added the establishment of a separate Foreign Office in the Ukrainian Soviet Republic would create stimulus for "a friendly rapprochement of these states and may require conclusion of special agreements for strengthening these friendly connections between them."

This statement, hinting at possible future treaty negotiations, gave added significance to action taken at Moscow last week extending to each of the 16 separate Soviet republics the right to handle their own foreign affairs.

It appeared here the strategically-located Ukraine was slated for a key role in a Soviet plan to settle boundary issues and at the same time build a powerful Slav bloc against future German aggression. There also was a hint of the role which other individual Soviet republics may be expected to play in the settlement of important frontier problems.

Indicating the Polish government in London was to be ignored entirely in this plan, the Moscow broadcast said "the emigre Polish government not infrequently displays imperialistic, pro-fascist tendencies in its politics" and added: "It is obvious that such tendencies preclude even the possibility of a friendly agreement."

Significantly, perhaps, it was disclosed that Alexander E. Korneichuk had been named commissar of foreign affairs for the Ukrainian Soviet Republic. Korneichuk, who resigned only last week as national vice-commissar of foreign affairs, has strongly opposed Poland's claims to her prewar eastern borders.

Coventry Church Effects Change

LONDON, Feb. 7 — (CP) —In a move believed to be unprecedented in British ecclesiastical history, Coventry Cathedral "— Shattered during the Battle of Britain—will be replaced by a "People's Cathedral" in which Free Churches will join the Anglican congregation, it was announced to-day.

One of the main features of the design of the new church will be its altar, which will be placed in the centre of the Cathedral, in the early christian and medieval manner.

The new structure, to be erected immediately after the war, will include a christian service centre "for the whole community in full partnership with the Free Churches," the announcement said. The centre will be connected with the Anglican Cathedral proper by a "special chapel of unity" belonging to both.

An endowment fund is planned to staff both the Churches and the Centre.

Dr. N. V. Gorton, Bishop of Coventry, said it was aimed to make a place for the "flood of strangers which the war has brought to Coventry, 80 per cent of whom are without church membership."

The new building has been designed by Sir Giles Scott—a Roman Catholic who planned the Anglican Cathedral of Liverpool— to utilize the existing tower and apse which survived the bombing.

The altar has been planned for the middle of the church, Dr. Gorton said, because "it belongs to the people as well as to the clergy .... let the people gather around it."

high command.

Each local attack that has been launched by the Germans was a feeling-out blow for a real test of the beachhead's security which may be expected in the future.

Cisterna is astride the Appian Way and an electrified railway 26 miles south-east of Rome, and about 10 miles east of Carroceto (Aprilia), where previous German counter-blows were turned aside.

The Germans began the new assault on Saturday night with infantry, tanks and artillery. Fighting raged through the night and into yesterday, before the Nazis were pushed back to the starting point with losses.

The Nazis, reinforced along the beachhead perimeter to at least four divisions and an S.S. brigade by the arrival of the 75th infantry division from Southern France, made lesser attacks along the line. Some German elements were spotted forming for another attack against the British north of Carroceto, but the formation was broken up by accurate artillery fire and the British captured 300 of the enemy.

Grim house-to-house fighting continued in Cassino on the main 5th Army front, but the Americans battled up Mount Cassino just west of the town, already nearly encircled, and reached a point within a few hundred yards of the famous Benedictine monastery at the crest.

Troops of the British 8th Army along the Adriatic drove into the villages of Pizzoferrato, 2½ miles northwest of Sant' Angelo, and Montenerodomo, four miles south of Torricella.

These gains were scored by British troops operating on the left flank of the 8th Army, deep in the mountains of Italy, 15 to 20 miles south of Orsogna. There was no report of action other than patrolling on the 8th Army's right flank where a Canadian corps is in the line along the Adriatic.

capital had experienced since 1941.

Swedish press accounts said the first assault caused heavy damage to the central railway station, the Finnish National bank, the technical university, the Toeloe residential district and the Brunnsparken diplomatic quarter.

Anti-aircraft guns in the Finnish capital went into action immediately after the sirens wailed and shot almost without interruption for two hours. Twenty points within the city were hit by explosives and a great number of bombs were dropped, especially in the centre of Helsinki, the correspondent said.

Helsinki has been raided many times in the past, but the accounts have told of only 30 to 60 raiders. The city has not experienced a serious raid since the lull on the far northern front began Dec. 5, 1941.

Telephone communication both inside and outside Helsinki was broken.

tive night of their resumed "Tokyo short line express." They hit shortly after the bombardment.

A division of destroyers led heavier ships of the force into shelling position along the eastern side of Kurabu Point. The remainder of the force swung westward toward the sea of Ohkotsk and bombarded from that side.

The "open fire" order came at 2.30 a.m. by our watches, which was 9.30 p.m. Japan time.

Star shells made the snow-white shore bright. The bombardment got underway in earnest. It was centred on buildings or other shore objects and one small merchant ship.

This vessel, silhouetted against the white shore light, had a high plume of black smoke pouring from its stack. It apparently was trying to move out of danger. The bombarding ships took turns banging away at it with a gun or two as they fell into position. It apparently was hit a number of times and left beached or badly crippled. No other shipping was seen in the harbor.

Part of the force I was with continued up the shore for some distance searching for other targets before turning out to sea.

Behind us several fires were blazing. One in particular continued to burn with what appeared to be periodic explosions as if of gasoline or ammunition until finally it faded below the horizon.

On the same night, American aircraft also bombed Paramushiro and Shimushu, the small island lying in the strait between Paramushiro and Russia's Kamchatka peninsula.

Shimushu is the northernmost tip of the Kuriles.

First eye witness stories from the scene spoke only of the bombardment at Karabu point.

The few records here regarding that spot described it as a low lying point with shoal water extending eastward and northeastward. Reefs and rocks stretching nearly two miles off the point suggest that the ships certainly approached their target no closer than that.

Kurabu point is at the north side of a 30-mile strait separating Paramushiro from the next island to the south.

It was assumed here that the naval force would not have steamed far into that strait.

McLean Denies Coldwell Charge

TORONTO, Feb. 7 —(CP) — J. S. McLean, president of Canada Packers, Ltd., said in a statement last night C. C. F. leader M. J. Coldwell was guilty of "fantastic misrepresentatiion" in statements on the company made in an address here Friday.

(Mr. Coldwell told the Workers' Educational Association of Canada the company paid dividends of $3 a share annually from 1935 to 1939, a rate of more than 41 per cent; $4 during 1939 and 1940 and $3.50 in 1941).

In reply, McLean said dividends paid on common stock were the equivalent of less than five per cent of the stockholders' equity from 1935 to 1939.

In the past 11 years the highest net profit made by Canada Packers was equivalent to 2.6 per cent on its sales, said McLean and the lowest net profit was .95 per cent. for eight years, until April 1, 1935, no dvidends weer paid on common stock.

Plain Statement

The first issue of "Le Bloc", new weekly paper of Le Bloc Populaire Canadien, called today for either adoption by Canada of Lord Halifax's contention that the Commonwealth should tighten its ties with Great Britain, or the country's "independence."

"The first solution is unworthy of a man proud, of a man who knows the meaning of words, of a man who hears that we are fighting today for 'the freedom and independence of nations,'" the paper said. "He should not even consider it. If the present struggle is going on for the freedom of Czecho-Slovakia and Poland (?), how could Canadians be prevented from aspiring to independence."

Stating that the Liberal party had continuously changed doctrine without changing its name, the paper said:

"The brutal frankness of a Borden (late Sir Robert Borden, former Prime Minister), the violent ways of a Bennett (Viscount Bennett, former Prime Minister) are preferable to the hypocricy and under-handed attitude of a King (Prime Minister Mackenzie King) who condemns our young men to starvation and allows them to be mistreated in the armed services if they 'refuse to sign for overseas service.'"

Another article charged that Prime Minister Mackenzie King's government was mainly responsible for the mistreatment by the Japanese of Canadian troops made prisoners at Hong Kong because Mr. King had sent Canadian troops there to fight "without training and without sufficient weapons."

The article suggested that, following the Red Cross' failure to help Canadian prisoners in Japanese hands, an appeal should be made to the Pope to help them, claiming "Pope Pius XII is listened to in Tokyo."

Bloc Populaire Stresses Severing Ties

By GUY BEAUDRY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, Feb. 7 (CP)—Confident of winning the next Quebec general election, more than 600 delegates at the first National convention of the Bloc Populaire last night concluded a three-day sitting here.

Delegates reiterated their "absolute" confidence in Bloc National Leader Maxime Raymond, member of parliament for Beauharnois LaPrairie, founder of the movement, approved Andre Laurendeau, youthful Bloc general secretary, as Quebec Provincial leader, and adopted resolutions in connection with their party's Federal and Provincial programs.

Resolutions adopted included one calling for unity among all those "who believe in the principles enunciated by Mr. Raymond."

This resolution was interpreted as an invitation to Rene Chaloult, member of the Legislature for Lotbiniere, Dr. Philippe Hamel of Quebec, and Paul Gouin, former action Liberale Nationale leader, to come back in the party. They ceased all

Husband Denies Beating Wife

KITCHENER, Feb. 7—(CP).—Edward Doerr, 32, pleaded not guilty today to a charge of assaulting his wife, a beating, police believed, was administered by a child's kiddy car a short time before Mrs. Doerr was found last night at a roadside a few feet from her home.

Police said Mrs. Doerr is in hospital in what was described as a "frightfully beaten condition," and is still not recovered sufficiently to help police in their investigation. They said a terrific struggle had taken place in the living room of the Doerr home at nearby Bridgeport. The two Doerr children, a girl three years old and a four-months-old boy, were taken to hospital also. The infant, found near Mrs. Doerr at the roadside, was bruised but the other child, found in her bedroom, was unharmed.

Police said Doerr collapsed while being taken from the courtroom after making his plea of not guilty today.

Bill McCaig left the truck parked near the town hall with the keys in the ignition. Police sent out word of the theft and at about twenty to two, Provincial Constable Robert Duncan picked up the truck and its driver up near Curve Inn. Provincial Constable R. Pollard of Port Hope brought the alleged thief back to Cobourg where he was booked as James Ellis of Gananoque. He was locked up on a theft charge and will appear this week in court.

Bombers Lash French Coast Down 17 Planes

LONDON, Feb. 7 —(CP) —United States heavy and medium bombers plastered the French invasion coast and Nazi airfields in northern France for the second straight day yesterday on the heels of another R. A. F. Mosquito stab against devastated Berlin and targets in western Germany Saturday night.

A joint Anglo-American communique said 11 Allied planes, including four heavy bombers, failed to return from the missions against France in which R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. Mosquitoes and Typhoons also participated. Seventeen German planes were destroyed.

Maintaining the most intensive period of daylight bombing of the war, one formation of bombers struck at the Nazis' forward positions in the Pas-de-Calais area while other waves pounded airfields at Evreau-Fauville, St. Andrew de L'Eure, Caen, Chateaudun and St. Aubin. Fleets of Allied fighters escorted the bombers.

Reconnaissance photographs showed Saturday's American attacks on France had caused severe damage to six large German airfields, with at least 37 Nazi aircraft destroyed or damaged on the ground.

The Vichy-radio said bombs fell in the southwestern district of Paris yesterday, causing damage and casualties.

A Pimple Covered Face Kills Many a Romance

The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples, and you probably know of cases where a promising romance has been spoiled by those red, white, festering and pus filled sores on the face.

The trouble is not so much physical pain, but the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.

The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood.

Burdock Blood Bitters helps to cleanse the blood and with the blood cleansed the complexion should clear up.

Dodge Retires From The Field

COBOURG, Feb. 7.—(ENS).—Ex-Reeve Roy Dodge, aspirant to the job of deputy town clerk and treasurer, announced Friday that he had withdrawn his name because of the dissension raised by some of the council opposing his appointment. This narrows down the list of applicants to E. A. Hircock, present tax collector; Miss Hattie Hawkey, temporary town clerk and Roy Henley, veteran of the present war, who is on the government audit staff in Saskatchewan. Indications ever since Mr. Dodge was proposed for the job last December have been that the majority of the council would vote for his appointment. Mr. Dodge commented as follows last night on his decision to withdraw his name:

"In view of the dissension over the matter by some members of the council I have decided that it would be in the best interests of myself and the position if I withdrew my name. Because of the fact that some of the council are opposed to my getting the position it would just mean that I would be sitting on edge all the time," stated Mr. Dodge.

The mayor and a minority in the council have opposed Mr. Dodge's appointment because they felt that the job should be held open until the war was over and a returned man suitable for the position can apply.

The 1943 council passed a by-law appointing Mr. Dodge, but due to the fact that the local Selective Service authorities ruled that he had not complied with the regulations governing a work permit, the appointment was not made at that time.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

Cheese Output In Northumberland In 1943 Was Down 970,000 Pounds

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7—(ENS) —That cheese production might possibly be pushed up five million pounds to reach 1944 objectives was the opinion expressed by E. C. Lackner ,director of dairying who was guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Northumberland Cheese Producers' Association here on Friday afternoon when Hector A. Arnold was named president of the association for the third time.

Addressing a large gathering that drew representatives from all sections of the county, Mr. Lackner declared that like other parts of the province Northumberland had turned out less cheese in 1943. The county was down some 970,000 pounds while the entire province had made 23¼ million pounds less last year and this was more than half of the 44 million pound decrease over the Dominion.

The total production of cheese in Canada last year was 162.5 million and the objective for 1944 had been set at 167,800,000 pounds. "There is a possibility of reaching that objective next summer", said. Mr Lackner adding that the milk subsidy would undoubtedly help the situation. However, against this was the feed shortage which had to be considered and this might adversely affect production if many cattle were put out in poor condition in the spring. The best way to counter this situation would be by providing good supplementary pasture and means of bettering the feed situation during the dry summer months.

Fluid Milk Increase

Mr. Lackner pointed out there had been a 20 per cent increase in consumption of fluid milk in 1943 and if this situation should continue it may draw even more milk from the cheese industry. With regard to cheese quality the speaker stated it would have been quite understandable if this had dropped as one effect of the labour shortage.

But this had not been the case. "Quality was just a little better in 1943 than in 1942 and this would seem to indicate a good future for the cheese industry". Figures for the normal grading season indicated 96.6 per cent first grade cheese in 1943 compared to 95.8 per cent in 1942. He declared that quality would count even more after the war than it does now.

Mr. Lackner spoke at length on the sediment tests which had been conducted during the past summer. These had shown a considerable amount of foreign matter in the cheese and were something that would have to be given careful attention in the post war period. Referring to the tests being conducted in the United States the speaker felt it would be wise to anticipate that Britain might make similar tests and rulings in the future so now was the time to take action.

Experimental work in straining at the cheese factory had shown a cloth strainer would remove the sediment but after every 8,000 to 9,000 pounds the strainer would be clogged and thus it was too slow a process for the factory. Some 16,000 sediment tests had been conducted by instructors throughout Ontario last year and of these 19.7 per cent were clean; 44.9 were slightly dirty; 25.1 dirty and 10.3 very dirty. Most of this sediment is in the milk when it comes to the factory and 92.8 per cent of it is plant material. "You cannot prevent some dirt from getting in the milk, but every effort should be made to keep as much as possible out and what does get in should be removed by a strainer."

Department Not Satisfied

There were new difficulties arising in the industry every year according to J. M. Bain, Chief Instructor for Western and Central Ontario. He foresaw more changes in the future and as reason pointed out the Department had not been entirely satisfied with the improvement in quality last season. Grades had suffered in the late fall due to "fruity flavor." He felt some changes were due for plant equipment such as insulating the whey tanks and installation of a good water pressure system.

S. L. Joss, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Associatioin spoke of the representations made to the Minister of Agriculture to have the 1944 cheese price raised and set earlier than in former years. They had requested a 5 cents per pound increase over the 1943 price but all that was granted was the 30 cent per hundred milk subsidy, which made the 1944 price 1½ cents less than had been asked. Since 1935 a total of $12,686,320.13 had been paid in bonuses and premiums to the cheese producer largely as the results of efforts made by the Association. Mr. Joss quoted figures showing that the first Dominion bonus was in 1935 and gave the producers an additional $816,920.00. In 1939 the Federal quality premium yielded $508,234.00; in 1940 the quality premium amounted to $844,-094; 1941-$1,159,712 plus the Provincial subsidy of $2,191,622.40; 1942 —$1,275,153 quality premium and $2,530,582.64 provincial bonus; 1943 —$1,110,000 Federal premium and $2,250,000 provincial subsidy.

Formation of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association in 1877 marked the first attempt to organize the industry according to Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray, who recalled the Association had gone a long way since that time. He told the meeting that in 1943 there were 5,110,000 pounds of cheese sold on the Campbellford board alone and 3,900,000 pounds were graded in Campbellford. (The balance, mainly from Peterborough County was graded in either Peterborough, Lindsay or Montreal). The 20 factories in his district (13 in Northumberland and 7 in Hastings) had the highest average score for all Ontario last season—93.6.

During the business of the meeting members passed a resolution urging that cheese be sold next season subject to Campbellord weights. It was claimed this would expediate payments and leave buyers with no reason for not sending their cheques through within the 8 day limit ruled by the board.

Another question discussed was that of holding weekly meetings. All were of the opinion that holding the board once or twice a month, as was done last summer, was detrimental to the interests of members. In the absence of any Peterborough county salesmen from the meeting, settlement of the problem was left until the first Board meeting. J. A. Murray presided for the election of officers which resulted as follows: President H. A. Arnold; Vice President, Roy Walker; Secretary M. H. West; Auditors, J. A. Murray and R. C. Banbury; Directors, F. W. Barnum, George McCubbin, George S. Vanvolkenburg, Percy Oddie, Henry McColl and Earl McAdam.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM W. CLARK.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7 (ENS). — Funeral services for Ina A. E. Stephen, 66, a resident of this town for nearly sixty years and a woman of many fine qualities, were held on Saturday afternoon. The deceased lady was the wife of William W. Clark, Booth Street, and a daughter of the late MacIntosh Stephen and Annie Keough. She was born in Toronto and came to Campbellford with her parents to live just outside the corporation when she was a girl of 7 years. She attended school in this town, and in 1902 she married William W. Clark, who operated a flour and feed business here for many years.

Mrs. Clark was devoted to her home and the church, and though a member of the Burnbrae congregation to the time of her marriage she later joined St. Andrew's Church in Campbellford, where until a few years ago she was active in the work of the W.M.S. and other women's organizations when failing health forced her to discontinue. Mrs. Clark had been in poor health for the past ten years.

She is survived by her husband and one son Jack M., of town; also one sister, Mrs. Robert H. Little of Seymour. A brother, Charles K. Stephen, passed away here fourteen years ago. The funeral service was conducted at Burnbrae Church by Rev. J. O. Ralston of Campbellford, and interment was made in Burnbrae Cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Ernest Ingram, A. J. Armour, Walter Badgley, George Airhart, John Storie, Burke Stephen, and the bearers of the many beautiful floral tributes were Messrs. Frank DeCarrol, Charles Calver, John A. Murray, Fred Hay, Allan G. Watson, Lindsay Watson, R. J. Locke, Harold Nicholas. Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. George Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nicholas and Mr. Alex. Dunk, all of Toronto, and Mrs. W. F. Nelson of Peterborough.

Requiem Mass Said For Young Airman

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7. — (ENS).— Requiem high mass for Flight Sergeant James J. Farrell, 21, first member of St. Mary's church to lose his life in World War II, was observed here on Saturday morning. The mass for the youth, who had for many years been an altar boy, was sung by Rev. J. P. Collins, and was attended by a large number of friends. Flt. Sgt. Farrell was killed during flying operations at Ridgemont, Bedfordshire, England, on January 23 and his funeral was held in Cambridge cemetery, Cambridgeshire, England on January 28.

Born in this town, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farrell, Jim had many friends as he had not only a fine personality but his ability in both sport and music made him exceptionally popular among the young people of the town. He had played hockey with various high school teams, was later a mascot and in 1940 a forward of the Sunocos T. V.L. entry. As a high school boy he played in the school orchestra and later was a member of the Midland Regiment band.

There survive besides his parents, three sisters, Mrs. E. Camilleri (Bernice), of Detroit; Mrs. Ed. Bausch (Ruth), of St. Catherines; Mrs. J. M. Ferris, (Marjorie) Campbellford and one brother, Gerald with the R.C.A.F. at Vulcan, Alta.

1,182 Patients Given Treatment

COBOURG, Feb. 7 —(ENS)— At no time in recent years has the running of a hospital presented so many difficulties as now, it was revealed by Miss J. A. Graham, superintendent of Cobourg General Hospital, at the annual meeting of the Board.

Admissions in 1943 were more unmerous than in 1942, due partly to an epidemic of flu in October, and also to the increased demands for hospital care in maternity cases. The total number of cases treated was 1,182 and of these 939 were resirent patients. There were 269 who received treatment without being admitted to hospital wards.

Daily average of patients in hospital was 24 and average day stay was 10. Deaths totalled 42 of which three were infants, three were surgical, medical and old age, 36. In the nursery the number was 175, 92 boys and 83 girls. Special nurses employed by patients, 727 days. Staff at the end of year totalled 24. A chest clinic was held in October by the Ontario Department of Health and 90 were examined and x-rayed or tuberculosis.

No Empty Beds

"At no time in recent years has hospital operation presented so many difficulties. The days of empty beds are past, and the supply of nurses is falling short of nursing demands. Our private duty nurses have been asked to help during the shortage of nursing service on the home front The shortage in some lines of suppiles presents the problem of trying to do more with less and less," stated Miss Graham's report.

Miss Graham thanked the medical staff, hospital board and the various organizations which have been lending assistance to the hospital.

A. C. Hodgetts, chairman of the hospital board, praised Miss Graham and her staff for their excellent work. Staff shortage was acute, he pointed out, and would likely remain so until after the war. Finances were in fair condition, he said due to careful management in 1943.

A. C. Hodgetts was re-elected chairman for 1944, and Dudley Spragge was elected vice-chairman. Other members appointed to the board were George Mitchell, Judge J. C. M. German, J. T. Field, A. J. Gould, Col. J. W. Odell, Dr. W. Wade Rev. W. Woodger, Rev. Dr. P. Kelly, Dr. Fred Blackwell, Councillor Mrs. Clara DeLany, Deputy-Reeve Douglas Glenn, Mrs. C. Jamieson and Mrs. R. Harvey.

Wife Beaten Up

KITCHENER, Feb. 7 (CP).—Mrs. Edward Doerr was in hospital today with serious injuries suffered when severely beaten at her home in nearby Bridgeport. Police, who said they believed the beating was inflicted with a kiddie car, have arrested her husband on a nominal charge of vagrancy. The two Doerr children, a girl three years old and a boy four months, were also taken to hospital but their injuries are not believed serious.

Disgruntled Rhodes Scholars

In a recent speech Mr. Gladstone Murray, who was himself a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, during 1913-14, expressed his surprise that so many younger Rhodes Scholars in Canada have allied themselves with the C.C.F., and have shown bitterness and contempt toward Britain and Canada's British connection. Many other people have wondered about the same thing. We think that we can supply an explanation which is valid in some cases, at least.

Rhodes Scholars go to the University of Oxford and live there for two or three years on money provided from a trust set up by the late Cecil Rhodes, the empire-builder. They live very well; they receive £400 a year, which enables them to keep up considerable style at the university and travel quite extensively during the vacations. They have more money than a great many of the undergraduates who have been sent to the university at the cost of their own parents. We have known a considerable number of Rhodes Scholars during their university days, and we have never, at any time, heard one of them say a good word for Cecil Rhodes. The American Rhodes Scholars are courteous about him, but no more; the Scholars from the Empire tend to look upon him either as a joke or a villainous capitalist. Perhaps the experience which the Canadian Scholars gain of living on somebody else's money inclines them toward a form of government which necessitates a large and powerful bureaucracy.

As for dislike of England, we have seen that grow, also. It grows in the breasts of young men who go to England full of crusading zeal, eager to stir England up, and set it right, and tell it how things are done in Canada. England does not respond to that sort of arrogance any better than most countries. When Englishmen are cold toward Rhodes Scholars who want to reform them, the reformers sulk and say that Englishmen are snobs, impossible to know, and not worth knowing. They then proceed to keep themselves to themselves, to form little back-scratching societies of their own countrymen, and to turn their little portion of the university, as much as possible, into a replica of the university they came from in Canada. We have seen this happen many times.

Perhaps the Rhodes Scholarships are a mistake. Perhaps the Scholars are not chosen in the right way. Splendidly as the scheme works in some instances, it is a failure and a waste of money in many others. There is no worse friend to the British Commonwealth than a disgruntled Rhodes Scholar.

A Distraction, Not a Cure

The St. Thomas Times-Journal comments sharply on a letter which was written to a Toronto paper by a workingman who complained that by the time he had finished his work all the beer in the beverage rooms had been sold. Our contemporary says that it has no quarrel with beer, but continues thus:

> "We hope that the man who complains about not getting a few steins of beer a day merely for the pleasure he gets out of drinking it, read the reports of the sufferings of the American, British, Indian, Filipino, and probably Canadian prisoners of war in the hands of the Japanese. For days on end they were forced to march in broiling, tropical sunshine, or to work, without a drop of water to even wet their lips. And in one camp where 12,000 men were kept, there was only one water-tap. When they could, they threw themselves on the ground and swallowed muddy water, for which they were beaten by the guards, not because they drank muddy water, but because they drank water at all. And still we have people who grouse because they can't get all the beer they want."

This type of argument is heard often these days, and it generally reduces its opponent to silence. However, we do not think that it is a valid argument. The man who wrote the letter is not a prisoner in Japan; he is a free citizen in Canada. Does anyone suggest that we should all voluntarily place ourselves in conditions similar to those maintaining in Japanese prisons, or that any good end would be served thereby?

Not long ago we saw a father and mother arguing with a child who would not eat his food. "Little Greek children would give anything for what you have on your plate", said they; but eventually they took the boy to a doctor who discovered what was wrong with him, and soon restored his appetite. The talk of starving Greeks was of no use to that child, and had no bearing on his case; he needed a cure which was available in his own country.

There is a beer problem, and it is getting worse. The cure for it does not lie in talk of Japanese prison camps; that is merely a distraction from the problem. The cure must be found in Canada.

We Eat Our Words

When the Brantford Expositor recently rang a peal in praise of Robin Hood, and declared that the great outlaw lived in the hearts and minds of thousands of children, we expressed our doubt. We expressed it in a somewhat taunting and provocative manner, for these occasional scuffles with our Brantford contemporary are a great source of pleasure and refreshment to us. In this matter he has floored us, fair and square. We eat our words. As our readers may see from the reprinted editorial on this page today, Robin Hood is alive in Brantford, if nowhere else.

The Expositor editor, goaded intolerably by our words, rushed from bookshop to paper stand, and from paper stand to schoolroom, seeking evidence to throw in our teeth; he found it; he threw it. We are still picking it out of our teeth.

We are really pleased to have lost this argument. We are glad that Canadian boys and girls read about Robin Hood; we are a great supporter of folklore and legend, and we like to see it taking its place in the mental compost which we call contemporary culture. But we think we know why Brantford people are so keen on Robin Hood. It is because so many citizens of that city go to the Greenwood and never return; and there they lie, listening to the horn of Robin and the rumble of the nearby railway.

About Spitting

The newspapers of Montreal and Toronto have interested themselves in the matter of public spitting; they don't like it. A few provincial papers have also expressed their dislike of this habit. We can recall that last summer we had something to say about it. Spitting in public is dirty and unsanitary and bad-mannered; no one disputes that. But it is a very hard habit to kill.

One paper, writing on this subject, told a story about Lord Dufferin who, when visiting Canada, saw a sign forbidding spitting on the streets; his lordship remarked that he did not know that it was necessary to spit anywhere. We cannot agree with his lofty judgement on this matter; it is often desirable and comfortable to spit, but for the sake of other people the urge must be repressed. Englishmen spit very little, because their moist climate seems to give them unusually well-behaved tubes and membranes. But on this continent, where nasal catarrh and kindred complaints are very common, and where extreme cold and central heating dry up and irritate our breathing apparatus, we often want to spit.

But we should not do it in public. It is dirty and disgusting. The best comment on the subject we know is that which used to be printed on a card and hung up in the public rooms of country hotels: "If you spit on the floor at home, spit here; we want to make you feel at home". The same idea might well be applied to the streets, which we all own in common, and which we should all try to keep clean and decent.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Another way to establish a bridgehead is to bid a grand slam and make it.

"Apathy Deplorable" says a headline. That's a matter of opinion. We wish we had free time for some nice restful apathy.

Bernard Shaw, the eminent playwright and socialist, has an annual income of £24,000, of which he pays £20,000 in taxes. That's practical socialism, but he doesn't seem to care for it.

A columnist says that he is not at liberty to say how fast our rocket planes will fly, but that they have strict orders to follow the curve of the earth's surface.

An advertisement in Macleans reads: "For Sale—Pure-bred Jersey cow; gives pail of milk daily, and some kitchen utensils". Can this be the cow which was advertised as having been lost by an old lady with brass knobs on her horns?

The Governor of Illinois is going to push a lawnmower through a patch of timothy hay, while wearing Dorothy Lamour's sarong, to promote the sale of war bonds. This seems to be an extreme measure, but if it works it is justified.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

MECHANIZED farming has made great progress during the last four years in all the Allied countries, and doubtless it also has in the other countries as well, with the result that we are bound to use more farm tractors in years following the war than we have ever done before. This may reduce the necessity for horses, but only to some extent, as a team of horses can be very useful on every hundred or hundred and fifty acres of land; and a good deal of tractor ploughing, and the work of combines will be done by persons who will contract for this work as they have for threshing during many past years.

Ploughing at certain seasons requires plenty of power. It has often been said that the time to plough heavy land is when it is too hard to plough, and in some places in Ontario last fall it was really so hard that broken ploughshares was about the only result of attempts that were made to break some land. If, however, you can, by the use of extra power, either turn land over for wheat, or prepare it to go into winter in rough, large lumps, the effect is usually good, and the tractor will solve this problem for the farmer.

There are still some discussions about the question 'to plough or not to plough,' as begun by Prof. Faulkner, but most men who make a living by cultivating the soil have more to learn by their own practices than by any other means. We do know that spring ploughing is not a success on most Ontario land, for which reason most farmers are anxious to get their land for spring crops all ploughed in the fall, even though it is late, and only do light cultivation before seeding, so the settling effect of winter may assist in the growth of crops as soon as they are seeded.

The snow has pretty well disappeared from Middlesex County, at the time of writing this, and farmers are fearful for the results on fall wheat and alfalfa fields. The Maritime Provinces have experienced a very mild, fine winter so far, and the people can move about with the greatest convenience.

I HAVE heard of several plans for cleaning the fertilizer distributor of a combine drill, but here is one that would appear to be useful either for cleaning this part of a drill at the end of seeding, or perhaps oftener. After you run out all the chemical fertilizer, it is suggested to pour a pailful or two of sharp sand into the fertilizer box and drive the drill in a lane until the sand is all run out. The man who passed this on says it cleans the distributor most effectively and is dry and clean, in comparison with the plan, often followed, to run used motor oil through that part of the drill, which is apt to be rather messy.

OLD customs die hard, which is often true in England. They have for many, yes, very many, years used a 4-bushel sack for handling grain. Four bushels of wheat means well on to 250 lbs., which takes a bit of wrestling to move. I have read discussions in British farm papers for over thirty years agitating for a 2 bushel sack, but they were of no avail. There never seemed to be demand enough to induce any manufacturer to put out a smaller bag than the 4-bushel one, and very frequently yields of grain were quoted in so many sacks per acre, rather than bushels. The war, however, has greatly increased the demands for jute of which these sacks are made, and it is expected that the number of combines for harvesting grain may be doubled in Britain during 1944, and as sacks are used to collect the grain from combines, the manufacturers claim they will have to be made from lighter material, which, if they contain 4 bushels of wheat, may meet with disaster when dropped off the machines. Consequently, comes the suggestion that the sacks be made only half the usual size, so they would not drop so heavily and be less liable to burst. It is in this way changes are often brought about.

I DON'T suppose many farmers have much of a supply of soot from chimneys or stove-pipes, but whatever you have should be put on the garden where you grow early potatoes. Soot, or flue dust, is a fruitful source of potash, which is good fertilizer for potatoes. It is as well to put it on in winter as the snow and rains will help in washing it into the soil, and there is no danger of deterioration by exposing it to the weather.

BREEDERS of beef cattle will find it profitable to raise all their steer calves. Feeder cattle, rising to two years old, are going to be scarce enough on this continent, and a little later we may find a keen demand in Britain for "store cattle" It is usually better in farming practice to feed out your own cattle for the beef market, but there are conditions under which, if they are a good firm price, it will often pay a farmer to carry more young cattle for the stocker market, which is bound to be good.

THE Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland has made its statement of policy to the suggested program of post-war farming in Britain. With some of these, particularly the first, Canada is very vitally interested. These proposals are set out under five heads, as follows:—

1. The effective regulation of food imports.
2. The control of producers' prices.
3. The regulation of home production and efficiency in the industry itself.
4. The provision of capital equipment.
5. Improved conditoins for the workers.

The first of these proposals has to do, in a very vital way, with the trade in farm products of which this country is a large exporter to Great Britain. Wheat, bacon, cheese, eggs and other foods, we can produce here in greater quantities than we now, under peace conditions, can consume, which makes the marketing of these of great importance to us. The third proposal involving the "regulation of home production" would still further interfere with trade in these foodstuffs, and even a cursory study of these propositions will show how great and complex the difficulties are which we will have to meet in post-war organization.

Britain has greatly increased her production of bread grains during the last three years; will she want to continue this, or turn again to the purchase of hard wheat from the Canadian prairies?

This is only one of the questions which will arise, and I fear that the more regulations we have to contend with in peace times, the more difficult our problems of markets, sales and purchases are going to be.

WHERE'S THE SALMON?

"What lovely salmon!"

"That's not salmon; that's cod blushing at the price they're asking for it."

GETTING CLOSER —By Rube Goldberg

Hurrah For Robin Hood!

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

THE other day this paper ventured the opinion that, despite the theories of a certain learned skeptic, Robin Hood and his merry outlaws of Sherwood Forest were more real than Mr. Pickwick and sundry other worthies of fiction, and that the lads in Lincoln green still lived lustily in the imaginations of countless thousands.

To this The Peterborough Examiner rather scoffingly returned that The Expositor itself was drawing a long bow, in consequence of lyrical enthusiasm. "What would be the result," The Examiner wondered, "if the Gallup Poll sent its spies into our schoolyards and questioned the children on this matter? How many of them ever heard of Robin Hood?"

Now obviously anyone who thus tauntingly throws the gage is asking for a rap on the nob with the quarter-staff. So not many of the present younger generation had heard of bold Robin, Little John, Friar Tuck and Maid Marian, hadn't they? To clarify the case, The Expositor instituted inquiries. These brought forth interesting facts.

First point of call was a book shop, where the director of the children's department gave prompt assurance that volumes dealing with the adventures of Mr. Hood were still in fair and steady demand. Next stop was a magazine rack. Among its popular "comic" booklets were found two devoted to Robin, one in toto, the other in a picturization of Scott's "Ivanhoe."

Then, for final and conclusive evidence, The Expositor sought the kindly offices of Mr. M. D. L. McLellan, Principal of Victoria School, which may be taken as excellently representative of a cross-section of the classroom population of this Telephone City. Mr. McLellan, scrupulously objective, went to two classes of youngsters ranging in age between twelve and fourteen years. Without preamble, coaching or other suggestion, he had blank sheets of paper distributed and asked all the boys and girls to write essays on the question, "Who Was Robin Hood?" The subject, incidentally, is not on the curriculum.

Did that phase the kids? Regard the results! Of thirty-six in a Grade 8 class, thirty-three knew the stories of Robin. In a Grade 7 class, twenty-eight of thirty knew, too. Mr. McLellan forwarded samples from each collection of compositions. They revealed that not only were the youthful writers informed on the outlaw chief but that they were familiar with his reputed ancestry, his friends and his foes, including the thoroughly nasty Sheriff of Nottingham.

So The Expositor's estimate of the knowledge of the boys and girls in this respect appears to have been well sustained. As to the doubts of the learned skeptic aforementioned—also of The Peterborough Examiner — why, a murrain on them, say we!

Culled From Our Contemporaries

The Real Thing

Two critics, in reviewing Maxwell Anderson's "Storm Operation," made sarcastic comments about the British officer's uniform worn by Bramwell Fletcher. They declared it as spectacular, and indicated that it seemed inappropriate. Fletcher's outfit, including trench coat, cap and insignia, belonged to Capt. Haynes, of Britain's Eighth Army who is a friend of Maxwell Anderson. This uniform, re-tailored to fit Fletcher, was worn in the two-year pursuit of Rommel. It was soaked in the waters of the Mediterranean. And the bullet-hole in it is a real one from a bullet fired by one of Rommel's Afrika Korps.—(Leonard Lyons in New York Post.)

Chaos Or The Clean Slate

Affairs in North Africa and now in Italy have not by any means run smoothly but, on the whole, one is less impressed by the difficulties than by the underlying ability of men who were once passionately divided in their interests and outlooks to put together a free, forwardlooking and working social structure. In Algiers and now in such reasonable declarations as that of Marshall Badoglio, there has been a good deal more of the clean slate than of chaos. But the clean slate will only triumph if the Great Powers are strong in the courage of their own liberal and democratic convictions; if they are as able to lay aside outdated fears and unfounded prejudice as are the freed peoples of Europe; if they can face the future, with all its problems, no less boldly than those who have lived for years under the terrible heel of German savagery. — New York Herald Tribune.

About Bengal Famine

The recent serious famine in Bengal, India, has been laid by a number of anti-British commentators, as well as many uninformed friends of Britain, at the door of the British Administration in India and has caused a very unfavorable impression in various quarters

On Sunday, L. S. Amery, the British Secretary of State for India, delivered a speech in York which effectually dispelled that false impression. He explained that the Prime Minister of Bengal had refused to join the premiers of other provinces in working out a plan in 1942 to meet the food shortage after it had become apparent that the Indian rice crop that year would be very small. The Central Government had urged all the provinces to co-operate to tackle the threat of famine, but that threat was averted over the greater parts of western, central and southern India by the foresight and co-operation of the Central and Provincial governments. In this, however, the province of Bengal took no part, the prime minister of that province having declared that Bengal could look after itself.—Montreal Star.

Versatility Of Glass

The necessity of finding substitutes for scarce materials has led to so many new developments in the use of glass that this offspring of sand hardly knows itself now.

Glass foam is pinch-hitting for cork as an insulator and may prove to be superior to cork in life preservers.

Glass sutures are used instead of silk for some surgical work.

Glass that can be sawed and milled like lumber is being developed for use in post-war homes.—New York Herald Tribune.

Police Help Juveniles

London's Police Department is to be congratulated on the establishment of the Police Boys' Club. If this organization is unique in the Dominion, London's "finest" deserve all the more credit, and they will not mind if other cities follow their example.

Two excellent purposes are served by such an institution. Boys who don't belong to Scouts, Cubs or similar organizations are given a chance to ride their hobbies — to take part in hockey games, wrestling, boxing, building model planes and other activities. The boys will have an opportunity to work off any excess of energy along useful, or at least not harmful lines.

But even more valuable is the chance for the boys to see that policemen are not bogeymen, but "regular guys." It is an old and precious British tradition that the policemen should be the friend and protector of the citizen as well as the guardian of law and order. Boys who grow up with friendly relations to the police are hardly likely to develop into enemies of society. —London Free Press.

They Grind Exceedingly Slow

It is a depressing commentary on our system of justice that more than six years after the death of one Joseps Rosen at the hands of that sinister Brooklyn syndicate known as Murder, Inc., there still remain loopholes by which Lepke Buchalter, principal defendant, who was duly convicted with two confreres two years ago and whose final appeal was refused by the Supreme court, may again drag his case through the courts for another year or two. The situation turns on priorities of a Federal sentence and a death sentence imposed in New York for the murder. Date of execution was set by the State Court of Appeals for September of this year. After four months and four requests from the State authorities, the Department of Justice has now relinquished custody of Buchalter on the understanding that if, after clemency hearings, the death sentence is commuted, Buchalter will be returned to Federal sustody to serve out his Federal sentence.—(New York Herald Tribune.)

A Bible Message

Then there came some that told Jehoshaphat, saying, There cometh a great multitude against thee from beyond the sea on this side Syria.... And Jehoshaphat feared, and set himself to seek the Lord, and proclaimed a fast throughout all Judah....

And Jehoshaphat stood in the congregation of Judah and Jerusalem, in the home of the Lord, before the new court, and said, O Lord God of our fathers, are not thou God in heaven? and rulest not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? and in thine hand is there not power and might, so that none is able to withstand thee?....

Then upon Jahaziel the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, came the Spirit of the Lord in the midst of the congregatin; and he said, Hearken ye, all Judah and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and thou king Jehoshaphat. Thus saith the Lord unto you, Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battle is not your's, but God's.... Ye shall not need to fight in this battle: set yourselves, stand ye still, and see the salvation of the Lord with you, O Judah and Jerusalem: fear not, nor be dismayed; to morrow go out against them: for the Lord will be with you. And Jehoshaphat bowed his head with his face to the ground....

And when he had consulted with the people, he appointed singers unto the Lord, and that should praise the beauty of holiness, as they went out before the army, and to say, Praise the Lord; for his mercy endureth for ever. And when they began to sing and to praise, the Lord set ambushments against the children of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir, which were come against Judah; and they were smitten....

And the fear of the Lord was on all the kingdoms of those countries, when they had heard that the Lord fought against the enemies of Israel. So the realm of Jehoshaphat was quiet: for his God gave him rest round about. (II Chron. 20: 2, 3, 5, 6, 14, 15, 17, 18, 21, 22, 29, 30.)

A Complaining Cult

Major Gladstone Murray, whose recent speeches in support of free enterprize goaded E. C. Jolliffe, Ontario leader of the C. C. F. to declare the former CBC manager had been "hired by the Progressive Concervative party to frighten the masses" against C. C. F. Socialism, denied in the course of an address in Toronto on Friday that he was retained or paid by any political party or group. This was a reply, not only to Mr. Jolliffe's unsupported accusation, but also to leader Coldwell's complaint, expressed last month at Red Deer, Alberta, that Major Murray was conducting a campaign to "smear the C. C. F. party."

If these complaints and unfounded charges were eliminated from the speeches of the C. C. F. apostles, and if their routine denunciations of the two historic parties should also be cut out, C. C. F. oratory would surely lose the heft of its substance and volume. —(Sydney Post-Record).

GREAT BLAST DIVERTS LAKE OUTLET—To reach the rich iron ore beds at the bottom of Steep Rock Lake in northwestern Ontario, more than 121,000,000,000 gallons of water had to go "down the drain." So this could be done, 15 tons of dynamite were used to divert water from Marmion Lake, which fed Steep Rock. The first picture (Left) shows Arthur Dyment and Frank Jones of the C. A. Pitt Construction Company, examining the wiring prior to the blast. Maurice F. Massiaen, the firm's mechanical superintendent, touched off the blast (Right) sending heavy logs flying more than a mile and great chunks of rock high into the air. After the 608 cases of dynamite blew, the Marmion Lake outlet was running west instead of southeast.

Spain To Face Showdown Soon

LONDON, Feb. 7 (CP)—A showdown with Spain within two weeks was predicted by some diplomats in London today as the British press called for "strong action" to ensure that General Franco abides by the principles of neutrality.

The next move is up to Franco, the diplomats said.

Madrid dispatches said the Spanish Falange press referred to the stiffening Anglo-American attitude as "threats" against Spain's "neutrality."

Falangist editorials in Spain admitted a crisis had been reached, but did not explain the reasons for it to the people.

The London Observer said "it is being widely suggested that the right thing to do would be to demand from Franco not a diplomatic re-alignment, but release of his prisoners and free elections with the promise to abide by their results. The right sanction in case of refusal would appear to be full moral, political and military support for a Spanish movement of national liberation on the French and Yugoslav model."

Tories Expect Keen Fight In By-Election

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 7—(CP Cable). — Political interest in Britain has shifted from the Brighton by-election. to West Derbyshire, where a youthful marquess is opposing a shoemaker's son in the February 17 by-election in that Conservative seat.

The close call of the Brighton victor, Flt.-Lt. William Teeling, Conservative, who defeated Bruce Briant, Independent, by 14,594 to 12,636 votes in a constituency that normally returned huge Conservative majorities, worries party chiefs. As a result, the Conservative machine will wage a stiffer campaign in West Derbyshire, with some Cabinet Ministers possibly taking part.

The 26-year-old Marquess of Hartington, a captain in the Coldstream Guards, heir to the Duke of Devonshire and future head of the Cavendish family, is the Conservative candidate seeking to retain the West Derbyshire seat held almost without a break by members of his family for 300 years.

Hartington is opposed by 52-year-old Alderman Charles White, Independent Socialist candidate with a long experience in local government and a solid knowledge of farming. His shoemaker father wrested the seat from the Cavendish family in 1918 and held it until he died two days before election day in 1923.

The February 17 by-election was necessitated by the resignation of Col. Henry Hunloke, Hartington's uncle. The infant Commonwealth party, which has won two by-elections, is supporting White.

Under the wartime political truce, whereby the parties in the National Government do not contest a seat held by one of them if it becomes vacant, the Labor and Liberal parties did not name a candidate.

There are four other by-elections pending. In the Conservative seat of Bury St. Edmunds, an Independent candidate is opposing the Conservative. The other seats—Kirkcaldy in Scotland and North Camberwell and Clay Cross in England—are held by Labor. There has yet been no indication whether the Labor candidate will be opposed.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Just eight years ago today Canada's Olympic hockey team at the Garmisch - Partenkirchen winter games overwhelmed Latvia 11-0 in a preliminary round match and the boys from the Dominion appeared headed for another Olympic title. However, the final saw England score a 2-1 surprise victory to give the Canucks their first Olympic hockey defeat.

Toupin paced the attack with two goals.

Ollie Forget, Demers, Bill Whittet and Amo Bessonne accounted for the other four goals, while Prete and Gracie were getting the two Pittsburgh counters.

In the Caps-Bears draw last night Alex Ritson of Indianapolis scored first in the opening period. Bill Hudson tallied for Hershey in the second and each team added a counter in the final. Bill Thompson scored for Caps and Fred Hergert for Bears.

High Scores In Challenge Game

With two victories to their credit and one defeat chalked up against them Jay's bowlers are not doing too badly for themselves in the weekly challenge business they started at Duffus Alleys. They got over a rough spot on Saturday when they met and defeated the powerful Cleanrites by 97 pins in a match where breaks of the toughest kind stopped both outfits from running up record scores. Jay's chalked up a good 3657 while Cleanrites hit 3560 in furnishing all the competition any team could possibly ask for.

Fred Martin had a great day, as he picked off everything in front of him for a 907 count. Bud Goodson rolled 805 while Bud Weese came through with 803, which gives him around a 280 average for nine games in these events.

The opposition for Jay's next Saturday will be a C.G.E. team captained by Fred Willison.

Baseball Players Get Protection

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. — (AP).— Baseball's national defence list players, numbering more than 3,500, can thank the Major-Minor League planning committee for safeguarding their interests with an apparently fool-proof plan for re-assignment.

The committee yesterday popped up with several recommendations based on the theory that the servicemen players will be regarded in baseball law as if they had been in the game for the duration.

As approximately 88 per cent. of the men concerned are on minor league lists, the bulk of the proposals concern steps by which those returning to the game will be assured of a fair trial with their own clubs or one of equal rank and be protected against indiscriminate shufling around from Class AA to D.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Despite mild weather and soft ice the Public School Hockey League managed to stage its weekly triple-header at the C.G.E. Rink Saturday morning bringing the playoff series one stage closer. The three leading teams, King George, King Edward and Prince of Wales, all came home in front and it is practically assured that the finals will be between King George and either King Edward or the Prince of Wales. The King George team had no trouble handling Central in the first game on the Saturday card winning in hollow fashion by 11 goals to 1. King Edward, however, ran into much tougher opposition in their battle with Queen Alexandra in the second fixture and it was much the best game of the day. King Edward finally emerged in front 3 to 1 but the north-enders gave the boys from the south a keen fight for the honors. Prince of Wales fired six goals in the final game and held the Queen Mary team without a score. As a result of Saturday's games the King George team is in front with eight points, King Edward second with six, Prince of Wales third with five, Queen Alexandra with two, Central with one and finally Queen Mary without a point.

Toronto Maple Leafs were on even terms with the Detroit Red Wings for second place in the N.H.L. race for 24 hours following Saturday night's game in Toronto but Jack Adams' team bounced back with a victory over the Daymen in Detroit Sunday and took over sole possession of second slot again. The two staged two close battles, the Leafs coming from behind at home to win 3 to 1 and the Red Wings reversing the process in Detroit to score three goals in the final period and nose out the Toronto gang 3 to 2. Canadiens, showing no signs of easing up, shot down the Black Hawks in Montreal Saturday night 6 to 1. The week-end was not quite a dead loss for the New York Rangers for they managed to hold the Black Hawks to a 4-4 tie in New York Sunday night. Chicago nearly were beaten in that battle for they had to come up with two goals in the final period to sew up the game.

An Ambitious Program

One Ontario city which recognizes that the sport situation needs attention and is doing something about it is Kitchener. Like Peterborough, Kitchener is suffering from lack of rink accommodation and one of the projects that is to come as part of the post-war program will be the erection of a modern arena. But the Kitchener city council, supplying leadership in a field in which municipal governments rarely have ventured, is launching out on a drive to encourage and foster the formation of a Kitchener Athletic Association that will take charge of eleven different sports. A five-man committee of the council was appointed some time ago to investigate the feasibility of all sport operating under the one head and already considerable progress has been made. At a recent meeting the sport field was reviewed and it was decided that such activities as golf, lawn bowling, field and track, curling, badminton, volleyball, skiing and alley bowling are sports which are well established at present or are not the type in which anything very tangible could be done for the minors.

* * * * * *

However the Kitchener council feels that there is good work to be done in supporting such sports as hockey, baseball and softball. The encouragement of those games is to be continued, with softball to be enlarged to take care of girls between the ages of 12 and 18 years and to the three will be added soccer, rugby, lacrosse and basketball. Assistance will also be lent to organizations interested in tennis, swimming and canoe racing. In addition an effort will be made to revive horse shoe pitching for the older men of the city. Fundamentally the Kitchener movement is on sound ground and it is being launched at a particularly opportune movement when none of the major sports is making money. That was the difficulty experienced in Peterborough years ago when the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association was organized on lines similar to those being followed in Kitchener. Baseball and hockey were drawing big gates then and naturally the officers and players were opposed to seeing the mone, they pulled in at the box office used to foster other sports that were not self-supporting. There is a different viewpoint when sport generally is experiencing less prosperous times.

Want A Sport Centre

Belleville is another town in which the question of better sport facilities is to the fore. Ken Colling contributes the following to the discussion on the subject in his sport column: "In the press account of the inaugural meeting of the Parks Commission in yesterday's issue there was some mention of a proposed civic recreation centre of park. Mayor Rollins informed the members of the Parks Commission that such a program was being considered by the local Post-War Planning committee. Some years ago a committee was set up here known as the Belleville Beaches Association. Plans for a mammoth recreation centre and pleasure park were drafted and blue prints passed around the city. The program was doubtless a splendid one, but what's happened to the Beaches? What this city needs is a central recreation centre to house practically all sports, even to a curling rink, and the site set down by the Beaches Association along the city waterfront is the most ideal, regardless of opinions relative to the marshes, etc."

* * * * * *

"Out in Peterborough plans are completed for a new hockey rink and a sports centre that will take care of lacrosse, softball and other games of civic interest and pride," continues the Belleville sports scribe. "But what of Belleville? True enough we have the Exhibition Park, but with the Fair coming around each year at playoff time in the fall and other drawbacks this park is not adequate for what is actually needed after the war. Namely a civic sports and recreation centre situated in the most central position possible. While other cities throughout the Province of

Army Leaders Laud Baseball

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 —(AP) — Baseball glowed with added self-esteem to-day after robust verbal pats on the back received at 21st annual dinner of the New York baseball writers last night.

The serious note of the dinner was found in the utterances and communications of such esteemed citizens as Lt.- Gen. Brehon Somervel, Lt.-Col. Larry S. Macphail, Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, and baseball's own old man of the mountain—Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Gen. Somervell, scheduled as a leading speaker, was unable to attend, but he voiced his sentiments in a telegram read by Col. MacPhail in which the general urged baseball to help in the maintenance of morale both at home and among our troops.

"In the winning of the war," the telegram read in part, 'it has been said that the successes of the British army can be traced to the cricket fields of Eton, and I say that the sandlots and big league ball parks of America have contributed their share to our military success. Nearly 70 per cent of all major league players at the time of Pearl Harbour are wearing the uniform to-day and giving a splendid account of themselves."

Commissioner Landis reiterated his statement of a year ago that baseball would continue as long as teams made up of players subject to the same war-time responsibilities as 130,000,000 other Americans could be put on the field. Baseball asks no special deferments or exemptions, he said.

Joe Carveth Daddy Of Twins

DETROIT, Feb. 7—"This should qualify me for the Hall of Fame," said Rightwinger Joe Carveth of the Detroit Red Wings.

It was during the rest period between the first and second periods of Saturday night's Leafs-Detroit N.H.L. game at Maple Leaf Gardens.

A telegram from Detroit to Manager Jack Adams brought the news that Carveth had become the father of twin girls early Saturday evening.

"I guess," said Carveth, after breaking away from back-slapping, rib-thumping teammates, "I'm the first National League player ever to become father of twins."

In anticipation of the blessed event, Carveth had delayed his trip to Toronto. He arrived Saturday afternoon. Earlier he had asked Adams' permission to remain in Detroit to prepare for the stork. The Carveths now have a three-daughter establishment. They have a 22-months-old daughter.

Carveth is a Shaunavon, Sask., boy. His wife, the former Betty Jane Henning is a Detroit girl.

MILE THREAT — By Jack Sords

By The Canadian Press

Gil Dodds, Boston Divinity student who trailed Gunder Haegg of Sweden in a number of races last summer, held off Bill Hulse, holder of the U.S. 4:06 record for the mile, in a thrilling finish to win the Wanamaker mile of the Millrose games Saturday night at Madison Square Garden before 16,000 track and field fans. Dodds covered the distance in 4:10.6. Johnny Fulton of the San Francisco Olympic Club captured the Mel Sheppard 600-yard run in 1:12.1 after a duel with Bob Ufer of Michigan.

The University of Michigan team, comprising Ross and Robert Hume, twin brothers, John Roxborough and Richard Barnard, ran off with the two-mile relay in 7:53.4, while the mile relay resulted in a 3:04.6 victory for the New York University quartette which includes another set of twins, Stanton and Maurice Calleider. The high jump went to Bill Vessie of Dartmouth, who threw himself over the bar at 6 feet 6 inches.

It required only 25 minutes at New

Charlie Watson Heads Golfers

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—The Ontario Golf Association elected Charlie Watson, popular Toronto sportsman, as its 1944 president at the annual meeting held Saturday in the Royal York Hotel. Mr. Watson succeeds C. M. Jones.

The meeting decided that four tournaments, at least, will be carried on this season, including the combined Ontario open and amateur; the Parent and Child; the Ontario junior and the Ontario senior.

It was felt that every effort should be made to foster the game and the four tournaments should be held, providing no new obstacles in the way of transportation or war production needs are created.

Following is the complete slate of new officers elected: President, Charles S. Watson, Royal York Golf Club, Toronto; first vice-president, Frank R. Cochran, Toronto Golf Club; second vice-president, John S. Lewis, Brantford Golf and Country Club. New directors: G. Murray Bailey, Royal York Golf Club, Toronto; W. Howard Batten, Lambton Golf Club, Toronto; N. R. Barratt, Cherry Hills Club, Fort Erie; J. W. McPhillips, London Hunt and Country Club.

Syndicate May Buy Brooklyn Dodgers

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP).—The New York Journal-American said to-day favorable action was expected within 48 hours of an offer that would transfer control of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club to a syndicate of New York business men.

The paper said the head of the syndicate, Max Mayer, was to confer to-day with George V. McLaughlin, president of the Brooklyn Trust Company, which has controlled the Dodgers for the last decade.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—(CP).—Selection of names for hockey's hall of fame has been wisely placed in capable hands. The Board of Governors is composed largely of men of long experience. Governors are Lester Patrick, Red Dutton, Art Ross, Frank Sargent, W. A. Hewitt, J. P. Fitzgerald, Toronto, Wes McKnight, Toronto, Abbie Coo, Winnipeg, and Baz O'Meara, Montreal. Patrick and Ross need no introduction—men with probably more hockey experience than any others. Fitzgerald, O'Meara and Coo are newspapermen with experience in sport dating back nearly to the turn of the century. Hewitt is a former newspaperman of similar experience. McKnight is a student of hockey history. Dutton and Sargent represent the two great hockey organizations, the N.H.L. and C.A.H.A.

Bill Gaynor of the Niagara Falls Review comments: "Hockey hall of fame heads can benefit by the mistakes of their baseball brethren who erred badly in not giving more consideration to outstanding diamond figures of other days when electing candidates for their Cooperstown, N. Y., dream spot.

"The selection of immortals was left to a committee of sport writers, the majority of whom knew very little about the greats of earlier ball years."

This corner agrees great names of an earlier era should be considered first—men like Tommy Phillips, Hod Stuart, Cyclone Taylor, Dan Bain.

Not many still interested in sport remember Phillips, Stuart, Bain or player of their era. Baz O'Meara suggests interested fans should write to one of the governors and adds: "Their views will be accorded respectful attention."

Incidentally:

Winnipeg reports indicate Manitoba is unlikely to enter inter-provincial men's basketball this year... The Ontario Minor Hockey Association already has 113 entries this season, breaking the former record of 112....With the rink in Laura, Ont., used to store wool, Harold Dunk, long-time promoter of sport among youngsters, has built an outdoor rink on his own to make sure the Laura children have a place to play....Jimmy Freeman, Canadian bantam boxing champion 40 years ago, now operates a hotel in St. Boniface, Man., and in his spare time is a volunteer boxing coach at an infantry training centre. "A boxer will beat a non-boxer just as easily in a bayonet scrap as he would in the ring," says Jimmy.

Canadiens Set Record For Games Won

By the Canadian Press

National Hockey League standings were unchanged to-day after a crowded week-end program which saw Montreal Canadiens establish a league record of 18 home games without defeat.

Some cold water was spilled on the sizzling streaks of Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks, Chicago gaining only one point in two engagements while Detroit broke even in a double date with Toronto Maple Leafs, losing 3-1 at Toronto Saturday and winning 3-2 at home on a three-goal, third-period rally.

The result was that Detroit remained in second place two points ahead of Leafs. Chicago dropped a point to slip a game and a half behind Leafs but retained a two-point edge on the fifth-place Boston Bruins, who snapped a seven-game losing streak by trouncing New York Rangers 7-2 at Boston Saturday. Rangers came back Sunday to tie Chicago 4-4 and crack their five-game slump.

At Montreal Saturday, Canadiens went to the front early on a goal by Toe Blake, back after a long idleness through injuries. Murph Chamberlain, Maurice Richard and Gerry Heffernan tallied before Art Wiebe golfed a long one for Chicago's lone score. Ray Getliffe and and Richard added the remaining Montreal goals as the Habitants stretched their league lead to 7½ games. The final score was 6-1.

Leafs Beat Wings

The Detroit-Toronto series saw the team which scored the first goal wind up on the short end of the score. Syd Howe sent Detroit into the lead at Toronto, but goals by Reg Hamilton, Babe Pratt and Windy O'Neill gave Leafs an upset triumph—their second in seven games against Detroit.

Jackie Hamilton opened the scoring for Leafs at Detroit, then Wings took over as Howe, Joe Carveth and Mud Bruneteau fired third-period salutes. Don Webster, carried off with a minor injury late in the game, scored the other Toronto goal. Howe's goal was his eighth in three games and his 209th in N.H.L. competition. Carveth, whose wife Saturday night presented him with twin daughters, celebrated by scoring on a 55-foot screened shot.

At Boston, two third-period goals by Russ Kopak paced the crippled Bruins, who faced an opponent equally smitten (Rangers dressed only 11 regulars). Bep Guidolin, Clarence Schmidt, Al Palazarri, Herb Cain and Norm Calladine also counted for Bruins while Johnny Mahaffy and Ab Demarco scored for Rangers.

At New York Sunday the Rangers suddenly organized an attack good for three goals in four minutes and 33 second and a 4-2 lead, but two scores by Doug Bentley gave Chicago the deadlock. Bill Mosienko and Fido Purpur also scored for Chicago. Bucko McDonald, Kilby Macdonald, Bryan Hextall and Ossie Aubuchon were New York marksmen.

St. Kitts' Team Forges Into Lead

By The Canadian Press.

The Saints of St. Catharines rose to a one point lead in the Senior O. H. A. standing once more with a 5-3 victory on home ice Saturday night over the second place Hamilton Majors.

It was St. Kitts all the way, leading 3-0 in the first period, 4-1 in the second and 5-1 well into the final chapter when Doug Runions and Johnny Conick added one each for Majors Setting the scoring pace for the winners was Paul Mundrick who gathered three goals, Blink Bellinger and Mason getting the others. Runions, for Hamilton, scored two, one each in the second and third periods.

Oshawa Generals, leaders in group 1 of the Junior "A" series, administered a 7-5 setback to St. Catharines Falcons at Oshawa, but the visitors still retained leadership in group 2 with a two-point margin over Galt Kists. Johnny Chenier, with three goals, and Bill Ezinicki with two, headed the scoring for Generals while Pete Long registered two of the Falcon's counters, Peterson, Phillips and Marecki dividing the rest.

McSpaden Ties Byron Nelson

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 7—(AP)—The chips were down when Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia reached the 16th green yesterday in the afternoon round of the Phoenix open golf tournament finals.

It was there someone told him that Byron Nelson had finished the 72 holes of play with a-273, nine under par, and appeared to be the winner. That meant McSpaden would have to birdie the last two holes to gain a tie.

With the pressure on, he rammed down a 40-foot putt from the edge of the 17th green, then dropped a six-footer on the 18th for the birdies which delayed first prize presentation.

They will tee off late today in an 18-hole playoff for the first prize of a $1,000 war bond. The loser will receive a $750 bond.

Race Official Dies

MIAMI, Fla. —(AP) — Widely known as a racing secretary, Robert S. Shelley, 43, died suddenly of a heart attack here yesterday. He was officiating for Tropical Park and Narragansett Park and previously had served at Chicago and Havana tracks.

Longer Bout Should End The Feud

Ninety minutes (or less) of wrestling will be the time limit when Whipper Billy Watson essays the decisive defeat of Krippler Karl Davis here on Tuesday night. Watson and Davis have had two wild scrambles here before and on both occasions the sixty-minute time limit cut short the definite triumph of either man. Now, under the extended hour and a half arrangement, it is expected that either one or the other of these hard-driving big fellows will come out the master. When the bell rang in their last bout Watson had been putting on his famous Commando hold with terrific pressure and had the tall Texan out on his feet. In fact it was several minutes before Davis was able to leave the ring and one of his statement as he limped up the dressing-room stairs was: "If I ever get my hands on that bird again, he'll be too busy to even think of the word commando."

Be that as it may, the fans here are well-satisfied that the good-looking Watson is just the boy to take some of the conceit out of the Texas Terror. One thing about the popular Whip, he has never been known to back up and if big Davis thinks the match is going to be any walk-over he's due for a shock.

Adding to the interest in this mat program will be the first appearance here of the great Frank Sexton, Pacific Coast heavyweight champion and one of the very best. Sexton is one of the outstanding wrestlers the United States has produced and he goes up against rugged opposition here Tuesday night in the powerful person of Roughhouse Dick Hogan. Coming back with an eye to recovering lost ground here, Bunny Dunlop meets Jack LaRue in the opener.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP) — If Bob Carpenter still is looking for a new emblem for the Phillies, how about borrowing the statue of Billy Penn from atop Philadelphia's City Hall? . . . It would provide a new nickname, too, the Penns—dipped in red ink.

Monday Matinee:

If the Braves want Gabby Hartnett as manager, they can have him without much argument but the Yanks said nothing doing when Bob Quinn asked permission to dicker with Bill Dickey. Since Rollie Hemsley apparently intends to stay on his farm, Bill is the club's only experienced catcher . . . No responsible racing authority in New York, including the Jockey Club, knows anything about the rumor that Don Meade will be granted a Jockey's license here this spring.

They Keep the Home Firing.

When nine kids from the Fort Worth, Texas, Masonic home entered a boxing tournament, someone asked the reason for this sudden interest in boxing at that football-minded institution . . . "Somebody gave us a set of boxing gloves for Christmas," one of the boys explained, "and we've been trying to wear them out."

2,000 Bombers Sent Via Alaska

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Russia has received, under lease-lend, more than 2,000 attack bombers of the A-20 Havoc type, the Douglas Aircraft Co. announced yesterday.

Present ouptut of the Havoc series, in large-scale production since October, 1939, has reached "its most accelerated pace," said Vice-President John M. Rogers, adding:

"Scores of bombers are still going to Russia, largely through the Alaskan gateway."

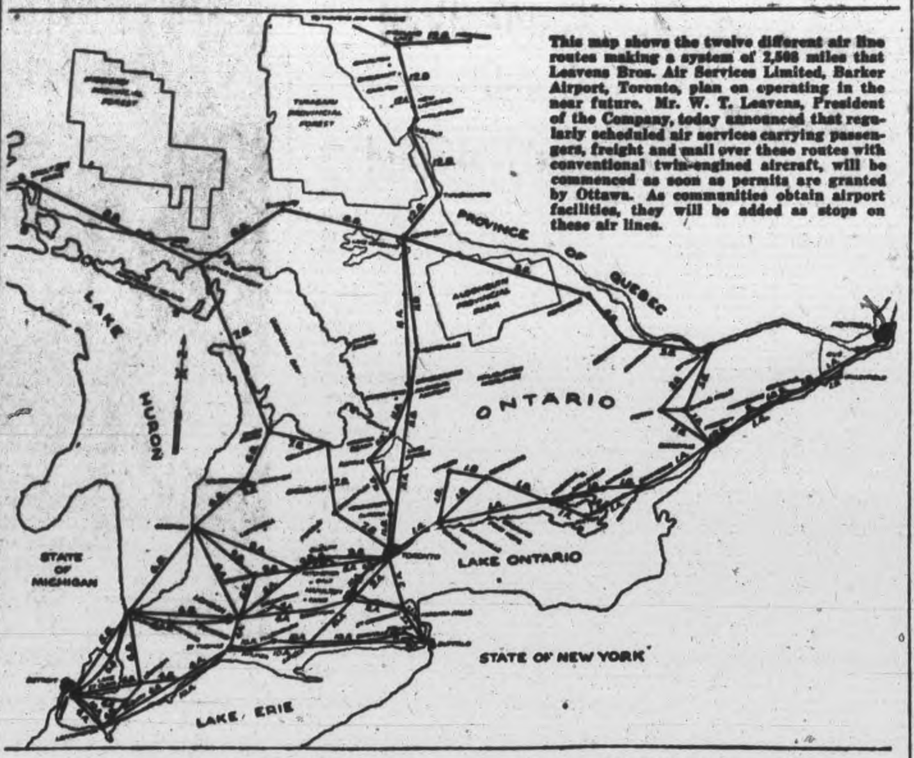
Some of the A-20 models, he said, are equipped with four 20-millimetre cannon and five 50-calibre guns.

The existence of the "Alaskan gateway" was disclosed officially last November, when the United States Under-Secretary of War, Robert Patterson, testifying before a Congressional committee investigating the Canol project, told incidentally of this "short Arctic route to Russia."

He said that planes were flown to Fairbanks, Alaska, and "there delivered and "are still being delivered in undiminishing numbers."

Snowball Fight

HULL, Que., Feb. 7 (CP)—Police fired several shots into the air yesterday before subduing 40 sailors who bombarded patrons leaving a local hotel (Standishall) at closing time with snowballs after snowballing street lights along the Aylmer road. Eleven of the men were arrested charged with resisting arrest and interfering with police officers in the performance of their duty.



This map shows the twelve different air line routes making a system of 2,508 miles that Leavens Bros. Air Services Limited, Barker Airport, Toronto, plan on operating in the near future. Mr. W. T. Leavens, President of the Company, today announced that regularly scheduled air services carrying passengers, freight and mail over these routes with conventional twin-engined aircraft, will be commenced as soon as permits are granted by Ottawa. As communities obtain airport facilities, they will be added as stops on these air lines.

LINKING UP ONTARIO—Plans to hook up Ontario and Quebec in 12 airline routes are being completed. This system will result in air services being provided to practically every main community in Ontario. The numbered heavy lines on the map show the routes of the proposed airlines and all the cities and towns marked on this map are stops that will be made by the aircraft on scheduled flights.

12 Air Routes Planned To Cover 2,508 Miles

Twelve air line routes in Ontario and part of Quebec covering a route distance of 2,508 miles, which will connect more than 50 communities at present without scheduled air line services, have been applied for by Leavens Bros. to the Controller of Civil Aviation at Ottawa.

The system planned is composed of 12 routes which will result in air services being provided to practically every main community in Ontario and part of Quebec. The system as planned completely blankets Southern Ontario and extends as far north as Cochrane and east to Montreal.

The Department of Transport at Ottawa was first contacted last summer in connection with these applications and negotiations and research have been going on since that time.

Use Toronto As Base

The network as planned, is hinged on Toronto as the operating base. using the Island Airport because of its proximity to downtown Toronto. In addition to providing regular service for all the communities on the map, it will act as a "Feeder" services for Trans-Canada and other air lines.

Air services will thus be made made available to dozens of communities not having such services at the present time. These services will encourage and develop tourist traffic to the many vacation spots in Ontario. It is believed that such services will be very attractive to American citizens wishing to enjoy the recreation facilities of the two provinces. Distance and time have been some of the problems of many fine vacation resorts in Ontario and Quebec. The new air service will permit week-end trips to spots that in the past have required more time than many people could afford to spend.

Those routes shown on the map marked "A" are the ones which can be operated immediately and those marked "B" can be operated as airport facilities become available. It is said that communities with a population of from five to 20 thousand do not require large expensive airports. Two or three sod runways, level and well drained and measuring approximately three thousand feet in length, would be ideal. It would result in giving the community its proper place on the post war air map. Low cost hangars and waiting rooms could be constructed on such fields.

Those interested in civil aviation, are urged to make plans now, to provide employment for the thousands of young men now on active service, in the Royal Canadian Air Force. The system of air lines planned will be important to the economic structure of the country and that it will absorb a good many of the skilled, experienced men returning from overseas.

activities in the Bloc last October because of their disagreement with Mr. Raymond regarding the "sincerity" of another Bloc follower, Edouard Lacroix, member of parliament for Beauce.

Mr. Chaloult last night could not say whether he was a member of the Bloc and would not comment further.

Except for the opening and closing meetings, all meetings were closed to the press. Copies of "unanimously" adopted resolutions were handed newsmen.

Those resolutions brought no change in the Federal and Provincial programs of the Bloc as outlined by Mr. Raymond in two radio addresses last October. They simply enlarged or emphasized some points of the programs.

The Party wants to do away with any ties linking Canada to the British Commonwealth, favoring Canada's immediate entry into the Pan-American Union as a more "natural" and "logical" association of nations for Canada to join than the Commonwealth.

The Party will ask for Canada's absolute "independence" immediately after the cessation of hostilities.

The Party wants "absolute" respect of Provincial autonomy within the provisions of the British North America Act of 1867. Bloc partisans also include in their program "actual as well as theoretical equality" between the two main racial groups, restricted and selected immigration not serving exclusively British interests.

The Bloc expressed its opposition to any Federal plan of social security and health-insurance favoring Provincial plans.

All the way through the convention attacks were made upon the "old parties."

Dnieper area had achieved within a week a potential bag of 175,000 German troops in a carefully-coordinated series of blows foreshadowing the liberation of all southern Russia.

In a four-day period, Moscow said, tank-supported Soviet infantrymen, aided by low-flying planes, rolled over the bodies of 12,000 Germans, captured 2,000 more and routed seven German divisions which abandoned thousands of trucks, guns, tanks and other equipment.

Seizure of Apostolovo, 34 miles west of Nikopol, cut the German rail escape route and late Moscow dispatches said it was unlikely that the Germans could escape in any large numbers.

In the north the Russians sped on in Estonia, hurling the Germans across the Narova river and south of Narva, eight miles inside Estonia.

In pre-war Poland, 430 miles west of the new Dnieper Bend triumph, other Red Armies rolled across the plains to take Mizoch, only 55 miles from the vital Odessa-Warsaw railway lifeline of all Germany's shattered Dnieper Bend forces.

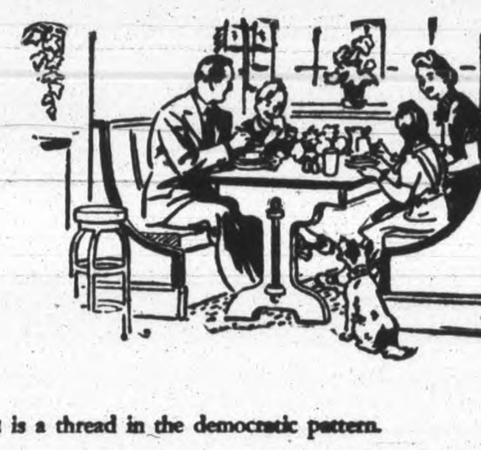
The Pattern of Democracy



YOUR WHOLE LIFE is a thread in the democratic pattern.

You have seen the design sturdily woven out of the common aims and joys and cares of the common man and his loved ones.

You have seen it made secure by the co-operation of liberty-loving people who labour and save and fight for their own protection and peace of mind.

IN YOUR LIFETIME, too, you have seen the strong pattern of life insurance spring from the same close interweaving of individual interests for the common good.

The people have built it for the people. And the government, expressing the will of the whole people, supervises it in the common interest.

THE GREAT AIM and end of democracy is to produce equal opportunities for all.

And in life insurance this aim is realized.

Every owner of life insurance shares with every other the unfailing protection which their pooled savings provide.

By no other method can the small policyholder and the large enjoy the immediate peace of mind which comes to those who plan their own future according to their own means.

It is good citizenship to own

Air Raids On Wales To Be Described

At the Lyceum Hall on Simcoe stret, Rev. F. C. Poole of Montreal, will speak on his experiences during the German air raids on Wales. Prior to his coming to Canada in 1941 Mr. Poole was in charge of The Apostolic Church in Newport (Mon), South Wales, and resided there with his family during the heavy raids of the summer of 1940 and the early winter of 1940-1941. He travelled to many of the other 'blitzed' coastal towns and will speak of remarkable experiences of God's protection during months of long nights spent in an 'Anderson Shelter' which frequently shook with the impact of falling bombs, land mines, etc.; and of church services which 'carried on' even while raids were actually in progress. Mr. Poole was privileged to be a visitor in the British House of Commons on that memorable occasion when the late Mr. Chamberlain returned with the 'peace pact' from Germany, and listened to Mr. Churchill as a 'back-bencher' make his sarcastic remarks about Germany's proposed peace.

The meeting should be of public interest and A.R.P. members are especially invited.

Doctor Purchases $480 In Stamps

The second week of the Food Industry's campaign to arise in Peterborough $26,000 in War Savings Stamps begins to-day with a story from Roy Taylor, in charge of publicity, that indicates a way of helping the grocers and meat men and all the others to reach their objective.

A local doctor has been investing a certain amount of money each week in War Savings Certificates, helping himself in a good investment and also helping the country by buying the War Savings Certificates. "He did damage to the other car amounting to $50 and damaged his own about $25," the officer stated.

"The accident happened because he was driving too fast," commented the magistrate and the officer agreed that that was the case.

Would Cut Taxes

TORONTO, Feb. 7—(CP)—Dr. R. C. Excessive taxation would curtail exploration and make unprofitable the mining of lower grade ores, he said in an address.

School Children Send $10 For War Victims

When children do anything that is to their credit, every encouragement should be given them, for they are quick to respond to the natural incentive that is thus offered, which in reality does more to spur them on to greater efforts than any other form of teaching can offer.

In the work of assisting those who have suffered from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, a notable work has been done by the school children of both the city and county, much of which can of course be ascribed to the leadership and co-operation of the teachers, many of whom undoubtedly realize the potential power for good that lies in their giving the best they can in this direction, not only for present-day needs, but also for the stability of character it helps the children to acquire, which will stand them in such good stead in later life.

In this the schools in the rural districts have played a full share since the fund started, and it is quite apparent that they still keep on at doing it, for since the beginning of this year, no less than nine different schools in the county have sent in contributions to the fund, three of these coming from Smith township, two from Asphodel, two from Otonabee, and one each from Douro and Dummer townships.

The latest of these to report comes from the senior and junior rooms of the school at Young's Point, where the Misses Mureitta Jory and Olive Neill are the teachers, who are credited in today's list with a contribution of $10, which was expressly stated as coming from the pupils, who in later life will probably get far more out of this act, than the actual value of the money given would seem to make possible.

Loves Memory Honored.

One year ago at this time, a contribution was given to honor the memory of a father who had passed to the life eternal, and today his memory is again honored in a similar way by a contribution given "In Loving Memory of Dad, S.J.R.," which will go on its mission of mercy, and thus keep an affectionate memory of his days on this earth, by doing good for others in his name.

To have an only son serving in the active forces is in itself a good contribution to the war effort, but like a great many others so situated, Herb Doig still realizes he has a responsibility in other ways, all of which explains why on quite a number of occasions his personal contribution has appeared in this column, the one listed today being the third one within the space of three weeks time.

Recital This Tuesday.

This Tuesday, February 8, patrons of the fine arts are to have an opportunity to give a helping hand to the fund, through a recital of songs to be given by the pupils of Mrs. R. Williamson in the recreation room at the Y.W.C.A. which will commence at 8.30 p.m. An admission fee of 25 cents is being charged, net proceeds of which will come to the fund, and thus enhances the value that those attending will secure from their expenditure, since it will help provide clothing, food and shelter for those who have suffered the loss of their homes through air raids over Britain.

Born At Keene Woman Nears 100th Birthday

TORONTO, Feb. 7. —(C P) — "Things have changed, but people are still very much as they used to be." That is the opinion of Mrs. James H. Campbell, who is 100 this month. With a certain amount of quiet pride in her achievement, she glanced backward briefly and decided she still preferred to face the future.

"I'm still planning," she said, "and then I remember how old I am and it doesn't seem possible." But she is thinking of her 101st anniversary already.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. E. Rathbone, Kingsway Cres., Mrs. Campbell takes an active interest in world affairs. She believes that may be why she is still in such good health.

She has no recipe for longevity, but confesses to a liking for apples and porridge. "And hard work," added Mrs. Rathbone. 'She has worked hard all her life."

At 70, Mrs. Campbell was managing a hospital in Havelock under Dr. J. Holdcroft. "Even then, she used to be the best at keeping the patients happy. That's another thing, she has always had a sense of humor," Mrs. Rathbone said.

Born at her parents' farm at Keene, near Peterboro, Mrs. Campbell lived in Peterboro county until she came to Toronto 15 years ago. A little deaf now, "she is not cut off as so many are," Mrs. Rathbone said. "She knows everything that is going on and is interested in everything."

Kennedy Given Two Months

Two months in the county jail was the sentence imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning upon Clarence Kennedy, Paris Junction dairy farmer, who had pleaded guilty a week ago to receiving a quantity of goods stolen last September from several cottages on Crowe River.

Kennedy, whose record showed a term in the Kingston Penitentiary for theft, asked the court for leniency. He had received word, he said, that his wife was in destitute circumstances, and he also added that there was a job open that he thought he could get if he were at liberty.

The men accused of stealing the goods Kennedy pleaded guilty to receiving have not yet been arraigned.

Magistrate Langley in making the punishment two month in jail dated back the sentence to commence on January 24 when Kennedy first appeared in police court here.

Keeping Feet Warm Is Urged In Cold Weather

Keeping your feet warm helps avoid more colds and kidney troubles than almost any other safeguard. If you are anaemic or have poor circulation, cold feet will trouble you regularly in cold weather; and many people suffer from cold feet because of tight shoes, shoes with thin soles or drafts about their feet while working during the winter.

It is unwise to go to bed with cold feet. Authorities often recommend mustard foot baths made with pure mustard and moderately hot water to provide foot warmth. In preparing mustard foot baths, mix a tablespoonful of pure mustard to a paste with cold water and add it to the bath water.

Salvage Drive Planned To Open Feb. 14

Between February 14 and February 29 initial collections of scrap paper, rags, and metals will be made in the city as part of the nationwide drive to gather in the needed salvage for the furtherance of Canada's war effort. Increasing demand for these salvage materials has led to a revival of concerted efforts in the city to plan a campaign which will bring in scrap articles on a far larger scale than heretofore, and the local collection is being handled by a committee representing auxiliaries of the Peterborough War Services. Proceeds from the sale of the scrap will go to the purchase of comforts for Peterborough district soldiers, sailors, airmen and men of the merchant marine.

Pickups are to be made on separate days in different parts of the city, and householders and merchants are asked to co-operate by having their salvage out early and ready for the truck when it comes to their particular part of the town. The dates that have been arranged and the areas to be covered by the salvage truck on the day in question are given as follows:

February 14—Charlotte Street to Parkhill Road west of Reid Street to city limits.

February 16—Charlotte Street, north to Parkhill Road and east of Reid to Water Streets (does not include George Street business section).

February 18 — East City, and north to Auburn Sunday School, including Wartime Houses.

February 21 — South of Charlotte Street to Lansdowne, west of Park to Highway, including Wartime Houses.

February 23—South of Charlotte Street to Lansdowne, east of Park to River, including Crescent and Haggart Streets.

February 25 — South of Lansdowne to River, west to Monaghan Road.

February 28—North of Parkhill Road from Wartime Houses to the River.

February 29 — Business section, George Street business section and Hatton Property Wartime Houses.

In the case of the business section permission has been received for merchants to deposit their salvage collections on the George Street curbs.

Six simple rules guiding householders in the selection of materials suitable for the purposes of the drive and telling how such materials should be prepared for the pickups are contained in cards of instructions which will be distributed by the Civilian Defence Committee throughout the city. They are: Tie newspapers up in bundles; break down cardboard cartons and tie them in bundles; magazines must be tied up in bundles; rags should be tied in bundles, sacks or cartons; metals can be piled loose ... waxed, greased or cellophane ... per, no rubber of any description, and no bones or bottles are collected in this drive.

Grease colections can be arranged for by calling 3044.

After the ceremony, a dinner was served to the immediate families and friends, and then the young couple left on a wedding trip to Orillia, Barrie and points west.

THE FABRIC HAT—The fabric hat used to receive most attention between seasons when it bridged the gap between heavy felts, furs or velvets and light felts and straws. But now the fabric hat is touted for wear at any and all seasons and the leading designers lavish their art and love on it. This charmer, nice with a fur coat now, or with a fur jacket later, is by Suzanne et Roger. It is a delectable beret built on sea-shell lines and is fashioned of bois de rose slipper satin with its fullness draped and swirled to one side.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP ....

In these days of so many foods being rationed, we look for recipes having the least of these foods in them, yet we like them tasty and nourishing as well.

We should have at least one hot dish at a meal, as we are told it aids digestion. Meals should also be well balanced, as regards protein, fat and carbohydrate. Serve food that stimulates the appetite and digestion juices. Variety is needful, but not too much. Try not to have the same flavor of food twice at one meal, as for example tomato soup and tomato salad.

As the pineapples are just starting to come into the stores, I am going to give you a recipe that you will be glad to follow;

Six pounds pineapple cut in cubes, 3½ pounds sugar, three pints water. Boil sugar and water together for five minutes, add pineapple, and just let come to a boil. Seal in air-tight jars. You will find this on opening like fresh pineapple.

Delicious Apple Pudding.

Five sour apples, ½ cup of either white or brown sugar, cinnamon, flour, 4 eggs, 1½ tablespoons melted butter, ¼ teaspoon salt. Wipe, quarter, pare and core apples. Add sufficient water to prevent burning. Cook apples, not too much, stirring frequently; spice to taste. Add sugar, then well-beaten eggs, butter, salt, and sufficient flour to make a stiff batter. Place in buttered pudding dish and bake in hot oven, 425 degrees, 20 to 25 minutes. Serve with either lemon or custard sauce.

Dutch Apple Pie.

Six tart apples, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup cream, flour. Pare apples, core, and cut into eighths and arrange evenly in deep pie plate lined with pastry. Pour cream over apples, and sprinkle sugar and spice on top. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 minutes, or until the apples are tender.

For Tuesday, February 8.

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits it may take much fortitude, patience, determination and hard work to sidestep obstacles, delays and impediments. With prudence, precaution and well-planned tactics and reasonable objectives there may be progress, with a breaking up of static or crystallized situations. But be alert to malevolent forces arising from unexpected sources, safeguard the health and possessions and financial credit as well as personal reputation.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon to summon all their determination, courage and endurance in order to break up congested conditions and obstacles coming from unforeseen sources. Delays and disappointments call far patience and perserverance, possibly with the need for relying on their own personal resources and executive ability. Have a care for credit, reputation and health of self and the domestic circles. Make slow but sure the code of operation, thus avoiding sudden changes.

A child born on this day should have much steadiness and stability of character, which will be needed to manage many ups and downs in its career. It may gain from an optimistic outlook on stubborn affairs.

Church Official Receives Chair

FAIRMOUNT, Feb. 7—(ENS)—On Friday evening several dozen members of Fairmount congregation gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ball for a social hour and to express their appreciation of the services of Mr. J. O. Ball, who for the past 28 years has been treasurer of the Fairmount church, during which period he gave faithful and unsurpassed service.

During the program of singing, readings, contests and speeches presided over by Mr. George Hooton, Mr. Ball was presented with an address read by Mr. R. Fred McIndoo and a rich figured velour lounge chair. The presentation was made by Mr. Russel K. Earle and Mr. Lloyd Hooton. Short speeches were given by Messrs. T. W. McIndoo and Richard Earle and Rev. J. F. Everson.

Following is a copy of the address:

Dear Mr. Ball—This circle of friends has gathered here tonight partly for a social purpose, but particularly to turn the spotlight of our appreciation directly on you.

Your fidelity to your church duties and the manner in which you have nurtured, the godwill of your neighbors these many years has won for you the place in our admiration which we have come to express tonight.

Since 1916 we have benefitted by your ability in handling of the finances of our church. We have respected your wish to be relieved of this office, but in doing so we are prompted to leave in your possession some tangible evidence of our appreciation and gratitude for your services so cheerfully given.

Signed on behalf of Fairmount Church: T. W. McIndoo, George H. Hooton, Russel K. Earle.

WAR VICTIMS REQUIRE CARE

Crippled Sailor Needs Treatments, Young Wife Succor in Hour of Trial.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 17. I am married and my husband was in the navy up until five months ago. Then he was brought home from Africa with an honorable discharge, but without his right hand. We were happy to be together again. We moved into a small house and he got a fairly good job to run an elevator in a department store, and with both of us working we managed to pay our bills.

But one day he came home and and said he had quit his job; that he couldn't do anything worthwhile without his hand, and for two months he has not been working. He has turned to drinking and gambling and is actually mean to me and to all of his friends. At night he wakes up screaming. I can't talk to him about anything and he keeps telling me that he had better be dead.

Miss Dix, what can I do with him? I won't be able to work much longer because I am going to have a baby. We must live. He is only 19 and has so many years before him. Please tell me what to do and how to snap him out of his discouragement.

A WORIED WIFE.

Young Husband Needs Medical Care

ANSWER—No one can read this letter without wanting to weep over these two pitiful children who are the hapless victims of war. For they need everything, money and age and experience and philosophy and courage, to help them solve their problem, and they have nothing. They are babes lost in the woods who do not know how to find their way out.

For how is this little girl child, who is going to bear another child, to find words of comfort and cheer for her husband when her own heart must be fainting with dread within her? How is she to keep the wolf from their door when she will soon have to give up her poor little job and have no weapon with which to fight? And how is a boy whose nerves have been so shattered by the horrors that he has seen on the battlefield that he wakes up screaming at night to hold himself to any ordinary job.

Of course, what the boy needs is to go to some sanitarium where he will be made to realize that while the loss of a right hand is a great misfortune, it does not blight his chances of making a success of life. There are thousands upon thousands of men who have been worse crippled than he is who have achieved fame and fortune in every line of endeavor, and who have found that what they thought was a handicap has been the spur in their sides that has driven them on to winning the race against ill luck.

And, thank God, there are such places of healing, and scientists who are giving their skill and wisdom to bringing back the wounded to a life that is still worthwhile, and Uncle Sam is not unmindful of those who have fought to defend him.

And for the brave little wife there are also places of succor when her hour of need comes. But with the strength and courage she is showing in meeting the situation, she will fight through to victory and, let us hope, the end of their story will not be so tragic as its beginning.

But I urge every boy and every girl who are thinking of getting married to read this girl's letter and take its warning to heart. For what has happened to these two children can happen to them. Thousands of boys will come home from the war wounded, shell-shocked, incapable of stepping into their old jobs until they are cured, and their plight will be far worse if they have wives and children dependent upon them. To see those they love suffer and not be able to help them will be the last drop of gall in their bitter cup.

DEAR MISS DIX — The worst type of husband is the human crab, and I got one out of the matrimonial grab-bag. He starts complaining the minute he gets in the house and keeps it up as long as he is at home. Nothing we can do pleases him. He doesn't like company. He doesn't want to go anywhere. And it has worn me down to where I can't stand it much longer.

But, for all that, he seems to love us, turns over his whole pay check to me, and has no bad habits. What can you do with a crab?

JUST A WIFE.

Human Crab Difficult to Handle

ANSWER—Have you ever tried putting your crab in boiling water? That is one way of making crabs edible. Another way of making them fit for human consumption is by stuffing them. But I agree with you that in their natural state they are hard to digest and make little appeal to the taste, and I don't wonder that you are fed up on a steady diet of one.

You say that your husband has no bad habits. I think grouchiness and fault-finding are about the worst habits that any man can have, because there is never any letup to them. The drunkard doesn't always stay drunk. He has sober intervals in which he is a pleasant companion. The philanderer isn't always chasing a skirt, and very often he is just as gallant to his wife and pays her as pretty compliments as he does the Other Woman. But the crab is always on the job, making things disagreeable at home.

But, don't forget that your crab has one virtue. He is nutritious. You will never starve while you have him. And that is something to consider in these times of food rationing.

SWIFT'S WEEKLY FOOD HINTS

Versatile Apples!

Apples have place at either head or tail of a meal

Whether they come from B.C.'s Okanagan Valley, Ontario's vast orchards or the Maritime's Annapolis Valley, Canada's apples are tops. Practically every grocery or fruit store shows shiny Mackintosh Reds, golden Russets or Jonathons. It's common kitchen sense to use our own backyard fruit, especially when it is so thrifty and versatile.

You can use apples anywhere in a meal; as the base of a fruit cocktail; as a mixer for salad with celery; a pepper-upper as apple rings with the meat course; or made into clear, tangy applesauce for dessert.

For a perfect husband-winning meat dish try this Lamb Apple Topper:

¾ pound diced lamb
5 whole cloves
3 cups sliced tart apples
3 tbsps. water
1 tbsp. fat
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
½ cup dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup brown sugar

Pan fry lamb until brown in hot fat. Place in shallow baking dish, season, add cloves; and cover with sliced apples. Sprinkle with water. Top with mixture of lemon rind, bread crumbs and brown sugar. Cover. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 minutes, then bake uncovered 15 minutes.
